14th Jet Downed in 'Costliest' Week

SAIGON, Sunday (UPI)—Communist gunners Saturday shot down a Navy F8 Crusader over North Viet Nam to raise a seven-day toll of U.S. planes lost over the Communist territory to 14—the costliest week of the air war so far.

U.S. military spokesmen said today the 14th loss came during an attack on oil barges near Haiphong when the Navy plane was hit and the pilot bailed out. He was rescued later.

Losses over North Viet Nam last week included the record one-day loss last Sunday of seven planes, the loss Monday of three more for a two-day record loss, the loss Thursday of one plane, Friday's loss of two and the Crusader Saturday.

3,000 MORE TROOPS ASHORE

VUNG TAU, VIET NAM, Sunday (AP)—More than 3,000 troops of the new 196th U.S. Light Infantry Brigade arrived in Viet Nam Saturday in a further buildup of American forces.

The new arrivals raised to 291,000 the total of U.S. troops now in Viet Nam. U.S. officials have announced a prospective buildup of 400,000 by the end of the year.

The new brigade, from Fort Devens, Mass., came ashore at the coastal town of Vung Tau from troopships.

Trained in counterguerrilla and counterinsurgency fighting, the new brigade will be based at Tay Ninh, a province north-northwest of Saigon on the Cambodian border.

Its strategic location there is aimed at holding back North Vietnamese infiltration from across the Cambodian border.

The unit, first light infantry brigade in U.S. military history, was activated at Fort Devens Sept. 15, 1965. About 50% of the troops were inexperienced when they began training.

As a separate unit, the brigade will be attached to the 25th (Tropic Lightning) Infantry Division, making the division the largest U.S. combat force in Viet Nam.

As the troops walked off landing craft, they were greeted by an Army band and pretty Vietnamese girls. The girls garlanded the troops with leis and pinned roses on some.

On hand also to greet the newcomers was Lt. Gen. Jean Engler, deputy commander of the U.S. Army in Viet Nam, who gave the troops a brief pep talk.

As they stepped ashore, Vietnamese sources reported a sharp battle with the enemy far to the north. They said Vietnamese marines fought the Communist force Saturday some 345 miles northeast of Saigon and killed an estimated 300 of the enemy.

The battle scene was near Que Son in Quang Tin Province, where U.S. and Vietnamese marines have been on a joint operation for eight days.

There was no immediate report that U.S. Marines were engaged in Saturday's battle.

U.S. sources said Saturday that Communist losses in the operation, code name Colorado, had reached 514 dead and 49 captured, but apparently this did not include the new Vietnamese kill.

U.S. briefing officers, in giving the 514 figure, a sharp increase from Friday's total, said the rise was due to late Vietnamese reports, but they made no mention of Saturday's engagement near Que Son.

Demos Oppose Rumford Repeal, Blast Extremism

Planks Woo Independent --GOP Votes

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

SACRAMENTO — Democrats Saturday denounced political extremism and opposed repeal of the Rumford Act in major departures from Republican stands taken here last weekend.

The 170 officeholders and nominees comprising the Democratic State Convention thus adopted their 1966 platform which they said included a place for Independents and moderate Republicans.

While opposing "repeal of existing laws aimed at eliminating discrimination," Democrats did not mention the Rumford Fair Housing Act by name in their platform. Their human rights plank asserted, however, that the party stands ready at all times to "improve such laws."

Democrats were specific on denunciation of extremists, of either the left or the right, "from the Communist party to the John Birch Society, who are attempting to destroy our American way of life."

Platform cochairmen Sen. Walter Stiern, Bakersfield, and Assemblyman Win Shoemaker, Santa Barbara, said their human rights plank was agreeable to Gov. Edmund G. Brown's

NEBRASKA DISASTER

17-Foot Flood Buries Town

United Press International

Torrential rains pounded Nebraska Saturday night, burying a town under 17 feet of water. Rivers swelled and dams and levees crumbled under the tremendous pressure of the floodwaters.

Rivers in portions of Missouri and Texas raged in the wake of the driving rain. A tornado dipped down near Hartford, Ky., and another was reported 90 miles south of Dallas, Tex.

Civil Defense workers carried out rescue work from boats at Fullerton, Neb., submerged under 17 feet of water.

Excessive pressure burst the town's water main and left its sewage plant partially submerged.

A Fullerton official said 35 persons were removed from a nursing home there. Three persons stranded in a tree and three others on top of a power building were rescued by National Guardsmen called out for the emergency. Hundreds of cattle were isolated or washed away, and crop damage was severe.

Gov. Frank B. Morrison, after an aerial survey of the area, said "there is several million dollars in crop damages in Nance County alone. This is by far the worst I've ever seen the river at Fullerton."

Red Cross disaster units were sent into Fullerton and Columbus, Neb. Columbus was expected to sustain the most severe flood damage when the crest of the Platte and Loup reached the town early today.

* * * *

HEAVY RAINS in eastern Nebraska indicated probable flooding of the Missouri River in southeast Nebraska and extreme northwest Missouri in the next four days. Flood crests are expected at Nebraska City, Neb., and St. Joseph, Mo., Tuesday and Wednesday.

In Texas, the town of Uvalde braced itself for the floodwaters of the Nueces River.

While smaller rivers and streams in Nebraska reported the highest water levels in history, thunderstorm activity spread in other parts of the nation.

Fort Worth, Tex., got 1.2 inches of rain; Tinker Air Force Base at Oklahoma City, Okla., got 2.16 inches, and Ashville, N.C., got 1.13 inches.

Bellflower Clerk Slain in Holdup

A 26-year-old Bellflower liquor-store clerk was slain with a sawed-off shotgun Saturday night — his last day on the job.

Deputies found Dennis Sponspeller sprawled on his back — his chest spattered with blood — behind the counter at Al's Liquors, 13770 Clark Ave.

Friends of the victim said he had planned to quit working at the store to return to school and accept a promotion in the Department of Motor Vehicles.

* * * *

HE WAS a clerk with the DMV and worked part-time at the liquor store.

Witnesses said Sponspeller of 9215 Alondra Blvd., was alone in the store when the balding suspect walked in shortly before 8 p.m. — armed with a shotgun and a revolver.

It was not immediately known if the gunman emptied the cash register before shooting Sponspeller and fleeing northbound on Clark in a car driven by another man.

* * * *

ONE WITNESS got the license number of the getaway car — it was from Missouri—and another witness tried to follow the car, but lost it northbound on Lakewood Boulevard a few blocks from the store.

Deputies immediately alerted the Project Sky Knight helicopter to patrol the area, but the aerial survey was fruitless.

Brown Opposes and Reagan Backs Capital Punishment

By BILL HAZLETT

The Death Penalty silently waits in the wings while the people of California convene, campaign and caucus themselves toward the coming elections.

Despite the moral, religious, psychological and sociological considerations — capital punishment is a political issue.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown and his opponent, Republican candidate Ronald Reagan, are in direct, and outspoken, opposition on the death penalty.

* * * *

IN EXCLUSIVE, and separate interviews with The Independent, Press-Telegram, each candidate discussed his stand — and other issues attendant to the matter of taking a human life — on the capital-punishment question.

The governor, veteran of many stormy sessions over the problem, is a bitter opponent of capital punishment. "I oppose capital punishment because it weakens the very society it is meant to protect," the governor said.

But, he added, "As long as the death penalty is the law of the state of California, I will faithfully see that the sentences of the courts and juries are carried out."

Reagan favors capital punishment, an issue he says is "as much on the minds of the people in this state as (the campus problems at) Berkeley."

* * * *

"I BELIEVE we have the right to take human life in defense of our own, and I believe capital punishment is a deterrent—that it does prevent murders from taking place.

"And as long as that is true, I favor capital punishment," Reagan said.

California has not had an execution in the gas chamber at San Quentin Prison since Jan. 23, 1963. However, there are 61 condemned men on Death Row, and a new wing recently

Union Backs Out on Air Pact---Wirtz

Claims $84-Million Package Approved —Then Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz disclosed Saturday night that agreement apparently was reached Friday in the 36-day-old airline strike, but the striking machinists later torpedoed it.

Wirtz said the airlines and the union at first apparently agreed on a package that would have cost the airlines an estimated $84 million over three years, but the union later backed out of it.

* * * *

WIRTZ' statement followed within hours a report that union negotiators stormed out of a meeting Saturday with the labor secretary.

Wirtz said a joint meeting Saturday "was abruptly terminated, shortly after it started, when Mr. (Roy) Siemiller (union president) withdrew from it, taking his bargaining committee with him, on the ground—which has no basis in fact—that one of the carrier representatives had reflected on his integrity."

A spokesman for Siemiller issued this statement in behalf of the union:

"No one is more eager for a fair settlement of the airlines strike than the union.

* * * *

"LAST NIGHT a subcommittee of union negotiators met with a subcommittee for the carriers. We found they had not even been informed of our position. The meeting ended with no agreement.

"This afternoon when we arrived at the Labor Department, we learned that the carriers had come to sign a package settlement they thought we had agreed to. We don't even know what was in it.

"We hope everyone will read the union's statement of this afternoon and judge for themselves. It represents the facts as we know them."

Asked if union negotiators would go to a meeting called by Wirtz today, the spokesman said, "We'll be there. We're still trying to settle this dispute."

Widespread Among Major Firms

'PSYCHE' TESTS RANGE FROM SEX TO SNAKES

By DAVID SHAW

If you applied for a job anywhere in the United States today, your prospective employer couldn't ask what country you were born in without risking violation of a federal law.

But he could ask if you ever indulge in unusual sexual practices.

He could also ask if you believe in the second coming of Christ, if you frequently dream about sex matters, if you sometimes feel your soul leaves your body, if you like mannish women and if you are afraid of windstorms, snakes or death.

FIRST OF A SERIES

These questions — and thousands like them — are asked of job applicants every day in major companies and governmental agencies throughout the United States.

In the Long Beach-Orange County area alone, personality and psychological testing is a prerequisite of employment for many positions at General Telephone, Sears, Pepsi Cola, Robertshaw Fulton, Dean Witter and General Motors and at police departments in Los Angeles, Downey, Compton, Santa Ana, Torrance and Redondo Beach.

Nationally, the companies using these tests range from Revlon Cosmetics to Standard Oil to Warner Brothers, and from Fanny Farmer Candy Shops to IBM to Campbell Soup.

Though psychological tests were first given more than 40 years ago—primarily in the armed forces—their use did not become widespread until the Sputnik-spawned education revolution of the late 1950s and 1960s.

De Gaulle Spurned U.S. Offers--Ike

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower rejected Gen. Charles de Gaulle's 1958 plea for a tripartite NATO directoratae because the United States, Britain and France could not decide the fate of other allies and because "very serious problems" would be raised by any attempt to make NATO a global policeman.

Eisenhower's letter, made public for the first time Saturday, has long been considered the starting point for De Gaulle's policy of French independence of NATO, which has resulted in France's disassociation from military integration in the alliance and espousal of a national military policy.

A State Department memorandum accompanying Eisenhower's letter reports that on three occasions the United States sought without result to inerest De Gaulle in arrangements for tripartite consultation.

* * * *

FRANCE NEVER replied to a joint U. S.-United Kingdom proposal for military talks on African problems nor did De Gaulle respond to the President's suggestion for talks among staff officers on military issues of interest to France outside the NATO area, the memorandum said.

Eisenhower's final attempt was a request to the general to circulate his views on NATO in a memorandum. "General De Gaulle had twice before promised to circulate such a memorandum," the State Department document says, but finally responded "only in his press conference on Sept. 5, 1960."

The letter was made public by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, R-Wash., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on National Security and International Operations. Sen. Jackson requested declassification of the document in a letter written to Secretary of State Dean Rusk on July 16 after former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter had referred to it in a subcommittee hearing.

An accompanying State Department memorandum and the letter throw new light on the genesis of the dispute overe NATO's future between France and the U. S.

The release of the letter and the memorandum falls within the control of the subcommittee's work.

French spokesmen on various occasions have contended that President Eisenhower either never answered or rejected out of hand De Gaulle's request.

'Tough' Mao Vindicated in 12-Day Airing by Party

TOKYO (AP)—Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tze-tung has won complete vindication for his tough policies at home and abroad in a 12-day appearance before a full-dress session of the ruling Communist Party central committee.

Assailed by domestic enemies, denounced by the Soviet Union and criticized by Asian Communists for refusing to forge a united front with the Russians to fight against the United States in Viet Nam, the 72-year-old leader got a warm welcome from the first plenary committee session to meet in four years.

The committee endorsed his vow to back the Communists "in fighting to the end until final victory" in Viet Nam.

* * * *

SITTING IN PEKING from Aug. 1 until Friday, the committee issued a communique Saturday night which said:

"The plenary session fully approves the series of brilliant policies of decisive and fundamental importance put forward by comrade Mao Tze-tung over the past four years."

The committee disclosed that the often-postponed third five-year plan is under way at last and said in a confident vein that "an invigorating revolutionary atmosphere prevails in the whole country and the situation is one of a new all-round leap forward emerging."

The secret plenary session —the 11th of the eight central committee since it was elected in September 1956 and the first since September 1962 — posed as many questions as it answered.

Its failure to announce any important new policies and refusal to list who else was present suggested that much of its time was devoted to an examination of Mao's old policies and ways to implement the new ones, including the nationwide purge now under way.

It was not known, from the communique, whether any of Mao's enemies in the politburo or the central committee who have been disgraced were in their seats. They include Deputy Premier and former Chief of Staff Lo Jui-ching and Lu Ting-yi, minister of propaganda, both named to their posts by the 1962 plenary session, and Mayor Peng Chen of Peking, a member of the powerful political bureau.

* * * *

ONLY ONE NAME besides Mao's was listed in the communique, that of Marshall Lin Piao, minister of defense, and now possibly the next most powerful man in the nation. He was praised for calling on the army to study Mao's works and for his analysis of people's wars in 1963. As the man in charge of the army purge he now ranks slightly above Chen Po-ta, who heads the civilian purge, among Mao's lieutenants.

In San Antonio, Tex., President Johnson's diplomatic and intelligence officers advised him the Red Chinese communique contains little new information.

The advisers feel the communique is nothing more than a reaffirmation of domestic and foreign policies expounded at length during the past year.

On foreign issues, Johnson's advisers reported, the communique breaks no new ground.

On Chinese aid to North Viet Nam, the Experts told Johnson, it employs general and unspecific language, merely endorsing "measures already taken and all the actions to be taken" in joint consultations with the North Vietnamese.

Wife Cleans Rifle, Killed Accidentally

Maud Mahoney of Westminster accidentally shot and killed herself Saturday afternoon while watching an old John Wayne western movie on television.

Police Lt. Bob Johnson said Mrs. Mahoney, 54, of 14072 Nancy Lee Dr., was writing a letter to her daughter shortly before the accident.

Her last written words were:

"I'm going to stop now, as there is a John Wayne movie I want to see on TV. I'm going to clean Joe's gun while I watch."

"Joe"—her husband — said he had no idea why his wife wanted to clean the .22 rifle "since I haven't used it for years."

Anaheim Area Man Found Beaten, Dead

By STEVE STOWE

The nude, battered body of a 41-year-old Anaheim area man was found Saturday in the bedroom of his home by a friend who was bringing him the morning newspaper.

Orange County deputies said Robert L. Nusbaum, of 10971 Huber Ave., had been brutally beaten about the head and torso with a heavy sharp instrument apparently while he was asleep.

Deputies said an arrowhead-type fireplace poker found in the kitchen of the victim's home is believed to be the weapon used to inflict the numerous puncture wounds on the victim's body.

* * * *

PRELIMINARY investigation indicated he had been dead about 12 hours before the body was discovered at 11:21 a.m., deputies said.

The friend, Richard Miller, told investigators when he went to visit Nusbaum he noticed the morning paper was still on the doorstep. Miller said he picked up the paper and then found the door was unlocked.

Miller told deputies he entered, saw the poker on the livingroom floor, picked it up, then walked into the kitchen, and saw the victim lying face up on the blood-soaked bed in an adjoining bedroom.

Miller said he dropped the poker in the kitchen. He called deputies from Nusbaum's home.

Sheriff's Lt. Jim Sands said Saturday night no suspects had been named in the slaying. Deputies said the victim's car, a 1963 four-door sedan, is missing and a search is under way.

Detectives said there were no signs of a struggle, and no evidence the killer forced his way into the house.

Neighbors told deputies Nusbaum, a machinist for Hughes Aircraft in Fullerton, was not married and had lived in the modest three-bedroom, one-story home for about 10 years.

Lt. Sands said a preliminary record check on the victim revealed he was the subject of a missing persons report in 1960.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Daley and Bartell Mortuary, Anaheim.

Morrison Ahead in Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—After trailing in early returns, 12-term Democratic Rep. Jimmy H. Morrison pulled ahead of his staunch conservative challenger who campaigned against the Johnson administration, as returns mounted Saturday night from Louisiana's Democratic primary election.

But another Democratic veteran, Rep. Edwin E. Willis, chairman of the powerful House Committee on Un-American Activities, appeared headed for a runoff with an old political foe — Dudley J. LeBlanc, the flamboyant Cajun salesman who made a fortune as the purveyor of the tonic Hadacol.

Meanwhile, 75 - year - old Sen. Allen J. Ellender swept triumphantly to a sixth term in what has been called the "world's most exclusive club."

Morrison's chief challenger was John R. Rarick.

At 11:15 p.m., CST, the count in the 6th District from 265 of 329 precincts stood: Rep. Morrison 58 325; Rarick 49,651.

In the 4th District, where the health of Willis was a campaign topic, the count from 247 of 260 precincts gave Willis 39,853; LeBlanc 22,271, and state Rep. Dick Guidry of Galliano, 19,554.

A DAY FOR TALL CORN STATE FOLKS

"Far-west Iowans" now living in Long Beach gathered at Recreation Park Saturday to take part in the food (right) and the general merry-making at the 61st annual gathering. Emory H. Clements (left), once a trapeze artist for a circus, wears a hat to show that his heart is still under the big top.

New Nurse Pay Offer Reported

PALO ALTO (UPI) — The directors of Stanford-Palo Alto Medical Center were reported to have offered nurses a new salary proposal Saturday in an attempt to head off the threatened resignation Monday of 340 nurses who have demanded pay increases.

The terms of the new proposal were not disclosed. The nurses were expected to meet late Saturday to consider the offer.

The nurses said they would resign Monday unless their salaries were raised to a range of $530 to $782 a month. The hospital's previous offer was a range of $515 to $745.

The hospital was reducing its patient load in anticipation of the walkout. As of Saturday there were only 216 patients, as compared to 515 a week ago. A hospital spokesman said the goal was to reduce patient load to 30% of normal by tonight.

The hospital was accepting only emergency patients and asking doctors to arrange for their maternity patients to go elsewhere.

WHO IS HE?

Identity Sought With Police Aid

Efforts were under way Saturday to discover the identity of a neatly dressed man about 25 who told Long Beach police he suffered a lapse of memory.

He was taken into protective custody Friday after he told police he couldn't remember anything prior to about 8 p.m. Thursday.

* * * *

THE MAN'S fingerprints were sent to the State Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation with negative results. An FBI check won't be completed for several days.

"I hope this does some good," he said as a newspaper photographer took his picture. "I just don't remember a thing."

The blue-eyed, blond-haired man, attired in a yellow sport shirt, beige trousers and cordovan brown shoes, said he walked all Thursday night looking for familiar landmarks.

* * * *

AT 2 P.M. the next day he walked up to Officer J. R. Fontaine at the foot of Pine Avenue and asked for help. "I can't work it out alone," he said.

He said he appeared to "wake up" on Terminal Island and walked through Long Beach and Seal Beach during the night.

He carried no identification in his pockets, officers said.

"I Don't Remember"

Thousands Stage 61st Iowa Picnic

Several thousands former Iowans who left the Tall Corn State for various reasons gathered at Recreation Park Saturday for one reason—to eat and have a good time.

The Iowans had a grand time eating under the eucalyptus trees, joking by the punch table and renewing old friendships at the 61st annual get-together.

Huge tables spread with bright cloths were overflowing with samples of the women's cooking and no dish was left uncovered.

The clan began gathering about 10 a.m. and while they talked and waited for the food under the trees, they were entertained by the Long Beach Salvation Army Temple Band, conducted by Hendrick Jouvenaar, which played several nostalgic numbers.

* * * *

LONG BEACH BOY Scout Troop 24 presented the colors and the picnic was officially underway.

The principal speech was made by City Councilman Paul Deats, who described himself as a "far-west Iowan."

"First of all," Deats said, "the membership has shown acute discernment by choosing Iowa as a state to be born in. Next, they have added wisdom and selectivity by choosing Southern California as a place in which to spend the rest of their lives.

"The most sagacious and astute among these have cleverly demonstrated their acumen by selecting Long Beach as the best possible place in Southern California for residence," he said.

women than ever before, personnel directors found they needed far more than school records and references to evaluate their job applicants.

They began to supplement standard hiring procedures with such improvised psychological testing as:

—Leaving their office in the midst of an interview, then dialing their own extension from another office to see if the applicant answers the telephone and what he says if he does.

—Offering the applicant a cigarette in a room without ash trays.

—Slanting the Venetian blinds, then noting how much he squirms when the sun glares directly into his eyes.

—Cutting two inches off the front legs of his chair, and ignoring his obvious discomfort.

These crude techniques still are used by some executives, but most companies have abandoned them in favor of the more refined written psychological examination.

The piece de resistance of psychological testing is the 566-question Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory, developed by testing inmates in hundreds of prisons and mental institutions. The MMPI probes the job applicant's views and experiences on every conceivable subject—including sex, politics and religion.

Reaction to such interrogation has been so resentful in some quarters that Congress, in writing the Civil Rights Act of 1964, included a provision that the use of "professionally developed mental tests" is not "an unlawful employment practice."

The next year, both the Senate and the House conducted lengthy investigations of the tests. Because of the testimony given at these hearings, the Peace Corps has dropped from their tests what Sargent Shriver admitted were "our most obnoxious questions."

The Central Intelligence Agency, United Nations and certain sensitive bureaus in the departments of State, Labor and Health, Education and Welfare have followed suit.

Despite these adjustments, personality and psychological testing has remained a controversial subject.

To its proponents—men such as USC psychologist J. Paul Guilford, developer of the Guilford-Zimmerman Opinion Survey—the test is a "systematic, scientifically measured job interview, the best one available."

To its opponents — men such as author Martin Gross ("The Brain Washers") — the test is a "shocking, snooping, psuedo - scientific form of prejudice.

Exercising Pet Expensive

NEW DELHI (AP)—A villager named Sayeed took his pet to town and ran into some unexpected expenses. Police took the pet to the New Delhi Zoo and fined Sayeed $6.50 for bringing it to town without a permit. The zoo charged him $39 for keeping the animal a day. Sayeed called for his elephant and headed home.

Brown, Reagan Give Views on Executions

was opened because of overcrowding.

Two executions were slated for August and September, but a last minute stay prevented an outbreak of controversy over the death penalty. For the most part, legal technicalities and a semiofficial moratorium—supported by Gov. Brown—have been responsible for the execution ban.

* * * *

OTHER MEN could "go down" to the apple-green, eight-sided chamber between now and November, and opponents of capital punishment feel such action —the spectacle of a quick series of executions—could force the death penalty issue to the forefront in an election year.

Capital punishment was an issue — as recently as Saturday—at the Democratic State Convention, in Sacramento. LeRue Grim, of San Francisco, Democratic congressional candidate, submitted a resolution urging the governor to stay all executions in California until adjournment of the 1967 [illegible] session.

MICHAEL L. Ingerman, executive secretary of the Friends Committee on Legislation, a church-supported group opposing the death penalty, says several bills to abolish capital punishment will be submitted durinf the next year in California.

Concerning the issues, Reagan says of the governor, "I think there is weakness in his whole approach with regard to crime."

Gov. Brown describes Reagan as a man who, "has had no experience in law-enforcement during his long life," while 23 years in government, "have given me experience in law-enforcement very few people in this country can match . . ."

Nugents Browse in Downtown Nassau

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Patrick and Luci Johnson Nugent left their swank honeymoon villa for shopping on Nassau's Bay Street Saturday.

The newlyweds left the $250,000 "Capricorn" estate, drove downtown with two Secret Service men shortly after noon and returned within a few hours. Nugent was seen driving the yellow car.

It was reported that the President's younger daughter stopped at a perfume shop at Nassau's main shopping street.

VETERANS' HOSPITALS CONTINUE LSD RESEARCH

VA Planning Mental-Health Center for L.B.

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A top official of the Veterans Administration has announced plans for a comprehesive mental-health center for Long Beach.

The official, who heads the largest medical-specialty service in the VA hospital system, also disclosed:

● That research with LSD is continuing in the VA hospital system with the blessing of the U. S. Food and Drug Administration.

● That alcoholism is a growing problem in the veteran population, as elsewhere, but real headway is being made in alcoholism research.

● That a shortage of research-oriented and teaching-oriented psychiatrists poses a major problem.

The disclosures were made by Dr. John J. Blasko, Washington, D. C., director of the psychiatry, neurology and psychology service for the entire Veterans Administration.

His is the largest medical service in the VA, for on any one day, more than 50% of approximately 112,000 hospitalized veterans are psychiatric patients.

Dr. Blasko, in an interview in Long Beach, said that the new 240-bed psychiatric building now under construction at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital is to be more "than just a bed service."

* * * *

HE SAID IT is to be developed as a comprehensive mental-health center, including an outpatient program to follow up previously hospitalized psychiatric patients.

The program, he said, will include also a day hospital where certain patients will be treated by day but allowed to return to their homes at night.

Emphasis also will be placed on improved relationship with community resources so that patients can be better prepared for a return to community living, he said.

This facet of the program will include an expanded vocational guidance and placement service for the previously hospitalized psychiatric patient.

Dr. Blasko said the VA will continue to stress "integration of psychiatry with the rest of the medical specialties."

* * * *

"THIS WILL provide the patient with the opportunity of being seen by all the medical specialties," he said.

"The chances of making a breakthrough (in the psychiatric illnesses) would be improved in this setting," he pointed out.

In psychiatric research, he said, equal consideration must be given to biochemical factors in mental disorders, psysiological aspects, psychological aspects and even sociological factors.

"We can't neglect any area," he said, noting that no one knows in what category the breakthrough will occur.

Dr. Blasko said that the Food and Drug Administration is permitting the VA to continue its medical research involving the use of LSD, the controversial hallucinating drug.

LSD has proved to be a "very valuable" drug in the control of intractable pain of terminal cancer, he disclosed.

The drug has been able to give pain relief by producing changes in sensory preception, he said.

"Medical science still knows very little about pain," he remarked.

* * * *

IN SOME instances morphine requirements have been eliminated for the cancer patient, thanks to LSD, Dr. Blasko said.

Encouraging results also have been obtained with the use of LSD in the treatment of alcoholism, he disclosed.

More than one dozen VA hospitals are actively conducting research into alcoholism, he continued.

"There has been an appreciable increase in the number of hospitalized veterans with drinking problems," he said.

He emphasized, however, that the increase coincides with that outside the VA population in the U. S. and in all of western Europe.

He said that remarkable results are being obtained by VA researchers with a new-type aversion therapy for alcoholism involving mild electric shocks.

* * * *

"THE ALCOHOLIC patient himself controls the shocks," Dr. Blasko said. "Some chronic alcoholic patients have now gone for more than a year without taking a drink, even without the use of drugs."

In this type of treatment, the alcoholic associates unpleasant stimuli (the shocks) with the ritual of drinking and eventually grows to dislike drinking.

Dr. Blasko said he is concerned about the manpower shortage in the mental-health field. Needed are more psychiatrists, clinical psychologists, psychiatric nurses and psychiatric social workers.

Especially in short supply, he said, are qualified psychiatrists with a special interest in research. Also badly needed are psychiatrists especially interested in teaching.

* * * *

HE SAID the number of psychiatric patients cared for by the VA follows the pattern for the rest of the nation. Half of all hospitalized patients are those with mental disorders.

In the Veterans Administration hospital system, the major mental health problem is the chronic schizophrenic and psychiatric disorders in general among the older veterans. Depression, for one thing, is commonly seen in the aging person, he said.

Second Hose Follows First

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — Ben Clooten was watering a tree in his yard when the hose was sucked into a hole. He tried to free it with a second hose. Now he has two hoses in the ground with the choice of cutting them off or digging up a pile of dirt.

'Clean' Drive for Prop. 16 Viewed as Greatest Censor Threat in Years

By PETER BART
New York Times Service

LOS ANGELES — The sign on the door says simply, "Clean, Inc." On the walls are pinned copies of the Pledge of Allegiance and a "Prayer of the Day."

The offices are the headquarters of a committee working for the passage of Proposition 16. Advocates claim it would "close the lid" on obscene literature in California.

* * * *

OPPONENTS WARN it could pose the most serious censorship threat in generations and that, under its broad tenets, even the Bible and works of Shakespeare could be banned from the state.

Although the "Clean" campaign is just commencing this week, some opponents say it already has an excellent chance of passage. "It's an explosive issue," said one high elective official in Southern California who opposes the initiative. "If you say you're against 'Clean' you automatically become a 'dirty,' and in this area that's political suicide."

Civil libertarians note the "Clean" campaign comes at a time when there is sharply increased pressure for strict censorship around the state.

This trend was evidenced by the efforts of committees in various communities to ban such books as Salinger's "The Catcher in the Rye;" Kazantzaki's "The Last Temptation of Christ" and Harper Lee's "To Kill a Mockingbird," and by the recent drive to remove an exhibit by the artist Edward Kienholz from the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. That campaign was led by Los Angeles County Supervisor Warren Dorn, a board member of Clean and who objected to the Kienholz exhibit of "Assemblages" because one work depicted a portion of a house of prostitution and another showed a couple embracing in the back seat of an old automobile.

The Clean initiative (the initials stand for the California League to Enlist Action Now) is directed by William K. Shearer, who says of himself, "I always like to think of myself as the most conservative man in San Diego County."

Though Shearer denies the Clean movement is weighted with conservatives, his board embraces many men long associated with ultraright causes.

* * * *

The founder and president of Clean is a Republican state assemblyman and former navy chaplain, E. Richard Barnes, who argues that obscene literature is a key cause of America's "moral crisis."

To remedy this "crisis," Barnes' initiative would eliminate the U.S. Supreme Court's requirement that a book or movie must be "utterly without redeeming social value" to be declared obscene. According to the Clean initiative, a work would be obscene if "its dominant theme or purpose is an appeal to prurient interests."

The Northern California-Nevada Council of Churches say it is "appalled" by the initiative, noting it could be used to ban the Bible.

The Southern California chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union warns literature could be brought down to a child's level because a publisher of a book that contained any sex at all would be liable if the book fell into the hands of a child.

Evelle J. Younger, district attorney of Los Angeles County, says the initiative would surely be declared unconstitutional and thus would leave California with no obscenity laws whatsoever until legislation could be passed.

Despite these warnings, the Clean drive continues to pick up. Nearly 600,000 signatures have been collected on petitions to qualify the initiative for the November ballot, 100,000 more than the required number.

liaison people who read it. They said they did not consider it to conflict with the governor's keynote speech call for a bipartisan commission to propose amendments to, or a substitute for the Rumford Act.

Assemblyman William Dannemeyer, Democratic nominee in the new Orange and Los Angeles County 35th District, was unsuccessful in his effort to amend the rights plank to advocate outright repeal of the Rumford Act. Speakers aligned against him included Assemblyman Rumford himself and Los Angeles Congressman Thomas Rees.

Although the voice vote against the "repeal" language was heavy, only 45 of the 170 delegates were in their seats for it.

While ultraliberal spokesmen voiced their hostility over the party's stance on the Rumford issue — they are against "repeal" language even with Rumford not mentioned—their words were directed mainly to newsmen.

Liberals, including Gerald Hill, president of the California Democratic Council, called a Saturday news conference to declare their intention to try for a Viet Nam resolution in today's Democratic State Committee meeting — nominees plus their committee appointees.

The resolution calls for a cessation of bombing of Viet Nam, north and south, and that our ground actions be restricted to defense. It asks too that the U.S. immediately offer to negotiate a ceasefire and a final settlement with the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong) and seek free elections throughout Viet Nam.

Support for any government freely elected by the Vietnamese people and for an offer of U.S. assistance in rebuilding the country were also included in the proposed resolution.

With the platform out of the way, electioneering resumed Saturday night in the matter of selection of a new Democratic state chairman between Mrs. Carmen Warschaw, the candidate of Gov. Brown and Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh, and Assemblyman Charles Warren of Los Angeles, the candidate of Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson, controller Alan Cranston and, in general, the more liberal Democrats.

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Edmund G. Brown proposed a "working society" Saturday to Democratic State Convention platform builders and to Californians and deplored the "temporary" loss of "our" longtime partner in progress . . . the moderate, progressive Republican party."

Brown said his 10-point work schedule for the Working Society will fill the void left by last week's GOP platform. He called it a farce "written by Spencer and Roberts (the campaign firm handling GOP nominee Ronald Reagan's candidacy for governor), starring Ronald Reagan, and featuring a thousand bit players, not many of whom had speaking parts."

The platform, said the governor, permitted Reagan "to escape from the realities — and Mr. Reagan went that-a-way."

Brown's ten points:

1. Abolition of welfare for all employable workers through a new system of education, training and employment techniques.

2. Across-the board tax reform which would cut property tax, eliminate nuisance taxes on household furniture, simplify and cut business inventory tax, provide special relief for elderly homeowners and more equitable assessment of agricultural land.

3. Aggressive action to consolidate and extend the state's leadership position in technology of the future—in space, ocean resources and new frontiers of science.

4. Massive rededication of all society to the rule of law, plus modernization of the war on crime and violence.

5. Expanded state services to local government and expansion of the state's community service center concept "to simplify the role of government and make it more responsive to the will of the people."

6. Legislation to help guarantee a higher net income to farmers and improve the stability of the farm labor force through unemployment compensation.

7. Improve and extend to all workers the federal minimum wage-hour law; a broader consumer protection program, including fuller disclosure of interest and credit costs.

8. Highest priority to improvement of the educational system from educational TV to reduced class size.

9. A comparative, regional approach to resources development through joint-powers agreements with local governments to stimulate regional economic growth and preserve and protect natural resources.

10. A major new drive for health, including early detection and prevention of disease recruitment of many more professional technicians in the health sciences, and expansion of the Short-Doyle Act for services to the mentally ill and retarded.

The governor then delivered his proposal on the emotionally volatile Rumford Act, advocating a bipartisan commission to solve the sensitive issue outside the arena of politics.

DR. KING ILL, SHRIVER WILL LEAD PARADE

Festive Negroes in Watts — disappointed by the Rev. Martin Luther King's last-minute decision to stay in Georgia—will watch national poverty war director Sargent Shriver lead a parade through their streets today.

Dr. King was scheduled to dedicate the Opportunities Industrialization Center's vocational skills center in central Los Angeles at 5:30 p.m.

Officials of the center called a press conference for King in Los Angeles Saturday, then had to use the event to announce his visit had been canceled.

King, suffering from strep throat, will remain at his Atlanta home, but his place at the dedication will be taken by an assistant, the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy.

The parade through Watts — with Shriver as grand marshal—will assemble at Manchester and Central Avenues and move through the heart of last summer's riot area, starting at 2 p.m.

Shriver is expected to attend several other events on closing day of the three-day Watts Summer Festival—a festival Negro leaders have called a "positive, constructive reminescence" of the riots that ripped south-Central Los Angeles one year ago this weekend.

AMONG EVENTS scheduled today are several jazz concerts, a dance, a play in the Watts Happening coffee house and a panel discussion on "The Significance of Last Year's Revolt and This Year's Festival."

Thousands of Negroes attended similar events Saturday—including the "Ballet of Watts," an adaptation of Jean Genet's "The Blacks," a Miss Watts beauty pageant, a late jazz concert and a basketball game featuring Walt Hazzard of the Los Angeles Lakers and Tom Hawkins of the Cincinnati Royals.

Negroes in Community Alert Patrol cars continued to cruise the main street of the three-day carnival—103rd Street, the "charcoal alley" of Watts, 1965—while police remained posted at the outer limits of the area . . . just in case.

Officials of the Jordan High School Alumni Association, sponsors of the festival, expressed pleasure at its trouble-free success and popularity Saturday.

They called the festival the "only viable alternative" to the "violent outburst" and "deepened, more hopeless despair" Negroes feel when their "cries and lamentations fall on deaf ears."

Harriman's Cambodia Visit Canceled by Miffed Prince

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI) — Cambodian chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk announced Saturday he has canceled the planned visit of U.S. roving Ambassador Averell Harriman here to discuss normalization of relations between the two countries.

Sihanouk told reporters he canceled the visit in retaliation for the alleged modification of Cambodian frontier maps by American authorities placing a number of Cambodian communities in South Viet Nam.

Sihanouk's decision apparently dashed chances that the United States might be able to resume normal relations with Cambodia, a neighbor of embattled Viet Nam.

Sihanouk broke off relations with the United States in May 1965 charging repeated violation of Cambodia's frontiers by American armed forces.

Harriman was due here early in September—only a few days after the Aug. 30 - Sept. 2 state visit of French President Charles de Gaulle.

President Johnson was understood to have asked Harriman to seek not only possible restoration of diplomatic ties with Cambodia but to discuss with the 44-year-old Sihanouk his views on how to end the Viet Nam war.

(In Paris, Harriman's mission had been widely considered designed to dampen the effects of De Gaulle's [illegible] advertised visit to Phnom Penh.)

Sihanouk said he originally agreed to Harriman's coming as "a personal visit, in the interest of peace."

Lunar Orbiter Finds Canopus

PASADENA (UPI) — Lunar Orbiter, headed toward a picture-taking date with the Moon, Saturday solved the one problem that has marred its otherwise successful voyage by finding its chief navigational reference point—the star Canopus.

The spacecraft was scheduled to go into orbit around the moon at 8:34 a.m. PDT today, and about five days later begin snapping pictures of potential landing sites for astronauts.

By 9 p.m. Saturday, the Lunar Orbiter, first in a series of five shots, was cruising at about 1,000 miles an hour relative to earth, was 204,800 miles from earth and 44,300 miles from the moon.

The space vehicle was reported "in good shape" and on course for the most critical maneuver—a 10-minute burn of its retro-rocket to slow it enough to enter a lunar orbit.

* * * *

PROJECT OFFICIALS said a sensor on the spacecraft was properly locked on the star Canopus.

After its launch Wednesday, the flying photography laboratory failed to lock onto Canopus with its star tracker. But scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said the tracker found the star Saturday.

Although scientists used the craft's inertial guidance system, controlled from JPL, to keep the star within the craft's vision, they said they felt confident that eventually the star tracker, which follows the star automatically, "would eventually do everything it was supposed to do."

A spokesman said project officials were quite encouraged by the tracker locating the star.

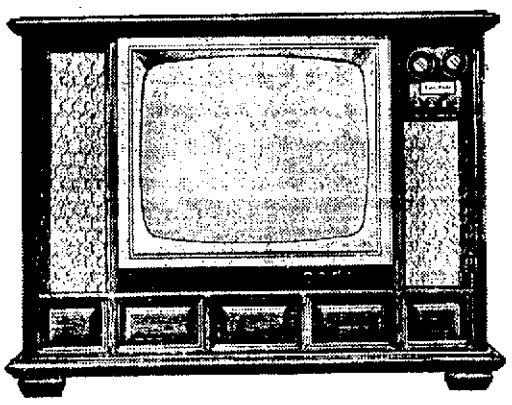

He said, "The failure to lock onto Canopus was the one problem that has bothered us throughout the mission."

The moon itself was used as a substitute navigational reference point for Canopus in a critical midcourse correction maneuver Thursday.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Ky's Quick-Win Views Altered

New York Times Service

South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky backed away Saturday from statements that U.S. troops could be withdrawn from Viet Nam in two years and that he strongly favored an invasion of North Vietnam.

But the 35-year-old Air Force commander said he believed that "in two or three years, or even before, the Communists will accept defeat."

Ky spoke at a news conference at Saigon Airport upon his return from a visit to the Philippines.

Ky indicated there had been little, if any, actual change in his attitude toward a negotiated peace settlement, despite a recent interview in which he said he would negotiate if North Vietnam took a "reasonable" position.

Saturday he said he would negotiate if the "Communists withdraw the North Vietnamese troops (infiltrated into South Viet Nam) north of the 17th parallel."

Dual Suspects

TOMS RIVER, N.J. (UPI) — A 34-year-old parole violator was seized by police Saturday and charged with the slaying of Mrs. Dorothy Louise McKenzie, 45 — one of five auburn-haired women slain in the New Jersey seashore area in less than a year.

The suspect, Edward Anthony Lynch, a bartender of Silverton, N.J., was lodged in the Ocean County jail pending arraignment.

At the same time, a wanted alarm was issued from William J. Nunebilleer, 35, who is wanted on charges of aiding and abetting in the shooting of the attractive housewife.

Lynch was seized by police only hours after they had seized a suspect in another of the killings — Ivan Joseph Rule of Edison Township, N.J.

Rule, 18, was picked up in the slaying of his former girlfriend, Catherine Baker, 16, also of Edison, and hanged himself only hours later in an Edison jail cell.

Holden Charged

LUCCA, Italy (AP) — Movie star William Holden has been charged with manslaughter following an automobile accident.

The prosecutor in Lucca said Saturday it was up to the examining magistrate to determine whether Holden, 48, must stand trial. He added that in the meantime Holden was free to travel anywhere he wished. He is vacationing in Italy.

Holden was at the wheel of a small sports car July 26 when it was in collision with another small car driven by Giorgio Valerio, 42. Valerio died on the way to a hospital. Holden was unhurt.

'Hogwash'

SANTA MONICA (AP)— Joseph Crosby, state chairman of the United Republicans of California, branded as "hogwash" Saturday a 29-page report contending that Republican gubernatorial candidate Ronald Reagan is linked with extremists.

Crosby also denounced statements in the report claiming his wife, Jane, is a paid member of the John Birch Society and an organizer of the Network of Patriotic Letter Writers.

The report, issued Thursday by Robert Coate, state Democratic chairman, claimed that members of "secret" extremist groups were giving Reagan financial support.

Crosby, a Pasadena business executive, said Coate was using "the lowest form of guilt by association." He said his wife has "never been paid for any of her patriotic work" and did not help organize the letter network.

Crosby did not deny Coate's statement that Mrs. Crosby had been a member of the Birch Society.

Fire Kills 29

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Twenty-nine elderly men died and 12 others were injured Saturday night in a fire at a Salvation Army home for the destitute, police reported. They said it was the heaviest death toll from a single building blaze in Australia's history.

Chief Fire Officer John Patterson said the fire, which raced through the top floor of the four-story building, probably was caused by an electrical fault or by someone smoking in bed.

Probe Aims at Anti-War Extremists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities puts aside its 18-month-old investigation of the Ku Klux Klan this week to take a look into extreme anti-Viet Nam groups.

Hearings will start Tuesday.

The committee has subpoenaed 11 persons who, it claims, are leaders of organizations that have collected money, supplies or blood for use in Viet Nam by the Communist Viet Cong, or who have attempted to block movement of troop trains here in the United States.

At present there are no federal laws barring such acts unless a formal state of war has been declared.

Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., has introduced a bill to make it a criminal offense — punishable by up to 20 years in prison — for an American citizen to send tangible aid to groups engaged in armed hostilities against the United States. The measure would provide the same penalty for anyone purposely impending military traffic.

Those being subpoenaed claim the hearings are aimed at stifling opposition to U.S. policy in Viet Nam. But Pool says he is interested only in "overt acts" that aid those fighting against U.S. troops.

A committee source said the witnesses will come solely from groups which have committed one or more of the activities outlined by the bill.

"There is no organization that is merely an opposition group," he said.

Many of the groups are from the so-called "New left." Also included are representatives of the Progressive Labor Party (PLP), an avowed Communist-style outfit with ideological ties to Red China.

In 1963, a committee hearing on unauthorized travel to Cuba featured PLP witnesses. Their appearance triggered outbursts by their supporters that resulted in scores of policemen hauling out dozens of youths.

Coast Guard Honor

SAIGON (AP) — Six U.S. Coast Guardmen and a Coast Guard patrol boat received South Vietnamese decorations Saturday for gallantry in intercepting and preventing a Communist trawler from smuggling Chinese-made arms and ammunition into South Viet Nam last May. The decorations were awarded at a ceremony attended by U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and high-ranking South Vietnamese officials.

Part of Downed U.S. Plane Shown by Russ

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Russians displayed a two-foot section of wing Saturday they said was part of the first U.S. plane shot down over North Viet Nam.

The wreckage, mounted on velvet and encased in glass, showed one point of a white star. It was put on public display in Moscow's Central Army Museum along with several other objects the Russians claimed were North Vietnamese trophies taken from downed U.S. aviators.

A Soviet newspaper hailed the exhibit as "quite a success among visitors." But a reporter who spent an hour in the crowded museum Saturday observed that most gave it only a cursory look.

A sign beside the plane wreckage identified it as "a splinter of the first American plane shot down over North Viet Nam, a jet fighter-bomber F105D. It was shot down over the town of Kho-Sa on March 2, 1965."

The display was only a short distance from the larger permanent exhibit of the wreckage of Francis Gary Powers' ill-fated U2 spy plane, shot down over Soviet territory in 1960.

REPUTED CHIEF 'RAT FINK'

Clear of Racist Count, Young Republican Quits

CHICAGO (AP) — A regional vice chairman resigned from his post in the National Young Republican Federation Saturday after the group's executive Committee absolved him of accusations that he is a racist or anti-semtic.

The resignation of Richard F. Plechner of Metuchen, N.J., an alleged leader of the Rat Fink Society, a New Jersey faction accused of racism, was announced after a closed meeting of the executive committee which lasted several hours.

* * * *

PLECHNER, a regional vice chairman of the national executive committee for Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware, told the group:

"I've never engaged in any racist or anti-semitic activity nor will I. Due to the controversey surrounding my position, I hereby resign as vice chairman of Region 2 of the National Young Republican Federation."

R. F. PLECHNER
Exonerated, Steps Down

Clark Allen, chairman of the New Jersey Young Republicans, made the announcement that Plechner had been absolved of the accusations.

Allen added that seven New Jersey Young Republican groups which previously had been suspended for alleged association with the Rat Fink faction would regain their charters if they vote by a two-thirds majority to dissociate from Rat Fink, the John Birch Society or any other factional group.

Donald Ross, GOP national committeeman from Nebraska, told newsmen he will report to the party that "we find no evidence that Plechner wrote or sang any of the Rate Fink songs or is a racist or bigot."

Plechner told reporters earlier that the charges against him were a smear and part of "a campaign to rid the party of conservatives."

Thousands Watch Pilot Power Dive, Die in Fire

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — A World War II fighter plane making a power dive Saturday plunged to earth and exploded before several thousand persons watching an air show.

Shelby M. Kritser, 51, the pilot, was killed. He was the former general manager of the Globe - News Publishing Co.

He was flying an F8F Bearcat and putting it through rolls when he went into the dive. The plane burst into flames when it crashed. No one else was injured.

Kritser, a member of a pioneer Texas Panhandle family, was president of Tradewind Airport and chairman of the Texas Aeronautics Commission. He also served as a consultant to the Globe-News firm.

Brazil Takes Over Land Holdings of Californians

GOIANAIA, Brazil (UPI)—The Goias state government Saturday seized land holdings of 151 Americans under a new expropriation order.

The Americans, most of them California residents, have six months to agree to prices offered by the state. Most of the land is in the northwest section. If the Americans refuse the government offers, the state will deposit its money with Brazilian courts and begin condemnation action.

The expropriation decree was actually signed last March by the then-federal intervenor, Marshal Emilio Ribas Jr. The state has already expropriated 153,928 square miles owned by Brazilians under the decree.

A spokesman for the governor's office said some 60 billion cruzeiros in indemnities (about $28 million) has been paid to Brazilians for the lands taken in what he called "the first state appropriations."

Saturday's move was called the "second stage expropriation and included a score of Brazilians along with the Americans.

Most of the properties involved are located some 7,600 miles west of Rio de Janeiro in a fertile agricultural belt. The Americans will be notified of the expropriation through advertisements to be placed in American newspapers, the government announcement said.

Di Giorgio Advises Vote for Teamsters

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Di Giorgio Corp. Saturday recommended that employes at its Sierra Vista and Borrego Springs farms who wish to join a union vote to affiliate with the Teamsters.

Union - representation elections are scheduled at the farms Aug. 30. In addition to the Teamsters, the combined National Farm Workers Association - Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee is seeking to represent the laborers.

Robert Di Giorgio, president of the large agricultural company, said he was making the recommendation in letters to employese eligible to vote.

He said he was urging affiliation with the Teamsters because:

—"1. Employes of the two ranches already have expressed a preference for the Teamsters at an election on June 24, which was boycotted by the NFWA-AWOC.

—"2. Di Giorgio has found in its dealings with the Teamsters, who represent more than 600 of the company's nonfarm employes, that while they fight hard in their members' behalf, they are fair and responsible.

—"3. The competing union on the ballot, the National Farm Workeres Association, achieved tentative recognition with only two growers, the larger of which, this year, shifted production from table grapes to wine, thus eliminating a great many jobs."

Students Urged Not to Smoke

SAN MATEO (AP) — Dr. Julio L. Bortolazzo president of the College of San Mateo, has advised his 8,000 students to give up smoking.

Dr. Bortolazzo, who doesn't smoke, said he knows of no other college president who has taken such action. In a welcoming letter to students at the two-year college, he says:

"There is a badly mistaken idea in the minds of some young men and women that smoking is a collegiate or adult way to act. They fear, perhaps, they will be branded as immature if they abstain.

"In view of the overwhelming medical evidence on the lethal effects of cigarettes, we believe it is the smoker rather than the nonsmoker, who is far more likely to be imature . . . because he refuses to face the facts.

"So strongly are we convinced of all this that we do not permit the sale of cigarettes on our campus; we do not want to encourage anyone to kill himself.

"We cannot prevent you from using cigarettes. That is your decision. I would only hope in reaching it you will rely on intelligence rather than inhallation.

"If you have not yet acquired the cigaretts habit, dont. If you are a smoker, stop . . . before it is too late."

L.A. Deputies Book 5 in Phone Booth Theft

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies, going off duty early Saturday, became suspicious when they saw five men at a pay telephone booth on Santa Monica Boulevard.

One man was inside a booth, another was standing outside and three were sitting in a car parked in front.

When they inquired what was going on, deputies said, two men attempted to hit them and then tried to escape.

The five were arrested and booked at West Hollywood station on suspicion of burglary by taking money from telephone coin boxes.

They were identified as Peter Spencer, 29, Ethan Van Hecke, 33, William Denny, 36, Robert Blevins, 43, and John Doherty, 50.

A spokesman for the Pacific Telephone Co. said more than $100,000 has been taken from telephone booths the past six months.

Can of Paint Hurled at Demonstrators

PORT CHICAGO, Calif. (UPI)—Occupants of a passing auto tossed a five-gallon can of paint Saturday at anti-Viet Nam war demonstrators outside the Concord Naval Weapons Depot.

One demonstrator, Phillip Lewis, 23, of Oakland, was taken to Contra Costa County Hospial for treatment of paint in his eyes. At least three others out of 30 were splashed.

Police attempted to trace the license number, but a spokesman for the pickets, Bernard, said they would not sign a complaint.

The depot has been the scene of more than 40 arrests of demonstrators during a week of picketing.

Latin Leaders at Little Summit

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—The presidents of Chile, Colombia and Venezuela will launch a little summit meeting today to seek new means of spurring Latin America's economic and political development.

The emphasis will be on economics, however, with major goals being formulas for reshaping the U.S. - sponsored Alliance for Progress and promoting further integration of the 19 Latin-American republics.

Fire From Hotbox Warps SP Track

DUNSMUIR, Calif. (AP) — A fire which apparently started in a hotbox on a Southern Pacific freight train Saturday tied up the SP's main line from San Francisco to Portland in the Shasta National Forest near Dunsmuir.

An SP spokesman said the blaze spread through three cars full of lumber, warping the track. He said a load of burning poles rolled off one of the cars, starting a small forest fire which was controlled after burning about three acres.

The spokesman said there would be "a lengthy delay" in getting trains moving again.

Computer Center to Study Quakes

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — A highly computerized center to gather quickly and disseminate information about the earthquakes will begin functioning Monday in nearby Rockville, Md.

The center is a keystone in the government's 10-year program aimed at a capability of predicting within the hour when and where an earthquake of medium or greater magnitude will occur.

An immediate benefit of the center will be an ability to alert more quickly civil defense and other public-safety agencies when a destructive temblor has hit a populated area.

Operated by the Environmental Science Services Administration, the center receives data from six seismic observatories of ESSA's Coast & Geodetic Survey as well as hundreds of cooperating seismologists throughout the world. Survey observatories are planned later in Puerto Rico, the Antarctic and the San Francisco area.

* * * *

HEAVILY instrumented survey observatories are located at Tucson, Ariz., Fairbanks, Alaska; Guam, Honolulu, Newport, Wash., and Washington, D.C.

The new center will exchange information with the U.S. Geological Survey's earthquake-study center in Menlo Park, Calif.

Earthquake data from the survey centers and the cooperating observatories in the United States will be flashed by teletype to the center for quick comparison and evaluation. The resulting information then will be distributed through the Weather Bureau's communications network.

Information from foreign points sometimes will be sent by State Department or military communications channels. From some places, such as the Soviet Union, the data will be forwarded to the center on a fortnightly basis by mail.

The survey's center in Hawaii will be incorporated with its seismic sea-wave warning center there, exchanging information on quakes which may send out destructive ocean surges such as those that damaged the Northern California coast two years ago.

In addition to the speedy transmission of earthquake data for emergency action, the center will disseminate longer-range information useful in activities such as formulating building codes in temblor-prone areas and keeping scientists abreast of late observations.

* * * *

THE CENTER will concern itself mainly with quakes of 6.5 on the Richter scale or larger.

Opening of the center represents a large-scale refinement of the Survey's earthquake-monitoring and research activity since it was assigned this activity by Congress 41 years ago.

Last year, the Survey received reports of 2,050 temblors in the United States, of which 1,750 were in Alaska. The rest of the quakes were in 18 states, led by the 114 in California. The worst was the April 29 tremor in the Northwest that killed six persons and caused $12.5 million damage.

Gathering and correlation of the data on the Northwest tremor took nearly a day and would have taken even longer had it occurred when the survey stations were not manned.

With the 24-hour-a-day manning, the new equipment and additional stations, the Survey will be able to gather more precise information on a comparable quake within two hours.

LAKE ARROWHEAD (AP)—Unmanned sea cameras have discovered a huge shark-like fish at a depth of 6,000 feet off San Clemente Island, oceanographers said Saturday.

Scientists of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, La Jolla, said they could not determine the species of the fish because the 9x12-foot field of the cameras photographed only its gills and pectoral fin.

"It is probably a shark—but a shark the like of which we have never seen before," said Dr. John D. Isaacs, director of marine life research for the institute.

Speaking at a conference entitled "The Ocean Frontier," Isaacs described the fish:

"Living at such great depths, it has not been seen on the surface before, although we have always believed that such huge marine animals must live at great depths."

Isaacs estimated the length of the fish at 15-20 feet and the width as three to six feet at the thickest part.

Klansman Given 10 Years in Wife Attack

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — A Ku Klux Klansman convicted last month on federal charges of conspiring to violate the rights of Negroes has been sentenced to 10 years in prison for assault with intent to murder his wife.

Joseph Howard Sims, 43, of Athens, pleaded guilty to charges last month. His wife, Betty, mother of eight, was shot last May while working as an aide in an Athens hospital.

Officers said witnesses named Sims as the assailant and searched for him for two days before he surrendered.

Superior Court Judge James Barrow gave Sims the maximum sentence Saturday on the assault charges.

Sims was also sentenced to 10 years by U.S. Dist. Judge William A. Bootle in July after he was tried on federal conspiracy charges in the death of Lemuel W. Penn, a Washington, D.C., Negro educator. Penn was hit by a shotgun blast on a remote, fog-shrouded road in Madison County in 1964. Sims was later acquitted of charges of murder in a state court.

Rustlers Slay Shepherd, Son on Sardinia

CAGLIARI, Sardinia (AP) — Death-dealing cattle rustlers struck again in the central hills of this outlaw-plagued island Friday night, shooting a shepherd and his son.

The bandits fired a bullet into the shepherd's head, then chased down his teen-age son, smoked him out of a cabin and killed him also, police said. The two apparently had seen the rustlers stealing cows.

The shepherd, 43-year-old Antonio Caboni, was found dead near the town of Allai. The body of his son Salvatore, 15, was found outside a nearby cabin where he had tried to take refuge from the rifle-toting outlaws.

Police said the youth locked himself in the cabin, which the rustlers set afire. When the blaze destroyed the cabin door, the outlaws dragged the boy from under a bed by his feet and shot him in the head.

SENATORS URGE POLICY REVISION

Richest States Getting Most Federal Spending

By ALBERT EISELE
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rich states are getting richer and poor states poorer because of the uneven distribution of the federal government's massive expenditures, a Senate study indicates.

The study, made public last week by the Senate subcommittee on intergovernmental relations, shows states with more people and higher per capita incomes are getting the lion's share of federal spending.

The study warns that unless there is a major change in present distribution of federal spending, inequalities among state and regional economics will become even greater.

* * * *

"WE MUST avert this trend now, before the division between rich and poor states gets any wider," commented Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, subcommittee chairman.

Muskie asserted that if full employment and increased opportunity are to be achieved for Americans, "Policy-makers must understand the impact of federal spending and be able to manage its distribution in the most effective way."

The study examined federal spending in six separate categories between 1957 and 1963, taking fiscal 1957, 1960 and 1963 as typical years.

The six categories, in order of size, are defense and space procurement, civilian and military wages, transfer payments, aid to states and localities, civil works and military reserve expenditures, and aid to individuals and nonprofit institutions.

The study shows federal expendiutres have a vital effect on the economic growth of states and regions, particularly defense, space and defense-related allocations.

Total federal spending in the six categories grew by 57.5%, from $56.3 billion in 1957 to $88.6 billion in 1963, with defense and space expenditures about 31% of the total each year.

* * * *

CHIEF BENEFICIARY of all federal spending during that period was California, then the nation's second most populous state and one of the six highest in per capita income. California's share of federal payments rose from $7.1 billion in 1957 to $12.4 billion in 1963, 14% of the nationwide total.

In the same period, California also benefitted most from defense and space procurement, going from $3 billion or 17% of the national total in 1957 to $5.9 billion or 20.8% in 1963.

Other large-population, high-income states such as New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Massachusetts bore out the California pattern by getting major portions of total federal spending as well as defense and space money.

By contrast, midwestern states such as Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Wisconsin and Kansas all trailed in total federal spending, particularly in defense and space.

* * * *

MINNESOTA, for example, received $.7 billion or 1.3% of total federal expenditures in 1957. In 1963, although the figure had risen to $1.1 billion, the percentage remained the same.

During the same time, Minnesota's defense and space payments remained at a constant 1.1% of the national total, although it rose from $.2 billion in 1957 to $.3 billion in 1963.

The study concluded that states with more people and personal income tended to attract more federal money, especially in defense and space, civilian and military wages and transfer payments.

But the study also found that while richer states tended to receive more federal expenditures in general and defense and space procurement in particular, poorer states tended to receive more aid to individual, grants to states and localities, and spending for military reserves and civil works.

Also it noted that while defense spending is sometimes viewed as a burden for the national economy as a whole, some states and regions tend to view it as a prop sustaining their state or regional level of income.

Finally, the study concluded, unless present spending policies of the federal government are changed, "growing federal outlays in the future will only perpetuate and aggravate inequalities among state and regional economies."

Yard Asks Londoners to Track Killers' Car

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard issued an unprecedented appeal Saturday for London citizens to take to the streets and search for the 10-year-old station wagon in which the killers of three unarmed detectives escaped.

Even London's tightly organized underworld, shocked by the violation of the traditional gangster code against use of firearms, pledged assistance in the search which stretched throughout the British Isles.

Shocked Britons responded to the tragedy with a massive outpouring of sympathy and assistance for the families of the slain police. A trust fund started with a donation of 100,000 pounds ($280,000) grew rapidly.

Detective Supt. Robert Chitty of the Yard's murder squad broadcast a description of the getaway car in a special plea to citizens of the 12-square-mile area of London around the murder scene.

* * * *

HE ASKED THEM to check the streets, garages and other likely hiding places for a "wishy-washy blue" vehicle converted from a panel truck to a station wagon with a defective exhaust which, he said, "should stick out like a sore thumb."

"I must find it," Chitty said. "It must have been used prior to the killing. "I want to know when, why and where it was garaged. A car just doesn't vanish into a row of streets without somebody seeing something."

Americans Set to Leave Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — The first group of 880 American citizens waiting to leave Cuba under an evacuation program worked out by the Swiss embassy in Havana is now expected to leave for Miami, Fla., via Mexico Aug. 19, Swiss officials said Saturday.

The Americans, together with 1,820 of their Cuban relatives, have been trying to leave the country for many months. They mostly are of Latin descent.

The first plane from Havana was reported to have arrived in Mexico City Saturday after two delays due to mechanical trouble. No Americans were aboard.

Swiss officials, who act for U. S. interests in Cuba, said the Mexican government is cooperating in the plan to fly the group out via normal commercial transportation by speedily issuing transit visas. About 40 persons are expected to make the trip weekly.

Cars Race Fire Engines

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) —Police Chief George Warren of Sale, a town about 130 miles east of here, has lost patience with the hundreds of local drivers who race the town's fire engine to a blaze. He warned that the drivers will be booked for hindering firemen, speeding and parking in driveways.

Hot Line to Kremlin Stays Unused 3 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Washington-Moscow "hot line," set up to prevent war through miscalculation, appeared certain Saturday to end three years of 24-hour readiness without ever having been used.

Although the Defense Department withheld comment, it was understood that only hourly test messages have been sent over the system's 5,000-mile cable and radio circuits since they became operational Aug. 30, 1963.

The line was installed for the exclusive use of the heads of state after a communications breakdown during the 1962 Cuban missile crisis. Since then there apparently has been no such time of tension between the United States and Russia.

* * * *

THE $350,000-A-YEAR system may have almost as much chance as the nation's multi-billion-dollar array of intercontinental missiles of never being used. But officials said the slim possibility of it carrying a significant message never has slackened the vigilance with which it is kept open around the clock.

At least half a dozen times, includinig recently near Helsinki, Finland, the cable section of the line has been broken by fishing trawlers or in other accidents.

Each time the cable link has been rerouted within minutes over other circuits. The longest delay so far recorded was 16 minutes.

Even if the cable should be broken, teletype messages could still be sent on the radio circuit which is relayed through Tangiers, Africa.

The United States is paying $102,347 annually as its share of the cable lease, plus $52,480 for the 24-hour radio hookup and $27,608 in maintenance charges for the Pentagon terminal.

* * * *

FRENCH President Charles de Gaulle apparently believes such a hookup is worthwhile. He recently negotiated a similar communications link between Paris and Moscow.

A Pentagon spokesman said at least two teletype operators and a translator are always on duty at the U. S. terminal and that their test signals always get a quick response from a similar staff in the Kremlin.

The idea for the line first was projected by President John F. Kennedy after he and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev clashed over the presence of Russian missiles in Cuba.

Precious hours elapsed before Kennedy could make it clear to the now deposed premier that he was looking down an American nuclear barrel which could explode unless the missiles were removed promptly.

In the wake of this, Khrushchev readily agreed to creation of the communications link.

Pistol-Packin' Shopkeeper Wings Another

BERKELEY (AP) — Claude Willsey, who has killed two robbers in his liquor store since 1952, wounded another Saturday.

Willsey, 60, told police:

A young man forced him, at gunpoint, to hand over $70. Mrs. Willsey, in a back room, grabbed a shotgun and fired. Frightened, the gunman fled.

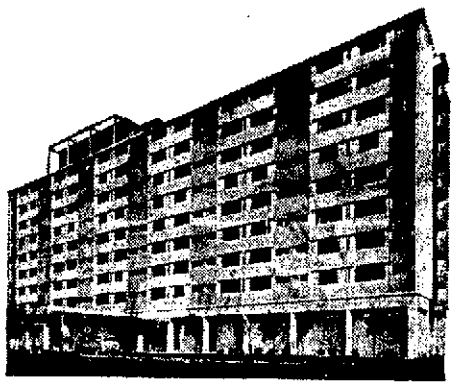

Willsey got a pistol, ran to the door and fired one shot.

A few minutes later, Eddie Davis, Jr., 23, wounded in the left arm, was captured and taken under police guard to Highland Hospital.

He was booked on suspicion of armed robbery.

Rep. Hosmer Hits Lag on Accelerator

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The most widely sought plum on the federal money tree is due to drop to some lucky community any time now.

Five months ago, six finalists were announced for a well-publicized 200-billion-electron volt accelerator, but a congressman on the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy has said the much-delayed decision will be further delayed.

Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., charged Saturday the five members of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) have come to an informal consensus regarding one of the six sites but are sitting on the project out of political considerations.

* * * *

FINALISTS in the multimillion-dollar sweepstakes are Ann Arbor, Mich.; Sierra Foothills near Sacramento; Denver, Colo.; Brookhaven National Laboratory, Long Island, N.Y. Weston, Ill., near Chicago, and Madison, Wis.

First announcement of the accelerator came in April of 1965. Proposals for more than 200 sites came pouring in. The AEC narrowed these down to 85 by September of that year, then handed the problem to the National Academy of Sciences for further winnowing.

In the five months, Hosmer said the AEC has had ample time to make a decision.

"The AEC has been sitting on that list since it got it," Hosmer said." I think it has been ordered to do so by the White House.

"My speculation is that the Johnson administration wants to stall the project a year or more due to its budget difficulties."

* * * *

HOSMER WENT ON to speculate the announcement is being withheld to insulate the administration from the political wrath of the losing communities at the polls.

"Should Weston, Ill., be the favored location," he added, "the word might be given Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., to publicize at a strategic time during his tough campaign for re-election."

Hosmer said the accelerator should be built at or near California's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory or the Brookhaven Laboratory on Long Island.

These are the two existing high-energy physics centers which have won the United States so many Nobel prizes," he said.

"Further, there are only about 40 people in the United States capable of designing and building a first-class 200-BEV accelerator. About 20 of them are at Lawrence, 10 at Brookhaven and the rest scattered around the country."

Hosmer said the big Russian atom smasher at Dubna was not built by top-caliber people and it took years to get it running right.

"The Russians aren't repeating that mistake with their new 70-BEV accelerator and we should not repeat it with our 200-BEV," he said. "We should put it where the people are who can build it."

The gaint atom smasher is estimated to cost $280 million and be located on 3,000 acres. It will require 2,000 persons on the operating staff and take eight years to design and build.

Postal Clerks Give Hallbeck 4th Term

LOUISVILLE, Ky (AP) — E. C. Hallbeck of Washington was re-elected Saturday to a fourth two-year term as president of the United Federation of Postal Clerks, AFL-CIO.

It was Hallbeck's first opposition in six years as president of the largest union of government workers. He received 1,062 votes against 195 for Harry L. Smith of Tampa, Fla., and 45 for Kenneth Swelnam of Anderson, Ind.

The election came at the close of a week-long convention.

The delegates chose Minneapolis, Minn.. as the site for their 1968 biennial national convention over Los Angeles, Washington and Hot Springs, Ark.

ONLY BIRCHER IN LEGISLATURE

Sen. Schmitz Writes Argument Against Constitution Revision

By JIM McCAULEY
From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The only member of the John Birch Society ever to serve in the legislature, Sen. John C. Schmitz, R-Orange County, will lead the fight against a constitutional revision.

The secretary of state's office confirmed Saturday that Sen. Schmitz had written the arguments which will be used on the ballot against Proposition 1-A.

Originally, Assemblyman Leo Ryan, D-South San Francisco, was to present the ballot arguments.

However, Ryan later stepped aside and agreed to submit the Schmitz arguments with a Ryan disclaimer. It is past the deadline time for a new author to be named.

* * * *

RYAN HAD opposed the wording of Proposition 1-A because it limited to 5% a year future legislative pay increases. However, he bowed out to let Schmitz write the arguments because the Orange County senator is opposed to revision on a broad basis.

The official Schmitz ballot arguments say constitution reform as proposed in Proposition 1-A "would mark a significant departure from our traditional system of citizen legislators to fully paid full-time legislators."

Schmitz, who was graduated with a Master of Arts degree from California State College in Long Beach in 1960, will say in his official ballot arguments:

"The passing of laws in a free country ought not to be a full-time profession for anyone. When it becomes so, the country permitting it will not long remain truly free.

* * * *

"WE CERTAINLY need legal professionals in our courts, at the bar and on the bench. We certainly need police professionals to enforce the law and protect the innocent. We may or may not need professional bureaucrats in other branches of government. But we do not need professional legislators.

"The men who founded our American system of government assigned the lawmaking responsibility to elected legislatures which were much closer to the people than either the executive or the judiciary.

"The executive and the judiciary were in the hands of professionals. The legislature was the people's check on the appetite of government professionals for more and ever more power and money."

Meanwhile, the office of Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch revised the ballot description for constitution reform in response to protests from reform advocates.

As written originally, the Lynch definition would have put the emphasis on the one point ballyhooed by critics of constitution reform. Legislative pay raises.

* * * *

THE ORIGINAL ballot description said the amendment "authorizes legislature to fix own salaries."

The definition had been hotly contested—particularly the word "fix" and its unpleasant shades of meaning.

Two new descriptions, issued last week, more accurately describe the broad nature of constitution revision.

The new version tells how constitution reform calls for annual legislative sessions, provides for succession to the office of governor, defines separation of powers, and mandates the legislature to enact laws prohibiting members from conflicts of interest.

* * * *

ON LEGISLATIVE pay, it says the revision provides "compensation of members of the legislature shall be prescribed by statute passed by two-thirds vote and limits rate of annual future adjustments.

The 1966 legislature passed a bill providing for the stiffest lawmaker conflict-of-interest code in the nation and also for raising the pay of legislators from $6,000 to $16,000 annually. The pay raise is effective only if 1-A passes.

'Pile of Junk' Tracks Satellites

By ROBERT LIU

HONG KONG (AP)—While other countries use multi-million-dollar equipment to track weather satellites, the observatory in Hong Kong is using junk and scraps for the same purpose.

"We've got a pile of junk which gives us million dollar tracking results," boasts observatory director Gordon Bell.

He is absolutely right, but the crudeness of his tracking equipment probably would horrify technicians at Cape Kennedy.

In what resembles a Rube Goldberg contraption, the observatory has tossed together a pole, a tubular coil, a large metallic disc, an assortment of electrical wiring and a 40-gallon oil drum weighed down with bricks and rubble.

* * * *

THE COIL IS WOUND around the pole and acts as the aerial. The disc is attached to the base of the pole to aid reception, and the drum — complete with calibrated longitudinal figures scribbled on its side—supports the aerial.

An electric cord connects all this to a brick storehouse where, in one corner, the observatory has an assortment of old electronic equipment salvaged from various sources.

Until recently, the observatory relayed signals from the U.S. Tiros and Nimbus series weather satellites to an obsolete television set and used a camera set for a long exposure to snap pictures as they were gradually produced on the screen.

But with progress, the observatory purchased a facsimile machine to obtain quicker results and a tape recorder to record signals from satellites for possible playbacks.

'Without the recorder and facsimile machine, our tracking equipment is valued at about 1,200 Hong Kong dollars (about $200 U.S.)," Bell said in an interview.

But he expressed belief that with the launching of more complex satellites the observatory may some day have to invest in additional gadgetry.

* * * *

THE OBSERVATORY has been using its present tracking equipment since 1963.

The men assigned to tracking the satellites are equally unsophisticated.

They consist of a 20-year-old scientific assistant and the observatory's watchman.

The assistant calculates daily the path and schedules of passing satellites and mans the equipment in the storehouse.

SHARE SECRETS, CHOCOLATES

15-Year Life of Ease for Churchill Poodle

LONDON (UPI) — It was only a dog's life, when all is said and done, but for Sir Winston Churchill's brown poodle, Rufus II, it was a life of pampered ease that any other hound might envy.

Rufus' veterinarian, W. L. (Buster) Lloyd-Jones, adds the latest bit to the Churchill legend in a book published today, "The Animals Came in One by One."

"Rufus arrived to see me one day in the back seat of a chauffeur-driven car," Lloyd-Jones wrote. "He was a nice little chap but very spoiled indeed. He was plump and lethargic and his teeth were in an awful state.

" 'What has this dog been eating?' I said.

"The chauffeur looked despairingly to the sky.

" 'Chocolates,' he said."

Rufus ignored the chidings of medical men as did his famous master, and lived to a ripe old dog's age of 15.

Rufus died in his sleep Aug. 16, 1962, while Churchill was in London's Westminster Hospital recovering from a broken thigh.

"Rufus's trouble was, of course, Sir Winston," said Lloyd-Jones. "He loved the dog, he loved chocolates. So he gave the one to the other. Indeed he gave the dog anything he happened to be eating himself. If Rufus had been a smoker he'd have had the finest Havanas."

"Churchill once said Rufus was his "closest confidant . . . He heard everything."

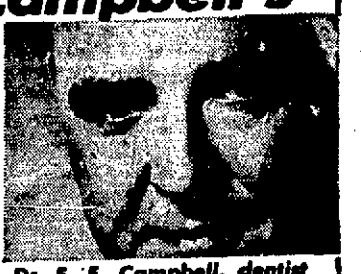

"Poor Rufus lost most of his teeth that day," said Lloyd-Jones, referring to the visit. "I took them out and he was far better and healthier without them."

* * * *

" 'NOW HERE is a diet sheet,' I said firmly to the chauffeur," Lloyd-Jones recalled. " 'Tell Sir Winston it must be followed."

The chauffeur's reply was reminiscent of Sir Winston.

" 'A diet?' the chauffeur said, apparently thinking of Churchill's frame. 'You must be joking.' "

Anybody Lose an Alligator?

LEICESTER, England (UPI)—The pink, white and red roses in Mrs. Mary Williams' rose garden were lovely. The three foot-long alligator nestling among the thorns was ugly.

"Alligator," shrieked Mrs. Williams, tossing her roses in the air and dashing into the house.

Herbert Hawksworth of the Royal SPCA rushed over and lassoed the alligator. He took it to Robert Osborne, a local reptile expert, who said it was a South American alligator. The 'gator then bit Osborne.

POLICE DRIVE IS SUPPORTED BY PHYSICS

Tailgaters Foul Freeways

If you are far behind in your driving, that's where you're supposed to be.

Drivers who follow other cars too closely are responsible for most of the traffic accidents on the freeways, according to Long Beach police, simply because they can't stop in time. As a result, "Operation Tailgate," an areawide program aimed at educating drivers to keep their distance, will begin Sept. 1.

"The ultimate objective of 'Operation Tailgate' is to encourage voluntary compliance by the driving public," said Long Beach police Chief William J. Mooney. He emphasized that most drivers do not understand the hazards of following another car too closely.

Police consulted physicists and mathmaticians at UCLA and came up with a set of fixed laws that they will stress to drivers.

The laws are based on a safe following distance, about one car length for each 10 miles an hour of speed. Thus, a driver traveling 50 miles an hour should keep at least five lengths or about 100 feet behind the car he is following.

* * * *

POLICE NOTE that a driver of a car going 50 miles an hour, will travel 55 feet from the time he decides to hit the brakes to the time his foot hits the pedal. Then the car will go ahead another 125 feet after the brakes are applied.

If the car is under 2½ lengths behind the other, an accident is unavoidable at 50 miles an hour.

These statistics alone should be enough to stop tailgating, but in the past officers have not had a firm guide for citing offenders.

Chief Mooney said his officers "will ask themselves if the physiological and physical laws involved in a given situation will permit a vehicle to stop without colliding with the vehicle ahead. If the answer is no then there is a violation."

Lt. Orville James of the Long Beach Traffic Bureau said the 400 patrolmen in the Long Beach force have just completed a training course to help them judge distance and speed in order to identify offenders.

* * * *

ANOTHER FACTOR that has hampered a crackdown on tailgaters in the past has been the disagreement in the courts on what distance is unsafe.

James said Long Beach courts and the district attorney's office have agreed to support the new guidelines.

"What we're looking for is public cooperation," said James. "We will be issuing pamphlets explaining the dangers of following too closely and will begin giving citations Sept. 6. But I hope drivers will realize that they can't break the laws of physics and avoid an accident."

Citation Boosts 'Morality Week'

"Law and Morality Week," now under way in Long Beach, was given a shot in the arm Saturday with announcement that Long Beach was one of 12 cities in the nation cited for "Outstanding achievements in police traffic supervision activities."

Mayor Edwin Wade proclaimed the week of Aug. 11 through Aug. 18 as "Law and Morality Week," and announcement of the proclamation was issued Aug. 12 by a new foundation, Christians and Jews for Law and Morality.

* * * *

THE FOUNDATION, its sponsors say, is "a nonprofit foundation dedicated to the preservation and promotion of a better understanding on the part of all citizens of the essential role law and morality play in the future of freedom."

Wade, in his proclamation, said "Among the objectives of the foundation is to preserve and promote ethical and moral values by upholding the sanctity of family life and public law and order, and to foster mutual understanding and respect between the citizenry and law enforcement branches of our government."

'Hardware' Arrives for Thums Oil Isle

The first hardware for Thums Long Beach Co.'s offshore Oil Island A—four giant drilling platforms valued at $1 million each—was unveiled Saturday in Long Beach by Moran Bros. Inc., of Wichita Falls, Tex., drilling contractor.

The 500-ton, 25-foot-high behemoths will support drilling towers rising 180 feet over the island, first of four being built by Thums to tap the immense East Wilmington field off the Long Beach shore. The platforms will travel on rails around the perimeter of the island, sinking one well after another.

Moving day for two of the monsters—they're now at 3500 Cherry Ave.—is Monday. Eleven trucks will take the disassembled platforms to Pier G, where they'll be loaded on barges.

By Friday, they'll be set up on the island, said Gene Durkee, a Moran vice president.

The other two platforms will be moved next month.

Drilling equipment installed within the platforms was manufactured by Continental Emsco Co. of Dallas under subcontract to Moran. The platforms themselves were built by Cantrall Steel Co. of El Monte.

Part-Time Pupil Tax Irks Dumke

A proposed change in income tax regulations which would penalize thousands of part-time students taking "keep-up" courses was protested Saturday by State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke.

Under current tax laws, adults returning to college to brush up on their specialties may deduct college costs as business expense.

But the proposed change would forbid deduction if classes taken lead to a degree, the chancellor said.

* * * *

HE ADDED that the tax change would affect "hundreds of thousands of adult students throughout the country and particularly the nearly 30,000 teachers who study part-time at state colleges."

The teachers usually return to college to fulfill state or school district regulations, to win advance in pay or keep up with developments in their fields.

Dumke noted that nearly all state college courses lead to degrees.

The chancellor said the tax change would "materially injure" education and he plans to protest it at a hearing before the U.S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The hearing date has not yet been set.

BIRD SIT-IN

Owl Be Seeing You --Every Day

One day last week a great horned owl flew into Mrs. C. P. Boden's backyard and landed on her lawn swing.

Mrs. Boden and the owl met in the morning when she left her home at 5314 E. Fourth St. to go to work at Douglas Aircraft Co. "He was just sitting on the lawn swing staring at me," she said.

* * * *

MRS. BODEN left some strips of bacon on the lawn for the bird. When the owl didn't touch them(she tried to recover her offering.

"That's when he ran at me," Mrs. Boden said, "with his wings flapping. He also screeches a lot at night."

Mrs. Boden said she didn't mind being observed by the bird every morning when she went to work, but when the owl began to rip the stuffing out of the swing, she fought back.

"I let him have it with the garden hose," she said.

Its feathers dripping, the owl still sat there. "I don't know what to do," Mrs. Boden said. "I don't want him hurt. I just want him out of my yard."

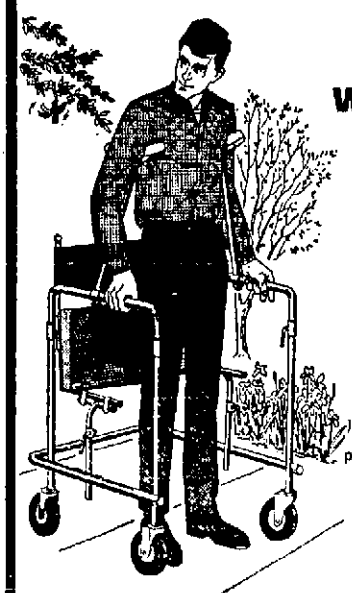

Strike at Mexico Airports Averted

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A strike of Mexican airport control tower workers was averted early Saturday when an agreement was reached during negotiations. The strike, called for noon, would have paralyzed all airports in the country, and would have been a blow to Mexico's tourist trade.

Big Eye Keeps Track of Orbiting Objects

By JAMES FELDER

EGLIN AFB, Fla. (UPI)—Juttting majestically at a 45 degree angle from the sweltering Florida panhandle is the Air Force's newest watchdog on satellites, rockets and assorted space junk.

The FPS85 is a $30 million near-duplicate of a similar structure that burned in a fire Jan. 5, 1965 before becoming fully operational. The newest version is more refined in its abilities and, naturally, jammed with fire-fighting equipment.

Its purpose, in military terminology, is to "detect, track, identify and catalog man-made objects orbiting the earth, and to detect, track and provide data on ballistic missiles penetrating its detection coverage."

* * * *

MORE SIMPLY, it keeps a radar eye on outer space and tells the U.S. Air Defense Command what's going on out there.

Aimed at the equator, the gleaming white face resembles what could be a modern temple to the gods. Across its right section, extending at the top to 153 feet, is an octagon-shaped figure which contains 4,500 receiver units.

On the left side, extending 100 feet into the Florida sky is a square containing 5,184 transmitting units.

This is radar that does not look like radar. Instead of the revolving scanner, the beam of the FPS85 is electronically aimed in microseconds from the face. The Air Force says it is faster and covers more area.

* * * *

THE SPACE tracker sets up a coverage area into outer space of about 8% of the earth's surface. Its range is classified.

By computer control, the unit picks up orbiting matter in equatorial and polar tracks and flashes their description and path to the ADC headquarters at Colorado Springs.

The need for such an installation which can file away records on orbiting matter can be found in the fact that as of mid 1965 there were about 500 items in orbit. Today the figure exceeds 1,000—much of it space junk.

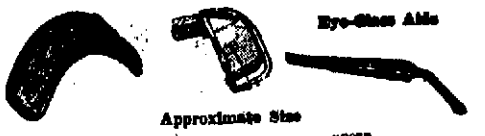

Cache of Arms May Be Fidel's

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Skin divers swimming in the waters off western Venezuela have stumbled on a cache of explosives, machine gun and Rifle Parts, tents and medicines. They were sealed in watertight containers.

The Interior Ministry said in Caracas Saturday it believed the equipment was stored for use by pro-Castro guerrillas. A similar cache discovered in 1965 was traced to the Castro government and led all members of the organization of American states except Mexico to break relations with Havana.

The Summer Student...

...sometimes studies under a tree

Mike Granger and Dana Fleming take advantage of warm summer weather to do their studying under the shade of a campus tree. Like other summer students they do a lot of studying and like most, they do it where it's most comfortable.

...has other interests

Summer students don't always have to study. Somehow there is always time to be found for more intimate interests.

Everything's a little—not entirely, you understand—but a little different during the summer session. The periods are longer and the term is compressed into six weeks instead of the customary 18. Then there's the weather. It's quite a bit warmer during June, July and August than the rest of the year. But despite the more concentrated class time which would seem to indicate a more hectic gait, the attitude is deceptively casual and seems more relaxed than during the fall and spring semesters. It's a time for sunglasses, sandals, swimming and other accouterments of a semi-tropical climate—and oh, yes, some studying. Summer students at California State College at Long Beach reflect the image of summer students all over the nation.

In summer session the accent is on comfort in the Southern California heat. The dress is casual, shorts, sandals and cotton dresses replace coats and ties, sweaters and skirts.

...eats on the run

The snack wagon is one of the most popular places on campus because most students have jobs and take classes in the morning or afternoon and time is important—they eat on the run.

...goes near the water

Alamitos Bay only a few minutes from campus—as the sports car flies—is always a retreat for hard-studying and tired students who, when the classroom becomes too dry, need a nice wet antidote. Mary Freer, 19, and Vickie McCull, 19, (right) know the art of keeping cool.

...sometimes walks a lot

A summer music student looking somewhat like a G Cleff signature on a bar of written music takes her daily walk from the campus to student parking area.

BEACH COMBING

MALCOLM EPLEY

AS we head into another political campaign, I find myself worrying about public relations men who "handle" candidates.

As a citizen with a vote to cast, I like to know all I can about a candidate. Not just his principles and philosophy, but his personality, how he reacts to situations, his spontaneous comments and other things which indicate just what kind of a fellow he is.

But nowadays the major candidate has p.r. experts who set out to create a preconceived image for him that may or may not be a genuine reflection of the man. They decide what line he shall follow, what questions he shall answer and how, what he shall wear, whether his wife should appear with him, his campaign methods and so on. They try to sell like a product on the commercial market.

The candidate, who pays handsomely for such expert service, usually follows the prescribed directions.

All of this makes it difficult for the voter to determine how much is artificial and how much real.

Moreover, these specialists can be wrong, and they can distort the image of a good man so he loses an election he ought to win, and one he would win if he were allowed to be himself. Or they can make a second-rater look better than he is.

So we voters have a job to do. We have to be discerning enough, if we can, to look through the window dressing for the genuine article. It's a problem that suggests, at least, that we be wary against superficial impressions and hasty con clusions.

THREE well-dressed women came out of a Pine Ave. cafeteria to be greeted by a newspaper vendor showing a big headline: MAN GUNS DOWN FOUR IN CAFETERIA.

"Why we weren't even safe in there," said one.

"Nor are we out here" said one of her companions, looking warily up and down the street.

They laughed nervously. It was a rather sad little commentary on the state of our society.

SOMEBODY has sent me a clipping from the Hartford, Conn., Courant (Aug. 7 issue) presenting a story by John P. Cummiskey, night city editor, about a visit to the Douglas Aircraft plant here to pick up a DC-9 for Allegheny Airlines.

Cummiskey, apparently, made the trip, and has told a good story in great detail, from the Douglas briefing to the rabbits on the airport.

But the Connecticut scribe evidently didn't know where he was. "Out to the Douglas plant in South Beach, Calif.," he wrote. And again: . . . it is towed across a highway to the South Beach airport for its flight tests." Finally, ". . . the DC-9 left South Beach Airport and swung east, headed for Pittsburgh, its new home."

It made it ok., and we're glad Cummuskey got safely back to his desk at the Hanford Current. How are things in Vermont this summer?

DRIFTWOOD — Answering many queries: Fred Wilson, the raggedy bicyclist who hasn't been seen around here this summer, is still perambulating. A traveler reported seeing him on a street at Santa Barbara . . . Construction has started on the Loynes Dr. bridge across Cerritos Channel at the east edge of town. Pile-driving activities at 7:30 a.m. have notified nearby residents and improvement is under way.

Red Cross Blood Bank Planned Thursday

A Red Cross blood bank open to the public will be conducted Thursday from 3 to 7:30 p.m. at the Long Beach Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave. Advance reservations made through Long Beach Chapter, American Red Cross, at 319 W. Broadway are recommended but not imperative, as drop-in donors will be served.

'MIKE FRIGHT' IRONED OUT

Profs Rehearse TV Routine at LBCC

By BOB SANDERS
Education Editor

"Four Minutes" the sign said.

The man in front of the television cameras said nothing.

He looked helplessly at his notes, then at the cameraman.

The cameraman reached down and unconcernedly tied his shoe.

"It was one of the most unnerving things that ever happened to me," the man said later. "I was sure when I started I had enough material to talk for the required 28½ minutes. It never occurred to me I could run out."

TELEVISION COORDINATOR KENNETH CARTER

* * * *

THE MAN WAS a professor at Long Beach City College. He was appearing on the television program, "Scope," one of two programs on which City College professors appear.

Kenneth Carter, who teaches radio and television classes at the college and is the coordinator for the programs, says the professor's experience was pretty typical.

"It's amazing how a teacher who can lecture for hours on his favorite subject gets all tied up in knots when he gets before a camera," says Carter. "It's the old radio 'mike fright' all over again—but doubled by the camera."

* * * *

AS TELEVISION coordinator, it is Carter's job to line up people to appear on the program and advise them on their presentations. He also has to schedule their taping of the shows.

Right now he is involved in taping 20 shows for "Scope," which will be shown Monday through Friday at 7 a.m. over KABC, and five for "Guidelines" which airs at 6:30 a.m. over the same station.

The programs are designed to cover the entire curriculum of City College and any professor can make arrangements to appear by contacting Carter.

* * * *

"SUBJECTS are no problem," Carter says, "Every teacher has a pet topic he likes to talk about.

"The two big problems are timing and props."

Although the shows are taped in the Los Angeles studio, they are rehearsed on the City College campus. For the rehearsal Carter has an old wooden box made up to look like a camera—somewhat.

"The idea of the box," says Carter, "is just to give them practice in speaking into a camera and trying to project themselves to the television audience.

"It also prepares them for what they are going to run into at the studio—a cameraman who could care less about what they are saying. After all the cameraman has his own problems—and they don't usually include understanding what the professor is saying.

* * * *

"FOR MOST OF these people speaking in a room where everybody is doing something else and paying no attention to them whatsoever is a new experience—and not always a pleasant one.

"Of course they recover when they see themselves on the show. And almost all of them feel it was worth all the trouble."

The television programs are new for City College, having just started last year. Of course the college has been doing radio shows, some of them over the school station WLON and some over commercial radio, for several years.

"I'm convinced that, in some cases anyway, appearing on the shows helps the professor in his classroom teaching," Carter says. "It opens the visual possibilities of teaching.

* * * *

"WE ALWAYS TRY to get some kind of props to use. It breaks the monomtony of a speaker just staring at the camera and gives him a chance to do something while he's talking. And it also makes the presentation more interesting.

"If the professor talks about someone or something we make him get a picture of them or it. Some of our people tell me they now use 'our' props in the classroom presentations."

L.B. Girl Serves in South Viet Nam

Joni Sweatt, was a substitute Long Beach school teacher but last June she became a "regular" with the U.S. First Infantry Division in South Viet Nam.

"I really like it here, feel there is a great need for more girls," she wrote from Di An, where she is serving as a recreation aide for the American Red Cross.

"I've had some bad times with guys who are upset because of the loss of their friends or what they saw in the field, but find if I let them talk it out they feel better. I suppose that is why I am here. They can relate to me, feel that life can't be too bad if American girls are here."

JONI IS THE ONLY girl from Long Beach Chapter, in the Red Cross service which is recruiting young women to help staff 13 recreation center-clubmobile operations in South Viet Nam.

Another Long Beach girl, Carol A. Wallace, is one of six American girls serving at the Army Base at St. Barbara, Korea, and a third, Lynda Hallenbeck, will be assigned to Korea after she completes training in Washington, D. C.

Red Cross Chapter manager H. Dale Jacobs said there is an urgent need for more women to serve in South Viet Nam. "Young women applicants must be college graduates between 21 and 24. They may make application at 319 W. Broadway. Those who qualify this month will join the training class in Washington, D. C. from Oct. 24 through Nov. 4 and be assigned to one-year tours in South Viet Nam."

Criminal Code Needs Revision

SHOULD SOCIETY KILL?

Reporter Bill Hazlett has written a painstaking account of Death Row and of the 60 men who sit there in a limbo between life and death. Many have been sitting for years. There have been no executions in California since 1963.

Death Row troubles the consciences of all civilized men. If the state is going to kill these men, it should get on with it. It is neither justice nor mercy to keep these men waiting year after year after year.

Of course, much of the delay is due to appeals under recent U.S. Supreme Court rulings. But let's face it. California shrinks from this kind of justice. The cyanide falls into the acid only when there is no other recourse.

California is not alone. Seventy-two nations and eight American states have abolished capital punishment. Five others have only very limited grounds for the extreme penalty.

Those who favor capital punishment have two main arguments: it is revenge against an enemy, and it is a deterrent to other criminals.

Revenge seems scarcely a worthy motive. What does California gain when a man inhales poison gas?

The deterrence theory has many advocates, but statistics do not support them. States with similar cultures have similar murder rates whether or not they have capital punishment.

There is, however, one sure element of deterrence. An executed man will never repeat his crime. For that reason, the death penalty should be kept on the statutes as society's ultimate defense against inhumanity, but NOT as an ultimate PUNISHMENT.

The argument about the death penalty should be shifted to one about the whole meaning of criminal law. What are those ugly gray walls and armed guards for? Some say they are for punishment of wrong - doers. Penitentiaries are places where men are sent to become penitent as they "pay their debt to society."

It doesn't always work. Many come forth as hardened and more skillful criminals.

THE CIVILIZED reason for prisons and executions is the protection of society. There may be men so dangerous that guards and fellow convicts should not be forced to live with them; so dangerous that society cannot risk exposure to them.

It would be unwise to attempt to revise our ancient criminal code completely, but there should be frequent revisions.

The safety of the public should always be the prime consideration. Rehabilitation of those criminals who can be rehabilitated is a factor in public safety.

Time to Halt Racial Strife

THE TEMPER of the American people is being tested by the continuing racial strife. Unless this nation takes decisive steps, it could face massive tragedy.

On the side of government it must be clearly understood that force will be met by force. Force must be used impartially against white and Negro rioters.

But the problem goes deeper than that. Negro agitators, some of whom have revealed themselves as revolutionists by their own words, want the violence. They are men with death and hatred in their hearts.

This is criminal foolishness. Except for a few lingering unjust laws in the South, Negroes have exactly the same rights as other Americans. They can vote, they can go to school, they can work, they can marry whomever they please.

It is true that prejudice exists, but prejudice will not be overcome by Molotov cocktails. It is true that many are poor; but so was the frontier boy, Abraham Lincoln.

More doors open to Negroes every day. The Negroes have won their revolution in Congress and the Supreme Court. It is up to them to figure out how to win the peace. And whites should give them every assistance. Negroes will find most white people friendly. It will be tragedy if they let nuts and hoodlums destroy their victory.

There is plenty of evidence that Negroes intend to win the peace. Many of them are working quietly to use their American freedom. Each year shows more dark faces on campuses and in business positions.

The people of Watts see the festival as an expression of Negro pride, but it is a constructive expression in contrast to the violent outbreak of frustration that took place only a year ago.

Today's Negro Protests Recall Bonus March That Won Reforms

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The demonstrators who camped on Bolling Field to demand that that Air Force base give way to public housing are reminiscent of another encampment on the same field exactly 35 years ago to the week —the bonus army of the great depression.

More than a generation has passed since then and the nation, including the swamplands along the Anacostia River which have now become firm runways, has seen great changes. Yet there is a certain underlying similarity between the two protests.

The bonus army of World War I veterans, 20,000 strong, was as ragged as the Confederate troops who once entered Washington under Gen. Jubal, early in 1864.

THEY WERE WITHOUT funds, without anything save a determination to rebel against continued unemployment; and they came in a spontaneous pilgrimage toward the Mecca of their hopes. They came like a rolling snowball, attracting unemployed veterans from Maine to Arizona. Some brought their children, some their wives, some not even a bandanaful of belongings.

After they arrived, they paraded up Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol, reversing the route many of them had taken when they stepped jauntily past the White House, eyes left, on their way to France. Gone were the pomp and pageantry of 15 years before.

This was an army that marched in the same trousers, the same overalls and blue denim shirts it had worn when it left home three weeks before. And after it staged its demonstration along Pennsylvania Avenue this army proceeded to camp on the sprawling mud flats of the Anacostia River where it erected an amazing city out of tin cans, packing boxes, junked automobiles, dugouts roofed with wallpaper, egg crates covered with dockweed leaves—anything that could be twisted into some form of shelter.

Eventually the three drawbridges across the Anacostia River were raised to keep the bonus army from marching on Congress. The veterans stood in packed crowds, sullen, silent.

Finally, President Hoover ordered Gen. Douglas MacArthur, then Chief of Staff, to evacuate them. MacArthur had his troops ready, but had forgotten his uniform; so held up the evacuation until he could bring a suitcase from Fort Meyer and change clothes in his office. Then he rode down Pennsylvania Avenue in glistening boots, three rows of medals on his bosom, with six tanks, six hundred infantrymen and two troops of cavalry ahead of him.

I WATCHED the cavalry clear that ragged army of war veterans from Pennsylvania Avenue while the infantry set fire to their pathetic collection of huts on the banks of the Anacostia where Bolling Field is now.

After it was all over Gen. MacArthur held a swaggering press conference at which he announced victory.

The victory came later for the veterans, not for him. For though their army was routed in degrading defeat, they contributed later to the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt and indirectly to the enactment of Unemployment Insurance, Old Age Pensions, the Wagner Act guaranteeing the rights of labor, the Securities and Exchange Laws, and the Social Security program enacted in the 1930's. That program lifted the war veterans to relative prosperity and gave their children a future.

THE BONUS ARMY was 99% white, demonstrating in a period of depression. The handful of demonstrators who recently camped on Bolling Field was largely Negro, demonstrating in a period of national prosperity which has passed them by.

The demonstrations recently staged in Chicago, Cleveland, Brooklyn and other big cities are not as massive as the bonus army of 1931. But their root cause is similar—the protest of a minority, a minority as unpopular and as unwanted as the white bonus army of the depression days, to find a more equal place in society.

Abraham Lincoln once said, "This nation cannot exist half slave and half free." Today the big cities of America cannot exist half prosperous and white; half depressed and Negro.

Our State Colleges in New Image

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO—California's state colleges quietly have shed their poor step-child image. No longer does University of California grab all the higher-education glory.

It means more influence and prestige for California State College at Long Beach—and similar campuses at Fullerton, Dominguez Hills, etc.

The clincher on the emerging influence of the state colleges was the 1966 special session. In a break with tradition, state college professors were voted a larger pay increase than the University of California faculty. Colleges got a 6.7% boost, the university 2.5%.

Also, a resolution sailed through which called for a study on renaming the 18-campus system California State University.

In the pattern of Michigan State, Colorado State, Utah State, etc., the college campuses are likely to become formal "universities" within the next few years. There could be the votes to achieve the name change in the next session.

BUT PERHAPS THE most significant breakthrough occurred recently in Washington.

In the nation's capital city, the colleges made tentative arrangements to lease a Washington office to tap more federal research money.

Some $500 million a year now flows from Washington to the University of California—biggest haul of any university in the nation. In contrast, state colleges now receive some $7 million a year.

State colleges intend to hire a lobbyist in a bid for a more realistic share.

Les Cohen, director of governmental affairs for California State Colleges, said target of the campuses will be the 42 federal agencies that dispense federal research funds.

California State College at Long Beach is contributing $2,540 toward the office overhead. The Fullerton campus is putting up $249.

WHY DO the state colleges hire a federal lobbyist?

A National Science Foundation executive recently told a Californian: "We didn't realize you people weren't still teachers' college." The new Washington office hopes to reshape this concept.

Meanwhile, state college enrollment has skyrocketed to 160,000 — double the number of students in the university system.

It is obvious that the era of the small teacher college has passed. Like it or not, new major universities are emerging on 18 campuses. It probably will open the door to major new research projects in Long Beach.

'Irresponsibility' Denied

EDITOR:

In the letter of Mr. Don Drury, writing as chairman of the Fair Housing Foundation in your issue of July 27th, he does admit the congressional mail is running heavily against Title VI of the Civil Rights Bill. We thank him for this statement, indicating how well the realtor boards throughout the country are doing their job informing the public.

He charges the state and national associations are "guilty of flagrant irresponsibility in opposing all efforts to solve minority housing problems."

These associations have always been on the front line in opposing so-called "fair housing" laws which seek to dictate to a housing property owner as to whom he may sell or to whom he may rent. His statement that the realtors helped create present problems has no foundation in history, theory or fact.

Realtors should be proud the majority of our citizens' honor them for being in the van in the fight against unfair laws which seek to penalize a homeowner, not for what he does but for what he thinks.

Age and Parental Care

EDITOR:

I work in a hospital and find that it is not uncommon for women 40 years of age and more to give normal birth to a baby. (One age 52—this was a rare case). I can't help but wonder if, when God blesses these parents with their offspring, that He take into consideration that at the teen-age years there will be nothing but problems, due to the age difference. (According to Miss Jean Selden, social worker).

In the case of Judy Ann, I don't know who to feel the most sorry for: The little girl who will go through life with a broken heart, the parents who will probably go to their graves with broken hearts, or Miss Seldon who must have no heart at all.

Gov. Brown Criticized

EDITOR:

The effort of Governor Brown to get Mr. Reagan to declare himself against the John Birch Society is a mirror which clearly reveals the heart of a real politician.

Mr. Brown's supporters, like Alan Cranston, may be able to prove that there are some Birchers in California who are anti-Semitic.

So what? It can be proved that there are some anti-Catholics in California, some anti-Baptists, some anti-Jehovah Witnesses, some even anti-God.

Does this mean that a man in order to prove himself a good candidate for governor should declare himself against one or all of these groups? The fact that Mr. Brown has declared himself against the Birchers (and this writer does not belong) is a clear indication that he is unfit to be governor.

A governor has no right to discriminate against any law-abiding group. It is his business to be governor for all.

Move to Toss Out 5 Justices Wouldn't Be Easy

BOB HOUSER

FIVE OF THE SEVEN California Supreme Court justices are up for "yes" or "no" votes on their retention on the November general election ballot.

The board of directors of the California Republican Assembly (CRA) last June initiated a kind of junior impeachment move for all five. By resolution they whereas-ed that the court "has rendered politically motivated decisions in the areas of reapportionment and forced housing."

Then they urged a "no" vote on retention of the justices.

Appearing on the ballot will be the names of Chief Justice Roger John Traynor, for an eight-year term; Louis H. Burke, four years; Marshall F. McComb, 12 years; Stanley Mosk, eight years; and Paul Peek, 12 years.

Presumably, the CRA board would like to see a newly-elected Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan appoint five new justices, or else just build up enough of a negative vote to serve notice of censure against the present court.

You can file the replacement effort under lost causes. An opinion of the state legislative counsel demonstrates the virtual impossibility of such political moves to throw out a court accused of political motivation.

The first unprecedented hurdle would be to get the "no" votes. Even if Reagan becomes governor the CRA board's wish hardly stands a chance.

Say all five are voted down. It then becomes the governor's responsibility to appoint five to fill the vacancies. But which governor?

The election is Nov. 8; the governor's term and the justices' terms do not end until Jan. 2, 1967. Five spurned justices could resign any time in November or December and the incumbent governor—Edmund G. Brown could conceivably reappoint all or appoint five replacements. appointees would serve at least the next general election in 196

The new appointments would quire only confirmation by a maj of the three-member Commissio Judicial Appointments and filin such confirmation with the secretary of state. This commission consists of the state attorney general, the senior presiding justice of the District Court of Appeal and — the Supreme Court chief justice himself.

If the justices did not resign after their defeat and decided to wait until their terms expire Jan. 1 at midnight, and if Reagan were elected, Brown might still be able to slip in new appointments before Reagan took his oath Jan. 2. Of course Reagan could easily head off that possibility by taking his oath at midnight Jan. 1.

While the machinery exists to vote a justice out of office, it is sufficiently difficult that a man like Chief Justice Traynor, with 26 years of service on the high court, doctorate degrees and numerous judicial honors cannot be easily dismissed.

Brown, Reagan Debate Death Penalty Issue

In exclusive interviews with gubernatorial candidates Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Ronald Reagan, I, P-T staff writer Bill Hazlett today presents their debate on capital punishment as a followup of his penetrating series entitled "SHOULD SOCIETY KILL?" Hazlett is assistant city editor of The Independent and a widely experienced journalist in the field of crime-fighting and penology.

A SERIES OF IDENTICAL questions, dealing with the death penalty issue, was asked each candidate. Below are the questions and answers.

1. WHERE DO YOU STAND ON THE QUESTION OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT?

BROWN: As long as the death penalty is the law of the State of California, I will faithfully see that the sentences of the courts and juries are carried out.

I believe, however, that the long delay between commission of a crime and the execution of the criminal has taken away the certainty of penalty. In view of this and (from) my long experience in law enforcement, I feel the death penalty should be abolished and life imprisonment without possibility of parole substituted therefore.

REAGAN: I don't think there is anyone in this country who doesn't wish we would reach the day when capital punishment will be unnecessary. But, accepting the fact that we do have the right to take lives, in the defense of our own, and accepting the opinions of men in law enforcement who feel it is a deterrent to crime, and that it does prevent murders, I have to approve of the continuation of capital punishment.

I will say, however, if ever evidence indicates capital punishment is purely punishment and not a deterrent, then certainly it should be abolished. I believe in our entire penal system, as no longer being purely vengeance, but a system for rehabilitation and deterrence.

2. DO YOU FEEL THE DEATH PENALTY IS A DETERRENT TO CRIME? WHY?

REAGAN: Yes. Going on the evidence of men, such as J. Edgar Hoover, whose whole life and training have been devoted to law enforcement, I am convinced capital punishment serves as a deterrent, particularly to murder.

BROWN: I do not. They have the death penalty in Illinois and in Texas. Still, in the past few weeks we have seen the most terrible crimes almost in the history of this country.

The record shows that in the states where capital punishment has been repealed, and in England, there has actually beeen a diminution of the homicide rate. It is not clearly convincing, but it is there, despite that fact.

3.DO YOU BELIEVE THE CAPITAL PUNISHMENT QUESTION WILL BE A FACTOR IN THE CURRENT POLITICAL CAMPAIGN? WHY?

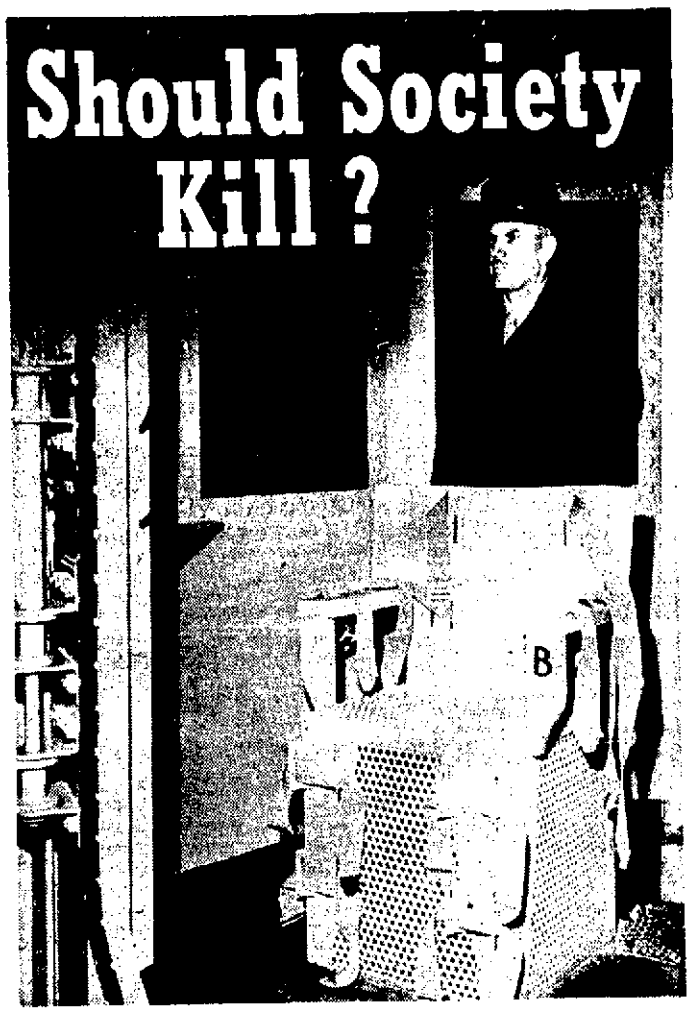

BROWN: I do not. I think because the people of the State of California know that it is up to the Legislature, and they know that as long as I am governor of this state, and as long as the death penalty is the punishment in the State of California, I will carry out the intent of the law.

REAGAN: It won't be so far as my continuing to bring it up. Governor Brown has stated his position on the question, and I have stated mine. We must wait for the reaction of the people. The issue of capital punishment lies with the people, and it will be the people who decide. So far, the people of California, through their elected legislators, have decided to keep it.

4. DO YOU THINK THE DEATH PENALTY IS AN ISSUE IN THE PRESENT CIVIL RIGHTS MOVEMENT?

REAGAN: I don't think it should be, but I think many people have attached themselves to the Civil Rights movement, and they try to introduce things like capital punishment and such issues to add size and importance to their cause.

BROWN: I do not. I believe that judges and juries deal fairly in these cases with human beings, whatever their religion or race might be.

Gas Chamber Waits Next Victim at San Quentin

5. DO YOU THINK THE DEATH PENALTY IS FAIRLY ADMINISTERED IN REGARDS TO MINORITY GROUPS?

BROWN: In the United States the evidence will show that Negroes suffered the death penalty far out of proportion to their race. This is not true in California.

REAGAN: I don't think that the issue of minority groups is part of whether or not to have capital punishment. But, I am aware that because of economic and other factors, which exist not only in minority groups, we should do everything possible to make all people equal before the law. It is not a factor of the penalty, but a factor of equality. You correct the inequality, you don't knock out the necessity for the law.

6. WHAT IS YOUR STAND ON THE INSANITY ISSUE WHICH CROPS UP TO CLOUD MANY CAPITAL CASES?

REAGAN: Here, I think there are more professionally qualified people, better able to answer, both in law and medicine. But, I don't mind saying that serious revisions are needed with regard to individual responsibility. There is a great and present danger in a certain school of thought which says that no normal person commits a crime, and therefore crime is the fault of society. I don't think society alone is to blame for the current crime wave.

BROWN: The whole basis of crime and punishment in the United States is intent. Persons must deliberate and premeditate in order to be guilty of murder in the first degree. If a person is mentally ill, he is incapable of consummating that intent. He has a sick mind, and you can no more punish a person with a sick mind than you can punish a person with a sick chest or a sick stomach. I do believe, however, that the people who commit crimes of violence, even though medically insane, in too many cases have been permitted to get out of mental institutions. I think that when a person has once evidenced that he is incapable of controlling his emotions, whatever the reason may be, he should be confined till there is no doubt about whether he will hurt others, and I think the doubt must be resolved in favor of society.

7. DO YOU THINK A SYSTEM OF SENTENCING CONVICTED KILLERS TO A LIFE TERM, WITHOUT PAROLE, IS THE ANSWER TO THE CAPITAL PUNISHMENT QUESTION?

BROWN: Yes, I do. I think that life imprisonment without possibility of parole is a more sensible alternative. I think that we'd waste less time. Punishment should be sure and certain and this would be a greater deterrent to these psychopaths who commit these crimes. They actually fear life imprisonment without possibility of parole more than they fear death.

Since I have been governor of California we have increased penalties by 25% for violent offenders. Crimes of violence per capita in California have gone down, compared to other large states according to the Bureau of Criminal Statistics.

REAGAN: I think that has been answered in my support of capital punishment. What provisions for protection are there if the individual continues to kill, even in prison—guards or inmates? What preventives exist?

8. WOULD YOU FAVOR A LIMITED APPLICATION OF THE DEATH PENALTY, SUCH AS IN THE MURDER OF A POLICE OFFICER OR PRISON GUARD, THE BOMBING OF AN AIRPLANE, OR PROFIT MOTIVE, PROFESSIONAL SLAYINGS, OR THOSE COMMITTED IN ANOTHER FELONY SUCH AS ROBBERY?

REAGAN: We do have limited application of the death penalty. We have gone a long way to reduce the number of capital punishment crimes and make subject to the death penalty only those crimes of premeditation—the cold-blooded variety.

BROWN: I would prefer that to the present laws, in view of the fact that I think the death penalty actually acts as a stimulant to the commission of homicide because it cheapens human life. I don't favor it in any case whatsoever.

9. A RECENT POLL BY LOUIS HARRIS SHOWS FOR THE FIRST TIME THAT MOST AMERICANS WOULD LIKE TO SEE CAPITAL PUNISHMENT OUTLAWED NATIONALLY, WHY DO YOU THINK THIS IS SO? (The poll referred to shows that on a nationwide basis, 38% favor capital punishment; 47% oppose capital punishment; and 15% are not sure of their stand.)

BROWN: I do think this is so, I think the people have gotten disgusted with the slowness of criminal justice in these cases. We have capital punishment in California and there has not been an execution since January, 1963. Every single student of crime and punishment knows that certainty of punishment is a greater deterrent than severity of punishment.

If they would take these criminals, quickly try them with a minimum of publicity and drop them into prison with hard labor for the rest of their lives, I think we would see a real drop in crimes of violence in the United States.

REAGAN: I don't know how accurate polls can be. California has endorsed the death penalty. Perhaps California is different, or perhaps the poll is worded in such a way as to weaken its validity. Besides, from the figures presented, the margin is certainly slim. Many people may say, "Yes, I wish we could abolish the death penalty," and this shows up as a vote favoring abolition. Our whole religious heritage is one in which we are torn between belief in God's right to decide, and our right to protect. There is nothing in the Bible to oppose the death penalty, the Bible opposes murder. I believe this, just as I feel there is nothing in the Bible to support conscientious objection to military service.

10. WHAT DO YOU THINK IS THE MAJOR WEAKNESS IN YOUR OPPONENT'S STAND ON CAPITAL PUNISHMENT?

REAGAN: Frankly, I think there is weakness in his whole approach with regards to crime, in his opposition to legislation for strengthening law enforcement. In my opinion he has an excess of concern for the rights of the criminal, and not enough concern for the victims. If the murderer still has the right to execute, then society has an even greater right.

BROWN: He has had no experience in law enforcement during his long life. I have been district attorney and sent people to the death chamber in San Quentin. As attorney general I have fought hard to uphold the law under my authority of office regarding the death penalty. And as governor, despite my powers of pardon and commutation, I have scrupulously preserved the law of this state and permitted people where justly convicted by a jury of their peers to suffer the extreme penalty.

All of these things have given me experience in law enforcement very few people in this country can match, and I know what things can be done to make it better.

L. A. C. SAYS

Yes, I Am a Lucky Collins

A BETTER Business Bureau bulletin has an item headed "Are You the Lucky Collins?" It tells of London, England, "Beneficiaries Search, Ltd.," circulating the Collins tribe in this country. It says you may be one of the heirs to the estate of a Collins who died last year in England. You are supposed to fill out a form and send it in with $15 for the search to show if you are eligible.

SINCE THE Collins name is about as common as Smith it is apparent there is quite a prospective market for the promoters of the scheme. The BBB checked with the British Consulate in New York City. No record of the promoters could be found. It is therefore a warning to any hopefuls that they may be gambling $15 wtih little chance of winning. It is probable most name groups have been subjected to similar approaches over the past.

Many of my friends have sent me the bulletin and asked if I was a "Lucky Collins." My answer is Yes, I am very lucky. I am lucky because I live in this country, have a good job and can write about anything I wish to present to my readers. Above all I am lucky in that for over a half century I have worked in many jobs, from starting with shining shoes at 9 years of age and constant employment ever since.

I AM LUCKY that as a salesman covering every state in the Union, and as a small manufacturer, I had the opportunity to be a part of the growth of this country. I have seen the growth of our great industrial empire with the highest living standards known throughout the world. And I have helped pay for the great aid we have given to 130 other countries. It has been a struggle all the way. But I am grateful that opportunities have always been available to me, just as they are to all who will work for them now.

It has been a very wonderful past. But I am wondering if the future will give the same opportunities. The trend of dependence on government to provide for us what we in the past achieved for ourselves is changing the outlook for a vast majority of our people. Unions are receiving pensions, free medical care, payment for not working, and their members are keeping in office men convicted of law violation and disregard of the rights of others. They refuse to accept young people as apprentices in many unions. The freedom to get or hold a job in all but 19 of our states is dependent upon subservience to the union leaders and their programs.

WE ARE LIVING in a period of virtual anarchy with riots, thievery and killing under the guise of civil rights. We have a state law that prohibits the right of a property owner to choose to whom he may sell or rent his personal property. We have gone far in breaking down the discrimination against minority groups, only to find our city streets unsafe to travel at night in areas where riots occur—and that applies to about every city in the nation.

Yes, I am a fortunate Collins because I am of the older generation. But I do not consider my grandchildren lucky to be facing the changes that are occurring. Unless we who are voters take enough interest in the future of these young people we will be betraying the trust they should have in us. We must elect men to office who believe in the dignity of man and that government is supposed to protect the freedom of enterprise under which we have grown. We must insist that we first take care of our own people under this system rather than trying to finance all the rest of the world. We are all lucky we still have time to save our system—but time is running out.—L.A.C.

* * * *

THE SHOW—Aug. 19, 20, and 21—will be in conjunction with a benefit performance of "Madame Butterfly." Proceeds will go to South Coast Hospital in South Laguna, Hoag Hospital, Newport Beach and St. Joseph's Hospital, Orange.

The women's auxiliaries of all three hospitals are helping with the benefit performance.

Blocks of tickets for the exhibit and show have been purchased by residents of Leisure World through event officials Al Howen, Morton Clausen and Ralph McIntyre.

The three will also help judge works in the exhibit. Cash prizes will be given in several categories.

Private Patrolman's Car 'Cleaned Out'

Officer R. L. Elders said the burglary occurred in front of Sunley's residence at 1418 E. 16th St. Also taken were an attache case, a pair of glasses, a radio microphone, a spotlight and a flashlight with a total value of $145.

JUDGING BEGINS AUG. 28

Enlisted Men to Help Select Miss Whitehat

By BUCK LANIER
Naval Affairs Editor

Who's going to be Miss Whitehat of 1967?

This selection is due to be made Sept. 7 after a preliminary judging round on Aug. 28.

Entry deadline is noon Aug. 26

Miss Whitehat is the Independent Business Men's Association envoy to all the enlisted personnel of the Navy, Marines and Coast Guard in the Long Beach area.

For the first time enlisted personnel will have a hand in the judging.

Storekeeper 3.C. Steve Chambers of the Coast Guard has the assignment from his service while Petty Officer Pete Musitano of the USS Topeka will be one of the two Navy judges.

Mary Ellis Carlton, women's news director, and Terry Sattoria, picture editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, will be the professional judges.

Among the first entries are Elaine Mooers, 21, of 3112 Copal del Oro, Los Alamitos; Carla Lynn Conti, 18, of 7138 Wardlow Road. Long Beach; and Bobbie Walling, 19, of 5958 Clark Ave., Lakewood. The first two are brunettes and the other a blonde.

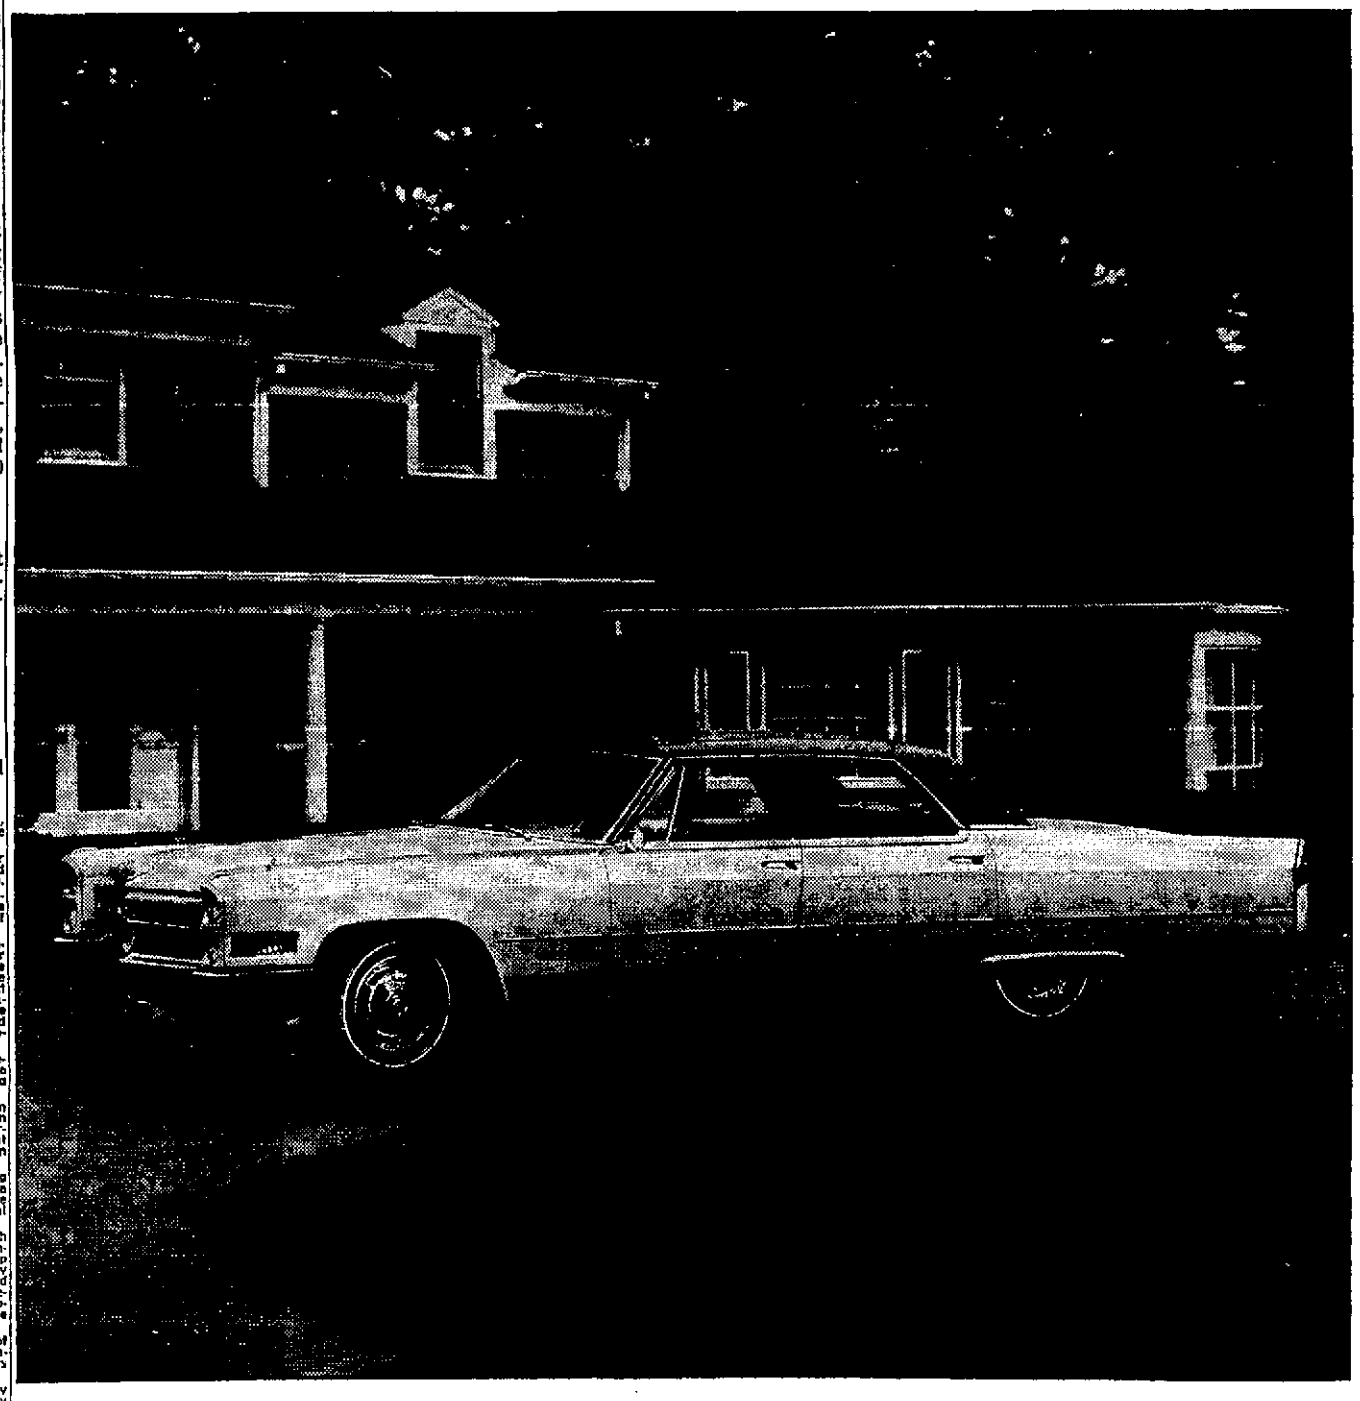

Interested single girls are asked to contact the IBMA office at 432-3884 or Mary Lou Finley at Julia Gibson's Career College, 427-7971.

Floyd Ayres, IBMA event chairman, said he was expecting about 20 to 25 entries. The preliminary judging will be at noon on the 28th at the Career College, he said.

HAS HE SPOTTED ONE YET?

Petty Officer Pete Musitano casts a careful look through his glass, tuning up his eye for judging duties in the 1967 Miss Whitehat Contest. Miss Whitehat will reign at the annual Whitehat Award Banquet Oct. 16. Former Miss Whitehat Janice Jackson watches the USS Topeka sailor's "looking" technique. The Independent Business Men's Association is the sponsor.

Cadillac owners are practical people.

It's true that a new Cadillac is a most impressive motor car—unequaled for its quiet performance and its many outstanding comforts. Yet owners find Cadillac's ability to hold its value is one of the great personal satisfactions.

More new car buyers have selected the 1966 Standard of the World than any other luxury automobile ever built. The reasons are varied. Many owners say that Cadillac's impressive styling, comfort and quietness caused them to make their decision. Others point to Cadillac's long and distinguished leadership in engineering and quality. There is also genuine approval of Cadillac's unexcelled safety and convenience benefits. Such features as its triple braking system, cornering lights, three-speed windshield wipers and padded instrument panel give a unique sense of driving security and confidence. Most important, the Cadillac owner finds his car the finest of all automobile investments. For he knows that traditionally a Cadillac provides the highest return on his original purchase price when he chooses to trade. Visit your authorized dealer soon. He'll be pleased to introduce you to one of the world's most practical luxuries.

3 Boys Back Home After Baja Hitchhike

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM—B-8
Long Beach 12, Calif., Sunday, Aug. 14

By ROGER GILLOTT

Three 17-year-old boys — two from Lakewood and one from Long Beach—are home after a month of hitchhiking through the barren and often roadless reaches of Baja California.

Their diet during the trip, which took them nearly 650 miles down the peninsula, ranged from steak and venison to mule meat and beans.

"The Auto Club, border authorities and Mexicans said we were foolish to try it without proper provisions and equipment," said Tony Sanger, of 2634 Ladoga Ave. "We just wanted to prove to them that it could be done."

"I think we are about the first guys ever to go so far south on the peninsula by hitchhiking," said Tony, a dark-haired, bright-eyed Millikan High School student.

Tony and the other boys—Gregg Robinson, of 2823 Rutgers Ave., and Bruce MacEvoy, of 760 Bennett Ave.—left Long Beach July 16. Each took only $50, a sleeping bag, one change of clothes and a few provisions for the month-long journey.

"We spent nearly half of the trip on the road," said Tony. "At night we would sack out in our sleeping bags on the beach, in vacant lots, or wherever it was convenient. Once some Mexicans let us sleep in a vacant schoolhouse."

The first "civilization" the boys saw in Baja was at Guerrero Negro (Black Warrior), a salt-mining town of about 1,300 people. After spending the last 12 days on the road, sleeping at night on the ground which was often alive with snakes and centipedes, they spent that night in a hotel. It cost 40 cents each.

"We had only planned to stay there for a day," said Tony. "But we couldn't get a ride out and ended up having to stay five days. Finally, the mayor—his name was Castro—arranged for someone to drive us out."

"However, the guy didn't take us too far before he decided to stop at the local saloon and get drunk. When he returned to the car, he was so pickled he sped off down the road at 15 miles per hour—which is suicidal on those roads.

"After going about a mile, he drove over an embankment. Nobody was hurt, but the car was pretty messed.

"Every time we were ready to start out on another leg of our trip, especially if it meant crossing a desert, the local Mexicans would tell us that just before we arrived three other young Americans had attempted it and died. And always it was 'just before we arrived,'" said Bruce, also a student at Millikan.

"Actually," Bruce said, "A lot of things could have happened to us. I guess we were just lucky that they didn't."

Did the boys bring back any mementoes of their trip?

"Nothing to speak of," said Bruce. "Although I did bring back one black bean."

"And a couple of stomach aches," Tony reported. "I think it was the food."

TV Tosser a Tosspot, Police Say

If you decide to throw your television and stereo sets out a second-story window in Long Beach, you'd better be sober.

Otherwise, you'll probably land in jail.

An upholsterer learned this the hard way Saturday.

Police arrested him on suspicion of intoxication after he threw a portable television set, stereo speakers and part of a record player from his apartment in the 6900 block Long Beach Blvd.

Officers J. M. Wilhite and L. L. Enger said they arrived at 4:15 p.m., found the pieces scattered on the patio, and noticed the man Tucker staggering from his apartment.

"It's my TV," he was quoted as saying. "I'll do with it as I please."

The officers took him into custody, saying they noticed a strong odor of alcoholic beverage on his breath.

Collision Hurts Mom, Daughter

Two members of a Lakewood family suffered minor injuries Saturday in a two-car collision in southwestern Utah.

A los Angeles man driving the car that struck them was killed, according to the Utah Highway Patrol.

Mrs. Evelyn Joyce Rasmussen, 39, and her daughter, Diana, 17, of 6169 S. Hayter Ave., sustained cuts and bruises when a car driven by 81-year-old William Lawrence Pearen of Los Angeles crossed the center lane of U. S. 91 and struck their pickup-camper.

Utah Highway Patrolman Don Best said Mrs. Rasmussen's husband, Kinney, and two other children, Steven, 15, and Gail, 14, were not injured.

The youths were riding in the camper at the time of the accident.

Col. Jackson Named Chief of Staff at SSD

Col. Edgar R. Jackson Jr. Saturday was named chief of staff of the Air Force's Space Systems Division in El Segundo.

Col. Jackson, a resident of Rolling Hills, is a former deputy for civil engineering at SSD.

As chief of staff, Col. Jackson will be responsible for all administrative support necessary to carry out the division's dual mission—timely development, acquisition and test of military space boosters, satellites and spacecraft, and support of the U.S. civilian space program.

Auto Stereo Stolen

'GHOST WANTED'

Joyfully Offered, Received

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Staff Writer

"Ghost Wanted," Jordan High School's just-closed summer theatrical, was one of those shows the cast enjoys equally with its audience — as both did Friday night.

It was a play of a type high school groups across the land once did with regularity. Neither involved plotline nor complex, talky undertones which sometimes overmatch a young cast with the playwright were in this one.

Instead, the cast slam-banged across a tiny proscenium at the rear of the regular stage in old time melodramatic style. A capacity crowd loved every minute of it.

* * * *

WITH A TITLE like "Ghost Hunters" it had to be a gothic "horror" tale, complete with Victorian "castle" on an Atlantic isle, paintings that become secret tunnel entrances, walking zombies, shrieks in the night and all that jazz. It was.

One of the funniest lines —whether ad-libbed or added earlier—emerged as the plot evilly thickened. The house collapsed with laughter as one young actor blamed THRUSH for everything.

But alas, a man from the FBI, not U.N.C.L.E., finally saved the day.

Male leads were done well by Mark Bethel and Chuck Thomas, two out-of-work types who answer a help-wanted ad seeking a ghost. Sisters Ginger (Candy Arter) and Gale (Diane Keenum) are determined to use them in scaring off an unwelcome guest.

* * * *

PERHAPS THE outstanding jobs of the evening were turned in by a pair of character actors, Ann Robinson doing the Elsa Lancaster-like spiritualist Madame Zolga, and Colleen Emslie as the spryly decrepit Grandma Kate.

Then there were Carol Beeson as the maid-of-all-work; Lewis Cunnington doing to a T the suavely evil professor; Kris Esaacson, half-witted fisherwoman; investigator Nora Van (Donna Teel) Sheriff Bradshaw, Ed Grimes; the "ghost," Keith McConahaay, and with a very Sidney Greenstreet-ish flourish, Bill Earl as Hatcher the enigmatic yardman.

Directing were faculty member John Alberico and his student colleague, Marrietta Ferrazzi. An excellent set was designed by Don Moran and the entire cast was credited with building it.

Animal Problem in 'Doolittle'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Builders of sets for "Dr. Doolittle" solved a few problems to accommodate 115 types of animals. All it took was five months and $200,000.

The set is an African Village of 11 huts on stilts, two lakes and three waterfalls on a 10-acre site at 20th Century Fox' Malibu Ranch. It's surrounded by a 10-foot high chain link fence.

THE ACTION'S IN EUROPE

Hollywood Output Down

By PETER BART
New York Times Service

HOLLYWOOD — The decline and fall of Hollywood as the world's major production center for motion pictures has been in the cards for some time, but this summer the trend seems especially rampant. A great number of movies are being made this summer, but the action is in Europe, not Hollywood.

Of the 45 movies now in production under the aegis of the seven major companies, 27 are being shot in Europe, 12 in Hollywood and six on locations somewhere else in the United States. Eleven of the European ventures are in London, four in Rome.

Even more significant, nearly all of the potentially important movies—big budget pictures as well as the small "art" films—are being shot in Europe, not Hollywood. Among them: "Casino Royale" with Peter Sellers, "A Man For All Seasons" with Paul Scofield, "The Taming of the Shrew" with Liz and Richard Burton, "Grand Prix" with James Garner, "Two For The Road" with Audrey Hepburn and Albert Finney, "Dr. Dolittle" with Rex Harrison and "You Only Live Twice" with Sean Connery.

* * * *

THIS IS NOT to say that Hollywood's vast entertainment assembly lines are standing idle. There's a lot of activity in the big studio but most of it is devoted to TV. They're shooting next season's TV series, a few pilots even some "cheapie" movies that will be sold directly to TV. The crews are hard at work, actors are eating regularly, the extras are thriving.

But Hollywood's a changed place. The talk in the studio commissaries is about TV, not movies. You hear a lot of references to C.B.S. and N.B.C. but little about M.G.M. and Paramount. To some of the old-timers it all seems rather sad.

What has happened of course represents another classic example of the old dictum, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em." Fifteen years ago the movie moguls were vowing to fight TV to the death. Now the two industries are linked in worshipful embrace. Indeed you cant' tell the TV and the movie people apart any more. Many of the people directing and starring in movies in Hollywood are from the TV world. Dick Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore are starring in separate films. Such TV veterans as Carl Reiner, David Swift, Lamont Johnson and Fielder Cook are directing motion pictures.

OVER AT Universal they have been making seven two-hour features that are being called "movies" even though they were co-financed by the networks and will be shown first on TV, not in movie theaters. In true TV style the budgets are low and the shooting schedules brief.

No one would object to TV people turning to pictures but many are concerned about the application of TV standards to movies. A surprising number of the movies now in production in Hollywood are being turned out like TV shows. They slap together a couple of sets on the studio back lots, sign a director, toss him a script and say "Wind it up in 30 days."

At Universay Jack Webb, who was directing one of the two-hour "TV movies," followed such a brisk shooting schedule that his actors were reading their lines off telephompters. Worst of all many Hollywood movies are built around plots that would barely sustain a half-hour TV episode. It's as if the studio were so conditioned to TV that they've lost their motion picture know-how.

* * * *

ESPECIALLY worrisome to Hollywood is the fact that some of the regular TV series are following the example o fthe movies and are shifting their locales overseas. The reasons are similar. First, production costs are out o fline in Hollywood. Second, both the movie and TV industries have been thoroughly internationalized. Both media seek international stars and locales to expand their potential audience.

But there's also a more subtle reason, and that relates to talent. Three decades ago Hollywood was a magnet drawing the world's great creative talents. Today that's no longer so. The magnet has lost its pull; indeed the flow is outward, not inward. Hollywood's once-limitless creative resources seem to be running thin.

Gas Prices' Comeback Continuing

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Nationwide gasoline prices that ended a seven-year downward trend in 1965 are continuing their comabck.

Products price stability and increased sales volume are being listed as important factors behind healthy financial reports of many major companies on operations during the first half of 1966.

A recent survey indicates a record January-June demand of gasoline was 4.5% above the year-earlier level.

A 52-city survey by the Oil and Gas Journal also indicated an average major brand regular grade gasoline price of 20.95, excluding federal, state and local taxes that average about 10 cents per gallon. The year-earlier average was 20.20 cents per gallon, giving 1966's January-June first half an increase of about three-fourths of a cent per gallon.

The Journal's mid-year report said higher 1966 retail gasoline prices were recorded in all except two major marketing regions—the West Coast and the Rocky Mountain areas.

* * * *

WEST COAST prices were unchanged at 20.6 cents a gallon. Rocky Mountain averages declined from 21.1 cents in 1965 to 20.9 cents.

Meanwhile, Midwest prices advanced 1.5 cents to 21.8 cents a gallon. Smaller increases averaging seven-tenths of a cent boosted the East Coast to 21.0 cents a gallon, the South Central area 20.9 cents, and Texas prices to 19.8 cents.

The Journal said the 52-city pump price, including taxes, averaged 31.27 cents a gallon compared to year-earlier average 30.49 cents.

John E. Swearngen, board chairman of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), is among the executives who have described the general firming of domestic gasoline prices as one of the healthier developments in the petroleum industry the past year.

* * * *

HE SAYS A 1965 increase that averaged less than one cent a gallon has drawn some criticism from sources that have failed to take into account the decline of the seven preceding years.

Swearingen, writing in the summer edition of his company's shareholder-employe publication Span, said the prices of 1958 through 1964 declined under the impact of heavy sales competition.

"The increases last year left prices still below the level of 1960, which certainly is no inflationary record," he said.

However, during the 1958-1964 period, Swearingen said, gasoline quality was being steadily improved despite the price decline.

"Each of these improvements in quality has added to the cost of making the product," he said. "In any event, the consistent rise in state and federal taxes on gasoline cannot be ignored. These taxes have increased about 1½ cents per gallon in the last seven years."

Swearingen said taxes now add about 50% to the price of regular grade motor fuel.

"What has kept prices down has been intense competition and it is our firm belief gasoline prices should continue to be determined by competition rather than by views of anyone outside the industry as to what is or is not a proper level.

"As the record shows, competition has served the motorist very well indeed."

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Economy Overshadows Apathy in Stock Market

By THOMAS E. MULLANEY
New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Apathy in the stock market last week was overshadowed by the exuberant state of the economy and the volatile interest-rate structure.

There has been no let-up in inflationary pressures resulting from excessive aggregate demand or the quest for new funds.

Some analysts fear a liquidity crisis this fall with the normal seasonal surge of credit demand. Many also envision more increases in interest rates and bearish implications for the stock market.

* * * *

CONTINUED inflation is the big worry, despite obvious efforts by the administration to soft-pedal the danger. In that connection businessmen were impressed by a recent statement of the liberal vice chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, James L. Robertson.

"We are in the midst of an inflationary situation," he said. "The dangers of inflation today are much greater than the dangers of high interest rates. We must curb excessive demand."

It is becoming increasingly clear that government monetary and fiscal action will be necessary, however unpalatable it might be in a pre-election period.

This without doubt was the main factor behind the stock market's hesitancy and caution after its somewhat encouraging performance the previous week in response to the unchallenged steel-price increase.

* * * *

THE MARKET was too distracted by fears of what's ahead to take encouragement from numerous favorable developments or extend its recovery on steel's price breakthrough — as it normally would.

Instead the market sank back toward its year's lows—and to the vicinity of 1964 levels in the popular indexes. Trading volume averaged little more than 5.7 million shares a day, against the average turnover of almost eight million shares in the first seven months.

Had there been less concern about higher interest rates, greater yields for competing investments and an impending squeeze on corporate profits, the stock market might be faring better these days after its 16% "correction" in the last six months.

Bankers maintain that the current 4.5% discount rate is unrealistically low when other interest rates are well above 5%. Federal funds, for instance, have been carrying rates as high as 6%. The prime rate, now at 5.75%, might soon go to 6%, or possibly higher, to discourage or reduce borrower demands.

* * * *

EVEN WITH most types of bonds providing their highest interest rates in more than four decades, investors have not been snapping them up. This is partly because big investors are short of money and partly because the institutions believe rates are headed higher.

If the business boom continues—and most analysts believe it will — interest rates certainly will be raised.

Almost all the latest readings point toward a continued boom, though not as heavy as it was in the first half of the year. However, it still appears that this year's growth will run close to 8%, including price inflation, bringing the gross national product close to three-quarters of a trillion dollars ($750 billion).

* * * *

THE LATEST monthly review of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York noted that business activity might quicken in the second half of this year, "intensifying the strains on the economy's productive resources."

Consumer spending in the balance of the year, the bank said, should be stimulated by federal pay increases and by the beginning of Medicare payments. It also said pressures on prices will persist and that cost-plus factors might become more imortant, particularly when the heavy round of wage negotiations begin about the turn of the year.

"The inflationary threat over hanging late 1966 and 67," according to Moody's Investors Service, "has become a more imposing factor in the investment background. Labor costs, which in some instances have already begun to outpace productivity, will almost certainly exert strong pressure on profit margins."

Some of the more buoyant economic statistics last week included the further rise in retail sales in July (1%) from the revised figure of June and an upturn in weekly steel production for the first time in almost two months.

* * * *

THERE WAS also word from Washington that the nation's balance of payments took a turn for the better in the second quarter, reducing the deficit to less than $150 million — a big improvement over the $563 million deficit in the first three months of 1966.

However, the improvement did not result from a better trade balance. With the domestic economy so strong, the nation's trade surplus actually narrowed as imports continued in great volume.

The improvement instead came largely from a reduction in capital outflow from the U.S. and this might have been a technicality that resulted from the shifting by official holders of dollars abroad from investments maturing in less than a year to those of longer maturity.

True Dick Tracy Wrist Radio Possible

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. said it has developed a tiny transistor that could lead to the construction of miniature space television cameras and radios the size of a wrist watch.

The transistor eliminates the need for conventional, bulky coils of wire.

A key part of the transistors is a pure gold sliver which vibrates. It's about 10-thousandths of an inch long, which is two or three times the diameter of a human hair.

A standard transistor has no moving parts. But the new one, with a vibrating sliver, gives the transistor entirely new capabilities, Westinghouse said.

Chief among them, said Westinghouse, is the ability to "tune" integrated circuits. The new device performs an entire electronic function — normally achieved by the interconnections of dozens of separate electronic components —in a single slice of silicon about the size of the head of a pin.

With further development, "we will see the day of the true Dick Tracy wrist watch," said Dr. William E. Newell, one of the developers of the transistor.

Westinghouse said the research was supported in part by the Electronics Technology Division at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio.

CUBS BECOME 19TH VICTIM

Koufax Tires, Still Wins

By GEORGE LEDERER

Sandy Koufax likes cool days and warm nights.

Saturday was a warm day, which explains why Koufax tired in the last two innings and didn't get his shutout against the Cubs. He had to settle for a 6-1 victory, his 19th, ending a string of four Dodger losses and reducing the first-place gap to three games.

Tommy Davis made it comparatively easy for the super southpaw with four hits, including a home run, and three runs batted in. He raised his average 12 points to a club-leading .309, while Koufax shaved .03 points off his ERA to 1.62.

Koufax entered the eighth inning with a one-hit shutout, then allowed four singles and a ninth-inning run.

"I got a little tired," said Koufax. "I didn't throw between starts this time because I preferred to sleep. We got in at 5 in the morning (from Atlanta) on the day I should have thrown and I just didn't feel up to it."

* * * *

LEO DUROCHER thought Koufax "was just fooling around in those last two innings. Before that, his curve was fantastic. I'd never seen a better one. He threw some that started at (Ron) Santo's head and wound up at his knees.

"The man is the greatest I've seen and I've seen a lot of 'em."

Koufax, the first 19-game winner in the majors (19-6), again moved up among the strikeout greats and passed Rube Waddell for No. 9 on the all-time list. He fanned 11 Saturday, giving him a season total of 240 in 233 innings and a career mark of 2,319 in 2,235 innings. Waddell struck out 2,310.

It had been 19 games since the Dodgers had a complete-game victory and three weeks to the day since Koufax had one, against the Mets. Saturday, the bullpen was able to take the day off, thus should be at full strength for today's series - concluding double-header.

Don Drysdale (8-13) and Joe Moeller (2-2) will pitch for the Dodgers against another pair of lefthanders, Curt Simmons (3-3) and Bob Hendley (3-3).

WALTER ALSTON decided to save lefthander Claude Osteen for the Cincinnati series, which begins Monday night.

The Cubs' bullpen didn't stir, either, although loser Dick Ellsworth dispensed 13 hits enroute to his 18th defeat. He has won but five, one against the Dodgers.

Sandy Koufax follows through on way to striking out 11 Cubs Saturday, moving him into ninth place on major league's list of all-time strikeout artists.

Cowboys Speed Dazzles

Meredith Connects With Speedsters Bob Hayes, Gent

By AL LARSON

The Dallas Cowboys considered by many as the team to beat in the Eastern Division this season, lived up to their speed ratings as they dumped the Rams, 20-10, Saturday night at the Coliseum.

A crowd of 44,217 saw Don Meredith throw touchdown strikes of 33 and 63 yards and Danny Villanueva boot two field goals as the Texans locked up their second straight NFL exhibition victory.

Trailing 3-0 the Cowboys turned the game around in the second quarter when Pete Gent pulled in a 33-yard bomb with only 7 seconds elapsed.

Then it was Bob Hayes turn to flash his speed. The former Olympian sprint star latched on to Meredith's 63-yard payoff pass and left defender Irv Cross in the dust.

If rivals wondered about Hayes' hands and courage, they can stop now. What they've got to find is a miracle cure for the headaches he's causing every defensive back that tries to match him stride-for-stride. That remedy won't be found in any medical journals.

The Rams scored first when Bruce Gossett kicked a 34-yard field goal with 13:54 elapsed. But Meredith went to work in the second quarter and cut the Rams defense to shreds with his two scoring bombs.

Trailing 17-3 and with time running out in the first half, Bill Munson connected with a 2-yard touchdown pass and the Rams went into the dressing room trailing, 17-10.

The Cowboys final three points came with 1:52 remaining when Villaneuva split the uprights from 21 yards out.

Coach George Allen said after the loss: "The Cowboys

LAST-MINUTE WIN

Flores Ignites Raider Charge

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Quarterback Tom Flores hit Art Powell with a 20-yard pass with 54 seconds remaining Saturday night to give the Oakland Raiders a 14-7 American Football League exhibition win over the San Diego Chargers.

The pass culminated an 83-yard drive which took 13 plays. The game appeared destined for a 7-7 tie until Flores suddenly regained his throwing form and completed seven passes in the scoring march.

The Raiders led 7-0 midway in the third quarter when Lance Alworth suddenly electrified the home crowd by scoring on an 89-yard pass play triggered by quarterback John Hadl.

Oakland, held without a first down in the first quarter, scored on its first opportunity in the second quarter. Fred Biletnikoff outdistanced the Chargers' secondary by 10 yards, took a Flores pass over his shoulder on the 10 and went into the end zone.

The Chargers dominated the game statistically but were unable to put together a scoring march. The Raiders' defense paced by Tom Keating and Bill Budness stopped almost every Charger threat.

Budness recovered a fumble to end the first Chargers scoring drive and blocked a field goal attempt in the second quarter. Keating, acquired from Buffalo in the off season, threw Hadl for four key long losses and recovered a third quarter fumble.

Knox Leaves Bench to Hurl Flyers' Win

Legion Nine Faces Erwin Again With State Title on Line

YOUNTVILLE — What's there to do on a sunny Saturday afternoon in Yountville?

Rich Knox, a reserve shortstop for Flyers Post, had just about resigned himself to spending it on the bench where he's been most of the season since losing his job to Bob Grich.

But coach Jack Graham asked for volunteers to pitch and Knox said "What the heck," raised his hand and then went out and shut out Montclair, 6-0, on eight hits to give the Long Beach team a crack at the American Legion State baseball championship today.

FLYERS MEET Erwin Post of Oakland at 1. If Mike Coble can gain revenge for a 9-5 defeat on Thursday, Phil Keller will get the call for the losers' bracket team in a second and deciding game.

ANGELS HAVE LAST LAUGH

'Brat' Spanked Hard

By ROSS NEWHAN
Staff Writer

CHICAGO—The Brat got spanked Saturday.

The aroused Angels administered the licking to Eddie Stanky and his White Sox, 7-3, as Fred Newman, who had not won for 100 days, terminated Chicago's eight-game victory streak.

If a return to the first-division was not enough motivation, the Angels were stimulated by Stanky's connivery even before the first pitch.

At the top of Chicago's lineup card which passed through umpire Frank Umont's hands into Bill Rigney's, Stanky had inked a large "No 9," indicating that an extension of the White Sox winning streak was in the cards.

"I was really burned up," said Rigney, as he enjoyed the last laugh.

"I couldn't wait to get back to the bench and show the card to my players. Who does that little (blank) think he is?"

By the time it was the eighth inning and the lead was 7-0, the Angels had done some art work of their own.

They unveiled a towel and called Stanky's attention to the message which read:

". . . your No. 9."

Stanky got the message as early as the second inning when the Angels routed Joe Horlen for four runs, the impetus of an 11-hit attack which included three-hits by Tom Satriano, two-run singles by both Newman and Bobby Knoop, and Jim Fregosi's eighth home run.

"Tonight," said Rigney, "I'm going to look all over this town for the biggest stamp I can find. And tomorrow I'm going to imprint my lineup card with No. 2."

By this time, Rigney was in a jocular mood, pouring fuel on a potential feud with his former Giant roommate. In Anaheim last week, Rig referred to Stanky as "Mr. Rule Book" when the Chicago manager protested a bandage on Clyde Wright's stitched finger.

One required a record book rather than a rule book Saturday to locate the last time Newman (2-5) won. It was May 5 when he and Bob Lee shut out Kansas City on four hits.

Thus, in his fourth start since spending 51 days on the disabled list, Newman regained the form which made him such a favorite in the Angels future book last spring.

"I really didn't think I'd pitch at all this season," revealed Newman of his frustrating seven weeks on the sideline.

"Even now I don't believe Rig is planning to use me too much the rest of the way. The doctor wants me to rest the arm as much as possible so that I can come back strong next year."

The pain has left the arm and all that remains is a soreness born of infrequent employment. Rig plans to start Newman every fifth day.

"The only problem I have now is controlling the breaking pitch," said Newman. "I was aiming my curve and slider today. I hope it comes around the next time."

Newman had yielded only three hits when he issued his second walk of the game, to Floyd Robinson, opening the eighth. Two outs later, Bill Skowron singled and Don Buford doubled to snap the shutout and send the tiring righthander to the showers.

Singles by Tommie Agee and Pete Ward greeted Minnie Rojas, cutting the deficit to 7-3, but the relief ace then

GET-'EM-NEXT-TIME-GANG

The Black Maxers Invade Pittsburgh

By ROY McHUGH

PITTSBURGH (NEA)—You can't do it every day. But the Pittsburgh Pirates know that if they stick with 'em and hang in there, probably they'll get 'em next time.

Can't-do-it-every-day, stick-with-'em, hang-in-there and get-'em-time are the verbal pats on the back the Pirates award one another to alleviate gloom.

Thus pitcher Steve Blass, who has lost four games this season and has not gone the distance in 20 starts, sums up his record as "four stick-with-'ems and 20 straight can't-do-it-every-days."

First baseman Donn Clendenon leads the Pirates in get-'em-next-times with 95. "One for each strikeout," he says.

A hard line drive into the waiting hands of an infielder or outfielder is only a time at bat in the box score, but it merits a fervent hang-in-there.

Blass and Clendenon belong to the Black Maxers, hence the bookkeeping. The Black Maxers are an in-group among the Pirates and to maintain his membership each of the Maxers must get at least one citation a week.

It is all part of the high jinks the Pirates are going in for this year—a burlesque not only on baseball cliches but on a current motion picture called "The Blue Max," itself an unconscious burlesque on every bad World War I movie Hollywood ever made.

AS RELIEF PITCHER Pete Mikkelsen describes the movie, which the Black Maxers saw in Chicago one day, "It's about dogfights during World War I. The Blue Max was a German medal. If somebody knocked down 20 British planes he got a Blue Max from the Kaiser or whoever he was. One guy in the story wanted that more than anything. He wanted a Blue Max."

Steve Blass wanted enough Blue Maxes to start a Blue Max chapter on the Pirates and he toured Chicago's Loop in a taxicab, rummaging through novelty stores. He had to settle for 12 black surfer's medals and the would-be Blue Maxers changed their color scheme.

Surfer's medals are replicas, actually, of the German Iron Cross, a military award that goes back to 1813, when William of Prussia conceived it. During every war since, the Germans have revived the Iron Cross. The Nazis revived it in World War II, replacing William of Prussia's cross with a swastika. For that reason surfer's medals arouse a certain amount of hostility.

However, even in World War II the award was for achievement on the battlefield, and a West German consul stationed in this country has said, "We think of the Iron Cross not as the Iron Cross of the terrible Nazi period but as being from the rest of German history, which contains 200 years of culture."

The Black Maxers pretend to no history of culture at all but are representative of the Pirates' flakiness. Manager Harry Walker, a Bronze Star winner in World War II (he captured a whole truckload of Germans) approves.

"This is a colorful team," Walker says. "Baseball needs color. Those guys are serious on the field and this is their way of staying loose. You'll notice the only time they clown around is when they win."

When the Pirates don't win, they're as melancholy as any other team. When they win, they hurry into the clubhouse and put on their Black Maxer hats.

THERE'S A WORLD War I aviator's helmet, complete with goggles, for Jim Pagliaroni. Blass and Roy Face have Western-styled black Stetsons with skull and crossbones taped to the brims and Mikkelsen wears a night club comic's Crazy Googenheim number, also with skull and crossbones.

Chuckie, the clubhouse boy, is an honorary Black Maxer. So is Joey Diven, the world's strongest beer salesman. "We use him for special projects," says Chuckie. "Like overrunning countries."

The dozen original Black Maxers have added but one active member—Coach Johnny Pesky, who bears the title of field marshal and rates a "von" in front of his name.

Once a week, a board of inquiry meets to review everybody's qualifications, and Blass, the squadron supply officer, may be up for promotion this month. At a recent luncheon, he announced, "They tell me I can't go nine innings. Lately, I've been lucky to go three."

Says Tommie Sisk: "Little quotes like that keep your standing up. It's not your performance on the field that counts, it's your thinking." Of Woody Fryman, Sisk says, "He's not going to make it, doing the things he does now. He goes to bed at 8 o'clock."

Alongi Calls L.B. Home

Long Beach has a new fighter representing this city today. The man's name is Tony Alongi, a nationally-known heavyweight with sterling credentials—38 wins, two losses and two draws.

The Pacific Coast Club purchased Alongi's contract from a New York group and Tony will box out of the Coast Club here. The official owners will be E. L. Fraser, PCC president; Vallie Matcheski, the club's athletic director, and Milton Sugerman, a prominent club member.

Matcheski will train Alongi, along with "Fabulous Fabela" Chavez, the well-known Southland firebrand who has more than 200 bouts under his belt, including five matches with Lauro Salas. Sugarman will be the manager, while attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey (the "silver fox" and long a favorite of fighters and boxing) will serve as financial advisor.

Alongi will arrive from Patterson, N.J., sometime during the week and immediately begin workouts for future engagements at Olympic Auditorium, L.A. Sports Arena and perhaps Long Beach Arena.

A 6-3, 205-pounder, the 26-year-old Alongi boasts 23 knockouts, a decision over George Chuvalo, and two draws against Jerry Quarry, 21, this area's coming "white hope" who despite his tender age has received tremendous national publicity.

Alongi thus joins an ever-expanding group of area fighters who have projected Southern California prominently into the national boxing scene. In addition to Alongi, Long Beach itself boasts the popular, unbeaten featherweight Armando Ramos, who scored his 10th consecutive triumph Thursday night in two rounds at Olympic Auditorium. Quarry resides in Bellflower, while fellow heavyweight Joey Orbillo is from Wilmington. One of the nations' great lightweights, Raul Rojas, this corner's nomination as world champion in 1967, is from San Pedro. The list is even larger, but you get the idea.

PCC manager Dennis Coder says when Alongi arrives here, he also will help instruct the club's youngsters in the art of self-defense. As a suggestion to Dennis, why doesn't he match Alongi in an exhibition with Ben Agajanian, the club's gin rummy king? I remember the day in Houston when Bootin' Ben (then with the Chargers) squared off with one of the Oilers who belted him good after Aggie had kicked off. Ben threw some fair roundhouse punches before teammates dragged him from the field.

SOME BACKGROUND on Alongi might best be gained by a June Sports Illustrated story describing the second Quarry-Alongi match in Los Angeles.

"Alongi made Quarry look like the fighter he is: a kid of 21 and a genuine, raw prospect who has had 20 fights, the majority of them against refugees from poolrooms, factories and welfare lists. Alongi does not qualify for any of these categories; he is on the lam from Sears, Roebuck, where he was a salesman during two years of inactivity.

"Whether Alongi will eventually be deposited back into the appliance department is still unpredictable. One thing is clear, however. His future . . . was on the line against Quarry, and he did not look for a place to hide.

"The mystery was why Quarry was fighting Alongi at all. Quarry should have settled for the first draw in Madison Square Garden, which was accepted by those who saw it as a good lesson that would not bear repeating."

"QUARRY KEPT TELLING people how often in the first fight Alongi had hit him low, and the second time he would be ready for him. 'I got a specially designed protector for the big mouth this time,' said Quarry, answering Alongi's comment in the papers that Quarry was too old to be blubbering.

"Tony, on the other hand, was not disturbed by the accusations by Quarry until the waitresses in the restaurant where he ate began to serve up reproach with the steaks. 'He'll pay for that,' Alongi said to one. TONY IS QUITE SENSITIVE TO WHAT WOMEN THINK OF HIM."

During the L.A. fight Alongi was much sharper than he had been in N.Y. and Quarry was decidedly less so. Alongi, with his long left jab, at one point stopped, put hands down and said to the referee, "Hell, ref, he doesn't wanna fight."

ALONGI DIDN'T GRUMBLE at the second draw verdict . . . in fact, he was in high spirits. He was certain that the draw proved that he had won.

"I get a draw in L.A. and to me that's a win," commented Alongi. "These were the easiest 10 rounds I ever went. If you ask me, Quarry is punch shy. He doesn't want to get hit."

After the Quarry fight, Alongi's former manager Lou Duva commented: "When we fight Clay, we're gonna change Tony's name to Benito Mussolini. Get that, huh? And all around at ringside we're gonna have guys wearing carnations and big hats, dark shirts and white ties, and they'll smoke big cigars. Muslims? Forget 'em. We got the mob right here."

Alongi won't have any "mob" around here, but the Pacific Coast Club will guarantee him a host of followers . . . and a fight with Clay is a distinct possibility. After all, even Cassius can't ignore a 38-2-2 record.

Reds, Deluge Join in Rout of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati erupted for eight runs in the fifth inning and Jim Maloney hurled a two-hitter as the Reds walloped the Pittsburgh Pirates 11-0 Saturday in a game called at the end of five innings because of rain.

The shutout, first over the National League-leading Pirates, since June 15, when they lost 1-0 to St Louis, ended their winning string at four games.

The Reds sent 11 batters to the plate in the fifth inning. Vada Pinson, Pete Rose and Leo Cardenas knocked in two runs apiece and Tommy Helms and Deron Johnson delivered one each

Cincinnati rapped seven hits in the inning, including doubles by Johnson, Helms and Rose as they knocked out rookie Woody Fryman, now 9-7.

The Reds scored in the second on a single by Tony Perez and Don Pavletich's triple. They added two more in the third on run-scoring singles by Johnson and Perez, who collected three straight hits

Exploding Orioles Nip Nats

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Baltimore scored five times in the fourth inning, giving Jim Palmer the cushion he needed for his 13th victory, in pitching the first-place Orioles to a 5-2 triumph over the Washington Senators Saturday night.

Palmer, who leads the Baltimore staff in victories, shook off occasional early wildness in seeing that the Orioles maintained their 12-game hold on the American League lead. He needed relief help from Eddie Fisher in the last one and one-third innings.

Grand Time for Wilson

BOSTON (AP)—Pitcher Earl Wilson drilled a grand slam homer and two singles while checking his former Boston teammates on four hits as the Detroit Tigers bombed the Red Sox 13-1 Saturday.

Wilson hit his bases-loaded blast—the first of his major league career—in the seventh inning off Dan Osinski, capping a six-run rally.

I, P-T BATBOY AN 'ONLY' BOY

By CHUCK MEDICK

Mike Love, an 11-year-old boy with a simple wish, will have it answered Saturday when he represents Long Beach as Dodger batboy for the day.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ocie B. Love, of Long Beach, was the winner of the just completed contest run by The Independent, Press-Telegram and will be the toast of the town when the Dodgers face the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday afternoon.

Over 400 boys and 17 girls entered the contest, with Mike, only boy in a family of four children, gaining top honors.

Mike's winning entry concerned a family problem and, at least on Saturday, it won't bother him.

His letter went as follows:

"I have been one of your fans for a long time. I have no brothers, but three sisters. You don't know how happy I would be if I could spend just one day with a bunch of fine men like you out on the field. No girls!"

HIS THREE sisters, Linda, 18, Connie 17, and Marilyn 7, will be there, but not on the field with Mike; he'll have his day.

Congratulations are in order for the 10 runnerups who will each receive a pair of tickets to Saturday's game. They are Max Mason, Los Alamitos; Jerry Haviland, Long Beach; Danny Wachter, Lakewood; Stephen Summers, Long Beach; Dave Johnson, Long Beach; Marty Rosenberg, Lakewood; Dave Germaneri, Long Beach; Mark Rasmussen, Long Beach; Danny Harkins, Long Beach and Joe Ables, Long Beach.

Giusti Retires 22 Giants in Order, Defeats Marichal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dave Giusti pitched a one-hitter and Ron Davis hit his first major league home run Saturday to lead the Houston Astros to a 3-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Despite the loss, the Giants remained in second place in the National League, two games behind the Pirates, who lost to Cincinnati.

The only hit the hard-throwing Giusti permitted was a line drive single to center by Cap Peterson after two outs in the second.

Giusti, gaining his 12th victory against nine losses, did not issue a single walk and struck out four batters.

After Peterson's hit, he didn't permit a single Giant to get on base, retiring the next 22 batters in order.

Cepeda Sparks Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Orlando Cepeda, who had been benched because of a hitting slump, clubbed a three-run homer in the first inning, sending the St. Louis Cardinals on their way to a 9-6 victory over the New York Mets Saturday.

Right-hander Bob Gibson yielded eight hits in registering his 15th victory against nine losses. He has won four in a row and has a 15-2 career mark against New York.

Cepeda, who had only five hits in his last 41 at bats, hit his 18th homer off Bob Friend in the first following a walk and Curt Flood's single.

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Kansas City's game at Minnesota was postponed by rain Saturday. The teams will play a doubleheader today.

SISTERS ARE ALL RIGHT, SOMETIMES
Mike Love, 11, didn't really mind Saturday when sisters Connie (left), Linda and Marilyn helped him celebrate his selection as Dodger batboy for Saturday's Independent, Press-Telegram Day at Dodger Stadium. Mike was selected after revealing the wish to get away from his sisters, at least for one afternoon.

Embassy Whips Ri Tux in Final Steps of La Jolla

By ERNIE MASON

DEL MAR—Rex C. Ellsworth's gritty Embassy came on again after being headed in the stretch to outgame Ri Tux and win the $16,625 La Jolla mile in a stirring battle before 19,747 fans Saturday afternoon.

Overhauled in mid-stretch after setting the early pace, the Toulouse Lautrec Colt responded to the hard urging of jockey Bobby Meneil to forge to the front in the final strides and score a neck decision over Ri Tux in 1:35 2/5. Hill Clown was third and top-weighted Drin fourth in the field of nine three-year-olds.

Embassy, who tipped his hand with a fast-closing third in the six-furlong Oceanside Handicap two weeks ago, rewarded his followers with $9, $5 and $3.80. Ri Tux paid $6.60 and $4.60 and Hill Clown returned $5.

"The race didn't come up as planned at all," said Menell later in the jockey quarters. "We figured we'd be laying third, behind the speed, but there we were on the lead so I went on with him."

* * * *

EMBASSY, a bay colt who was scoring his first stakes triumph, enjoyed a length lead after a quarter in :22⅗ and had the same margin at the ahlf in :45⅘. However, at the quarter-pole, after six furlongs in 1:10 1/5, jockey Mario Valenzuela sent Ri Tux after Embassy in deadly earnest and the gray colt drew alongside the pacemaker as they straightened away in the stretch.

With an eighth of a mile to travel, Ri Tux stuck his head in front and appeared on his way to victory. But Embassy took up the challenge and slowly began to cut into Ri Tux' narrow edge. In the final jump, with Menell whipping right-handed, Embassy reasserted himself and was drawing away again at the wire.

Closing strongly behind the top two were Hill Crown, who was 1½ lengths back of the runner-up and Drin, another 1½ lengths back of the third-place finisher.

ANGELS--

stripped the final four Sox.

The Angels chased Horlen (7-11) on the two-run singles of Knoop and Newman after loading the bases on Norm Siebern's single, Buck Rodgers double and an intentional walk to Satriano.

Fregosi tapped Dennis Higgins for his homer in the fifth and the Angels punished Juan Pizarro for two more in the eighth on a two-run single by the now-feared Satriano following singles by Siebern and Rodgers.

The Angels admitted that Stanky provided the incentive.

"When you start taking things for granted in this game," said Joe Adcock, "you usually get dumped on your rear end."

Stanky, however, fell flat on his face.

ANGEL ANGLES: Marcelino Lopez (5-10) and Jim Coates (8-8) duel Bruce Howard (6-3) and Gary Peters (9-8) this afternoon in the final action between the two clubs for '66 . . . Both Peters and Howard are among the league's five ERA leaders.

Quirkie quote from Stanky: "I don't mean to imply that the Angels are a one-man team, but they are considerably easier to pitch to without (Rick) Reichardt." . . . Adcock accepted an award from the Wisconsin little leagues on Rick's behalf . . . John Romano was forced out in the third inning when hit on the right hand with a foul tip . . . Fregosi's home was only the Angels' fourth in the last 23 games . . . Satriano now batting .253.

JUAN MARICHAL brought a flutter to hearts of many Giant fans Saturday when he raised bats over head while having pleasant conversation with umpire Chris Pelekoudas. Last time he raised bat over head of man in mask, it cost Giants pennant.

go six innings but surprised everyone by going the distance, striking out four while walking only two. "He got the ball over and had a good curve," said Graham, "and he'll probably have a sore arm for a week. But he sure came through in the clutch."

All-America footballer Terry DeKraai gave Knox a 1-0 cushion when he muscled the game's first pitch over the centerfield fence. The 400-foot blow was the first home run of the tournament and first of three hits for the hard-hitting centerfielder.

In the second inning, Larry DuRee led off with a walk, went to second on a balk and third on Eddie Crosby's single to left. Mike Cooper plated DuRee with a fielder's choice moved to third on Knox' safety and scored on a DeKraai liner up the middle.

DuRee pushed across another run in the third, following hit-batsman Keller with a bombing double to left-center.

After three scoreless frames, Grich opened the seventh by getting aboard on a dropped fly in left. Jerry Leininger walked and Jim Burke rifled a double to right-center for the final runs.

Knox was never in serious trouble but inning-ending double plays by Crosby-Grich-Leininger, with runners at first and third, in the sixth and DuRee-Crosby-Leininger, with men at first and second, in the eighth kept the 6th Area champions at bay.

Vikings Strongarm Hapless Pittsburgh

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bob Berry, working to hold a place on Minnesota's quarterback-rich squad, led the Vikings to an easy 35-6 National Football League exhibition victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday night.

Coach Norm Van Brocklin let the former University of Oregon quarterback play the full game before a cheering home crowd.

Berry passed for two touchdowns and was increasingly sharp as the game went along.

The Viking defense halted the Steeler ground game and made the Pittsburgh passing attack both ineffective and hazardous.

The Vikings scored twice within 65 seconds on pass interceptions late in the second quarter.

End Jim Marshall picked one off from quarterback Bill Nelsen and scored from 33 yards. On the second play after the kickoff—with Jack Stofa of Buffalo replacing Nelsen — John Kirby intercepted a Stofa pass and scored from 39 yards.

Pittsburgh's Mike Clark saved the Steelers from being blanked with two field goals in the last two minutes of the first half.

Lakewood continued its torrid pace in the Pony Regional finals at Los Alamitos Saturday night with a 6-3 victory over Canoga Park-Woodland Hills. Lakewood faces Gardena in the finale today at 2.

The pitching duo of Clint Meyer and Randy Wick limited Canoga Park to four hits. Wick relieved Meyer after Canoga Park's Paul Kellerman drilled a two-run homer in the third.

Lakewood chased Canoga starter Mark Fishback early, scoring four runs in the first inning on back to back triples, two singles and an error.

Namath Out, But Jets Top Oilers, 16-10

BIRMINGHAM (UPI)—The New York Jets rallied without Joe Namath to beat the Houston Oilers 16-10 Saturday night before the largest pre-season American Football League crowd in history.

Namath, who gained fame at the University of Alabama, reinjured his right knee during a scramble for a loose ball late in the first quarter and sat out the rest of the game.

The Jets' team doctor said Namath suffered a minor strain in the back of his right knee — the one operated on last year — but added it did not appear to be serious. He said Namath could have returned to action if it had been a regular season game.

* * * *

THE JETS WERE paced to the victory by Mike Taliaferro, relegated to the second team by Namath, and Jim Turner, who kicked three field goals.

Taliaferro scored on a 10-yard sweep in the first half while Turner booted field goals of 25, 37, and 17 yards, the last two coming in the final quarter to provide the winning margin.

Veteran quarterback George Blanda figured in both Houston scores, kicking a 40-yard field goal and passing 16 yards to Charlie Hennigan early in the final period. Blanda kicked the extra point.

The paid attendance of 57,205 exceeded by 20,000 the largest previous pre-season game in AFL history.

Falcons Fall to Morrall, Giants, 14-7

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Veteran quarterback Earl Morrall passed for two touchdowns as the New York Giants defeated the new Atlanta Falcons 14-7 in a National Football League exhibition game Saturday night.

Atlanta, looking for its first victory, threatened to tie the score in the final two minutes but stalled at the Giants' eight-yard line when Jimmy Patton and Wendell Harris deflected a pass in the end zone.

Morrall concentrated on his passing attack, completing 20 of 31 attmpts for 213 yards. He connected seven times to Joe Morrison for 84 yards and hit Morrison and end Homer Jones for two touchdowns.

Atlanta tied the score in the third quarter when rookie defensive back Ron Smith, who has two of the Falcons' three touchdowns in exhibition games, intercepted a pass and returned it 68 yards to score.

The first Giant touchdown drive covered 80 yards, with Morrall tossing to Morrison from the two for the score. Morrall's TD pass to Jones covered four yards.

Unitas in Form as Colts Win

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A nimble Johnny Unitas and his No. 1 stand-in, Gary Cuozzo, pierced Philadelphia's air defense with four touchdown passes Saturday night as Baltimore defeated the Eagles, 31-17 in an exhibition game.

Unitas, whose injured knee hurt the Colts in the National Football League race last year, was in prime condition, and the mammoth Colt line guarded him ferociously.

Operating for the first half only, Unitas nailed end Jack Mackey with a spectacular 40-yard touchdown pass for the first Colt score. He hit end Butch Wilson from 32 yards for the second.

Cuozzo, not as flashy but almost equally proficient, nailed Jimmy Orr with a 21-yard TD pass and also hit flanker Willie Richardson with a 30-yard scoring heave.

The Eagles' first touchdown came after Randy Beisler intercepted a Unitas pass on the 34. Fullback Earl Gros rammed over from the one-yard line eight plays later.

Texan Air Game Routs Keystoners

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI)—The Texas aerial circus rolled up more than 400 yards through the air as the boys from the South crushed Pennsylvania, 34-2, in the rubber game of the Big 33 Football Classic Saturday night.

If Texas was limited to less than 80 yards on the ground, it was only because their aerial attack was so devastating, it had no need for the running game.

Longview's Jim Street threw two touchdown passes, Texarkana's Joe Norwood tossed another and San Antonio's Charley Hixson completed the rout in the second half with a fourth aerial marker.

The victory put the Texans one up on Pennsylvania in the Big 33 series, Pennsylvania won in 1964 but Texas easily captured the 1965 game and Saturday night's contest.

Martindale Fires 66 in Thunderbird Tee

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP)—Young Bill Martindale, who admits he can't see the tee without his thick, horn-rimmed spectacles, soared into a two-stroke lead but felt the heat of a rallying Jack Nicklaus Saturday in the third round of the $100,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic.

The 27-year-old former Texas A&M athlete fired a six-under-par 66 for a 54-hole total of 207 over the 7,055-yard, par 72 Upper Montclair Country Club course.

Nicklaus, booming 300-yard-plus drives and sinking a half-dozen long putts, also cut out a 66 which placed him in a tie at 209 with Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., and 29-year-old Tommy Aaron.

Rudolph shot a 70. Aaron, coming from four shots off the second round pace, fired a 67 during a near perfect day on a course made easy by pin placements and shortened tees.

Like Martindale, Aaron has never won a tour event.

Billy Casper, the U.S. Open champion and year's leading money-winner, lost his halfway lead when he skied to a final round 76 for 214.

Arnold Palmer fought back with a sub-par 70 after appearing to have blown his chances, and was still in contention, tied with Casper and three others at 214.

Tied for fifth place at 211 were long-hitting Tom Weiskopf, with a 69, and Texan Jacky Cupit, with a 68.

At 212 were Julius Boros, the two-time U.S. Open winner, 68; Jerry Pittman, a club pro from Glen Cove, N.Y., who knocked in two eagles and tied the course and tournament record with a 65, and Miller Barber, 70. Martindale, son of a lumber executive in Jacksonville, Tex., had eight birdies and two bogeys.

* * * *

"I WAS REAL lucky out there," he said. "I didn't hit too many good shots but the ones I did were close to the hole. I made a lot of putts, but you have to do that to win one of these."

One of the most awesome exhibitions came off the explosive sticks of Nicklaus.

Jack chipped in from 35 feet for a birdie at the first hole, sank a 25-footer for another bird at the second and birdied five of the last nine holes.

Kids Get Chance in Fishing Derby

Boys and girls of Long Beach and the surrounding area will have just as much a chance to win top prizes in the first annual Independent, Press-Telegram Long Beach Metropolitan Fishing Derby as will adults. The derby begins next Saturday and runs through Sept. 18, with a $500 fishoff on Oct. 1.

Nothing would give this columnist greater satisfaction than to see one of the youngsters in the 12th annual city-wide kids' fishing rodeo on Belmont Pier Aug. 25 catch a prize-winning fish. Remember that croakers (corbina are in that category), bass, bonito and halibut are eligible for entry into the I, P-T contest, and they do not have to compete with catches from the deep-sea boats, even though those species are duplicated on such craft.

The Recreation Department, the Southern California Tuna Club and all others concerned with the kids' fishing rodeo on Belmont Pier extend an invitation to all boys and girls to participate in the annual event Aug. 25. It doesn't matter if you have taken part in the Tackle Busters' program this summer, although a background in that is very helpful in fishing from Belmont Pier or any other place.

Bait will be provided free of charge to all fishing youngsters, and this columnist, as usual, urgently requests that adult anglers leave the pier to the boys and girls in the 6 a.m.-noon period.

ENOUGH MEMBERS OF THE SCTC turn out on each kids' derby day to help untangle lines, gaff fish, if necessary, and generally make themselves useful. Upwards of 1,000 children show up for the annual event. It is to be hoped that there will be no red tide nor oil slicks to interfere with normal Belmont Pier fishing on that day.

R. Burr Dilday heads this year's SCTC committee. He has as helpers Buck Buchanan, Roy Cabe, Warren Merrill, Dr. Marvin Baecker, Johnny Miller, John Turner, C. S. Thompson, Harold Beckley, William Cree, Dr. Thomas Buhl, Dr. James Fowler, Sidney Ellis and this writer, plus any number of others who love boys and girls and want to help.

The Independent, Press-Telegram is giving the top prizes to both boys and girls for the largest overall fish. In addition, the SCTC gives prizes in each classification. And there will be free soft drinks and ice cream.

Once again, Lonnie Williams will be supplying free anchovies for bait. This has become a tradition with the annual kids' rodeo. Williams has the bait boats, Sunbeam, the Sunbeam II and the Alaska Queen, all of which are operated in Long Beach and Los Angeles Harbors.

With the weather as near perfect as possible—let's hope it stays that way— it looks like one of the best kids' tournaments in history.

CONTRARY TO EXPECTATIONS, the billfishing season is here sooner than expected and some rather odd experiences are being related. For instance, a mother-daughter team, Juanita and Sharon Hartman, both hooked into a broadbill off the east end of Catalina Island while fishing from the Sea Bar, out of Newport Beach, with Bryan Hartman skippering.

It took them two hours and 45 minutes to bring the broadbill to gaff, and the fish, 284¼ pounds, had to be put on another boat because the Sea Bar couldn't handle it. It was weighed at Ray Hamilton's Fish Market at Avalon.

The mother had hooked the broadbill in the gullet and the daughter's hook, a Knucklehead lure, was in the bill. Each woman fought with her own rod, and the unusual catch presents quite a problem for presentation of trophies later this year. I'd suggest a special mother-daughter type of thing.

The honor of taking the largest marlin of the season went to Karolyn Smull, San Marino, fishing on the boat Salty, with Len Laudsenback as skipper. The fish, caught on light tackle, weighed 181 pounds at Avalon. Two other marlin were taken Friday off the east end of Catalina. Darlene Coultrup, on the Lucky Duck, out of the Long Beach Yacht Club, caught one on light tackle. It weighed 120 pounds.

Most of the action is from Long Point to the east end of Catalina and many fish are being seen off The Slide. Twenty-nine fish have been weighed in at Avalon (through Friday). Warren Merrill, of the SCTC, caught two, a 92-pounder on medium and a 133-pounder on three-six.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—The Long Beach Sportsman's Club is having its annual Ocean Fish Protective Association benefit dinner at 6 p.m. in the clubhouse, 3623 Santa Fe Ave., Monday, Aug. 22. The dinner tab is $3, with all proceeds going to the OFPA. John Dimas (GA 7-9240) and other club members have tickets. Bub Thomas will emcee the program and provide plenty of entertainment, and, as usual, there will be lots of prizes. It's a good chance to support the OFPA and have a great time.

Joe and Vi Kwasnicke have bought Neal's Camp at Palo Verde, near Blythe, and are now getting ready for the dove season and, later, the fall and winter fishing season. They may be reached at P.O. Box 55, Palo Verde, Calif. 92266.

Neal Robinson, P.O. Box 3004, Compton (NEwmark 6-8420), is preparing to open Robbie's Gun Club in south Fontana on Sept. 11, and is now taking reservations for memberships. Pheasant and chukar shooting will be on the menu from the opening through February, 1967.

Shooting days will be Saturdays, Sundays and Mondays. A state hunting license is required, but not pheasant tags. Robinson has installed a clay pigeon trap that throws regulation targets for those who wish to sharpen their shooting eye before going into the field.

DODGER SUPER-SPEED MEANS RUN

Dodger Willie Davis arrives at home plate in cloud of dust Saturday after beating throw from outfield to score team's first run. Davis came home on Lou Johnson's fly ball, barely beating tag by Chicago catcher Randy Hundley. Umpire is Ed Sudol. Dodgers won, 6-1.

No Revolt Planned by Pros

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — The touring pros denied Saturday that they are on the verge of a break with the Professional Golfers Assn. and expressed confidence that their petition for greater autonomy would be approved at the PGA's annual meeting in December.

"This is not a matter of the players deciding that they can run the tour better than the PGA," said Tommy Jacobs, tournament committee chairman and a PGA vice president.

"The players, acting entirely under the constitution of the PGA, have petitioned to be recognized as a players' section of the the PGA.

"We are just suggesting that this may be the time for the PGA to divisionalize this part of its operation.

* * * *

"THE GROWING administrative and communications problems in operating this great tour have proven a strain on the national staff. Under the proposed reorganization, we will have an executive staff working entirely on the prudent management of professional tournament golf.

"We share membership in the PGA with over 5,000 friends and that is the way we want it to stay. We have been dismayed to hear this referred to as a potential revolt. Discussions will continue until the annual meeting in December."

WET WAY NOT THE BEST WAY—ARNIE

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — What's the penalty when a golfer drops all 14 clubs in a hazard?

Arnold Palmer found out the wet way Saturday during the third round of the Thunderbird Classic.

Palmer's second shot on the 440-yard, par 4 12th hole almost hit the green, then kicked into nearby water.

Before dropping a new ball, Palmer tossed it to his caddy, Steve Acocella. "Catch it, Steve," he said.

"I didn't want to catch it for fear of causing him a penalty," said Acocella. As he ducked, ball, bag, clubs and Acocella all went into the water.

"We went through a five-minute drying out process," said Palmer.

DID HE HELP fish the caddy out?

"I wanted to push him in further," Palmer grinned.

"He was nice about it," said Acocella, a receiving supervisor in a chemical plant when he's not caddying.

"He laughed like the devil. At least I have something to tell my grandchildren."

KOUFAX WINS 19TH--

pitch nine innings no matter what happened," explained Durocher. "He wasn't gonna beat Mr. Koo today, so I let him go. He needed the work and we're trying to find out what's wrong."

Durocher said he did not leave in Ellsworth for his hitting. Ellsworth got the second hit against Koufax, a single with one out in the eighth.

Koufax nearly got even in the Dodger eighth. He blooped one to left field, grabbed by Byron Browne after a long run in. On his way back to the bench, Koufax ran past the mound and told Ellsworth, "I hit mine as good as you did."

Durocher didn't learn much about Ellsworth's long exercise. "He threw a changeup curve to Tommy Davis and that's one pitch you can't make on him. Tommy is as good a hitter as Willie Mays on that pitch and if you throw him one, you better make sure it's in the dirt or away from him.

"Ellsworth put it right here," said Leo, pointing to his belt. Tommy belted it into the Dodger bullpen for his third homer of the year. Willie Davis and Maury Wills had singled and Lou Johnson had driven in the first run with a sacrifice fly before T.D. connected.

A bases-full bloop single by W. Davis, who had three hits, made it 5-0 in the sixth inning and T. Davis drove home the sixth run with his fourth hit in the seventh.

* * * *

TOMMY, BATTING .369 against lefthanders and .250 against righthanders, says he has felt better since studying movies of his batting title form in 1962 and 1963.

"I was wiggling my bat and didn't realize it. I didn't do that three years ago. I also noticed that I was lunging at the ball and committing myself too soon. I'm standing still now and just moving my arms.

"If I'm jammed with a pitch, I don't try to pull it. I'll try to go with it, to the opposite field."

Chicago's run came in the ninth on singles by Billy Williams, Santo and Byron Browne. An unusual double play helped Koufax. Santo, running on Ernie Banks' liner to left, passed second base, failed to retouch it on his way back to first and was doubled off.

* * * *

DIS AND DATA—Koufax struck out 10 or more for the 12th time this season and 94th time in his career. Until Koufax broke it two years ago, the major league record for 10-strikeout games was 54, held by Bob Feller and Waddell. Koufax has held the Cubs to four earned runs in his last seven games for a 6-1 record and an earned run average of 0.60. Koufax has a 7-0 record in day games this season and a nine-game daytime winning streak.

T. Davis' home run was his first since June 13 and second at Dodger Stadium. Dodgers have hit 28 homers at home in 53 games, two more than they hit here all last season. Jim Lefebvre leads with eight. Paid attendance was 21,471 for a season home total of 1,671,519.

The 26-year-old San Antonio, Tex., golfer held a five-stroke lead with today's final round remaining.

Judy Torluemke of North Key Largo, Fla., was second with a 146 after shooting 74 Saturday. Betsy Cullen of Tulsa, Okla., was third with 75-72—147. Carol Mann, the defending champion from Towson, Md., was ninth with 77-73—150.

U.S. Netters Gain 2-0 Lead in Davis Cup

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Veteran Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and neophyte Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, shot the United States into a 2-0 lead over Mexico Saturday by winning their opening singles matches in the Davis Cup American zone tennis finals.

Ralston, the top-ranked American in his seventh year of Davis Cup competition, whipped Mexican ace Rafael Osuna, 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, 6-1, after the bespectacled Graebner, playing his first Davis Cup singles match, defeated Joaquin Loyo-Mayo, 6-0, 4-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

A doubles match is scheduled for Sunday in the best-of-five series with Ralston meeting Loyo-Mayo and Graebner opposing Osuna on Monday.

* * * *

RALSTON, THE runnerup at Wimbledon earlier in the year, led off with two consecutive aces, thereby setting the tone of the match. Both players held their service until the 10th game when the Californian broke his opponent with a forehand smash which bounced five feet over the Mexican's racket.

Mrs. Carner Wins Ladies' Golf Crown

SEWICKLEY, Pa. (AP) — Scrambling JoAnne Gunderson Carner of Seattle, Wash., fought back after a shaky start Saturday, then outlasted Marlene Stewart Streit to win the USGA National Women's Amateur Golf Championship for the fourth time on the fifth hole of a sudden-death playoff.

Mrs. Carner sank a two-foot putt to par the 41st hole and close out the match. Mrs. Streit took a bogey on the hole when her second shot from the rough struck a tree and glanced into a trap.

It was the first time the final match went into sudden death.

In winning, Mrs. Carner reversed a decision of 10 years ago when she lost a 4-up lead on the last nine holes and lost to Mrs. Streit for the title at Indianapolis, Ind.

Mrs. Carner, who twice blew 3-up leads, evened the match at the 35th hole with a par when Mrs. Streit three-putted from 32 feet for a bogey.

The championship match at the 6,120-yard, par 73 Sewickley Heights Golf Club course was a study in contrast between the grim and determined Mrs. Streit and the free-wheeling and easy-going Mrs. Carner.

Torres Risks Title Against 40-Year-Old

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Jose Torres defends his world boxing title here Monday night against Eddie Cotton in a match that might well be billed a battle of the ancients.

Torres is only a mere 30 but the transplanted Puerto Rican from Brooklyn is the oldest world champion in action today. His is a slender honor, however, because he's only about four months older than the lightweight champion, Carlos Ortiz.

Cotton is truly a legitimate ring antique. The Seattle veteran is 40 years old and is the oldest challenger currently in boxing.

* * * *

WORD FROM California says that Archie Moore, the elderly former king of the 175 pounders, positively does not plan to come out of retirement and fight the winner.

Archie retired in 1964 at an age variously estimated between 47 and 55.

The Monday fight will be nationally home televised on a special sports network beginning at 7 p.m. PDT.

The contest is billed for 15 rounds in the Las Vegas Convention Center but past records of both fighters indicate it won't last the distance.

Torres has scored 23 knockouts in 39 fights and has been stopped but once in the lone defeat of his career. This was a five-round knockout by hard-hitting Florentino Fernandez in San Juan, P. R., in May, 1963, when Jose was a middleweight.

Cotton, who began his professional career in 1947, has appeared in nations around the world and has been in at least 76 bouts. An aircraft toolmaker as an off-ring occupation, Eddie has stopped 31 opponents, lost 17 by decision and has been halted three times.

The last assault was by Roger Ruse in October, 1965, in Butte, Mont. Eddie went out in seven.

Torres won the championship with a ninth round kayo over a suddenly aged Willie Pastrano in New York March 30, 1965. It was only the second time in Willie the Wisp's career that an opponent had managed such a thing.

Torres defeated Wayne Thornton of Fresno, Calif., in his first and only defense of the crown in New York last March 30.

* * * *

HE FLOORED Thornton twice in the second and won easily in 15. It was a match that rates high in ring history for its lack of artistry.

Cotton's credentials as the current challenger seem singularly unique. He has had seven fights in 1965 and 1966. He won three — once by a knockout; lost three—one by a knockout; and notched one draw.

Eddie is now working on a two win streak, having stopped a man named Sipa Fine in New Zealand in February and outpointed a little-known German import from Los Angeles, Emil Umek, in Vancouver, B.C., in April.

Japanese Group in Race Bid

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — President John D. Schapiro of Laurel race course announced Saturday he has agreed to invite a Japanese horse to the $150,000 Washington, D.C. International if a worthy challenger is named by a Japanese selection committee.

The 15th running of the 7½ mile turf race will be held Nov. 11.

Schapiro said he was advised recently by Hiroshi Ishizaka, president of the Japan Racing Association, that a Japanese recommendation committee had been formed and was in the process of screening horses for the International.

* * * *

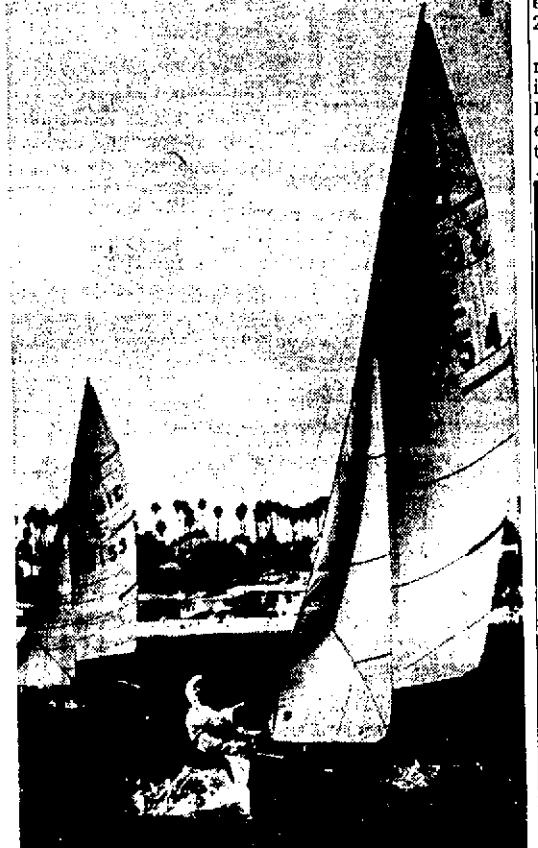

THE COMMITTEE is composed of the Japan Racing Assn., owners, trainers and newsmen.

Japan has been represented in two previous runnings of the International, Takamagahara finished 10th in a 13-horse field in 1962, and Ryu Forel was eighth and last in 1964.

Belgium Bans French Horses

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Belgian Equestrian Sports Federation said Saturday it has banned French horses from competing in a contest this month because they may be contaminated following an epidemic in France.

It did not disclose the nature of the epidemic, but said it had affected French thoroughbreds.

FAIR WINDS AND FRESH SEAS Twenty-two boats from the United States and Canada are competing this weekend in the Olympic Ocean Racing championships for Enterprises off Long Beach. Skippering E3654 is Alan Harder of Alamitos Bay YC, last year's winner.

DO AS I SAY...

CAL STATE at Long Beach and coach Jim Pullman can only hope his charges do as he says and not as he does when football practice begins Sept. 1. Actually Pullman, watching frosh coach Ron Schwandt sign his cast, broke his ankle on tennis court, not gridiron. Pullman's duties will be restricted until cast is removed.

LBCC's Marv Motley Signs Letter of Intent at USC

By LOEL SCHRADER

Apparently the rich DO get richer.

USC, already wealthy with backfield talent, this fall will have the additional talents of halfback Marv Motley, twice junior college all-America and part-owner of the record book at Long Beach City College.

Motley has signed a letter of intent with USC and will report to the Trojans at the start of practice on Sept. 1, the Independent, Press-Telegram learned Saturday.

That the 175-pound halfback was called "Marvelous Marv" during his days at City College is not surprising, in view of these notations in the Vikings' record book:

—Most yards gained by rushing in one game, 300.

—Most yards gained rushing in one season by a freshman, 1,174.

—Second longest run from scrimmage, 96.

—Third in total yards gained rushing in two seasons, 2,002.

Additionally, Motley was named "player of the game" in the Vikings' 1964 Junior Rose Bowl victory and "player of the year" for 1964 in the Metropolitan conference. He was named to the all-conference team both of his years at City College.

HOW ABOUT THAT DEPT: USC already has sold 25,000 football season tickets, 3,000 ahead of this time a year ago. Ticket manager John Mackey estimates total season sale of 34,000 . . . Obviously, coach John McKay produces both winning and crowd-pleasing football. During the past four seasons, McKay's Trojans have won 32 games, lost eight and tied one . . . During that span, more than 2 million persons have attended Trojan games . . . USC players return to the campus Aug. 29. Picture Day is Aug. 31 and practice begins officially on Sept. 1 . . . Opening game is Sept. 17 against Texas in Austin.

What caused Texas coach Darrell Royal to back out of an exchange of spring football game filmg with the Trojans? Could Texas' switch to the I-formation in the spring have been the reason? The Longhorns used the split last season, and that's what the Trojans are set to view on films . . . Rod Sherman, USC's leading all-America candidate, was married Saturday to Jayne Roberson.

It's more than a rumor that star UCLA sprinter Harold Busby will report for football. Busby is serious about it, and so are Bruin coaches, UCLA is hurting for receivers and Busby could be the answer . . . They call it the Arizona State University football team, but 22 players on the Sun Devils' roster are from California and 16 from Pennsylvania . . . Only 10 are from Arizona . . . Cal coach Ray Willsey has lured 12 JC transfers to Berkeley. The Bears also have 39 sophomores on their roster of 75. Willsey welcomes this infusion of talent and predicts the Bears will have their first winning season since 1958.

What happened to the USC-UCLA finger-pointing contest? When conference publicists were asked to predict the champion of the AAWU, USC and UCLA drum-beaters picked Stanford . . . UCLA coach Tommy Prothro said last spring he was picking USC as the favorite and "six of the other seven coaches in the conference will agree with me" . . . Trojan coach McKay said that "any team that has four all-Americans has to be favored." He was referring to the Bruin publicity campaign on behalf of Mel Farr, Gary Beban, John Richardson and Dallas Grider.

One football magazine tabbed UCLA for the national championship, prompting Prothro to surmise: "I hope that magazine is better at predicting than it was last year. I think they said we'd lose every game."

1 Question Left for AL: Who Is MVP

Orioles' Trio Make Choice Difficult

NEW YORK (AP)—"We had just about the same ball club last year, and we finished eight games out. Now here comes Frank, and we're way ahead. Maybe you have to lean toward him. But then you go back to Brooks and Boog, and they're having great years."

That, as set forth by teammate Andy Etchebarren, is the dilemma facing anyone trying to pick the American League's Most Valuable Player from the Baltimore Oriole trio of Frank Robinson, Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell.

* * * *

IF THE Orioles win the pennant — and there doesn't appear to be anyone around that can stop them—any one of their three sluggers could justifiably be named the league's MVP.

But trying to decide which one is another thing.

Following completion of their 113th game, in New York, leaving only 49 to go, the records of the trio looked like this:

Average—Frank .315, Brooks .297, Powell .295.

Runs batted in—Powell, 87, Brooks 84, Frank 80.

Home runs—Frank 33. Powell 26, Brooks 20.

Runs scored—Frank 90. Brooks 74, Powell 65.

Hits Brooks 135, Frank 130 Powell 111.

Havasu Fish Derby Gets Quick Start

LAKE HAVASU — The third annual Lake Havasu City Bass Derby got off to a fast start last week with a 3 lb.-6 oz. largemouth taking the top weekly prize.

Fishing on the lake was fair to good during the opening week of the public derby with 67 entries bringing in catches. The derby will continue through Sept. 25 with $1,500 in prizes at stake for the overall winners.

Mrs. Nora Moss of Lake Havasu City brought in the heaviest bass, a 3 lb.-6 oz. which she caught near Havasu Cove campgrounds using a repella lure, and won a Zebco rod and reel spinning combination.

Second with a 2 lb.-10 oz. bass caught in Thompson Bay with a waterdog was Richard Kingsbury of Lake Havasu, who won an Adventurere tackle box and assortment of Arbogast lures.

George Foster, owner and operator of the Lake Havasu Marina, reported many fish are being caught in the lake during the early morning and early evening hours but most of them are on the small side, averaging about 1½ lbs. Surface lures, plastic worms and waterdogs are getting the best results.

GOLFER AL GEIBERGER

'Peanut Butter Kid' Gets Enough to Last Lifetime - - Pleads for Halt

By WILL GRIMSLEY

CLIFTON, N. J. (AP) — Al Geiberger, golf's Peanut Butter Kid, wishes the producers would call off the dogs—he has the stuff running out his ears.

"One company sent me my weight in peanut butter," the beanpole PGA champion from Carlton Oaks, Calif., said today. "Another sent me a dozen cases. At least six companies have given us supplies to last for years.

"We have it stored in the kitchen, in the basement and even in the bathroom. If it doesn't stop, we may have to desert the house and turn it over to peanut butter."

The 6-foot, 2½-inch pro became the darling of the peanut industry when he won the PGA championship at Akron last month while munching peanut butter and jelly sandwiches between swings.

One producer wanted to make him "Peanut Butter Man of the Month." Another asked him to author an "I Love Peanut Butter Cookbook." Still another suggested he combine golf tips with peanut butter recipes.

"I'VE ALREADY signed with a big peanut butter manufacturer," said Geiberger, a contender in the $100,000 Thunderbird Classic here. "I don't know what I'll do with the stuff from the other makers, maybe give it to orphanages."

Geiberger has become so closely associated with the product — like Gary Player bananas and Bill Casper with buffalo meat — that his fans are disappointed when he strays from his image.

"They boo me now if I don't nibble on a peanut butter and jelly sandwich," he said.

"Wednesday I had a hamburger at noon. When I didn't take out a sandwich, the crowd gave me an awful ribbing."

Geiberger said the sandwich habit began in the 1965 PGA at Laurel Valley, Pa.

"The first two rounds, I was paired with Arnold Palmer, playing on his home course," he said. "My wife, Judy, and I knew thousands would be following the match and we wouldn't get near the refreshment stand. So Judy packed a cold lunch of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches for us and my daughter, Lee Ann.

"It wasn't until later after I won the American Classic at Akron that anybody knew it. In the press interview, I was asked if I got tired, I said, no, because I carried a sandwich. That's when I really took hold."

The legend was embellished in the recent PGA at Akron.

GEIBERGER said he chose peanut butter and jelly because it's dry and easy to make. His wife usually prepares it but when she's not along he makes the sandwich himself.

"I carry just one," he added.

"I eat half of it around the seventh hole and the other half about the 14th. One thing about peanut butter and jelly. You can sit on it, and it doesn't get soggy."

4 Heisman Winners Play in AFL Pair

Four former Heisman Trophy Award winners will share the spotlight Saturday night at Anaheim Stadium where Jim Hardy stages his big AFL doubleheader of pro football.

Topping the glittering list will be USC's 1965 consensus All-American Mike Garrett, who will be making his pro grid debut as the 1965 Heisman winner for Hank Stram's tough Kansas City Chiefs, who meet Sid Gillman's AFL runnerup San Diego Chargers in the second game of the twin bill.

Also in the limelight will be 1964 Heisman winner, John Huarte, the former Mater Dei prepper from Anaheim who went on to grid heights at Notre Dame, and who will start at quarterback for Boston in front of his home town folks. Teaming with Huarte in the Patriots' backfield will be another ex-Heisman winner, Joe Bellino of Navy, who spent a four-year hitch in the service before returning to the pro grid wars.

* * * *

LAST, BUT NOT least, among the former Heisman awardees is LSU's ex-All-American, Billy Cannon, still a potent runner for Johnny Rauch's Oakland Raiders, who takes on Boston in the 6 p.m. first game.

The Chargers, though not boasting a Heisman winner in their midst, have plenty going for themselves, however, bringing one of the most potent backfields ever assembled in pro ball . . . their vaunted "Hall of Flame," consisting of John Hadl at quarterback, Paul Lowe at half, all-around Keith Lincoln at full and the incredible pass-catching Lance Alworth at flanker.

Ivy Quartet Leads Winners Among Top College Grids

Associated Press

Yale, Princeton, Penn and Harvard — those venerable Ivy Leaguers who started it all—remain college football's Big Four.

If their national championships are only memories, their victory totals remain unchallenged.

Startinng with a three goals to none decision over Columbia in its 1872 inaugural, Yale still sets a rugged pace heading the field at 607 triumphs.

Princeton, which helped launch the American game by splitting a pair of 1869 challenges with Rutgers, is the Tiger on the Elis' tail with 575 victories. Penn has 559 and Harvard 552.

Michigan, Notre Dame, California, Texas, Army and Dartmouth round out the top 10. The rankings are based solely on the number of games won with percentages a factor only when teams have these same totals. Thus Alabama .718 edges Navy .646 for 11th although both have captured 430 decisions.

* * * *

NEBRASKA and Pitt, blood and thunder rivals of the 1927-42 era, are the newest members of football's 400-winner circle swelling the ranks to 22.

The Ivy quartet still dominates the standings partly because of the big head start they had. At the end of the 1888 season, Yale had won 92 games, Princeton 91, Harvard 79 and Penn 51.

By comparison, Michigan claimed 16 and neophyte Notre Dame one.

November 16, 1872, was the day Yale began the long march. Observers tell us the winners were smaller and not as well outfitted but were better drilled.

It didn't hurt Yale and the concept of sportsmanship that when the Elis were forced to retire one player of her 20 starters due to injury—no substitutes, please! — Columbia pulled one of her men to keep things balanced.

By compiling an 8-1 season in 1965 while Yale was 3-6, Princeton actually took the lead in winning percentage with .781, one point above the Elis and Notre Dame. The Tigers also have a record 18 perfect campaigns behind them.

But even at its recent hot pace, Princeton will need at least four more autumns to reach the magic 600 mark.

* * * *

HARVARD, which shaped football's destiny by introducing rugby aspects to a soccer-oriented game, is fast closing in on third place Penn, now only seven victories astern of the slumping Quakers. The Crimson got off the mark meeting McGill twice in 1874. Two years later Penn started by losing to Princeton, six goals to none.

A comparative late comer among the leaders, Notre Dame is pushing Michigan for fifth place. The difference between the schools is simply that the Wolverines beat the Fighting Irish the first eight times they met in those early days.

A REAL WATER WALKER

The Thunderbird with Dick Genth at the helm displays the type of action spectators can expect while watching the running of the Hennessey Cup Race to be held during the California International Sea Festival in Long Beach in October. Genth will bring his 70-mile-an-hour, 28-foot, twin Chrysler-powered offshore racer to Long Beach from Miami for the race on Oct. 15. The blown, 426-inch engines generate more than 1,000 horsepower.

Hennessy Cup Race Set During Oct. Sea Fete

A $1 million fleet of the speediest and most rugged ocean racing power boats will compete in the 198-mile Hennessy Cup Race on Oct. 15, according to Sandy Kemp, director of the forthcoming California International Sea Festival.

The Hennessy race, which will take boats on a figure eight course 60 miles out around San Clemente Island, is the first of two major power boat events to be staged during the month - long festival, Kemp points out.

"The second offshore event is the longest and most challenging contest ever held in the sport's century of development," claims the director.

"The fleet will run from Long Beach to San Francisco across 439 miles of the roughest water in the world. The crews will lay-over in Morro Bay the first night of the two day race. This will give crews time to retune boats or make repairs before the final dash to the finish line under the Golden Gate Bridge in front of the St. Francis Yacht Club," Kemp reported.

The event will be staged on Oct. 28 and 29.

On hand to try for a repeat performance of last year's Hennessy race will be winner Bill Wishnick, New York businessman. He will be running a new 32-foot aluminum, twin turbo charged, 1,200 horsepower boat named Big Broad Jumper.

Last year's winner is currently a contender for the world power boat driver's championship, Kemp claims.

In the Long Beach-San Francisco race 70 mph racing boats and high performance yachts will compete. The power boats will be competing for $15,000 in prize money while the yachts will try to win the highly coveted gold Sir Thomas Lipton Trophy.

The long offshore race boats will use the Long Beach Yacht Club as a base of operations.

Both races are sponsored by the Pacific Offshore Power Boat Racing Assn.

Compare Sears New Radial Tire with an "ordinary" tire . . . see how its patented construction gives new strength, new stability and unsurpassed wear.

- Runs much cooler because sidewall and tread area work independently of each other
- Interior friction is minimized and tread squirming is virtually eliminated
- Plies are laid radially bead to bead instead of criss-cross, are extremely flexible, absorb more road shock
- The tread, supported by layers of steel cord is stable and undisturbed by tire wall movement...because thousands of tiny triangles (like bridge trusses) permit only a free-rolling movement!

ALLSTATE RADIAL TIRE GUARANTEE

Sears guarantees, the ALLSTATE Radial Tire, so long as it is used with ALLSTATE Radial Tubes on passenger cars or station wagons as follows:

1. GUARANTEED AGAINST TREAD WEAR-OUT AND ALL FAILURE FROM ROAD HAZARDS FOR 40,000 MILES. If routine bores you—consider becoming an IBM Customer Engineer

Because here's a position that has as much variety as it does responsibility. You're at the center of a vital service performed by the fast-growing industry of electronic computers and associated equipment, you keep studying and developing throughout your career. There's no boredom in a job like that!

What is it like to join the IBM company as a Customer Engineer? You enter an IBM training program (with full pay). Later, you assume responsibility for your own territory, where you install and service data processing systems. You work with customers in business, industry, science, education or government. You get an in-depth view of one or more of these fields while representing IBM.

Interesting? Yes, and just as there are virtually no limits to what computers can do — your opportunities for a long-range professional career with IBM would be unlimited, too. Go as far as your abilities take you!

What do you need? A mathematical aptitude plus a good knowledge of basic electronics. A minimum of two years' technical education or recent electronics experience — military or civilian. A knack for meeting and getting along with people. If you qualify, you may find yourself in a fascinating job with lots of built-in educational benefits.

If you would like a position with unlimited variety, call for an appointment (Days—Evenings—Saturdays).

Mr. De Pietro

Born and educated in British Columbia, Canada, 1913. Attended Los Angeles Technical Schools in 1937. Brought his skis along, met and represented the "Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce at various ski tournaments from California to Utah. Established a Class "B" jumping record of 243 feet at Big Pines. In 1940 with the assistance of the good members of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce group he entered the United States for Amrican citizenship and continued to participate at many ski meets until 1941.

After the war in 1946, he established his own business in Signal Hill, and married a wonderful girl named Elleanor. In 1956 he sold out and decided to study real estate and received his license in 1957. Being always ambitious, he passed the state brokers' exams and opened his own office at 5892 Orange Ave., known as A-A Realty. Served 2 yrs. on Realty Board grievance committee.

At present a staff of 9 professional sales people are "pledged to observe the Realtors Code of Ethics, and act fairly towards all in the spirit of the Golden Rule."

Mr. De Pietro has always believed in the practice of benevolence and was actively engaged in many organizations including Boy Scouts, Foresters, Masonic Order; also quite active in civic and political affairs to the point of being a candidate for office at one time.

He stresses we must abide by the American principles — "That every American has certain rights and duties and responsibilities." "It is therefore my desire and pleasure as agent and consultant to help and guide my clients in their real estate transactions." The "motto" of A-A Realty is: "Pleasing You — Pleases Me."

Years away from your first luxury car?
Meet the Mind-Changer.

Our young scientist pinched his pocketbook—and figured his first luxury car was a couple of years away. Then he met the Mind-Changer: an Ambassador 990 with a brawny 327-cube V-8*. Its lavish interior included plush cut-pile carpeting, inlays of simulated walnut, elegant coil-spring reclining seats*. On the road, it was a revelation. ("Very smooth, very, very quiet.") When he heard the low, low price tag for all this Ambassador luxury, he changed his mind for keeps. Wouldn't you? American Motors . . . where quality is built in, not added on. *Optional.

STOP Built with your safety in mind. Every American Motors car includes a Double-Safety brake system, Single-Unit body construction, padded dash and visors, outside mirror, seat belts, backup lights, windshield washers, higher-strength windshield, variable-speed non-glare wipers.

Big cleanup savings now at your American Motors / Rambler dealer.

Two Tragic Errors Made in Viet Nam

By DON HASTINGS

Two tragic, costly errors were made in Viet Nam last week.

At dusk Tuesday two U.S. Air Force F100 Supersabre jets strafed, bombed and dropped napalm on the villages of Truong Trung and Troung Tay in the Mekong Delta region. Twenty-six South Vietnamese, including six children, were killed.

American medical teams and nurses pitched in to treat the 124 wounded and American soldiers lined up to give blood.

The strike was made in response to a request by a South Vietnamese officer acting on intelligence reports that the villages were controlled by the Communist Viet Cong. Four of the dead are believed to have been Cong.

President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered a detailed report on the attack.

* * * *

THE SECOND mistake occurred in the dark hours before dawn Thursday when three USAF planes pounced on a blacked-out vessel off the southern coast of North Viet Nam and raked it with machine gun, rocket and 20-mm. cannon fire. The fliers thought they were hitting an enemy trawler, but they were blasting the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Point Welcome, on antismuggling patrol.

The cutter's captain, Lt. (j.g.) David Brostrom, and one of his crew were killed. All 11 other men aboard the boat were wounded.

"It was a regrettable and unfortunate incident," said Coast Guard Capt. Robert J. LoForte, who launched an investigation.

AMERICAN losses on the ground and in the air continued to mount.

In raids over North Viet Nam's capital city of Hanoi and the port city of Haiphong, a record 10 U.S. planes were downed in two days.

Ground action was concentrated in the Ia Drang Valley in South Viet Nam's central highlands and in the area south of Da Nang.

Latest casualty figures released by the U.S. Command listed 71 Americans killed, 615 wounded and 10 missing or captured during the week. American dead in the war since 1961 now total 4,610.

DAMAGE DONE by friendly planes to U.S. Coast Guard cutter Point Welcome when mistakenly attacked off coast of North Viet Nam is inspected by Chief Bosun's Mate Richard Patterson of Swansboro, N.C. Patterson is in cutter's wheelhouse.

THE NATION

Racial strife continued in the North and South, but there were no large-scale outbreaks of violence. Incidents flared in the northern cities of Chicago, New York, Cleveland, Detroit and Lansing. In the South, race problems beset Hopewell, Va., and Grenada and Carthage, Miss.

Most of the incidents were the result of white reaction to Negro demonstrations for better economic and living conditions and equal rights.

* * * *

MEANTIME, the House passed a new civil rights bill, 259 to 157.

The major clause in the bill is designed to combat racial discrimination in the sale or rental of housing. As passed by the House, the bill exempts about 60% of the present housing units, but nearly all new construction will be covered.

The civil rights measure also includes a uniform juror selection system for federal courts and authorizes federal action to insure elimination of discrimination in the selection of state court juries. It gives the attorney general authority to seek injunctions against anticivil rights actions and makes it a federal crime to use force or threats against civil rights workers.

Also included is an antiriot section that provides stiff penalties for crossing a state line or using the telephone or mails to lead or take part in a riot.

* * * *

CIVIL RIGHTS groups oppose both the housing and antiriot sections. They oppose the housing provision because it does not include private housing or apply to agents acting for private owners. They feel the antiriot section is dangerous, fearing it could be used against demonstration leaders such as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Council.

President Johnson, who had requested the legislation, hailed it as "an important new milestone toward racial justice" and asked quick Senate action. But the bill is expected to face rough going there.

Besides opposition from Southerners, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican minority leader, is opposed to the housing section as it is written. No Senate action is likely before Labor Day and even then the measure faces filibuster or radical amendment.

* * * *

ON THE economic front, a comprehensive report by the President's cabinet indicated the nation is still under strong inflationary pressure, but there appears to be some easing ahead.

The report was part of the administration's effort to reassure the American people that the general outlook is good.

* * * *

ONE OF the nation's biggest problems was the continuing strike by machinists that has grounded five major airlines. If and when the strike is settled, it is expected that the wage settlement will exceed the wage-price guidelines laid down by the administration. The recent steel price hikes slightly exceeded the guidelines.

Airline strike negotiations were virtually at a standstill and Congress wrestled with the issue of forcing the machinists back to work. At week's end, the House Commerce Committee approved a Senate-passed bill that would send the strikers back for 30 days while they continued negotiating. The bill also would give the President power to extend the return to work for another 150 days.

Neither labor nor government was happy about legislating an end to the walkout, particularly in an election year. Final House passage appears far off.

* * * *

IN HIS 69th news conference since taking office, President Johnson last week expressed optimism about most of the nation's problems, including the cost of living, civil rights and the war in Viet Nam.

On the rising cost of living, he said it was worse in other countries and noted he does not know anyone who wants to leave the United States to find a place where it is lower.

On civil rights, the President called for congressional action on bills already under consideration and said the administration is planning to request additional appropriations for the next fiscal year. He urged state and local governments to provide recreation facilities and employment for residents of slum areas.

Of heavy casualty reports from Viet Nam, the President said, "Our plane losses are under those that we have estimated. Our helicopter losses are under those estimated."

* * * *

A CALL-UP of part of the nation's trained reserve was urged Friday by the Senate Appropriations Committee to help meet steadily escalating manpower demands in Viet Nam.

The call came as the committee formally approved a $58.1 billion military appropriations bill. The bill, cut by about $426 million from the total previously approved by the House, is expected on the Senate floor early this week.

* * * *

AT WEEK'S end, President Johnson flew to his Texas ranch where aides said he hoped to get some rest, but that he faced "a pretty busy weekend."

Part of that busy weekend included filling of four diplomatic posts. His nominees: Carol C. Laise, a career foreign service officer, ambassador to Nepal; Glen W. Ferguson, director of VISTA, the domestic version of the Peace Corps, ambassador to Kenya; Leo G. Cyr, director of the State Department's Office of African Affairs, ambassador to Rwanda; John Morgan McSweeney, a career foreign service officer, minister to Bulgaria.

* * * *

ANOTHER member of the First Family, Mrs. Patrick J. (Luci Baines Johnson) Nugent and her husband of a week were honeymooning in the Bahamas. The Nugents emerged from their borrowed villa for one public appearance, a tea given by the British governor-general.

Luci's sister, Lynda Bird, was in New York City where she was job-hunting by day and dating actor George Hamilton by night.

MORE PICTURES of the moon are expected to be received by American scientists today when Lunar Orbiter, a camera-equipped, 850-pound satellite begins a close-up orbit of the moon. The vehicle was launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., in one of the most sophisticated space projects ever attempted by the United States.

THE WORLD

It looked like musical chairs as British Prime Minister Harold Wilson shuffled his cabinet. The most important switch in the exchange of portfolios made George Brown the new foreign secretary. His old spot of economics minister went to Michael Stewart, the former foreign secretary.

Conservative opponents called the shakeup merely a political maneuver to focus the nation's attention away from its economic woes.

Also during the week, the House of Commons passed a severe wage-price freeze asked for by Wilson's government.

Then members of parliament and cabinet went on holiday. It was opening of grouse season.

* * * *

THREE YEARS of undeclared war ended last week as Indonesia and Malaysia signed a formal peace agreement.

Malaysia's Deputy Premier Tun Abdul Razar flew to Jakarta and, along with Indonesia's Foreign Minister Adam Malik, signed the treaty which had been drafted in negotiations in Bangkok, Thailand.

The treaty ends former Indonesia President Sukarno's "crush Malaysia" campaign. He had said Malaysia threatened the security of Indonesia. Gen. Suharto, head of the new Indonesian government, put out peace feelers immediately after Sukarno's ouster.

On Friday, Indonesia said it is ready to join Malaysia in fighting communism. Under Sukarno, Indonesia had been communism's chief ally in Southeast Asia.

* * * *

THE FIFTH anniversary of the construction of the Berlin Wall was celebrated Friday and Saturday in East Berlin. Red leaders dedicated a memorial to East German border guards killed trying to prevent escapes to West Berlin and viewed a military parade. Walter Ulbricht, East Berlin's Communist party chief, addressed a rally of army and paramilitary units.

In West Berlin, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and Mayor Willy Brandt condemned the unprecedented celebration in nationwide television and radio addresses. In previous years the anniversary has gone unnoted.

THE WEST

The second Friday night of August 1966 in Watts was in marked contrast to the second Friday night of August 1965.

Instead of gunfire, burning and looting, there were stage productions, jazz concerts, art displays, athletic events, a beauty pageant and a parade.

The Watts Summer Festival, sponsored by the Jordan High School Alumni Association, is being held to celebrate social gains and progress made in rebuilding the once riot-torn area. It will continue through today.

A HUGE ocean oil slick —that at one time stretched from off Cherry Avenue in Long Beach to Huntington Beach—polluted water, dirtied boat hulls and gummed up beaches most of the week. First reported Sunday, the slick ebbed and flowed onshore until Thursday when it began dissipating. By Friday evening, city and county crews along the coast had cleaned most of the beaches and they were ready for the weekend crowds.

Cause of the slick is still under investigation. Speculation about the oil source included rupture of a line at an offshore drilling rig, fuel pumped overboard from a ship, rupture of a sunken ship's oil tanks, or an earthquake - caused fissure on the ocean bottom.

* * * *

DESPITE howls of protest from residents of the little community of Sunset Beach, directors of the Metropolitan Water District last week voted to build the world's largest nuclear seawater conversion plant off Bolsa Chica State Beach in Orange County.

Approval of the $357-million project was given at a meeting between Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall, Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty and the MWD board. At the meeting, Udall agreed to increase the government's share of the cost of construction.

The project calls for construction of two nuclear plants, one to be owned by Southern California Edison Co., and the other by the Los Angeles City Department of Water and Power, and a desalinization plant to be owned by MWD. They will be built on a man-made, 40-acre island about 3,500 yards offshore.

Initially, the plant is to produce 50 million gallons of drinkable water daily. By 1975, it is expected the plant will produce 150 million gallons daily and generate 1,800 megawatts of electricity — more than Hoover Dam generates.

College to Probe Saucers

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — In obvious response to public disquiet regarding recent "flying saucer" episodes, the Air Force is organizing a new approach to the problem.

It is seeking to contract with a leading university to undertake a program of intensive investigations of a certain number of such episodes.

The identity of the university will not be made public until the arrangement is final, but Air Force sources say it is an institution of sufficient stature to guarantee in the public mind an impartial inquiry.

Investigation teams are to include at least one physical scientist, such as an astronomer or someone familiar with atmospheric physics. There will also be a psychologist, preferably one with clinical experience.

* * * *

THIS MARKS a departure from past Air Force policy. It has not taken very seriously the thousands of reports of "unidentified flying objects" or UFOs that have come in during the past two decades.

The investigations have been termed "project blue book" because the results are reported in such books. The attitude of the Air Force toward the problem is reflected in the fact that the project staff has consisted of one officer, one sergeant and a secretary.

The blue book analyses of 10,147 sightings from 1947 to the start of this year furnished a conventional explanation for all but 646 of them. The remainder were classed as unidentifiable for lack of adequate information.

The explanations have ranged from weather balloons to swamp gas. The latter was cited to explain strange glowing lights reported at two points in Michigan last March.

HOW TO TAME A HURRICANE

Scientists Ready to Start Most Massive Experiment

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Weather scientists were poised Saturday for the most massive experiment ever attempted to find out whether hurricans can be tamed by upsetting the balance of forces which drive them.

The new experiment will be carried out, nature willing, as part of Project Stormfury, a joint cloud-seeding program of the Navy and the Commerce Department's Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA).

From now until Oct. 15, Stormfury scientists, aircraft, and flight crews will be on 72-hour alert to fly hurricane seeding missions in the Western Atlantic from Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico. More than 160 persons and as many as 17 airplanes are participating in the project.

The hurricane research program was started by the Navy and the Weather Bureau (now a part of ESSA) in 1961. Inconclusive seeding experiments were made with hurricanes Esther in 1961 and Beulah in 1963.

* * * *

THE YEAR BEFORE last produced no hurricanes suitable for seeding, and two 1965 attempts, with Betsy and Elena, were called off because neither storm was in the right stage of development at the right time and place.

The 1966 experiment calls for bombarding the clouds surrounding the center, or eye, of a hurricane with silver iodide crystals over an eight-hour period from altitudes ranging from 1,000 to 60,000 feet. The hope is that this new attempt — with specially equipped planes observing the results for hours before and after — will "produce more pronounced, longer-lasing effects than those in previous tests."

Scientists believe a hurricane's primary power house is situated in the cloud "chimney" at its central eye. This chimney "is the main connection between the lower inflow and the upper outflow of the storm."

Silver iodide particles poured into the chimney from bottom to top are expected to convert supercooled water in the eye-wall clouds to ice crystals with a resultant release of latent heat.

The idea is that this change in the hurricane's natural anatomy may alter its "balance of forces" enough to modify the storm in ways yet to be determined.

* * * *

FOR SAFETY reasons, Project Stormfury rules demand that any hurricane to be seeded must be situated in the Western Atlantic well north of Puerto Rico and south of Bermuda and moving in such a way that it cannot strike a populated area anywhere within 36 hours after seeding.

This is because seeding the eye-wall clouds, instead of moderating the hurricane's fury, conceivably could intensify it.

If no hurricanes suitably placed and developed for eye - wall seeding occur this year, second Stormfury priority will go to attacking hurricane rainbands — narrow, curved strips of heavy rainfall found at some distance from the hurricane eye. Silver iodide generators will be dropped in this new experiment across a section of the rainband to see what happens.

* * * *

THOUGH NO hurricanes or rainbands were seeded last year, Stormfury scientists did carry out a seeding experiment with tropical cumulus clouds like those which have been observed before the birth of a storm.

Twelve clouds were seeded and seven others, serving as experiment "controls," were left alone. For whatever it means, the seeded clouds grew vertically by an average of 7,500 feet while the control clouds were rising only 2,300 feet.

This appears to indicate that seeding has a powerful effect upon the evolution of potential storm clouds.

"The probability of this difference occurring by chance," ESSA said, "is less than one in 1,000."

$410,000 A WEEK

Demo Spy Checks Rocky's Spending

By WILL LISSNER

New York Times Service

NEW YORK—One day last week a man, keeping himself so inconspicuous that he wasn't noticed, gumshoed about the campaign headquarters of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on the 9th and 10th floors of the New York Hilton Hotel, acting like an interested Republican.

He was interested, but he wasn't a Republican.

He was a Democrat, it turned out, and according to the Republicans, a "spy," but in the parlance of the Democrats a "researcher." The results of his visit came out Saturday and immediately became the subject of debate between the contending parties.

Democratic State Chairman John J. Burns, using the results of the gumshoe research, issued a mimeographed release contending that Rockefeller's campaigners were spending $410,740 a week as follows:

New York Hilton Hotel rent	$ 14,000
Television Commercials	312,000
Salaries	52,000
Telephones	5,000
Equipment rentals	2,100
Postage	3,250
Messengers and delivery	450
Storefronts
Rent	4,600
Salaries	4,600
Equipment rental	3,510
Banners, promotional materials	4,330
Travel, entertainment, etc.	4,700
TOTAL	$ 410,740

An effort was made to check the rent with the New York Hilton management. The assistant manager, who said he was "the employe in charge," said the records were locked up and added with utter frankness, "If I had them, I wouldn't give them to you, but honest, I don't really know, myself."

The man in charge at the Rockefeller campaign headquarters, promised that his anonymity would be preserved, was more helpful.

"This is a free country and any citizen can drop up, mosey around and see what we have," he said. (When this invitation was repeated to the Democrats, they disclosed that their "researcher" had anticipated it.)

The Republican spokesman looked at some charts on his desk. "Today," he said, "we have all the rooms we're going to get. For the first time. Before we had need for all of them we saved money by letting the hotel put guests in some of them. Right in the midst of things. Why not?

"We have the entire 9th floor, 54 rooms, for the state campaign and 21 rooms on the 10th floor for the city campaign. That's 75 rooms. If we used all of them for a week and if we paid $15 a day per room, they would cost $7,875 a week."

* * * *

THE REPUBLICAN spokesman said he didn't know what rental figure was settled on but he did know that the campaign committee negotiated to get the cheapest rate and was seeking the convention discount, another discount as office space with no maid service and still another discount for a block rental.

At the Democratic state committee the $14,000 figure was explained. Their man counted 80 rooms X $25 a day X 7 days a week equals $14,000. Asked what he thought about this arithmetic, the anonymous Republican replied, "That's hilarious."

The Rockefeller aide said that $52,000 a week might be a "terrific underestimate" for salaries if everybody was paid "but it happens that half the people who work here, nearly two-thirds, in fact, are unpaid volunteers."

"The other figures are ridiculous," the Republican said.

Police could not find a copy of the book to produce in court.

PARIS (UPI)—Mothers living in the Latin Quarter, traditional rendezvous for the arty set, have complained to police that beatniks are taking over children's playgrounds there, the Parisian Libere reported Saturday.

More Pleasure Boat Moorings Needed in Area

THIS PROPOSED MARINA ON PIER J IN THE PORT OF LONG BEACH WOULD HELP MEET SHORTAGE OF MOORINGS FOR PRIVATE BOATS. THE PROPOSED NEW BRIDGE IS SEEN NEAR THE TOP

By JACK O. BALDWIN

The demand for outdoor recreational facilities in the Los Angeles megalopolis is currently growing at a rate greater than the population — and the population is growing at a rate that will see it nearly double by 1980.

Surveys conducted by the state and area Chambers of Commerce indicate the demand for free-time recreational facilities is expected to increase at a rate 1.37 times that of the population of the area encompasing Long Beach, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, and Ontario.

It is anticipated that this demand for outdoor recreational facilities and activities will rise from 847.9 million participation days to 1,671.8 million participation days by 1980—an increase of 98.5%.

MUCH OF THIS future free time will be spent on the water.

And much of it will be spent on the waters off Long Beach.

The demand for mooring for pleasure boats in this area is far greater than the municipally-owned and private marinas can provide.

In an effort to offer marina facilities for the skiing, sailing, and power boat owners of the area, the city of Long Beach is acting to alleviate the present shortage of moorings and to help meet the demands of the future.

The city will send two representatives on a "sales call" to five of the country's largest companies.

All five companies have expressed a definite interest in developing a proposed marina on the eastern face of Pier J in Long Beach Harbor.

IN ADDITION to the marina the companies are interested also in developing Pier J as a site for modern motels, high-rise hotels, and fashionable restaurants.

Scheduled to leave are H. E. (Bud) Ridings, Jr., president of the Long Beach Harbor Board of Commissioners, and Harry Fulton, special assistant to the city manager.

The two "salesmen" will be armed with a portfolio of photos of models showing the proposed development of Pier J and the adjacent marina.

THE PORTFOLIO CONTAINS only suggestions for the development of the area—not definite specifications. Several alternate plans are suggested.

The actual manner in which the area would be developed would be left to the discreation of the company that wins the right to develop the Pier J complex. Any plans, however, would be subject to approval by city and harbor officials.

Education, Recreation Important Factors When Buying New Home

"Homes should hold appeal for each member of the family," says Irving Solomon, principal of S.I.R. Development Co., builders of Brookhurst, a $6 million development of garden patio homes on a 39-acre site on Brookhurst Ave. between Ball and Cerritos Roads in Anaheim.

"Location is a very important factor in choosing a family home," adds Solomon, "and people with growing families are looking for a community which will provide nearby educational and recreational facilities.

"Additional considerations are churches, shopping centers and dental-medical facilities."

"AT BROOKHURST, parents have far less worries about their children walking to school or playing after school, as the development is adjacent to West Anaheim City Park. It is within a block of a church, grade school, junior high and high school."

These homes are within a short distance of Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm, Movieland Wax Museum, the California Angels Stadium and the seashore, as well as all municipal services.

"Another important factor," Solomon says, "is living space. Families need elbow room and privacy, and it is provided here with up to 2,447 sq. ft. of living space in each home."

PRICED FROM $35,500 to $39,450, Brookhurst homes were designed to take advantage of the Southern California way of living.

Patio kitchens are sophisticated and pleasant diversions in home decor which allow the family an attractive outdoor setting to have a barbecue or party.

"Since people are by nature social beings," Solomon said, "we have provided comfortable and attractive interiors for home entertainment with dramatic fireplaces and expansive glass windows.

"We used the most modern appliances available to make the kitchen decorative and carefree for the homemaker. Countertop blenders, built-in ovens, ranges, dishwashers, garbage disposals, custom cabinets and a spacious polished serving bar and views of the patio, make kitchens at Brookhurst a pleasant room for culinary chores."

Sharp Drop in Oil Drilling Over U. S.

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

A decided slump in oil drilling is noted over the nation except in tidelands areas such as offshore here in the Long Beach area.

Lack of prospects, rising costs and the low price of crude outweigh firm prices, higher allowables and discovery incentives in the minds of oilmen, says the Oil and Gas Journal.

However, there are some other reasons. The low and slow rate of return on drilling is not as attractive to oilmen now as are some other types of investments. And, there is a slowdown in outside investment.

The nature of modern drilling also is a big factor. Today's wider spacing and improved recovery techniques require fewer wells. The stepped-up search for gas is hurting. You can develop a gas field on 640-acre spacing while oil takes up to 160 acres of spacing.

THE TREMENDOUS offshore lease prices undoubtedly have drained off money that would have drilled more wells ashore. Foreign operations continue to cut into funds that could have gone into lower-cost domestic operations.

The first half of 1966 saw completions drop 14.7% from a year ago and footage fell 16.5%.

Independent oilmen aren't so active this year. In 1965 the independents drilled 80.6% of all completions and 21 of the largest oil companies drilled 19.4%. The first half of this year independent drilling skidded 17%.

Perhaps the number of wells drilled isn't too good a barometer because about the same amount of money has been spent on drilling the deeper wells this year, although fewer in number.

INDEPENDENTS ARE HARD HIT. Oil is becoming more difficult to find, calling for deep and costly wells and extensive seismic operations. Few independents can compete in this play. Instead they are exploring fringe areas of proven fields so the possibilities of finding big reserves are diminished considerably.

In the big development of Long Beach tidelands oil, now under way, five of the major producers joined under the name THUMS to launch the project. So what chance would the little guy have in today's major development?

UTILIZING THE CHEAP LABOR in the Orient, a Costa Mesa firm is providing American manufacturers of electronic equipment with a unique method of lowering costs.

Pacific Assemblers Co., 1780 Monrovia Ave., Costa Mesa reports they now are serving over 20 large companies across the nation with this service. Examples of the services are printed circuits, assemblies, switch and control units of memory cores and special electronic testing equipment.

PASCO's production facilities are in Kowloon, Hong Kong. Charles Woodward, president, who lives in San Clemente, says the advantages of using PASCO are many.

By using the low cost labor in the Hong Kong plant the cost of assembly of parts made in the U.S. and the testing is reduced by one-half or more, compared to the similar operations at home. Woodward adds that the Hong Kong labor force is well trained.

This program, he continues, reduces management and overhead costs. The units are returned to PASCO's plant where they undergo final inspection before delivery.

"MORE INFLATION is what we can expect from the bill reported out of the Senate Banking Committee which authorizes the Federal National Mortgage Association to borrow three billion dollars from the U.S. Treasury to pump into home loans.

This was the statement of Joe Crail, president of Coast Federal Savings and Loan Association, in sharply criticizing the pending legislation. Crail further stated that the effects on the general economy of such a measure would be just as inflationary as if the Federal government added three billion dollars to its spending.

"This bill appears even more unnecessary and of little benefit to home buyers when we consider what the Federal Home Loan Bank Board is currently attempting to do," Crail said.

"The FHLBB is using its considerable influence to force Savings and Loan companies to pay back the FHLB with money the Savings and Loans would normally loan to home buyers. This action by the FHLB would reduce the amount of money Coast Federal has to lend on homes by 50%," Crail continued.

"Those Savings and Loan companies which are strong financially because of their prudent policies are supposed to pay money to the FHLB so that the FHLB can redistribute the money to the weaker associations that need it because they have not been financially prudent."

Crail continued, "Adding to the conflicting programs we are hearing out of Washington is another plan by the FNMA to sell $4.2 billion worth of mortgages on the market this year. This will siphon off savings money from the economy which would normally have gone into Savings and Loan companies to make loans.

"The FNMA is offering these participations at rates from 5.3% to 5.7%. The Savings and Loan industry now finds itself in competition with our own government for savings. These funds which the government is siphoning off the savings market would have been more prudently invested in mortgages by the Savings and Loan companies than they will be by a government agency," he said.

"The only solution to the tight money situation in some Savings and Loans which would be consistent with our free enterprise economy is to allow the Savings and Loans who can afford it to pay a high enough rate to attract money out of consumer spending into savings accounts."

* * * *

"A STRONG SOURCE of home loan funds is available in this area," according to Taylor Richardson, chief loan officer of Home Savings and Loan's Lakewood branch, 4909 Lakewood Blvd.

In a firm denial of the recent gloomy reports circulating about the lack of real estate lending funds, Richardson continued, "I can't speak for the entire savings and loan industry, but I can tell you that at Home Savings our lending volume reached an all-time high of $173 million in the past six months!"

In the Lakewood office, Home's second quarter 1966 loan volume jumped 17% over the first quarter. The Lakewood office is Home's lending headquarters for Lakewood, Long Beach and surrounding communities.

Home plans to continue to build its thriving real estate lending activities in this area, and does not anticipate major changes in restrictions or loan interest rates for prospective borrowers.

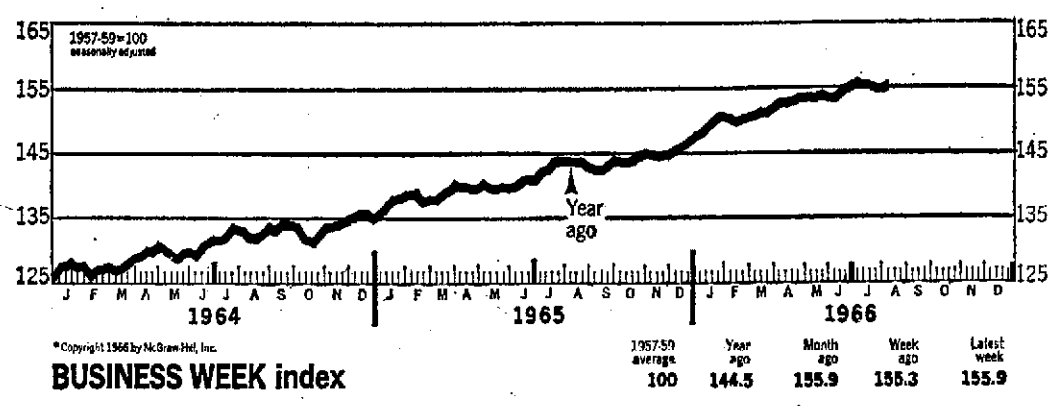

* * * *

"THE ONLY MAJOR CHANGE Home's made in interest rates is in what the association pays on savings," said Richardson.

In June Home announced that the association's savers would earn 5¼% on regular savings and 5¾% on "bonus" accounts, effective July 1. In its announcement Home's management said the boost in savings rate was made to assure Home a continuing healthy source of saving dollars, which in turn could be invested in prime real estate loans.

"Home will continue making good loans in this area in future months because July did bring the association a sizeable increase in new funds," concludes Richardson.

BUSINESS WEEK index

1957-59 average	Year ago	Month ago	Week ago	Latest week
100	144.5	155.9	155.3	155.9

Autos Only Index Weak Point

The Index may be ending its mid-summer doldrums. Nearly all of the weekly components turned upward in the latest figrues, and the Index turned up with them—to a point equalling its record peak of three weeks ago.

Autos remain the only weak point. And, since this week marks the end of the 1966 model run, the chart should soon reflect the surge into production of the 1967's. Weekly auto output figures are meaningless now as a business indicator; the important point is that the domestic auto-makers ended their 1966 season only 2.7% below the all-time record of 1965.

The steel figures came to life this week, after a six-week decline. Production was 1.7% ahead of last week—but is still a bit behind for the year as a whole.

The energy industries are also forging ahead. Electric power for the most recent week was 1.5% above the previous week, and 12.9% ahead of the corresponding week in 1965. And crude oil refiners ran 2.9% ahead of last week and 3.5% above a year ago.

Finally, the surface transportation components in the Index—railroad carloadings and intercity truck tonnage—reflected a rise in shipments both domestically and in Viet Nam goods, and also were obviously absorbing some of the load from the prolonged airline strike.

Trade Tips ON THE WORLD MARKET

There's a chance for a U.S. businessman to make money on a lottery—and he needn't even buy a ticket.

The opportunity involves a project of the Ministry of Commerce of the Government of Greece, which is shopping in the United States for 10,000 reams of white bank post paper for lottery tickets.

American manufacturers could cash in on this one—and on hundreds of other opportunities to sell their products around the world. A German firm wants hospital furnishings.

Because export sales mean added profits for U. S. businessmen, the Department of Commerce each week publishes a series of Trade Tips gathered by the government's worldwide commercial listening posts. Here is a current sampling with names and addresses:

To Expand Output of Aluminum

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Reynolds Metals Co., announced expansion of two major aluminum reduction plants in the Pacific Northwest.

The expansions, involving the plants at Troutdale, Ore., and Longview, Wash., will make up part of a four-year, $325 million nationwide growth program announced by Reynolds Feb. 24.

A company spokesman here declined to estimate the specific coasts of the new Troutdale and Longview operations, but said one reduction potline would be added to the Troutdale plant and three to the Longview plant.

Each potline will increase the plant's capacity by 40,000 tons a year.

GROUND-BREAKING THAT DIFFERS

Egg Industry Scrambling to Stay No. 1 at Breakfast

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Eggs are losing their traditional place on the breakfast table because of improvements made recently in the taste and convenience of dry cereals.

The California State Department of Agriculture warned in a report issued during the week that egg producers will have to do something to improve on the egg package they get from the chicken.

"Research into the alternate uses of eggs and egg products should be supported by all industry members," the report said. "The industry is just beginning to scratch the surface in its discovery of new uses for eggs."

But, the report added, "research is not enough. Egg producers must complement their interest in production efficiency with a more active interest in marketing."

THE REPORT, prepared by Kenneth R. Jones, said total sales of eggs have increased steadily because of population growth, but per capita consumption has declined 22% since 1951.

In addition to breakfast foods, the egg business is threatened by increasing use of convenience foods, like prepackaged mixes, which use fewer eggs than the same type of food prepared from scratch at home.

"The trend toward the substitution of convenience foods for eggs is not expected to level off," the report said. 'Without sufficient promotional and educational activities, the egg industry can expect further and continuing inroads by the convenience food industry."

Last year, the gross return to egg producers was $201 million, making eggs the fourth most important cash crop in the state. But 24% of the eggs produced were classed as surplus and the glut forced prices to fall to levels at which only the most efficient units can make a profit, the report stated.

First Load for Giant Ore Carrier

MASSIVE HOLD TAKES ON CARGO

Loading of the second largest shipment of iron ore ever shipped from the United States continued, while on the deck Long Beach city and harbor officials presented plaque to captain of the massive ore carrier Australia Maru commemorating the vessel's maiden voyage which brought her into the local port. Vessel has single hold for carrying iron ore and pellets.

The massive sea-going ore Carrier MV Australia Maru the past week loaded 75,732 tons of iron ore, second largest shipment of ore to leave the United States, during the vessel's maiden voyage to the Port of Long Beach.

The super ore carrier was built from keel to launching in five months in the Tokyo Shipyard of Ishikawajima-Harima Heavy Industries Co. She was turned over to her owners, the First Central Shipping Co., on July 25.

The 777-foot vessel is under charter to Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha. She has a beam of 115 feet and draws 40 feet of water.

* * * *

SHE HAS A service speed of 15 knots and features one single center hold with six hatches.

Local agent for the vessel is General Steamship Corporation.

The load taken on by the Australia Maru helped push the volume of iron ore moving through the Port of Long Beach bound for Japan toward a record of more than two million tons this year.

PORTS O' PROGRESS

New Type Report Won't Prove Dull

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

It is next to impossible to find anything that makes for duller reading than an annual report.

Realizing this, H. E. (Bud) Ridings, Jr., president of the Long Beach Board of Harbor Commissioners plans to liven up this year's report to the City Council and public.

On Wednesday Aug. 17th the public is invited to join with the Council in "witnessing" the presentation of the Harbor Department's annual report at 4 p.m. in the board meeting room in the Harbor Department Building.

Ridings will have various department heads use visual aids, charts, maps, photographs and graphs to report on the past 12 months activities of the port's busy year.

"We think this method will take the dullness out of the annual report and should prove interesting to the general public as well as city officials," claims Ridings.

FIFTY FOREIGN COUNTRIES using the facilities of the Port of Los Angeles will be represented during the Foreign Consular Annual Dinner to be staged by the city and port on August 26th.

More than 66 consul generals, consuls, or traded representatives will attend the black-tie affair.

The affair is staged annually as part of the port's trade promotion program to bring the foreign trade officials up to date on harbor developments.

Following a reception the guests will be taken on two half-hour tours of the harbor then back to the Ports O' Call restaurant for dinner.

A STRANGE NEW SITE on the waters of Long Beach Harbor is the 100-foot, stern-wheel, river boat—The Mansion Belle.

The sight-seeking and party-catering boat was put into regular service Wednesday by Capt. J. E. (Mac) McClintock of Pierpoint Landing.

The boat is designed after river boats of the 1890 era but was actually built in 1942 for use on the Sacramento river.

She will follow an hourly afternoon schedule for harbor sightseeing trips. The unusual craft will be available for charter for private parties in the evenings.

Fashion Homes Offers Vet Loan Information

ATTRACTIVE MERVIN JOHNSON HOME . . . Among Fashion Models

"Veterans Loan Eligibility Information," an up-to-date booklet on VA and Cal Vet loans, has been prepared by the developers of Fashion Homes and is now available without charge at all Orange County locations of the Mervin Johnson homes.

Details include: Who is entitled to VA (GI) loans, varying expiration dates of the loans, reinstating of eligibility, down payments and income requirements under the VA program. "To my knowledge," the developer said, "this is the first time information of this type has been published and offered in this manner through a new home sales office."

"We began to realize the confusion over different veterans requirements after helping a number of veterans with loans on new homes when they thought they were no longer eligible," Johnson stated. "There are undobutedly many veterans and their families putting up with homes they have outgrown when they could qualify for a VA or Cal Vet loan on a new home. In this booklet we have attempted to explain the different requirements in simple terms and feel that it will benefit a great many people and broaden the market in new home sales."

THE DEVELOPER pointed out that as an example, the veterans can qualify for 5¾% VA loans up to $37,500 with no down payment on a new Fashion Hills home in Anaheim. FHA 5¾% and conventional financing are also available. Other Fashion Homes locations where the VA booklet may be obtained are: Fashion Shores in Huntington Beach, Fashion Valley in Fountain Valley and Mediterrania in Palos Verdes.

Another important facet of the service to veterans is the "trade program." Information on this is available through Ellis Schrader, exclusive Fashion Homes sales agent in Orange County.

Spectacular Use of Tile Brings Award to Builder

Abundant use of ceramic tile adds to the luxury and charm of one of the Southern California area's most spectacular home developments, the new Mediterrania community of Mervin B. Johnson on Palos Verdes Peninsula.

Outstanding uses of ceramic tile in kitchens, bathrooms, entry walls and fireplaces earned quality craftsmanship awards recently for the building team from the Ceramic Tile Institute.

Receiving awards for best use of ceramic tile on multiple dwellings in Southern California for their work on the Mediterrania homes were building design firm Frank Gonzales and Associates; decorator Virginia Baker; builder Southwest Contractors; and tile contractor Master Tilers. Master Tilers' setter and helper crews also received coveted gold plaques.

* * * *

THIS IS an impressive and dramatic showcase for ceramic tile because here it is used in fresh new ways and with superb taste and skill typical of the excellence of homes built by Johnson's Southwest Contractors, Inc., of Fullerton, said a spokesman for the institute.

Mediterrania homes are lavishly beautiful with magnificent views of the Pacific Ocean looking toward Catalina Island.

The Mosaic Tile Co. supplied most of the ceramic tile products used in the Mediterrania homes.

In the kitchens, tilers installed a 6" x 6" glazed wall tile. Each kitchen features a unique blend of decorative and matching color tiles.

* * * *

MASTER BATHROOMS are highlighted with the Roman tub and showers in unglazed ceramic mosaics. Different random color patterns were used to blend with the decor of the home.

In the other bathrooms, tub splashes and showers are faced with glazed wall tile.

Entry ways shine with the freshness of tile. Some are surfaced with a textured surface idea for many uses; many feature 6" x 6" quarry tile.

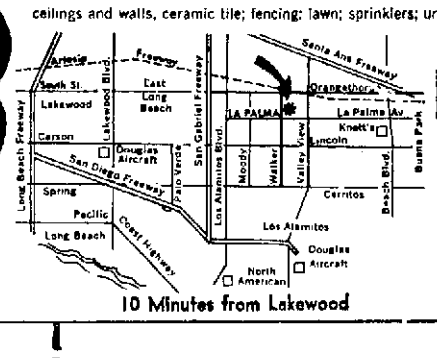

Complementing the tile entries is either the ceramic tile fireplace - hearth combination or hearth alone, finished in quarry tile or Travertine marble.

TILED ROMAN BATH
Sunken Roman tubs and showers, looking out onto gardens, add a luxury element to Mediterranean homes, winner of the outstanding multiple dwelling project featuring ceramic tile in Southern California.

Suit to Resist Toxic Chemicals Perfected in Los Alamitos Plant

A new, fully enclosed suit to protect men against hazardous environments containing toxic chemicals or microbiological agents, has been developed by Arrowhead Products Division of Federal-Mogul Corporation, in the plant at 4411 Katella Ave., Los Alamitos.

Engineering testing has been completed and Arrowhead has received a contract to produce 16 of the suits for the Naval Explosive Ordnance Disposal Facility at Indian Head, Md. Applications for the ensembles include EOD, decontamination and technical escort work, chemical munitions handling, rocket fueling, chemical and biological agent handling.

* * * *

THE SYSTEM comprises a basic "man package" that can be connected to a broad range of environmental control equipment, electronic detection and communication equipment to protect personnel operating in toxic and hazardous environments.

Impermeable and chemically resistant materials are formed into a coverall with boots, gloves and helmet. The components may be detachable or bonded to the coverall. All joints, closures and connections to the suit have been carefully designed and tested to prevent leakage.

Extensive permeability testing procedures have been developed for detecting contaminants inside the suit in concentrations of 1 part per billion parts air.

* * * *

THE MODULAR concept of the ensemble allows breathing air and ventilation to be supplied by alternate systems. These include a cryogenic back pack, hand or vehicle carried cryogenic units, compressed air, compressed air with a vortex tube, ambient air through a fan and filter system, and a two gas system for breathing and cooling on a closed loop or demand basis.

The externally mounted pack shown in accompanying photo uses liquid air and provides a completely self-contained atmosphere. It is light in weight and allows the wearer to move through an opening as small as 26 inches in diameter. The pack is designed to be changed in a hazardous environment without contaminating the suit interior or the pack. Inside the suit is an arterial system for distributing air throughout the suit. Valves, regulators and absorbers control pressure, flow and CO2 content. Humidity and temperatures are also regulated.

The program represents an important step in the development of ventilated mobile protective systems for extremely hazardous environments.

Water-Soluble Plastic Packets Now Available

NEW YORK (UPI) — New plastic packaging techniques, using materials that dissolve in water, automatically releasing the contents, are coming in for a wide variety of uses, trade sources report.

One of the most extensive is by hospitals, which use the material in the form of plastic laundry bags that can be sealed after filling and placed into the washing units, according to Baldwin-Montrose Chemical Co., a leading manufacturer of plastic. Immediate sealing of these bags prevents spread of germs from the soiled linen.

Among other products being packaged with the new plastics are liquid bleaches and dyes.

Good Investment

The cost of insulating a home can be returned within three to five years because of the saving in fuel bills, say insulating experts at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division.

Launch 'Moneywise' Program for Area

A special program designed to help families in low-income areas to become "wise consumers" and to train leaders to advise residents on money matters, will be launched starting Monday in the greater Los Angeles area. The four-week program was developed and conducted by the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions under a grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Classes will be held eight hours, five days a week in the new Federal Building, 300 N. Los Angeles St., Los Angeles.

Those selected for the training were chosen after many interviews were conducted in Los Angeles, Long Beach, Santa Ana, Pacoima and other areas.

* * * *

SIMILAR PROGRAMS have been carried out in the East with great success, a spokesman for the Federal Credit Unions declared.

Four broad areas are to be covered. First will be consumer action with emphasis on community programs, problems of consumers, marketing and shopping weaknesses.

Family financial counseling will be stressed with emphasis on defining what it is and how to do it.

The third phase will be on federal credit union operations and management.

Development of leadership including the significance of indigenous leadership and the recognition of good leadership traits is another part of the program.

* * * *

THROUGH THIS training the credit union officials will be better equipped to help their low-income members make the best use of the limited funds available to them, the spokesman said.

The credit unions not only provide members with finances but instill a spirit of thrift.

The first two sessions of the four-week schooling will be called Project Moneywise to teach participants to break the chains binding the consumer to the unethical marketplace, the credit union leaders said.

Stardust Park Holding Summer Trade-In Fair

An old-fashioned summer fair with new home ownership ideas brought over 300 visitors to Stardust Park in La Palma, reports W. Dean Hanson, vice-president of marketing for the Robert H. Grant Co.

To assist new buyers, a booth with trade-in fair material was staffed by Grant resale advisor, Alan Tyree Alford. He explained the firm's new program which guarantees the sale of the buyer's former residence in as little time as 72 hours.

The Fair continues today with balloons, refreshments and clowns to entertain families visiting the development.

* * * *

STARDUST PARK is located at Orangethorpe and Carmenita on the boundary between Los Angeles and Orange counties — one quarter mile south of the Santa Ana Freeway and within three miles of the new San Gabriel River freeway which links the community to the San Diego Freeway.

The walled community features one and two-story models with a dramatic quad-level design. The homes are priced from $24,950 to $34,950 with 5¾% interest loans for as long as 30 years.

Three to five-bedroom models feature hardwood floors, concrete driveways, terrazzo tile entries, walled front and rear patios, sun-lite kitchens and include three-car garages.

Stardust Park is reached by driving south on the Santa Ana freeway to the Carmenita Road offramp and following Carmenita to the model site.

SUMMER FAIR

Griffith Is New Prexy

John E. Griffith, manager, Long Beach Agency of Prudential Insurance Co., was elected president of the Long Beach General Agents and Managers Association.

Orville A. Rundle (New York Life) was elected vice-president and Ronald A. Smith (Equitable Life Assurance Society) was elected secretary-treasurer.

Serving on the board are George McKeehan (Aetna Life) immediate past president; Donald M. Tippett, CLU, (Massachusetts Mutual); and Joseph W. Dougherty (National Life & Accident).

In his acceptance Griffith stated "the importance of serious consideration of the changes in the life insurance industry, makes the purpose of our association more significant."

Won't Hike Interest Rate

Executives of the Jaymarc Co., developers of Rossmoor Townhouses, adjacent to the Rossmoor Shopping and Business Center, said that purchasers of these homes would definitely not be subject to "excalator clauses" on their mortgages.

Due to the extremely tight money market of recent months, a number of savings and loan associations have included such clauses in their loan agreements which gives them the right to increase the rate of interest even after a loan has been made. "Nothing of this kind can happen on any of our loans," said William Ballon of Jaymarc Co. "Our current low 6% mortgage rate to buyers cannot be changed at any time. Furthermore," he said, "the 6% rate would remain in effect despite the prevailing 7% rate in the housing industry."

In addition to business listings, the directory notes important telephone numbers to be remembered, local churches, service clubs and organizations and schools, information on city government in Lomita, and an updated street map of the community.

Sales and Information Center Helps Westhaven Home Buyers

TILE SNACK COUNTER . . . Sets Off Convenient Kitchen

Westhaven, Shields Development Co.'s new community of homes in Westminster-Fountain Valley area, is selling new homes from an interesting sales-information center housed in a Mediterranean-style building on Brookhurst Street between McFadden and Edinger Avenues. The striking building will become part of a professional center to be built later in the same style of architecture, according to developer Larry Shields.

Westhaven's 1450 to 2650 square foot homes sell for $26,950 to $34,500 through exclusive sales agent Frank McFarland. Four furnished and decorated model homes are on display in the model complex. One and two story plans are available with sunken living rooms, three car garages, family rooms and new patio kitchens with serve-through bars to outdoor patios.

* * * *

EXTERIOR STYLINGS range from Ranch to Spanish to contemporary and Mediterranean. All utilities have been placed underground.

The new community will occupy 200 acres when fully developed and will have a park, several schools, shopping and business center.

Westhaven reflects experience gained by Larry Shields building thousands of homes in Southern California as one of the pioneer developers in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Westhaven's proximity to the Garden Grove-San Diego Freeway and Hwy. 39 (Beach Boulevard) makes it an easy commute to Long Beach, Los Angeles and all of the major population centers and trading areas of Los Angeles and Orange Counties, McFarland points out.

Construction is under way in Fullerton on a new central headquarters facility for Glass Containers Corp., one of the largest manufacturers of glass containers on the coast.

Ernest W. Hahn, general contractor, is expected to complete the $250,000 project in mid-October, reports Edward Goldstein, president of the firm.

Design specifcations of the 22,000 sq. ft. headquarters calls for precast concrete walls, panelized wood roofing and a section of textured panel at the entrance. It will contain exposed aggregate and round chunks of colored glass.

GLASS CONTAINERS sells the bulk of its products to customers in the brewing, food, pharmaceutical and cosmetic, beverage, wine, and liquor industries. Three plants —located at Vernon, Antioch, and Hayward, Calif., supply a full line of gloss bottles and jars to industrial glass users with plants located in the western United States. The company also manufactures its own mold equipment at a facility located in Fullerton.

Homes of Luxury

Air-conditioned luxury homes are offered in Anaheim Estates where the builder says the remaining four or five-bedroom, 2,600-square-foot homes may be purchased at a savings of $2,750.

The homes, with the sales office at 2523 W. Orange Ave. in Anaheim, have proven so popular they are fast nearing a sell-out.

Providing separate dining rooms and a family room, the large homes have quality carpeting throughout and all-electric kitchens. They are built on king-size lots up to 10,200 square feet with sprinkler system and fencing installed.

Priced from $38,750, the homes are offered on 6¼%, 30-year loans. Immediate occupancy is offered on the remaining homes.

'LADIES' GET ONE-WAY RIDE

No Return Trip for These Air Patrons

Some western Air Lines passenger flown to points all around the nation and even to Mexico recently are going to be on their own in trying to get back home to Sacramento. And, the air line strike has nothing to do with it.

These patrons, 720,000,000, smartly dressed in orange jackets with black polka dots, were lady bugs!

They were sent to eat up harmful bugs that are destroying crops. In some areas it is a feast for the little insects. When they are finished eating, they'll return home by themselves—flying all the way back to the Sierra Nevadas in Northern California. That's where they are from. That's where the California Bug Co., of Marysville, collect them each year.

* * * *

LITTLE "LADIES" are packed in gallon containers (some 80,000 per gallon) and shipped air cargo to cotton, alfalfa, corn, wheat and flower growers who release them in the fields. When they are all through eating up "bad" bugs, the "good" lady bugs will head for home, sometime in the Fall.

Once back home, they hibernate for the Winter, then raise youngsters in the Spring, which, if they're lucky, will also get to ride on one of Western's Fanjet planes.

Buying Home Now Good Investment

"With the news full of problems in financing for both new home construction and new home purchases, the potential buyer should be reminded that there are still worthwhile opportunities for prestige housing available with a substantial profit potential," commented Jack Hanscom of Mesa Realty.

Hartford Square Homes in La Palma are a prime example of good value and firm 5¾% financing, he added.

Success reaffirms value with over 60% of the homes sold within three months.

PRICES RANGE from $26,325 to $30,925. Vets pay $1 total move-in. (No other costs). FHA buyers pay minimum down. The builder emphasizes that firm 5¾% VA-FHA loans are available now, and there are no financing problems at Hartford Square.

The homes offer square footages ranging up to 2,320. Plans include three to five bedrooms with up to three baths.

Hartford Square also includes the unique Hartford Room which is a large unfinished bonus room. It ranges up to 496 square feet.

Furnished models are on Walker Street just south of Orangethorpe and west of Valley View in the city of La Palma.

THERE WILL NEVER BE A BETTER TIME TO BUY A HOME

You will pay a lot more in just a few months.

It is estimated that increasing labor and materials costs are adding about $1,000 per year to the price of a $20,000 house. And costs are sure to increase faster in the near future. Thousands of families from other areas are coming to Southern California every month. They are looking for places to live and you have to compete with them in increasing numbers. And available land for building homes is shrinking fast. These things plus increasing interest rates points to one conclusion . . . buy that home now. The longer you wait, the more you will pay.

And remember. A house is a good hedge against inflation. The house you own can only increase in value as other prices go up. You're protected.

In the pages of this newspaper you will find the best in home values . . . the size, the floor plan, the location you want. Consult them now. And do something about it. Buy that home now and save money.

FOR SPEEDY SERVICE

2-Way FM Radio System Links Terminal Island Transit Buses

By ELLIOTT ZWIEBACH

A powerful new two-way FM radio system, linking all buses of the Terminal Island Transit Co. on the Long Beach-San Pedro line, is now in operation.

Peter G. Drake, company president and general manager, said switchover of previously installed receivers and transmitters from a citizen's AM band to a longer-range FM band will provide faster, more efficient passenger service.

"Each bus driver will now be able to contact any other bus on our system and know at a moment's notice where to pick up or discharge passengers," Drake said.

Although the Terminal Island Transit Co. is a commercial line, much of its business comes from the Long Beach Naval Base. Drake feels the radio system will enable buses to get to any location where needed on the base, easily and quickly.

• • • •

IN CASE OF a bus breakdown or accident, the two-way radio system allows the driver to notify the company immediately. Similar procedure will be followed at peak hours, when harried drivers will be able to "order" more buses along the route.

Drake said he believes there are only a half-dozen such transit bus radio setups in California. Similar systems exist lines serving the Alameda-Contra Costa district near San Francisco, the Oceanside area around Camp Pendleton, and in the Montebello area.

The Terminal Island Transit Co.'s system was installed by Motorola Communications and Electronics Inc., which also will maintain the equipment. The equipment is being leased from Motor Transportation Services.

• • • •

THE NEW SYSTEM was installed Aug. 1. The buses have had radio setups for the past two years, but operated on a citizen's band which was of limited range and "too busy" for business use.

Now the system operates on a selective, powerful FM band, which provides the buses with transmission and reception range of 15 to 20 miles from unit to unit. From the power base, in a 60-foot tower at Pier E, where company headquarters are located, the range is almost 40 miles.

Most Moonlighters Toil During Daylight

NEW YORK (UPI)—When historians write the saga of the contemporary American breadwinner, they are going to have to reserve a place for hardy humans who hold down more than one job, says the Institute of Life Insurance.

They are the moonlighters, but the Institute said that's the wrong term since most multiple job holders work their second jobs during daylight hours.

Average U.S. Clerical Worker Now Earning $86 Week, Up $2

The average clerical worker in the United States and Canada is earning $2.00 a week more this year than last. Since 1956, the average clerical salary in the U.S. has grown by $23.00 per week.

These facts are drawn from the 1966 Clerical Salary Survey of the Administrative Management Society.

Each year the society, through its 178 chapters, studies and reports on the salaries and fringe benefits of office workers throughout the continent. The 1966-67 survey data is based on figures reported by more than 8,000 companies employing a total of more than ½ million clerical workers. The survey covers 138 cities and 21 different types of businesses. Included are the 20 most common categories of office jobs.

THE SURVEY REPORTS that in 1966 the average clerical worker in the U.S. earns $86.00 per week. Her counterpart in Canada earns $69.00.

Ten years ago, the average office worker in the United States earned only $63.00 per week. Her salary today is 39% higher.

This year's greatest pay increase is for bookkeeping machine operators and tabulating machine operators. Whereas most individual jobs rose $2.00 over last year, these jobs increased $4.00 per week.

Survey figures show that office salaries in 1966 continue to be higher in the West than in any other part of the country. The average western salary today is $96.00 per week, surpassing the 1965 record rate of $35.00.

• • • •

The lowest pay rates discovered by the study are in the West Central and Southern regions. Weekly pay rates average $82.00 in the West Central region and $81.00 in the South.

According to the figures, the work week continues to show a downward trend. While most companies still report a 40-hour week, this year's survey finds that 29.3% of the companies covered report a week of less than 40 hours.

"Fifteen years ago only 21% reported a work week of less than 40 hours," says Robert Walter, executive director of the Administrative Management Society.

New Freight Depot for American Air

Freight, long the stepchild of the airline industry, takes another giant step toward being the head of the family in mid-September as American Airline's freight system moves into a new "home" in Los Angeles.

And it is quite a home, worth approximately $1.5 million on some of the most high priced real estate in Southern California.

A new freight facility, which will eventually house the latest equipment in the industry, has a capacity to handle more than a million and a half pounds of shipments per day.

• • • •

CONSTRUCTION of the new terminal started nearly a year ago at the east end of Los Angeles International Airport. The area, on the site of American's former passenger concourse, is near the new air mail depot and in the center of what the Department of Airports has titled "Air Cargo City."

The warehouse area of the new freight terminal is 37,500 square feet with another 3,800 square feet devoted to offices which occupy three levels.

The terminal, at the outset, will be capable of handling two jet freighters imultaneously, with space provided for a third. It more than doubles the former terminal and will be expanded to approximately 70,000 square feet, supporting five aircraft positions.

Beach City Chevrolet is readying a new 118-stall, 35,000-square-foot service center at Orizaba Avenue and 19th Street for a public grand opening in the near future.

The new facility, described as among the largest auto service centers in the West, is located around the corner from Beach City's headquarters at 3001 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

In addition to complete parts and service operations, the new service center will provide a sound-proofed, air-conditioned customer "living room" equipped with color television and tasteful furnishings.

Nuclear Pills for Energy

MILLIONS OF "MICROSPHERES"—encapsulated radioactive isotopes—are poured (above) into a teaspoon by Dr. John P. Ryan, manager of the 3M Company's Nuclear Products Project. Photomicrograph below shows tiny size of the ceramic beads in comparison with strand of human hair. They represent new approach to peaceful uses of atomic energy.

ON EARTH, IN SPACE

Radioactive 'Beads' Power Atomic Age

Peaceful uses of the atom have mushroomed over the last few years, designed to do everything from detecting oil underground and eliminating static charge to helping car drivers find keyholes and astronauts land spacecraft.

Today, there's an increasing number of atomic devices coming off the drawing boards, from tiny radiation needles to large and intricate radiation research equipment, with built-in safety features.

Some nuclear items are being used to determine varying thicknesses of products rolling off assembly lines. Others are designed to provide long-lasting, reliable brightness on exit signs and safety markers.

In the medical field nuclear devices are being used to provide safer and more effective treatment of cancer. Others may help eliminate smog and purify the air.

★ ★ ★ ★

NUCLEAR self-luminous devices are expected to be used on spacecraft for safe, accurate docking on the dark side of the moon and for other far-out jobs.

In the Apollo program, nuclear self-luminous materials are being designed not only to help man on his journey to the moon but also to help him explore its "dark side"—and eventually help him rendezvous with other astronauts in outer space, according to Dr. John P. Ryan, manager of the Nuclear Products Project of 3M Company.

Ryan said nuclear radiation sources also are being used in fuel-tank gauges of space vehicles, to help determine exact amounts of fuel sloshed about in the non-gravity atmosphere of space.

"USES OF nucuear energy for peace are just off to a flying start," Ryan said, citing the growth of 3M Company's nuclear operations in just 10 years from "broom closet" to a diversified nuclear business operation.

Some of the progress resulted from the company's development of a way to cage radioactive isotopes in inert ceramic beads to make many nuclear devices extra-safe to handle. "The isotope has been encapsulated so it can be used in products without fear of escaping, and yet be capable of emitting helpful and even healing radiation when desired," Ryan said.

★ ★ ★ ★

THE CERAMIC beads called Microspheres, are found in a wide range of nuclear products, and are so insoluble they can be swallowed without fear of being taken up in the body metabolism. Doctors use this type of encapsulated isotope in experimental programs aimed at developing new methods of cancer therapy. Microspheres also serve as "tracers" and help detect obstructions in body organs.

Also in the field of medicine, needles and capsules have been developed containing a radioactive material, Cesium-137, for radiation healing.

The encapsulated isotope is being experimented with by car manufacturers to assist drivers in finding keyholes around ignition switches and outside door locks, so the driver doesn't have to fumble around with his keys at night.

Nuclear self-luminous signs, with Microspheres, are being evaluated for use in airliners. Because they need no reflective lighting or electricity, nuclear signs are considered more reliable in times of emergencies.

★ ★ ★ ★

MICROSPHERES are so tiny they resemble grains of salt, and millions of beads can be picked up by a teaspon. They are particularly suited for watches and other precision instruments.

"With regular radium, watches sometimes do not illuminate as desired. What's more, radium is known to be dangerous if assimilated into the body," Ryan said. "Promethium self-luminous material stays bright for longer periods and won't harm the wearer."

Most nuclear products are still under control of the Atomic Energy Commission, but some are proving so safe that part of this control is being lessened. For instance, a nuclear static eliminator developed by 3M doesn't require a special AEC license application and industry can now buy it "over the counter."

The static eliminator is being used today in an increasing number of plants to eliminate static charge from paper and plastics. Since it needs no cords or wires and is equipped with encapsulated isotopes, it is safe even in highly explosive plant areas.

Net Income Up for Tidewater

Tidewater Oil Co. indicated consolidated net income for the first half of 1966 was $37,424,000, equal to $2.69 per common share after preferred dividends, president George F. Getty II announced. Net income for the second quarter of 1966 was $17,493,000, or $1.25 per share.

In 1965, Tidewater's net income was $27,143,000, or $1.89 a share for the first half and $14,644,000, or $1.03 per share for the second quarter.

Future Prices of Homes Certain to Be Increased

The Home Builders Association of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura Counties will embark immediately on a $250,000 public information program to promote its story on the homebuilding situation in the tri-county area.

With the projection that within six to eight months the larger percentage of home inventory in Southern California will be sold, the HBA, representing millions of dollars in home construction, will convey to the public that the most valid investment in today's inflation-oriented environment is the purchase of a home.

"THE PROSPECTIVE homebuyer who is waiting until prices drop is the one who will still be waiting after the prices go up," said Hubert A. Temple, treasurer of the HBA. "It is inevitable that the cost of construction, with the scarcity of materials and the high price of labor, will rise.

"The war in Viet Nam has caused some materials to become scarce and reach astronomical prices, and we see no letup. It means that unless these materials are made available in the future for homebuilding at reduced costs that the homebuyer will be affected."

Temple said that few homebuyers really understand the existing situation. He indicated that because of restrictions on the availability of loans for future home construction, the inventory, as it stands today, will be wiped out.

"THE TRUTH IS," said Temple, "that we will be without new construction six to eight months from now. There won't be any homes, and people who are interested in acquiring new homes will be faced with the same problem that occurred during World War II and the Korean War when there was a priority on building materials."

Temple said that after Jan. 1, 1967, the cost of financing a home through the FHA and/or VA will be increased to the homebuyer.

"There will be no more 5¾% or 6% interest rates," said Temple. "Homebuyers will be subjected to higher interest rates. FHA and/or VA rates may rise as much as 1% over the old rates.

"This means," he said, "that if a homebuyer wishes to purchase a $30,000 home, he may pay as much as 30% down with an interest rate of 7% or more."

TEMPLE SAID this is one of the reasons why the HBA has launched its program, entitled "A New Home—Your Best Buy Today."

"We have a normal inventory of homes in Southern California," he said, "but it is rapidly diminishing. These homes are built of the finest materials, and they can be financed at the old interest rates. When this inventory is depleted, there won't be any more new homes due to the lack of new construction loans."

"Some homebuyers are investing their savings in this form of real estate," said Temple. "In some instances, a homebuyer will purchase more than one home just as an investment. He knows that it is just a matter of months before he will realize a significant profit.

PARTY FUNDS RAISED

Make Your Choice and Then Kick In

A two-week campaign to raise money for the political party or candidates of each person's choice is under way at the Torrance factory of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

Factory manager, F. J. Hoffmann, said that the increased cost of conducting a political campaign makes it very important for individuals to help share the expense of electing the candidates who most nearly reflect their views.

"One of the ways in which any party can get the best qualified candidates to run is to guarantee financial support. Money alone does not win elections, but it finances and helps build the organizations that do," Hoffmann said.

The factory manager said that a confidential two-envelope system used at the PPG plant would insure that no one at the plant knew which party or candidate an employe supported or how much he gave.

The outer envelope will be opened by leaders of the two principle parties and the inner envelopes turned over to the party or candidate indicated. Only the party or candidate would see the identification and contents of the second envelope.

Episcopal Church for Laguna Hills

Plans for a new St. George's Episcopal Church to be built at Laguna Hills got underway when a two-and-one-half acre parcel of land was donated by Ross W. Cortese, founder of Rossmoor Leisure World communities.

To be constructed on El Toro Road, just west of Moulton Parkway, the new facility will mark the eighth major denomination to accept land donations on which to build churches that will serve the residents of the all-adult community as well as the surrounding areas of Laguna Hills, El Toro and San Juan Capistrano.

THE NEW FACILITY will house the expanding 150 member congregation of St. George's Episcopal Mission now located on Whisler Dr., El Toro. The Mission, now in its 75th year, will be preserved as a historical monument, according to Vicar Frederick C. Hammond.

Consecrated by Bishop William Ford Nichols on Dec. 3, 1891, St. George's Mission still uses the original kerosene lamps suspended from the ceiling as its main source of lighting. The organ and altar, originally brought from Europe in an ancient sailing ship around the Cape of Good Hope, are also still in use today.

"The addition of this new church will certainly bring a portion of religious history that is rich in tradition to Laguna Hills," Rev. H. Carl Roessler, director of religious activities said.

With all the room at the "top of the world" sold in record time, Leisure World, Laguna Hills has opened sales in a new unit, No. H, in the fast growing all-adult community.

General Sales Manager Andrew Noonan said the 356 manors in the "top of the world" unit 15 were sold in only 33 days, a record for the Leisure World sales staff.

The new unit, dubbed "Sweet Sixteen" by Noonan, will have 358 manors located on both sides of historic Aliso Creek which winds through the picturesque old Moulton Ranch, the 2,450-acre Leisure World site about 10 miles southeast of Santa Ana off the Santa Ana Freeway.

THE NEW UNIT will offer one and two-bedroom manors with the widest selection of floor plans yet offered at Leisure World. There will be 10 models to choose from with single and two-story plans available.

Monthly payments will range from $132.50 to $277, and the single payment includes principal, interest, taxes and insurance. It also pays for service on the intra-community transportation system, 24-hour security attendants and a comprehensive medical program providing 80% of out-patient costs.

Purchase of Leisure World manor also permits residents to share in cost-free recreational activities afforded by an 18-hole golf course, riding stables and club houses with swimming pools, tennis courts and numerous other fun and cultural activities.

In three years since its opening, Leisure World population has reached the 7,000 mark, Noonan said. With sales complete in unit 16, the community will have sold 5,300 manors, nearly one-third of the projected 18,000 for a community of 30,000 persons, 52-years of age or over.

Lloyd S. Whaley (left), owner-builder of the Galaxy, the 20-story luxury home development at Orizaba Avenue and Ocean Boulevard, Long Beach, received a Telephone Planned Home Award from Bob Wellman, East Long Beach Division Manager for General Telephone Co.

One of the many outstanding features of this 80-home development is the latest type of security door-opening intercommunication system which is combined with the home owner's telephone service. An attractive panel telephone, "built in" the wall of each kitchen-dinette area, provides the master control for this modern communication system.

Offering spectacular views of the ocean and of the city, The Galaxy soon will have furnished models available for inspection. Barbara Moss has been appointed by the Los Altos Realty Co. as sales director.

WHEELS OF VOLUNTEER SERVICE KEEP TURNING

CVO SETS WHEELS IN MOTION

Destination: the road to service

Grade school students, housewives, senior citizens, teen-agers, newcomers to Long Beach—all serve as cogs which keep wheels of Community Volunteer Office rolling.

Volunteers from age 6 to 90 may come from different walks of life, but all share a common interest at CVO—service to the community.

Founded in 1948 under auspices of Junior League of Long Beach, CVO serves more than 94 agencies of the United Way.

Wheels of service spin along avenues of child care, legal aid, hospital work, the arts, office duties.

An infinite variety of jobs is available with approved agencies requiring volunteer services which range from dressing hair of convalescent patients to serving as receptionists or teaching arts and crafts.

Volunteers are interviewed individually by Mrs. Clara Andrews, executive secretary of CVO, who helps applicants choose the field of service to which they're best suited.

Many volunteers are people such as Anton Strandberg who found retirement wasn't for him.

"Puttering around in the garden was fun for awhile, but after a few months I was bored and felt pretty useless," he says.

"Then I went to work for CVO and there's not been a dull moment since."

Strandberg contributes his time to driving crippled children to school and on field trips. He also serves as an auditor during the United Way campaign.

Housewives have found stimulating breaks from homemaking routines and newcomers have gained friends while donating time and talents to CVO. Youngsters, too, have learned that helping others by stuffing envelopes, sorting brochures or even visiting patients in convalescent homes can be as much fun as riding a skateboard.

Information on serving as a volunteer may be obtained at CVO, 3515 Linden Ave., from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

SHOWCASE FOR TEEN-AGERS

They're only superlative!

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

"They're fabulous!"

"Unbelievable ability!"

"Every one is outstanding!"

When members of the Dramatic Allied Arts Guild speak of "their" young people, they talk only in superlatives, with exclamation points punctuating their voices. Their eyes sparkle and the words tumble out.

Saturday and next Sunday, 45 of Long Beach's most talented teen-agers will show what this kind of confidence and enthusiasm for their ability has done. After participating through the summer in a cultural symposium, they will be spotlighted in the guild's First Annual Youth Arts Showcase.

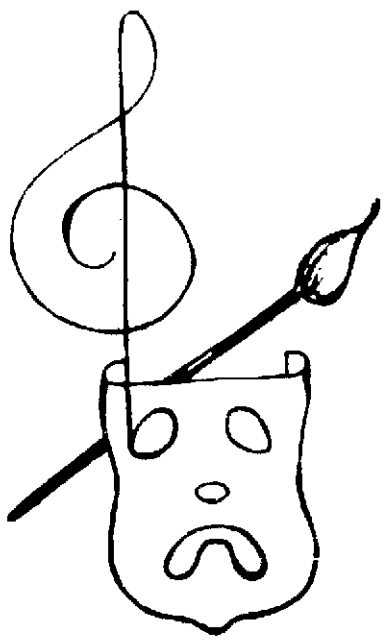

Because DAAG is particularly interested in the cultural education of Long Beach young people, it set up this symposium with cooperation of Long Beach Unified School District.

In each of the five high schools, the principal and heads of the art, music and drama departments selected three top students in each field for the summer workshop program. Every DAAG member donated two mornings to serve as assistants—helping special teachers, arranging

"OVERWHELMING success, with exclamation points!" That's the way the moonlight and music party hosted by the Women's Guild of Civic Light Opera was described by most reliable sources—the guests.

Ed and Laura Killingsworth, 4606 Virginia Road, opened their lovely home, with its great stage facilities in the garden. Invitations said, "We guarantee the music and promise you the moon." Sure enough, on stage was a big, marvelously funny moon (just in case the weather had been overcast) as well as the real one in the sky.

Starting the night off right for 250 people was serving of a champagne punch, special recipe of Dennis Coder, manager of Pacific Coast Club, who personally supervised its "construction." Because everyone raved about it, I wheedled the recipe from Dennis.

For every punchbowl use 1 bottle of chablis, ½ of brandy, 2 of champagne, 1 of ginger ale, 1 of soda plus the secret ingredient which makes it so good. He also adds a ½ bottle of a special French sauterne wine. In addition, party goers were treated to lavish hors d'hoeuvres.

Betty Kimber was in charge of the sparkling entertainment of music and terpsichore while Barbara Cohee, guild president, handled the socializing arrangements. Mary Anne Haley and Dennis collaborated on punch and food arrangements.

A few in the party crowd were the John Clocks, the John Mansells, Bill and Lois Smith, Stan and Geneva Weiss and the Fonda McCooks.

Also Dr. Lloyd and Dorothie Mallin, Mayor Ed and Mary Wade, Jim and Eleanor Foasberg, Clyde and Betty Paisley, Wilma Hastings, Dr. Frank George, Gene and Rose Bishop, Mac and Jane Epley.

NEW SWIMMING pool at John and Molly Turley's home, 1881 Snowden Ave., may never be same again but it can't, in its old age, look back and say it wasn't royally christened.

To open pool officially, Young Californians had a whingding of a swim party and luau for 50. Kimus, muu muus, leis and aloha shirts were the mode o'night for such as Van and Dolores Hickman, Dan and Jan Krehbiel, Jim and Jackie Miller, Darrell and Rayme Goldsmith and LeMoyne Heinz, club president, and husband, Bob.

Sumptuous Cantonese food and grog were served, with guests dining at low tables on the basketball court which had all been carpeted with grass matting.

Heads that bobbed amidst a floating garden of fresh gardenias and orchids in the pool belonged to such swimmers as Bill and Kathy Edwards, Bob and Mary Nell Soloman, Bill and Alice Greer.

THE BELLS—telephone and door—are getting a hefty workout at Joe and Avalon Warren's home, 806 Lees Ave., since arrival from Mechanicsburg, Pa., of their daughter, Jane Stone, and her two young ones, Jennifer, 7, and Monica, 3.

Jane, whose husband, Lt. Cmdr. Donald Stone is stationed at the big Navy supply center in Mechanicsburg, will be here through August.

THE KIND of quiet heroism which so often goes unhailed was recognized most nobly by the Tuna Club at Avalon, Catalina, last weekend. Exuberant Virginia Tuffli caught a marlin off the east end. Not only was husband Tell skippering, but he brought the creature to gaff.

Considering that he was the only man aboard with fish-catcher Virginia and guest, Rubye Kean, the club presented him with a silver loving cup.

It was given for his supreme presence of mind in being able to handle boat, gaff, two excited women with aplomb.

UNIQUE dinner party was given by Dr. Earl and Hilda Donaldson for members of their dine-out group. Usually the couple in charge selects a gourmet restaurant but doesn't announce which one until all are assembled. The Donaldsons' "restaurant" proved the biggest surprise ever pulled on this gang.

They had chartered a regulation-size bus and everyone ate in grand style as they toured to Laguna Beach.

The menu? Tossed salad, fried chicken, sliced hot steak, baked potatoes and, for dessert, they brought two freezers of peach ice cream served with delectable peach sauce.

Earl made special wooden trays for each guest. Each had a hole bored in it to hold bud vase with fresh rosebud. Trays were graced with gold mats and so constructed they held dishes and silverware in place despite the sway of the bus.

The rear of the bus was transformed into a service area where hot food was kept hot and the cold stuff in icy perfection.

In on the fun were hosts' son, Dean, who assisted in serving; Dr. Ed and Gale Potts, Dr. John and Virginia Faris, Jack and Norma Taylor, Jack and Carol Frank and Wayne and Arlene Eyer.

Various snacks were served enroute home, too!

SOMETIMES news gets to me in a rush not unlike the speed of cold molasses. Just heard, for instance, that Ellie and Frank Person are back from Europe—but the catch is they've been home for two weeks!

Frank was a crew member aboard the 72-foot, Audacious, in the Bermuda race, which took off from Newport, R.I., and then on the arduous Trans-Atlantic race after a layover in Bermuda just five days.

Just to give you an idea how rugged life at sea can be in these big races, Frank lost 17 pounds. The Trans-Atlantic ended at Copenhagen, Denmark, this year as a salute to the 100th anniversary of the Royal Copenhagen Yacht Club. While Frank was sailing the bounding main, Ellie and their youngest daughter, Brooke, flew around Europe, touring in Italy, France and England.

Ellie and Brooke were in Copenhagen (naturally!) for the exciting conclusion of the race, then all three took the Gota Canal trip in Sweden, which she said was marvelous, after which they flew home.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Las Vegas and northern California after a champagne, buffet reception at the home of the groom's parents.

A CROWN OF crystal and pearls topped the bride's silk illusion veil. Her gown was of rosepoint lace with a scalloped portrait neckline. The chapel length train was trimmed with sequins and pearls.

Phillip Barnhart, the bridegroom's brother, was the best man. Maid of honor was Vicki Stark. Bridesmaids were Rebecca Smith and Adele Newman. Ushers were Curtis Jakobson and Craig Jakobson.

Ring bearer was Robert Farkas and flower girl was Jodee Pruitt.

Both the bride and the bridegroom graduated from Jordan High School and attended Long Beach City College. They will live in Long Beach.

Hackborn-Shaw

More than 250 guests witnessed a Saturday exchange of vows in California Heights Methodist Church between Sondra Ilene Shaw and Richard Allen Hackborn of Palo Alto.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin A. Shaw, 3636 Olive Ave., wore an A-line gown of Italian silk.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hackborn of Minneapolis, Minn., the bridegroom asked his father to be his best man.

Karen Youngson was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Torrence Wilson, Janice Dabbs and Joy Janowiscz. Ushers were Ronald Long, David Penning and Henry Lee. Tracy Long was flower girl.

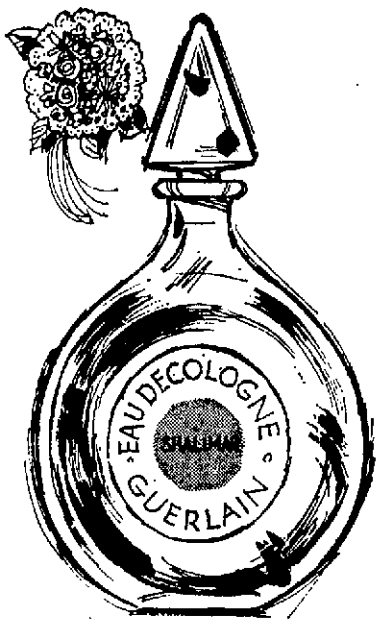

Mrs. Hackborn is an elementary teacher in Atherton. Her husband is an operation anaylst in Palo Alto, where a first home will be made following a honeymoon in Washington.

The bridegroom holds degrees from the University of Minnesota and Santa Clara University and is working toward his Ph.D. in operations research at Stanford University.

He lists affiliations with Institutes of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, Industrial Engineers and Management Sciences. He also is a member of Eta Kappa Nu, Beta Gamma Sigma and Tau Beta Pi.

and conducting tours to art galleries, concerts, recording studios and cultural events.

The program took form under guidance of DAAG's president, Mrs. Orville Cole, and the symposium co-chairmen, Mrs. Harry James Lees and Mrs. John Messerschmitt.

When the council of St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, 1629 Pine Ave., heard of the symposium, it offered use of its recreation building, without charge, for the art, music and drama classes.

Ken Devanney, general manager of KHJ, conducted a tour of the station and spoke at length to the students on the trend of music today. Jay Malchles of NBC arranged a tour of that facility and a talk by the head of its copyright department. Other speakers and offers were volunteered — and numerous enriching experiences were scheduled.

BETWEEN SERIOUS SESSIONS, TIME TO IMPROVISE
... Lexie Hutton, Dan Jacobs, Phil Kohn, Mandi Strelow strum and hum

Now, the final week is here and these gifted teenagers, drawn from a cross section of the city as represented by its high schools, will display their talents and compete for three scholarships in each division—$100, $50 and $25 plus trophies. Each young person will receive a memento of the symposium.

THE MAYOR, city council, persons in the arts, parents, members of the board of education and others interested have been invited to see the drama students' production Saturday at 8 p.m. in Washington Junior High School Auditorium and to the Showcase program next Sunday at 2 p.m. in Petroleum Club. The club volunteered its premises and will supply refreshments.

The Saturday night play will be a comedy, "It Happens Every Summer," by David Rogers. Lonna Holmes Smith directs. Dr. John H. Green, chairman of California State College at Long Beach; Dr. David E. MacArthur, associate professor of drama at CSLB; and Keith Houdyshell, actor and public relations director, will serve as judges.

NEXT SUNDAY, art entries will be judged by Ray Kerciu, artist and member of the art faculty at California State College at Fullerton; Sylvia Petrasek, artist and commercial display director; and Mozelle Townsend, artist and teacher.

The musical program, ranging from folk to classical numbers, will be evaluated by Mrs. John O. McDonald, special consultant for the California Arts Commission; Jack Kroesen, musical director for Long Beach Civic Light Opera; and Marvellee Cariaga, concert singer, former soloist with the Norman Luboff Choir and member of Los Angeles Opera Guild.

So that Sunday guests may see examples of all three categories, drama students will enact excerpts from their play.

THOUGH the 45 students are as effervescent as typical teen-agers, they have an air of purposefulness that makes them a bit different. Many are involved in more than one symposium area, some in all three.

Said Mrs. Cole, "We applaud efforts to help culturally deprive children, but we believe that it is important, too, to encourage and reward the talented, gifted ones. We hope that each will widen his perspective and understanding of the other two arts in addition to developing his own special interest.

"By exposure to the professional field, these young people may find new scope for their talents.

"We hope to make the community more aware of the achievements and leadership potential in our most valuable natural resource—our talented youth."

DEAR ABBY

Parent's job to discipline son

DEAR ABBY: Our 17-year-old son is going steady with a girl who has just turned 14, and he practically LIVES at her house. What do you think of parents who will allow a boy to hang around their house all day and half the night seeing their 14-year-old daughter? He says they never tell him to go home so he just stays.

Abby

I say they should kick him out at midnight. With summer here it can be a real problem. Eighteen months ago we got a 15-year-old daughter-in-law, and six monthes later we had a grandchild. We certainly don't want any more of that. Please help us.

CONCERNED PARENTS

DEAR CONCERNED: Don't depend on the girl's parents to discipline your son. That's YOUR job. Since the girl obviously has no rules, you should make some for your son. His father should have a serious man-to-man talk with him. (Maybe his brother can give him the benefit of his experience.) Your son needs desperately to be guided and disciplined.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was recently married and some relatives (on the groom's side) sent her a beautiful sterling silver tray with the following card:

"If your marriage lasts a year, please return this tray and we'll have it monogrammed. Love, Aunt Helen and Uncle Dave."

Would you say these people had nerve??

BRIDE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. And also experience.,

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been glassy-eyed ever since a certain creature half his age moved in next door. She sun bathes in a bikini in her backyard, and my middle-aged Romeo has been trimming our hedges until there is nothing left to trim. This poor soul is so top heavy it is a wonder she can stand up.

At a recent party she staged an impromptu go-go routine and it was a case of stand back or be knocked thru the wall. How can I get my husband to act his age and quit drooling over this freak? That unfortunate girl has my prayers.

ELLA ON SOUTH OLIVE ST.

DEAR ELLA: Don't waste your prayers on the "freak." Pray for a short summer with lots of rain.

Grack-Hennigar vows said in Lutheran ceremony

MRS. DARVIN GRACK

Lake Arrowhead and Minnesota are honeymoon destinations of Darvin Earl Grack and his bride, the former Sandra Lea Hennigar.

They were married Saturday in Our Saviours Lutheran Church.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Doretta Louise Hennigar, 3753 Mayfield Ave., wore a satin brocade gown fashioned with an empire waistline and chapel train. Her scalloped veil was caught by a crown of drop pearls.

Maid of honor was Judith Shogren. Ruth Ann Devery and Judy Grack were bridesmaids. Flower girls were Anna Marie Buccola, Vicki Buccola, Diane Ward and Nancy Mitchell.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Grack, Arlington, Minn., asked James Cook to be his best man. Ushering the 150 guests to their places were John Roberts, Victor Buccola and Gordon Mitchell.

A reception followed in the church Fellowship Hall.

The bridegroom is a University of Minnesota alumnus and plans to enter graduate school at California State College, Long Beach. Mrs. Grack holds a degree from the college and will study there in the fall.

Upon their return to Long Beach, Sept. 12, the newlyweds will live at 2722 E. Third St.

Judith Crawford engaged to wed Lt. (j.g.) Schrock

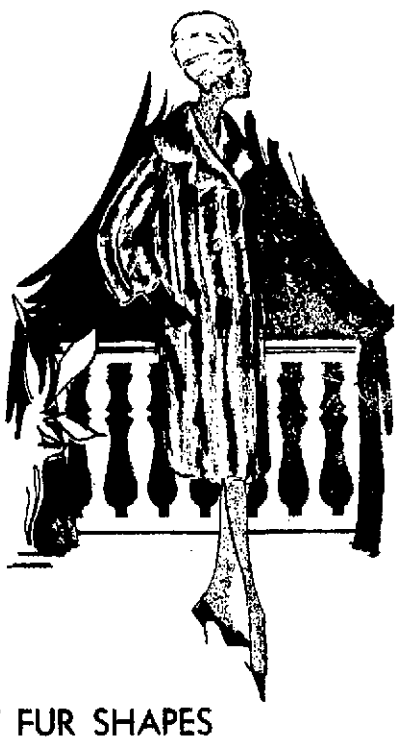

Dr. and Mrs. James M. Crawford of Long Beach announce the engagement of their daughter, Judith A., to Lt. (j.g.) Edward Lee Schrock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Schrock of Middleton, Ohio.

The bride's father is president of the Long Beach Board of Education.

The bride-elect, a graduate of Lakewood High School and Long Beach City College, is an alumna of Colorado State College in Greeley, Colo. She now is teaching in Westminster.

Her fiance was graduated from Alderson-Broaddus College in Philippi, W. Va., where he was president of Epsilon Tau Eta Sigma. He also is a graduate of Naval Officers Candidate School in Newport, R.I., and is serving aboard the aircraft carrier Bon Homme Richard as public affairs officer.

The couple will marry in the fall of 1967 when Lt. Schrock returns from Viet Nam.

Opulent art of Asia Minor spans 8,000 years

'BIRD' BY HERB GRISWOLD
. . . in drawing show at L.B. Museum

TENOLD PETERSON'S DRAWING IS UNTITLED
. . . great variety in new 'Arts of Southern California' exhibit

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Years of effort by government officials, museum curators, and scholars in Turkey and the United States have culminated in an exhibit of the most priceless art ever found in Asia Minor, "Art Treasures of Turkey."

The spectacular collection will have its West Coast premiere in the Lytton Gallery of Los Angeles County Museum of Art, 5905 Wilshire Blvd., Friday and will continue through Sept. 25. The 280 objects represent many civilizations which flourished in this ancient part of the world.

There are examples of monumental stone sculpture, finely wrought gold vessels, handsome ceramics from the Hittite, Classical, Byzantine and Islamic periods. Masterpieces from Troy, precious objects from the kingdoms of Midas and Croesus and a survey of styles and eras of art produced in ancient Anatolia — now Turkey — for more than 8,000 years dazzle the viewer.

Among the elegant objects are gold jewelry from Troy; a Koran cover of gold set with diamonds, emeralds and rubies; embroidered textiles, illuminated manuscripts, Roman marble statuary and portraits of Emperor Trajan, Sultan Suleyman the Magnificent and Alexander the Great.

An illustrated catalog will be for sale. Admission is 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for students. The museum is open Tuesdays through Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. During this exhibit, the Lytton Gallery also will be open Fridays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

After the Los Angeles showing, the exhibit will go to Philadelphia, Houston, Kansas City, Mo., Seattle, San Francisco, Milwaukee, Boston and New York City.

THE "ARTS of Southern California XIX: Drawing" show, which was originated by Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., opened last Sunday and will continue until Aug. 28. It will begin a two year nationwide tour Sept. 1.

Emphasizing the creativity of Southland artists, it includes work by 25 men and women working in many media. Among them are Joseph Mugnaini, Douglass Parshall, Tenold Peterson, Jan Stussy, Herb Griswold, Betye Saar and Robert W. Brown.

The museum is open Tuesdays through Fridays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. and is closed Mondays.

WILLIS J. PIPER, president of Spectrum Club, has arranged with the mayor of Yokkaichi, Long Beach's sister city, for an exchange art exhibit.

Twenty oil and water color paintings have been shipped by Spectrum Club members for a showing in Yokkaichi in September, and Japanese paintings are en route for exhibit here.

THE NEWLY-FORMED Westminster Art Association is looking for members. Meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. on the second Thursday of the month; workshops begin at 9 a.m. on first Saturdays at the Bolsa Chica Park, 13660 University St.

LOYCE CARHART is artist of the month at the Unitarian Church, 5450 Atherton St., showing oils, water colors and collages. Recipient of many awards, she has exhibited at Long Beach Museum of Art, California State College at Long Beach and Long Beach Art Association.

NINETEEN woodcuts and engravings by Albrecht Durer are featured at Sears-Vincent Price Collection, 8478 Melrose Place, Los Angeles. They may be seen Monday through Saturday.

OPEN HOUSE today at Yelland Gallery, 1216 N. Tustin Ave., Orange, will introduce a one-woman show by Phyllis Hollands-Robinson, Midwest impressionist painter.

Her 23 canvases will hang through Sept. 17. The gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week.

Pam Lewis signed at Anaheim

Theater doors are ajar for pretty Pamela Lewis, 17, student at St. Anthony's High School. Producers Sammy Lewis and Danny Dare of Melodyland Theater, Anaheim, have signed her for roles in "Call Me Madam," opening Tuesday, and "Kiss Me Kate,' which opens Sept. 6.

Pamela, 111 lbs., 5 feet 4, is a dark blonde with huge hazel eyes. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Leech, she is a resident of Artesia. Here father is a Los Angeles drama critic.

In March, during her junior year, Pamela won Best Supporting Actress Award at St. Anthony's for "her hilarious portrayal of Mme. Duval" in the school play, "Madame D'Arblay."

Varied events at Bowl

Jane Marsh, grand prize winner in the recent Tchaikovsky International Competition in Moscow, conductor Andre Previn, and the Viennese tenor Waldemar Kmenet are among stars that will shine in Hollywood Bowl this week.

Previn will conduct Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra on Tuesday evening. Pianist Peter Serkin will be soloist.

Thursday evening Kmenet will make his North American debut with co-soloist Hilde Gueden, soprano. Returning to the Bowl podium as guest will be the conductor of the Wiener Volksoper, Anton Paulik, in his only American appearance this year. Paulik was a Bowl sensation two seasons ago.

THE MUSIC, a feast of Viennese operetta and waltzes, will include works by Johann, Oscar and Joseph Strauss, Carl Millocker, Kreisler-Paulik, Franz Lehar, Emmerich Kalman and Franz von Suppe.

Saturday evening the Hollywood Bowl pops Orchestra will be conducted by Skitch Henderson. The concert of opera and light musical theater will have as soloists the American winners of the recent Tchaikovsky International Competition in Moscow: San Francisco soprano Miss Marsh, 24, grand prize winner; Baltimore soprano Veronica Tyler, 28, second prize winner; and New York baritone Simon Estes, 28, third prize winner.

Musicians to jazz up Concerts in Grove

Jazz — booming and bold by a big brass band—sung by groups and individuals—styled by combos—will fill the air Wednesday evening for Concerts in the Grove's first "Jazz Night."

This Associated Students special events committee program is being given in conjunction with the National Stage Band Camp which will be at California State College, Long Beach, today through Saturday.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the patio of Soroptimist House on campus.

Program headliner will be the 562nd U.S. Air Force Reserve Band from Van Nuys, conducted by Capt. Robert Brunner from Walt Disney Studios. The 15-piece band is made up of outstanding Southland recording and studio musicians.

THE GARY David Group, featuring vocalists Alice and Rhae Bieldfeldt, will present jazz numbers and "notions," a humorous montage of sounds and words spliced together on tape.

The National Stage Band Camp is directed by Leon Breedon of North Texas State University in Denton. Students from all over the Southwest will attend the week-long workshop, studying with outstanding Hollywood jazz musicians. Both students and faculty will play sets Wednesday evening.

ONE OF THE college combos, the Richard Carpenter Trio, recently won the sweepstakes award as the best group at the Battle of the Bands in Hollywood Bowl. Others to be heard are The Chosen Few and the Continental Jazz Sextet.

Concerts in the Grove will continue each Wednesday through Aug. 31. A free picnic area opens at 5:30 p.m. Tickets at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students and children, will be on sale at the box office.

Borge and ballet stars at Greek

Victor Borge, the Danish pianist-humorist, opens his "Comedy in Music" Monday at the Greek Theater, Los Angeles, with duo-pianist Leonid Hambro. On the same bill will be French ballet stars Claire Sombert and Michel Bruel who are making their American debut.

The un-melancholy Dane will continue his antics at the outdoor theater through Saturday.

Borge plays an earnest man who earnestly believes that the world has gone mad. Half of his act is a wry put-down of the audience, the management, the stagehands — and most of all, music. Behind each jest is a thread of simple sanity.

Hambro, a skilled musician, plays straight man to Borge's comedy. The Parisienne dancers become involved with both of them in their zany routines.

Iranian art reflects Persia and Picasso

By VIRGINA LADDEY

"Iranian Contemporary Painting" at Cerritos College Art Gallery, 11110 Alondra Blvd., Norwalk, will continue through Friday. Viewing hours are 2 to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Iranian contemporary art, as reflected by this collection sponsored by the Iranian-American Society and the American Friends of the Middle East, is charming and fresh. Aside from traditional motifs in the Persian tradition, the influences are from the School of Paris. One sees Picasso sparkling forth again and again, especially in the bouncy drawings by Mansoor Chandriz of "Mother and Child" and "Swimmers."

GENERALLY, the works are quite small. One Iranian artist, Behdjat Sadr, is represented by five paintings. Each is entitled "Abstract" and is treated in an original way. Some of these are only 4 by 8 inches. Apparently, Sadr pours thick black paint on, wipes some off, revealing the fine grain of the canvas, and then adds dripped color sparingly.

Hosein Zenderondi uses the motifs of ancient Persia —Kufic script, allover intricate patterning with magical and metaphysical allusions—in "Lock" and "The Hand" to very good highly decorative effect.

THERE ARE, as well, watercolor landscapes, ink drawings of billowy lady musicians, handsome bright blue and white abstractions of details of Persepolis, and a captivating group of small ink drawings by Mortez Momayez of "Mythological Antics." In many instances, the ground for painting or block printing is gold foil.

Generally, the work is careful, intricate, and highly sophisticated reflecting an area whose culture was established thousands of years ago.

RICHARD V. JOHNSON 'PAINTS' MOSAIC
... Huge work takes form in sections in the garage of his home, 440 W. San Antonio Drive

NO SMALL UNDERTAKING

Artist's first venture: magnificent mosaic

By ELISE EMERY

On Saturday, May 23, 1964, at 2:31 a.m., fire roared through the sanctuary of Grace Methodist Church, Third Street and Junipero Avenue. When it was controlled at 3:30 a.m., only blackened rubble was left.

The stunned congregation quickly rallied and church services were held on schedule the following day in the church social hall. The mystery of the fire never has been solved.

By July, 1965, architects Palmer W. Power and Delma J. Daniel Jr. called for bids for a new sanctuary, and building began in September, 1965.

The architects planned a floor to ceiling mosaic just behind the altar. Several designs were considered, but none was quite right.

The minister, Rev. Stanley C. Brown, asked Richard V. Johnson, member of the congregation and husband of the church secretary, for suggestions.

Johnson, a commercial artist who designs custom billboards, that morning, Nov. 7, 1965, had seen a story and pictures in the Independent, Press-Telegram of the Sculpture Symposium at California State College, Long Beach.

As he thought about the mosaic, it occurred to him that, as was done for the symposium, modern materials could be used with impact for the church mosaic.

WITHIN a couple of hours he had finished a small water color sketch which he felt could best be executed in tile. The church's official board approved, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Gieck commissioned the work as a memorial to their late parents. Then began a search for a mosaicist to translate the sketch into a finished work 18½ feet wide and 25 feet high.

They couldn't find the right person.

Johnson's friends who knew his background, asked, "Why don't you do it?"

A lithe man, with brown hair, eyes bright blue behind gold-rimmed glasses, and a quick grin, Johnson was a free lance artist in New York and Los Angeles, exhibited with the American Water Color Society in New York, has taught at Seal Beach Artists League, and is a member of Long Beach Spectrum Club and Laguna Beach Art Association.

But he had never done a mosaic—not even the do-it-yourself-kit kind. So he refused.

He did, however, agree to ask his friends, Joe and Esther Dendel who have the Denwar Studio in Costa Mesa, to suggest a mosaicist.

"Do it yourself!" they insisted. "We'll advise you."

JOHNSON first worked out the technical details—13 sections ranging from 4 by 7½ feet to 4 by 10 feet, each on a base of compressed sheets of cement and asbestos fastened to a frame of 1 by 4 inch wood. These will be bolted flush through the wall to the studding.

Johnson chose to work with ceramic tile because of its great, subtle range of color. He has cut each 5½ by 8 inch tile into small pieces with nippers, buttered them with adhesive and placed them on the backing. When the mosaic is completed, it will contain some 200,000 pieces of tile and will weigh about 2,100 pounds.

Central in the design is the figure of Christ. A cross behind him is broken to show Christ's triumph and the cross has small pieces of the burned sanctuary worked into it. The head of Mary represents women in Christianity, heads of the apostles represent the dissemination of Christian teaching, and small calligraphic figures circle a pedistal signifying the firmament.

On Sept. 11, when Bishop Gerald Kennedy conducts the first service and consecration of the new sanctuary, the congregation will see the top half of the great mosaic in place. The compelling eyes of Christ dominate the work.

"I did the face first," Johnson said. "I knew if it wasn't right, I couldn't do the work at all."

When Phil Hood, Sunday School superintendent, saw the sketch for the mosaic he exclaimed, "It's John 12:32!"

The verse reads: "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me."

SADDLERS AND FLAG-HORSES FORM PRETTY PICTURE IN PARADE

They pace, instead of race, to win

HORSES ARE A SADDLERS' BEST FRIEND
... Joyce Mallet of Long Beach visits Julie, the horse at lunch time.

By MARGARET McKEAN
Staff Writer

Riding is a serious avocation when 23 other women on 23 horses are depending on you, your horse, your timing and your spacing.

So it is with the Saddlers. They pace instead of race their horses. Their high-stepping is gaited, their spirits are disciplined.

Riding in close formation ("your neighbor's spurs are only two inches from yours"), the Saddlers command half a ton of horse power with imperceptible rein work.

The women met through their love for horses... and they practice hard to present the beautiful picture they do in parades and drills.

The ring at Rolling Hills Municipal Stables reverberates Thursday nights with the sound of horses in canter and whistles in command.

ACKNOWLEDGED as best in performance and leadership is Heather Malcolm—an egghead intellectual who, by profession, is a mathematician for an airspace firm in Torrance.

In the saddle, she puts horses and riders through paces designed to present a beautiful picture.

"In parades, the picture's the thing," said Long Beach Saddler Joyce Mallett. "In competition, when we're being judged, we not only have to look good, we have to BE GOOD."

Adding atmosphere are their sharp Kentucky-styled jodphurs, white pleated and gaited shirts, black boots, saddle derbies, white gloves and scarlet ties.

The horses are slicked up and smart... and they're 'on' to a military beat. "We enter the ring two abreast and work in circles," said Mrs. Mallett. "Horses just aren't constructed to go in squares."

Horse masters though they are, there ARE times when crowds, music and flags (especially flags) can throw a gal. Like the time in Dominguez when a flagstaff broke, a horse broke formation and the rider landed smack on her dignity.

It's times like these when it helps to recount trophies the group has won since its formation in 1940. As numerous as the years they attest to the Saddlers' appearances the length and breadth of the state.

PROFESSIONAL as they are, they welcome novices to the RH stables.

"We take them REALLY green and teach 'em," explained Mrs. Mallett. "Sometimes it's easier to teach a novice than a woman who has done Western riding.

"A Western rider sets to the jog; an English rider comes up with the trot. Once they learn to "post," we can drill a gal to ride in formation —the most unsettling kind of riding sometimes."

Besides being horse troopers, the Saddlers are homemakers, mothers, career girls.

Mrs. Oric Rutledge is an employment counselor in Los Angeles... Mrs. James Freese, a homemaker in Orange County... Mrs. Morris Roden, a bookkeeper in Venice... Mrs. Mallet, a court steno in Long Beach.

Though tops in their professional fields, all concur that nothing's more exciting than "a horse beneath you doing in precision what you command."

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Shower for a three-time bride?

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a friend who was recently married for the third time. Now I have received an invitation to a wedding shower for her that is marked "miscellaneous gifts."

Is this considered proper and in good taste?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS:

Let me quote from two sources: Carol Morgan: "There is no obligation to present a gift to a previously married bride, but friends and relatives may wish to do so." Emily Post: "Few people send presents for a second marriage, but there is no objection to anyone's doing so if they wish."

I find no mention of a third marriage but, as you can see, it is not improper nor in bad taste to give presents to any bride. M.M.

P.S. It is, however, bad taste to send announcements or invitations of the remarriage of a divorcee.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Can you tell me why, when a group of people are pledging allegiance to our Flag, some of them just stand there with their mouths shut, not saying a word? Even during our national anthem they don't sing.

Are these people ashamed of our country? Are they unpatriotic? Surely, they know the words!

I think it's terrible. I'm not very old yet but this is our country and we should show some respect for it. I think it's a wonderful place and, to me, it's an insult not to participate in expressions of loyalty.

ALMOST FOURTEEN

DEAR ALMOST 14:

Some people don't sing because they can't carry a tune in a bushel basket. They know it and they are shy. They don't realize that they probably wouldn't be heard anyway and, besides, there are a heck of a lot of us who can't sing worth a darn.

As for saying allegiance, there is no excuse for not taking part. There may be a few who don't know the words; most people know most of them anyway.

I really can't explain some people, but let me say "three cheers for kids like you!" M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My 16-year-old daughter will be going to a dance in a few weeks and we're having a little hassle over the time she should be home. Her escort is 17.

The dance will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. and when she told me she wouldn't be home until 3 or 3:30 I was a little put out, to say the least. I told her 2 or 2:30 was plenty late enough for her.

Since our little discussion she's mad at everyone. What time do you think these kids should be home, Molly? MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

Your "2 or 2:30" is plenty late enough (if not too late!) for your daughter to get in, whether she likes it or not.

So she's "mad"! Just stick to your guns and ignore her tantrum. You're still the boss—I hope. M.M.

JACOBY

Club play caused comment

Here is a hand which caused quite a stir some 30 years ago. The excitement had nothing to do with the actual result. South went up with dummy's queen of hearts at the start. Then he thought a long while before he led a club, finessed his queen, laid down his ace of clubs and continued with his last club to knock out East's king.

East returned a heart. South won and thought some more. Finally he led the jack of spades, overtook with dummy's queen after West played low and ran off the nine tricks for his contract.

The first discussion concerned South's club play. If he had held the first club trick in dummy he would have been able to make game without risking the spade finesse but he would have gone down a lot if West had held the king of clubs and returned a spade after taking it.

THE REAL excitement started when East suggested that his partner could have opened a spade and set the hand. South replied that no lead would have beaten him. East was skeptical and offered to bet. South took the bet and won.

Take a few moments now and see if you can figure out how South would make three no-trump against that spade lead.

Here is the play. He wins the first spade with dummy's queen and promptly cashes his ace. Silly? Not exactly! He discards his ace of hearts on the ace of spades. Then he leads the jack of clubs and lets it ride.

Two more club leads take care of East's king. Finally South leads his eight of hearts. The queen of hearts will now be a sure entry to dummy and South winds up with two spades, one heart and six clubs.

DR. LAWRENCE L. KAVANAU

CHEF OF WEEK

His eggs launch an 'A-ok' flavor

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Food Editor

Long Beach can claim a very personal part in Gemini launchings—all because of today's Chef of the Week, Dr. Lawrence L. Kavanau, assistant to the president, North American Aviation, Inc.

Here's what he did—"... developed the preliminary aerothermodynamic design of early fleet ballistic missiles and nose cones, and worked on design and instrumentation requirements for ICBM reentry vehicles."

Prior to his present position, Dr. Kavanau spent three years at North American's Space & Information Systems Division as executive vice president-technical.

He received his BS degree in engineering and his MS degree in aeronautical engineering from the University of Michigan in 1949. Initial pursuit of his engineering education was interrupted by service in the U.S. Army Air Force.

Kavanau has since spent two years with the California Institute of Technology as project engineer for the Cooperative Wind Tunnel and later as head of the Wind Tunnel Operations at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory. In 1951, he joined UC at Berkeley as a Research Associate, and in 1954 received his PhD in mechanical engineering.

From 1961-63, Dr. Kavanau was special assistant for space to the Director, Defense Research and Engineering. During this period, he was a member of the Gemini Planning Board, served as deputy chairman of the Large Vehicle Planning Group.

In 1962, he was selected by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of the 10 outstanding young men in Federal Service and received the Arthur Fleming Award.

He and his wife, Shirley, son, Jerry, 15, and daughters, Laura and Sandy, 12 and 10, respectively, indulge in tennis, golf and bridge.

He DOES like to cook, and when in France last year bought Shirley an Encyclopedia of Cooking which he looks into for new recipes. Today, he's chosen La Sauce Mornay over Eggs Florentine.

EGGS FLORENTINE

Place chopped spinach, simmered in butter, as a base in a fireproof dish.

Arrange soft boiled or poached eggs in spinach. Cover with Mornay sauce (recipe below). Sprinkle with grated cheese and melted butter. Brown the top in a very hot oven and serve.

La Sauce Mornay

- 5 tblsp. butter
- 5 tblsp. flour
- 2 cups milk
- ½ cup sour cream
- 2 egg yolks
- ⅓ cup freshly grated Gruyere cheese
- ⅓ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
- 4 tblsp. butter
- salt, pepper, nutmeg to taste

Combine butter and flour together to make a roux and cook slowly for 8 minutes. Add the milk and stir to blend. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Lower the heat and simmer the sauce gently, uncovered, for at least 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Do not allow more than a gentle bubble and it should NOT boil. When the sauce is creamy and somewhat thickened, add ¾ cup or so of the hot sauce to the egg yolks, cream and butter (beaten together in small bowl), stirring vigorously.

Add this to sauce remaining in bowl and blend well. Return to low fire and heat gently, stirring continuously, until thickened, but do not allow boil. Correct the seasoning and sprinkle a scant half of each kind of cheese over the surface of the sauce. Allow to stand until melted. Carefully blend into sauce. (The remaining cheese is used to sprinkle over the top of the completed dish before glazing in the oven.

ROLLS ON LARGE CASTERS — Large easy rolling casters let the HOOVER move about with complete ease. Store it in one place . . . use it in another.

SAVES $$ ON DETERGENT — The washing action is so efficient it needs less detergent than any agitator or tumbler-type washer. It has a SUDS-SAVER, too!

FAMILY SIZE LOADS — 2 Double Sheets, plus pillow cases or 36 diapers, 12 men's shirts, 22% of capacity of most washers in use. Washes even the most delicate things.

NO OTHER WASHER IS SO FAST — The HOOVER washes a load of laundry in only four minutes. And gets clothes cleaner than automatics do in a full washing cycle.

TURBO-ACTION ENERGY DISK — The unique HOOVER energy disk, located on the back of the washer tub, actually surges water through the clothes. This remarkable wash action gets clothes really clean.

DRIES IN SECONDS — The clothes are spun at the amazing speed of 2000 RPM, which enables the washer to extract the water and suds in just seconds. No other unit can match the performance of the HOOVER.

SAVES $$ ON WATER — Uses only ½ the amount of water that most automatics use. Saves 100 gallons every 5 loads.

NO PLUMBING NECESSARY — Needs no plumbing, needs no installation. Just roll the HOOVER to any sink, slip on the hose and start washing. Pump empties washer automatically.

BEAUTY EVERYWHERE

Visit to Hawaii calls for encore

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

Most of my friends and acquaintances have visited Hawaii and, having luxuriated in ample serendipity as well as all the pleasures they hoped for, either have returned or are gorging their piggy banks with that objective in mind.

Wanting to return to Hawaii can be a disease that sometimes proves near fatal. Take my own case: I have been there numerous times and it had become such a growing attachment that the last time I set foot there I caught myself inquiring about rentals on a permanent basis.

LOOKING BACK, I am aware that the disease hit me hardest on Kauai which I think is my favorite spot on earth; an island over which I invariably travel at a slow pace when possible in order that I may dream in its romantic past while hopelessly under the influence of its ethereal beauty.

Kauai, a mere dot in the world's biggest ocean with deep canyons and singing rivers, is not called the Garden Island for nothing. Nowhere on six continents have I encountered a more spectacular massed display of flowering plants, trees and vines in a setting unbelievably green. The rainbow must have been invented here. Certainly it is no wonder that Kauai was the favorite island of the early Polynesians.

Today's Kauai, like the other tempting Neighbor Islands, comes through with always-hoped-for but seldom-found dividends for the visitor: it has splendid highways over which carefully planned tours assure that little of the natural beauty will be missed; and some hotels like the Coco Palms which while blending so artfully with the landscape you would hardly know they exist, offer typical Hawaiian hospitality and luxurious comfort along with such amenities as the islands' traditional evening conch shell ceremony and dark-skinned native girls dancing to the lullaby of the hula.

WHAT SADDENS ME is that I have a few friends and neighbors—not many but a few—who have never been in Hawaii to drink in these sights and sounds and to grace their memories with them. This should not be, for it is easier to take off for Honolulu from Southern California than from anywhere else and to get there more economically and quickly—a little more than four hours by plane, or five never-to-be-forgotten days and nights on a luxury liner.

Understandably, Hawaii anticipates a million visitors a year by 1970. Maybe these underprivileged friends of mine will make it yet.

SS Canberra here Aug. 21

Vacationers whose travel plans have been frustrated by the U.S. airline strike can still make last minute arrangements for an ocean voyage to Mexico, the Caribbean or Europe on the superliner Canberra, leaving within two weeks.

Trips as short as three days to Acapulco or as long as 47 days to Europe and back are offered in a number of travel opportunities offered by the British steamship line.

Canberra will arrive at the Port of Los Angeles Aug. 21 with nearly half of its 2,000 accommodations available for last minute bookings, due to its delay in sailing caused by the British shipping strike.

Fares on the 16-day voyage to England start at $525 first class and $388 tourist. Shorter voyages to Nassau, Balboa and even Acapulco, with return by air, are available, the company reported. The fare to Acapulco on the Canberra starts at $144 first class and $115 tourist.

Ambassador Tours has a 47-day package that features round trip passage on the Canberra and an 11-day holiday in Europe for $998.

Brochures and information on the Canberra sailing are available at the Los Angeles office of the steamship line, 611 W. 7th St.

HAWAII VISITORS will see—or may go—on a shoe-shedding picnic in almost any of Oahu's 32 beach parks, or on hundreds of spots on the Neighbor Islands.

JETTING THROUGH PARADISE

5 Hawaiian islands add up to adventure

By Dorothy Gale Vigil

It's good sense to explore five scenically different resort islands in Hawaii.

True, most holidayers still make Waikiki their headquarters, since Honolulu International Airport is only a half hour's drive away and passenger liners berth in downtown Honolulu, 20 minutes by taxi from Waikiki. But from Oahu they schedule all-exppense package or independent tours to Maui, Kauai, Hawaii island and Molokai.

While Waikiki specializes in urbane beach life, international shopping, dining and entertainment, the Neighbor Islands are noted for the pace and atmosphere of "old Hawaii." They are the country cousins of sophisticated Oahu, site of the capitol at Iolani palace.

With the newly arrived inter-island jets, no resort island is more than a 40-minute flight from Oahu. Thus the expense of doing the grand all-island circuit is far from prohibitive.

* * * *

IN LESS TIME than it takes to glance over the Honolulu paper, you can jet to Kauai or Maui, with seaside resorts or mountain lodges available at either. Your plane shoots above coral reefs, occasional cavorting porpoises or whales, fishing sampans and often yachts under full canvas. Later you may see some of these sights aboard a deep sea fishing boat or excursion launch based on one of the Neighbor Islands.

You zoom above silvery pineapple and cane fields before landing. At Kauai you put down in the center of a sugar plantation and, stepping out of the airport, look up to Mt. Waialeale that dominates the entire landscape of the verdant Garden Isle.

In between swimming at pandanus-edged Kauai beaches, you'll drive to Waimea, a miniature Grand Canyon, cruise up the river to a fern-curtained cave or explore sea caves and fishponds built by the legendary menehues, Hawaiian elves. You can also visit a cactus and plumeria garden, a sea geyser and a hotel where Hawaiian lads light half a hundred torches among thousands of palms at cocktail time.

* * * *

ON THE ORCHID Island of Hawaii, site of part of Hawaii Volcanoes National Park, you'll motor through giant fern forests to reach recently active volcanoes. You'll tramp through lava tubes, fields of orchids and the one-time summer palace of Hawaiian kings.

At Kailua-Kona you'll try to boat a marlin or inspect a coffee plantation. In Hilo you may picnic in a Japanese-landscaped park or tour an orchid nursery. At Honokaa you might hire horses and ride into Waipio, the valley of the lost tribe.

Maui island likewise has volcanoes, tall ferns and wild orchids, waterfalls and good swimming beaches. In Iao valley stands a needle-like pinnacle that once inspired Mark Twain. Not far away, surfcasting from black lava rocks is a favorite sport and good horses are for hire in Kula uplands, where you ride by fields of carnations and akulikuli being grown for leis.

* * * *

MOLOKAI island is for you if you like off-trail sightseeing. There is a no-frills seaside inn, often headquarters for hunters of wild deer, goats and boar in the upper forests near 13,381 Mt. Nana. The fishing waters of Penguin bank, a submerged "finger" of the "Friendly Island," are among the richest and most untapped in Hawaii.

Getting back to Oahu, a circle trip is a must. You drive past the burying grounds of Hawaiian kings, then over a 1,000-foot gap in the Koolau Mountains. After this you might stop for a dip at any of the dozens of public beach parks. Most have water and cooking or camping facilities.

If it's Saturday, you may be taking in the hukilau, a fishing festival and feast put on by Windward Samoans to raise funds for their church. Farther on from Laie, the good paved road slides through cane and pineapple fields, plantation towns and Pearl Harbor before leading back to Honolulu and Waikiki.

All in all, five Hawaiian islands add up to more variety and adventure than just one. It's a fortunate visitor who sees them all!

NEARLY 200 VARIETIES of flowering orchid plants are on view daily at Foster Park Botanical Garden on the island of Hawaii.

Traveling with Stan Delaplane

PARIS — European room waiters carry a passkey. When they bring breakfast, they knock once and leap right into your room.

Americans, accustomed to waiters who wait for "Come in," are often surprised. When you order breakfast, keep your shirt on. And if you can't find the light switch in a French bathroom, look under the wash bowl—about knee level. Not always, but often it's there.

* * * *

"I understand you can buy an electric plug that will adapt our American plugs to European outlets."

TRUE. The European plug is two round prongs, wider apart than ours. Our flat-prong plug will fit into the adapter plug. You can buy them in some of our hardware stores or overseas. Look for electrical stores near big tourist hotels.

An adapter plug is NOT a transformer. It's just a way of getting your American plug hooked up to the electricity. No good at all for Britain or Portugal where they use 220 volts. (Our equipment is made for 110 volts.)

* * * *

"When we leave London for Paris can we change our English money back into dollars?"

YOU CAN. But don't do it. Buy French francs with it—either at London or Paris airport banks. Each time you change money, you pay a banker's fee. Pounds to dollars to francs simply adds one unnecessary transaction.

* * * *

"Where do you change money in Mexico please?"

AT THE BANKS. The rate is pesos 12.50 to the U.S. $1. Banks give you 12.49. Hotels go 12.45 or less—irritating since you know they get the full rate each day when they go to the bank. Pay your hotel bills in pesos, too. If you use U.S. cash or travelers' checks, they take the usual bite off the top. (An exception is the popular and inexpensive Hotel Geneve where you always get bank rate exchange.)

* * * *

"We have heard that you must have a license for a cigarette lighter when you go through Portugal. . . ."

NOT TOURISTS. If you live in Portugal, you must buy an annual license for your lighter. And when you get into Spain, be SURE to buy foreign lighter fluid. The local stuff can't be lit with a blowtorch. It gums your lighter forever. One of the mysteries is how they sell it. And who buys it.

* * * *

"Can you advise us on tipping in Japan?"

LOCAL PEOPLE — Japanese or foreigners — don't seem to tip anybody. If they do, it is really for extraordinary service of some kind. A true gift. I've had tips accepted in big tourist hotels. And I've had them refused.

A service percentage goes on hotel and restaurant bills. So you needn't tip hotel employes or waitresses. No tips for taxi drivers. Exceptions: the baggage porters at railways and airports live on their tips. Japanese out on the town usually tip the hat-check girls at nightclubs. Also the hostesses who sit with customers. (The hostess who baby-sits you has a fixed hourly charge. But she gets tipped too. Nightclub spending gives you plenty face.)

At Japanese inns—ryokans—it's customary to leave a little extra with your maid. "Cha-dai" or "tea money." Envelope it. It's not nice to hand raw money around. She splits it around the rest of the staff.

Four-island cruises set for Lurline

Matson's luxury liner, the Lurline, will make three four-island cruises to Hawaii during the fall and winter months, it is announced by D. R. McCurdy, district sales manager, Los Angeles.

On each cruise, the big ship will visit the islands of Oahu, Kauai, Maui and Hawass. Each cruise is for 15 days, during which time the ship is the hotel for all passengers.

The first cruise, timed for the Makahiki, ancient Hawaiian Thanksgiving celebration, departs Los Angeles Harbor Oct. 29. A visit to each port will be marked by traditional games, lavish dances and ceremonies. A highlight of the trip will be the visit to Lahaina, on Maui, where the annual whaling spree will be under way.

On the second cruise, departing Los Angeles Dec. 21, shipboard companions will celebrate Christmas and New Year's at sea in addition to participating in happy holiday festivities in the islands.

The Lurline's Winter Paradise cruise will put out of Los Angeles on Jan. 28 on warming seas, and find Hawaii at a balmy 70 degrees under tropic skies.

Berlin popular

West Berlin continues to increase in popularity with travelers from abroad. Incomplete figures for 1965 indicate an increase of at least 11% over such tourism in 1964.

Vegas hotel will tower 36 stories

The tallest and most significant skyscraper in Nevada will tower over the 35-acre Aladdin Hotel, according to Milton Prell, president of the Prell Hotel Corp.

The Aladdin's new wafer-shaped addition—stretching 36 stories above the Strip—will encompass more than 700 new rooms and suites to mark the Prell resort as the second largest in Nevada.

A contract from the hotel corporation has been awarded to architect Martin Stern, Jr., Beverly Hills, for drawings of the new addition.

* * * *

THE TOP five floors will incorporate 50 of the most lavish guest suites in the resort industry, a 750-seat convention hall, elaborate men's and women's health clubs and two gourmet restaurants.

At the base of the new complex will be the main convention hall, seating 1,000 persons; a spacious subterranean exhibit area; a 1,500-seat showroom and 500-seat lounge; a motion picture and recording theater, and an indoor swimming pool.

The 1,000-seat convention area, coupled with the 750-seat convention section at the top of the skyscraper and the current 500-seat meeting area will place the Aladdin in the top of the convention market on the Strip.

Tax-free gems

Passengers in the Sky Shop at Brussels National Airport may now purchase cut diamonds on a tax-free basis. A guarantee, issued under the control of the Antwerp Diamond Board, certifies the stones for purity and weight in carats. No passengers, however, may enter the Sky Shop except those leaving Brussels by air for destinations outside the Benelux countries, reports Pan Am which serves Brussels by Jet Clipper.

BLUE STAR MOTHERS LAUNCH PROJECT

HONOR SERVICEMEN ABROAD

Blue Star Moms begin project

Blue Star Mothers of America are returning service flags—a white banner with a blue star — to windows in honor of men and women serving military tours of duty in Viet Nam.

Founded in 1942 as a patriotic service organization, the national group is non-profit, non-political, non-racial and non-sectarian.

Membership is open to mothers, adopted and step mothers of sons or daughters who served in the armed services during World War II, the Korean conflict or are serving at the present.

Its goals:

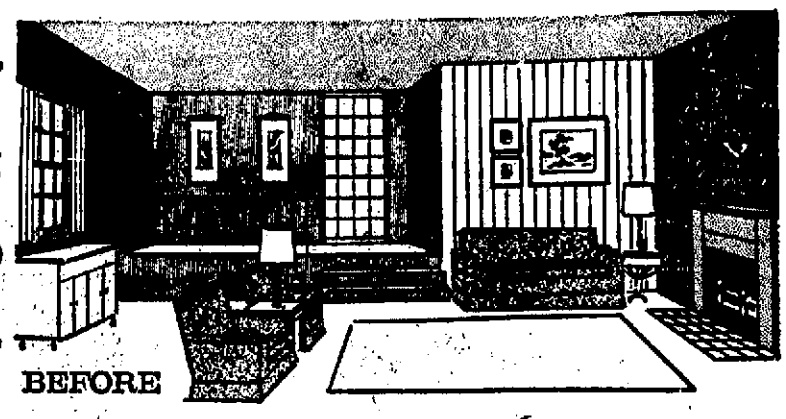

Support and study of legislation before Congress concerning welfare of veterans and the national security.

Providing services to Veteran's Administration Hospitals.

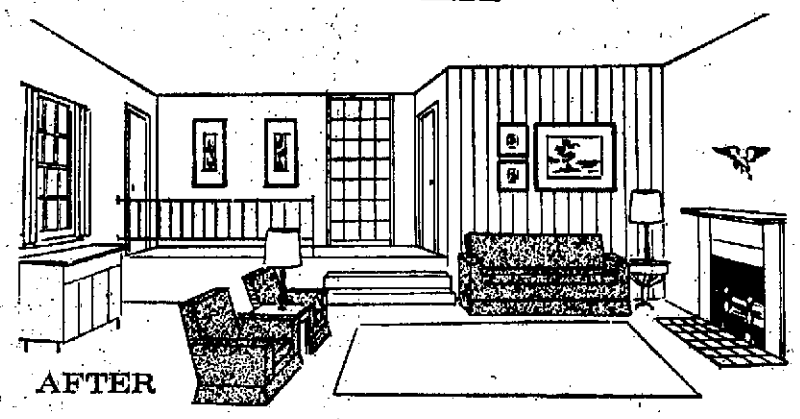

Participating in community projects and fund drives.

Regular business sessions of Long Beach Chapter I have been changed from morning to evening. Next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Thursday in room 209 of the YWCA Building, Sixth Street and Pacific Avenue.

If your rooms look too small---

BEFORE

AFTER

---try some color magic!

By JUDY HAZLETT
Home Furnishings Editor

Do you ever have the feeling the walls of the rooms in your house are actually closing in on you? Do you feel cramped, unable to be comfortable?

If you're planning to knock out a wall to give a "roomie" look . . . DON'T. It may not be necessary.

There's a trick you can play on yourself that is less expensive and can usually be as satisfying.

The secret: COLOR.

Sound silly? Well, before you jump to conclusions, sit down right now in the room under consideration and take this simple test:

1. What color are the doors? (Odds they're a natural wood tone).

2. What color is the woodwork? (More likely than not, it's a different shade than the doors—probably a light tint or white.)

3. Now, what about the walls—what color are they? (Doubtless a third color.)

4. And, finally, what color is the ceiling? (In most cases, a different shade than the walls—usually white.)

IF YOUR answers are, by some chance, the same then you're already a member of the "all one color" school of interior decorating. In this case, your room is just too small in area and you'd better drag out the sledge hammer and prepare for a "knock-out job." Removing a wall is probably the answer.

BUT, if you have answered with as many as four different colors or wood tones, or three or two, then read on.

According to Dick Johnson, AID, interior decorator at Buffums', a room will always look larger if walls, woodwork, and even doors are painted the same color.

The home decorating era when neutral beige was the Number One choice is dead, Johnson explained . . . now, patterns and bright colors are in the forefront.

But what about your room, you might ask? Should you use a light or dark color . . . small patterns . . . extremely bright carpeting?

The answers, of course, depend on the room.

But, generally speaking, according to Mr. Johnson, dark colors tend to give a feeling of infinity, pushing walls out—pushing ceilings up.

In the case of a white (or off-white) room, be careful of too many bright pieces of furniture. This choice is inclined to give that overwhelming look. White can, if used properly, act as a fence and pull walls downward.

Patterns should always be used discreetly, Mr. Johnson explained.

So, take a look around . . . which room of your home is getting smaller all the time? Bet there's at least one that needs a little enlarging.

Off hours pay off in $$s

By IOLA MASTERSON

When the breadwinner finds his (or her) income too low to provide the finer things of life for his family, he frequently becomes a multiple job holder.

In everyday parlance he is called a moonlighter. In addition to his regular job he works whatever additional hours he can, at whatever work he can find, to increase take-home pay.

As of 1965, when the last U.S. Department of Labor survey was taken, there were close to four million moonlighters in this country. The expression of moonlighter, as late as the 1950s, was a disparaging one.

The reason? Many assumed that the extra job holder was taking up work better given to the unemployed. But studies have found that's just not so. The moonlighter generally has a job an unemployed person wouldn't want or could not succeed at. The hours are too short and, frequently, the required skills too high.

Over the past decade, with the growth of service and sales industries and their appetite for part-time workers, finding extra jobs is easier.

But how do communities feel about civil and city employees working at other jobs?

Because their salaries are fixed, a U.S. Labor Department study showed, teachers, postal workers, police officers and firemen are the ones most likely to seek extra employment.

In Long Beach city employees may work up to 20 hours beyond their regular employment—but with certain definite rules. According to John Burkhardt of the city's personnel department, the department head must approve the job to be moonlighted by one of his employees. No work that interferes with his regular job or is incompatible with his duties for the city or his responsibility to the city would be approved.

For instance, a policeman definitely would not get an OK from his boss to serve as a part-time bartender. It would be incompatible with his position as a lawman. If he wanted to be a parttime gardener, door-to-door salesman (of an accredited product) or, let's say, store clerk, there would be no objection.

If the physical demands of the extra job are such that it impairs an employee's effectiveness on his regular job, no matter how proper, this would be disapproved. Also, the moonlighting could affect the worker's health, this is given careful scrutiny.

Neighboring cities all have similar rules with minor variations.

Lakewood, for instance, allows city employees to work 25 hours a week beyond regular job hours. All employees with extra jobs must file where they work and what they do and give exact hours spent.

If outside work results in a less efficient city employee, he could be subject to termination.

Seal Beach has no restrictions on hours spent moonlighting. But generally all other rules which pertain in Long Beach and Lakewood apply there.

Many newspaper reporters turn to free-lance writing as a means of padding their incomes, which is perfectly proper.

However, Buck Lanier, I.P-T naval affairs reporter, augments his weekly paycheck through a job offering him more pleasure than anything.

An accredited umpire with the Amateur Softball Association (also basketball and football official), Buck is always in demand.

With his energy he can keep up with all the ships at sea and every player on the field.

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

MISS RULE: Several months ago I requested genealogy on THOMAS. Are you picking only the ones you favor?—K.B., Long Beach.

LETTERS are answered in the consecutive order in which they are received. My request mail is heavy and I try to "favor" everyone. THOMAS was an English given-name honoring the Apostle St. Thomas whose name signified "a twin." Thomas became a family surname by 1200 A.D., recorded in many parts of Britain. Welsh Thomases from west England descended from Thomas Ap (son of) Llewellyn, last king of South Wales. This family used the Welsh royal shield, a rampant gold lion on a red, gold-bordered background. Capt. Nathaniel Thomas, born in Wales in 1606, migrated to Massachusetts, where he married Jennie Briggs. Her father arrived on the Mayflower in 1620.

MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on RAINES, RAINS — C. R., Garden Grove, L.D., D.H., Long Beach.

RAINES and RAINS are from "Regin," a warrior name meaning "son of the mighty one." The Pipe Rolls parchments of England's King Henry II list Richard de Raines in 1165. The Raines motto, "Judicum parium aut leges terrae," translates from Latin as, "We abide by the judgment of our peers or the laws of the land." The Yorkshire Raines shield is black, emblazoned with a silver chevron between three rampant silver lions.

MISS RULE: Please inform us on BREITHAUPT—A.B., Long Beach.

BREITHAUPT of Germany is a physical description of the progenitor and means "man with a broad head." The Breithaupt armorial shield from the German duchy of Saxe-Coburg is divided crosswise. The upper half is silver, decorated with a gold lion holding a gold numeral "4" in its paws; the lower half has three vertical red stripes on a silver background.

MISS RULE: Would like the origin of COLLEY—C.A., Garden Grove, F.C., Long Beach.

COLLEY of Ireland began as the clan name MacColla. In ancient Gaelic MacColla designated "Sons of the dark one." The Colley Irish shield is gold, decorated with a red rampant lion.

LUTZ began as a German nickname taken from "Luot-Wig" (Louis in English) meaning "Famous warrior." Luot-Wig was shortened to Luot, then expended to Lutz meaning "young Louis." The

Q. Aside from people, what does city air pollution damage? I see stories about its costing many millions of dollars a year.—I.D.

A. Some months ago the New York Times said: "Among the identified elements of damage from polluted air have been deterioration of stone building fronts, rusting of metal, increased consumer costs for cleaning of clothing, disintegration of nylon stockings, crop losses, shortened life of coatings of paint, increased taxes for repairs to public buildings, and a variety of other costs for householders and business men." The national economic loss caused by dirty air is estimated at $11 billion or more each year. This is in addition to the costs of sickness and death attributed to poisons and irritants in the air.

Q. By whom was the underworld of San Francisco first called "the Barbary Coast?" P. R.

A. In his book "The Barbary Coast," Herbert Asbury says: "The identity of the nomenclatorial genius who first bestowed this savage but glamorous designation upon San Francisco's underworld has not been preserved for posterity, but in all likelihood he was a sailor who had been impressed by the similarity of the quarter, in men if not precisely in methods of murder and robbery, to the Barbary Coast of Africa. In any event, the phrase was

It was on Aug. 14, 1945, with a huge invasion force massing for an expected bloody battle through Japan, that the Land of the Rising Sun laid down its arms, ending four weary years of war for the United States.—The Editor.

Countless U.S. servicemen were headed toward bloody invasion of Japan 21 years ago today when Nippon surrendered, ending World War II.

Aug. 14 Was the Day the Firing Stopped

No Man Ever Forgets How His War Ended

By Mark Clutter

EVERY MAN'S WAR ends in a different way—and no man ever forgets how his war ended.

I was the yeoman of LST 1090 but had transfer orders to Pearl Harbor and headed, I guessed, toward an invasion of Japan when we came to Tinian and Saipan in July of 1945. The sea was filled with shipping, and the B-29s, looking like great silver geese, took off every morning in flocks for the "milk run" to Japan.

We knew then that America would win the war—but we believed we would do it the hard way, fighting on the blood-drenched beaches, fighting from village to village, fighting in the alleys of great cities, fighting with tooth and knife. We had reason to know the courage of the Japanese.

At Saipan I was transferred as a passenger to an LST going to Pearl Harbor. I had no illusions that I was going away from a war. Rather, in my new assignment as a Navy journalist, I felt sure that I would hit the beach in Kyushu.

LONG WAR duty, bad seamanship and bomb hits had turned the LST into a tub of rust, a derelict. We sailed with a group of other ships for a few days. One morning we awoke in fright. There was no noise. Navy ships normally clank, shriek, moan or hum. This one was dead in the sea. And we were in the doldrums. The Pacific was flat as a pond.

There were six passengers, all college men. The boatswain's mate organized us into a work party and taught us to chip rust and paint. We did a seamanlike job and talked, talked, talked during the three-week voyage to Pearl. One motor was fixed and our speed was five knots.

We talked of literature and politics and art and science and our ambitions and sex and war and sex and war and sex and war. Being young, we were experts on such subjects. We wore shorts and were brown as Polynesians.

ONE AFTERNOON a radioman came on deck and said, "I don't know whether to believe this or not. I just heard that we dropped an atom bomb on a Japanese town. I didn't get its name but I have never heard of it."

"Lord have mercy on us," said one of the passengers, a physics major. "I knew it could happen but I didn't think it would be in this war."

Men throughout the ship seemed to sense immediately the immensity of the deed. History, they knew, had entered a new era. Nothing would ever be the same again. The day was Aug. 6, 1945.

That evening Air Force Gen. "Hap" Arnold delivered a radio address to the fleet in which he told of the destruction and predicted an early end of the war. "The age of Buck Rogers has arrived," he said.

It is hard to describe our mood. We knew that we would see our beautiful America again. But there was also a feeling of awe and dread. Victory was not a heady drink. It was brackish and flat.

I PERSONALLY felt frustrated. I am no hero and I had been building my courage for the day of battle. Bu I never heard a gun fired in anger. I knew that I would never know whether I was a brave man.

And I thought of my friends who had died and how their valor was superseded by the gadget.

Wars do not end easily. I spent months in Pearl and in Japan before I was to see the giant message, "WELL DONE," on a hill above San Diego Harbor.

Every man's war ends differently, but surely all veterans remember a stunned reaction to that day at Hiroshima.

The Bard Asked What's in a Name . . . The Answer Is: Plenty!

By Any Other Name

By Frank L. Remington

TWENTY YEARS or so from now, a lot of Michaels may be marrying Kimberlys.

Kimberly is the No. 1 name among baby girls born in Long Beach this year, says City Health Officer Dr. I. D. Litwack—and Michael is first choice for boys.

Ranking after Kimberly, the favorite girls names are Michele, Jennifer, Victoria, Renee and Julie, says the health officer.

And after Michael come David (a close runner-up), Todd, Steven and Joseph.

Ten years ago, says Dr. Litwack, the favorite girls' names were Mary, Patricia, Linda and Barbara and the favorite boys' names were William, Kevin, Gregory, James, Charles and Richard.

A spokesman for Memorial Hospital says the favorite girls' names there this year are Kimberly, Rhonda and Shirley. With boys it's John, James and Michael.

THERE ARE few Percivals, Aloysiuses or Egberts anymore, for most parents have learned a lesson taught painfully through the years:

A name is more than a means of identification, much more.

Unfortunately some of us old timers are stuck with horrendous handles—names that make each rollcall or introduction a dread ordeal. Recently over 3,000 interviewed by Harvard University investigators revealed that persons saddled with peculiar, unpopular or mirth-provoking names experience difficulty in adapting themselves to life.

Modern psychologists agree that a name can be a powerful asset or liability and that a disliked name can lead to a neurosis.

Workers, movie stars and businessmen know a name can spell success or failure. A man may be as handsome as a matinee idol and very likeable, but if his name is Benedict Arnold, Zelig Badfibber, George Bass Fish, or Ladislaw Wrebinski, he may encounter detours on the road to success.

Ladislaw Wrebinski, a factory worker in Rochester, compiled a spotty and erratic production record. He gave his foreman evasive answers and excuses for poor work and frequent absences. His wise foreman sent him to the company psychologist, where the embarrassed Wrebinski admitted: "I hate my name and shrink every time it's called out in the shop or at union meeetings!"

"How about calling yourself Larry Williams?" the psychologist suggested. "You can keep your old initials and have a new, Americanized name to boot." So Wrebinski became Williams and shortly his production record soared and his absences dwindled to zero.

IN SPITE of the difficulties they might be causing their offspring, each year thousands of moms and pops dip into the bizarre basket for names.

Not long ago a man was pulled to the side of a Southern California road for a traffic violation and when he handed his driver's license to the officer, the officer blinked twice. The errant driver's name was Safety First.

When W. 5/8ths Smith of Homerville, Ga., tells his name people must consider him slightly looney. Though uncertain, it's believed W. 5/8ths boasts the only fractional name in the country.

The courts recognize that humorous and unusual names, as well as those with upleasant connotations, can sound awkward, open their owners to ridicule and can be a distinct liability. It is estimated about 1 in 3 of us wish we could be called something else and each year about 60,000 people do legally change their names.

Theophilous Paschniewski found life simpler as Phillip Pack When Hitler came to power, there were two Hitlers and eleven Hittlers in the New York telephone directory; before World War II ended there were none.

Hundreds of cinema celebrities choose new names. Alexander Archibald Leach became Cary Grant and Frances Gumm, Judy Garland. Film fans cotton much better to Doris Day than Doris Kappelhoff and Roy Rogers instead of Leonard Slye.

THE NAMES we give our children may well hinder their chances for success and happiness. A child's name can affect his whole outlook on life, perhaps give him an inferiority complex. Two Harvard professors discovered that students with bizarre first names have more than their share of flunk-outs and social maladjustment in college.

Both boys and girls are most likely to be touchy about the humor their names may inspire. Simons don't like to be asked if they're simple; Gertrudes hate to be Gertie if they're not from Bizerte; Priscillas aren't really waiting for John Alden.

Parents of questionable humor stick their ofspring with rhyming or alliterative names such as Jerry Derryberry, Abner E. Abernathy, Richard Richards and even Brown Brown.

Some parents concoct odd sounding names in an attempt to be different, There is Homa, for example. He was the second-born of twins. Since the double event occurred in Oklahoma, the parents named the first Okla and the second Homa. Mr. and Mrs. Sunset christened their daughter Pink.

Boys' object to uncommon or "sissy" names that open them to ribbing. Any parents who tab their boy Cuthbert, Egbert, Percival, Cavendish

Just a Little Gift for You, My Dear

By Art Vinsel

IT MAY BE more blessed to give than to receive, but sometimes just giving in itself can be a blessed bother. Especially when the intended recipient is 19, cute—and suspicious of any man's motives.

My motives are just like Ivory Soap, 99 and 44/100% pure most of the time, but that other 56/100% is what you have to watch out for.

You can't really call it payola, but one in awhile a newspaperman who may be writing a feature story is offered a sample of what he's writing about, to help in producing the finished item. Call it complimentary research assistance, why don't we?

Anyway, it was my pleasure recently to visit a marketplace, which ultimately led to the acquisition of a quite marvellous Cattalya orchid. Delicately fluted at the edges and swelling from a fragile pink to an opulent violet in the whorls of the inner blossom, it was a beautiful flower. But then it clashed with my Paisley tie and besides, if I wore it some people would be scandalized.

SO IT WAS only natural that I present it to some young lovely, because beauty should be shared — with equal beauty whenever possible—and I began thinking of candidates.

My saintly, swingin' mother was on vacation in Kansas, making hay with my gasoline credit card, so she wouldn't do. Besides, I was barely making enough hay on my own to meet the challenge of that rapidly burgeoning bill for gasoline, oil, tires and a starter, which was why I was out at 3 a. m., working on a feature story after a regular eight-hour shift as police reporter ended.

Suddenly, I knew who should have the orchid.

I drove to her office—a rather relaxed place even when it should be hectic — with visions of her appreciative delight dancing in my fatigue-fogged head. By that time, I had been up for 26 hours.

"Whatcha got in the box?" she cooed seductively.

(She's one of the few girls around who can be surly and charming at the same time.)

"A present for you," said I.

SHE TOOK a slight backward step, clasping a suntanned hand to her bosom.

"All right," she demanded, "what is it?"

Her eyes might have been those of the Welcome Wagon staff from whom Manhattan Island was bought with beads. After, however, they became a little more savvy about property values.

She lifted the box from the counter gingerly, gave it a tentataive shake, then dropped it and declared it was empty.

"I bet it is not," I replied, "go ahead and open it."

She warily circled the silent, unmoving carton, like a bluetick hound with a cornered skunk, obviously piqued by the idea of me giving her an honest-to-goodness, well-meant present.

"It" she declared unequivocally, "is going to either bite me or embarrass me."

"Take your chances then," I declared hurling a bitter but rather fey laugh across the counter.

SHE EYED the box with renewed interest and a concentration bordering on X-ray vision and solemnly pronounced: "It's a caterpillar."

"Decide for yourself," I parried.

Carefully lifting it, she rattled the box decisively. The shredded waxed paper bed within rustled audibly.

"There's sand in it," she cried triumphantly and with malice "it's probably a great, big sand flea!"

Noting that it was now 27 hours since my tension-knotted self had known the comforts of sleep, I was almost ready to give up.

"Jan" I muttered dizzily, "will you open it?"

She crept into the back room so no one could see, just in case I had fooled her with some creepy-crawling thing of the type that "goes bump in the night" as the poet said.

Lifting off the lid, she found only a mass of crinkly waxed packing paper.

A Pert Young Lass Sets Her Sights on

The Long Road to the Olympics

By Ev Hosking

AS FAR AS PERT, young Kathy Wenberg is concerned, the Wright brothers did a lot more than get an airplane off the ground for the first time.

What the Wright brothers did, besides make an aeronautical breakthrough, was provide the lift that carried this 16-year-old lass to the Junior National three-meter diving championship.

But the Wright brothers were not alone in providing a springboard for her championship rise. Mixed into the story are the Fourth of July, a leading Olympic diving coach and Miss Wenberg's entire family, plus a well-traveled desk and an unending drive for perfection.

The interesting bit of confusion all began when the Wright brothers were the excuse for a memorial picnic which happened to be on the Fourth of July five years ago at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

A local coach saw the then 11-year-old youngster frolicking in the swimming pool and told her father, Maj. Walter A. Wenberg, now with the Air Force Space Systems Division at El Segundo, that she was a natural diver and should start training for the Olympics at once.

"Daddy was pretty skeptical," the attractive teenager said last week. "But he didn't object when I wanted to enter an invitational diving meet the next week."

She came in fourth in the 11-12 age group, and climbed out of the pool to tell her father that she had decided to become an Olympic champion.

IN THE FIVE YEARS since that time, her faith in her ambition has not wavered. She has gone on to place second in the 1966 Senior Women's AAU Indoor National Diving Championships (one meter); eighth in the three-meter diving in the same event; and then top spot in the 1966 Junior Nationals. Her goal now is the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City.

The climb from a tumble in a Fourth of July pool to national champion hasn't been easy.

Sacrifices had to be made by the entire family. For Kathy herself, this has meant practicing three to five hours each night for three nights a week during the school season and as much as eight hours a day during vacations.

Between excursions to the pool, she still practices—even in the living room. While reading or looking at TV she works at leg and toe stretch exercises.

One of the problems the family has had has been to find top coaching for the Olympic hopeful.

They found such a coach in Jack Roth, internationally-known diving authority, in Palos Verdes. Roth is still her teacher since the family moved to San Pedro when Maj. Wenberg was transferred to the Space Systems Division.

While Maj. Wenberg was assigned with the Air Force missile programs at Norton Air Force Base at San Bernardino, he would rush home from work to drive her to Palos Verdes for her lessons.

In order that Kathy could continue her diving and still not hamper her school program, Maj. Wenberg rigged up a "study" in the rear seat of his car. The so-called study consisted of a light and a desk where Kathy studied on the way to and from her diving lessons.

In driving Kathy to lessons and taking her to diving meets all over the country, the family has driven more than 200,000 miles. There is no subsidy, all expenses come from the family's limited budget.

BUT NO ONE MINDS the sacrifices. Kathy's diving has become a family affair, and they regulate their lives on a schedule to assist her training and attendance at meets.

"If we are sacrificing anything, we are gaining more," Maj. Wenberg says.

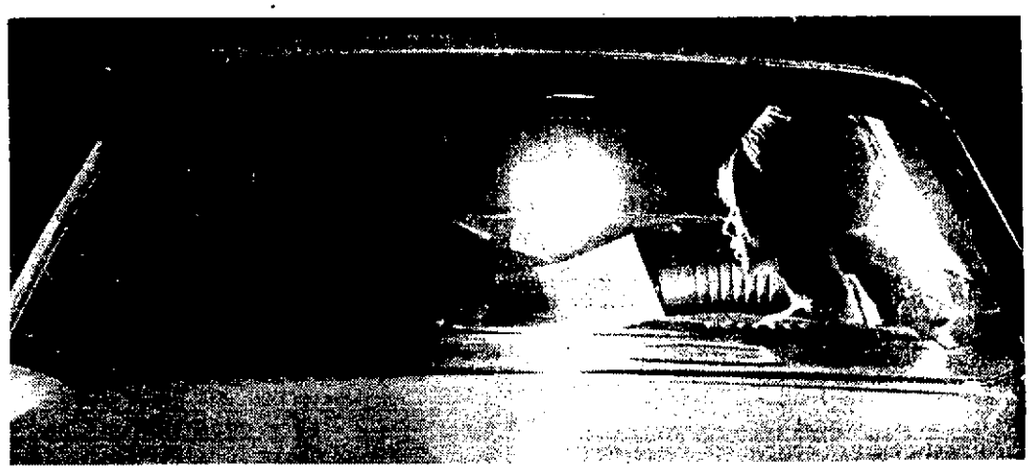

Since that Fourth of July picnic in 1961 she has entered more than 30 meets and has won at least a trophy medal or ribbon in every one.

It hasn't been easy, and there have been moments of heartbreak. In the last Los Angeles Invitational Meet she was leading on points in the one and three-meter events when she injured her hand. She couldn't hold with the hand and had to put it under her knee instead of grasping the knee as form demanded.

Even so, she managed to take fifth place against national competition.

ALTHOUGH HER Olympic dreams started on the Fourth of July, 1961, Kathy has been in the water for 15 of her 16 years. By the time she was 5½ her father—a water enthusiast since his own youth—put her in a life jacket and taught her to water ski.

And right now it looks like the pretty 16-year-old San Pedro water baby who does her studying in the back seat of the family car has a chance to achieve her ambition and become the women's Olympic diving champion.

Practice (top photo) is what makes perfect, but it cuts into school study time, so Kathy Wenberg wastes no time, uses back-seat desk to do homework on way home from workouts.

The Peaches-and-Cream Mule Skinners

Modern-day femme trailblazer is Carol Spaeth, who was pioneer muleskinner at Disneyland five years ago and now is driving team of horses at the park.

By A. C. McLeod

WHO ever heard of a mule skinner with blonde hair, blue eyes, pretty smile and peaches-and-cream complexion?

Well, that's the way they grow them in Disneyland.

And this year, Carol Spaeth, who broke the all-male mule skinner tradition at the "Magic Kingdom" five years ago, has opened up still another man-sized job for the girls by becoming the Park's first female surrey driver.

Disneyland has eight other equestriennes leading mule trains through Nature's Wonderland.

According to Disneyland's Pony Farm director, Owen Pope, the young women add a fresh, feminine touch to the Mule Train adventure that has made it especially popular with park visitors.

The job is not one for "dudes" or "drugstore cowgirls." Disneyland's horsewomen are working hands who must care for their animals when they are not guiding them down the Frontier trail.

Carol is one of four young women on a year-around basis. The other girls work during the summer season. Some of them are housewives and mothers, others college students.

EACH OF the lady wranglers has experience riding and working with animals. Carol, who grew up on a California ranch, has won many horse show and rodeo events, including a 100-mile endurance ride.

When she isn't working at Disneyland, Carol has another rather unusual job. She is a horse trader, buying steeds at auction and reselling them.

The addition of women mule skinners has made the Frontierland pack train more popular, according to Pope, because it has eliminated some superstitions about the cordiality of mules. When female guests see the girls handling the eight-mule trains with ease, they know that the mule's renowned balkiness is just an old husband's tale.

The saddle trip attracts guests of all ages. Grandparents seem to get as big a thrill as little tots, according to Carol. Winding along the trails of Nature's Wonderland is a delight for expert horsemen and novices alike.

THE TRAIL passes through back woods of Beaver Valley, Bear Country and the Living Desert.

Some guests with riding experience object to being strapped aboard their mule, a necessary safety precaution. Most, however, including experts like Harley May, a world bronc riding champion, are understanding about the procedure, Carol said.

In an era when the horse is fading from usage, working stock remains an important part of the Disneyland show. The Park has 15 draft horses, 16 ponies, 98 mules and 60 burros, all stabled at the Pony Farm.

Though they must work

One of Disneyland's nine women wranglers leads a group of guests through Frontierland town at end of a scenic trip. Lady wranglers are not "drugstore cowgirls," they are thoroughly experienced in the handling of horses, mules and burros.

The Dusty Trail

Off on another adventure, El Zopilote heads across cracked desert in Mexico, taking Long Beach expeditioners on perilous (but not dangerous) journey of uncertainty.

and the Lusty Tale of El Zopilote and Friends

SOMEWHERE in the city of Long Beach, a 1951 panel truck named El Zopilote is barreling through the streets, leaving bits of rust and burning oil behind.

Now, El Zopilote is no ordinary truck, as you've probably already guessed. He's a battle-scarred veteran of more than two dozen skirmishes south of the border, where he has borne his owner and friends in quest of adventure.

His tattered and battered chassis has excelled the feats of many a conquistador's steed as he's pushed forward more than 207,000 miles—approximately 10,000 more than when his master nearly deserted him a year ago in the Baja wastelands.

Trusty iron steed of Long Beach adventurers drew scoffing stares of Mexican natives in horse-drawn cart during time of El Zopilote's temporary illness. Iron horse recovered.

His union with Charles R. Smith of Long Beach began in 1963 when Smith, then an undergraduate student majoring in zoology at California State College, Long Beach, purchased him for $300.

An aficionado of the ways of Mexico, Smith's sole intent in buying El Zopilote was to facilitate a few quick trips south of San Diego, for it was obvious to all that the little truck's days were numbered.

But Smith's mechanized friend has been so faithful and trusty that he now serves as his master's conveyance to and from work each day at the Long Beach Naval Station as well as serving as a chariot on dates (girls, it's a charming way to travel —at first).

Soon after Smith and El Zopilote (which means "the buzzard") came together, a change came over the trusty iron steed. It sprouted, at its stern, a roof-like appendage of canvas that was calculated to shade his long-tour companions when dining alongside a Mexican roadside.

NATIVES BECAME accustomed to The Buzzard's unique roof and hand-painted signs reading "Se Venden Huevos y Pescados." (Fish and Eggs for Sale.)

At times El Zopilote's pride has been hurt. He still smarts over the memory of natives, sitting in the back section of a horse-drawn car, who laughed at his appearance as they and their nag passed him on a dirt road.

But there are other times when The Buzzard feels he's doing his part as a goodwill ambassador.

Take, for instance, the incident in the Indian village of San Isidro.

HE WAS RESTING outside a tiny cantina, where his passengers were refreshing themselves, when along came a tired Mexican laborer.

A native, under no circumstances, disturbs the vehicle of a turista from north of the border, but El Zopilote looked no different than the trucks owned by many Mexicans, so the man decided to have his lunch while sitting on Zopi's rear bumper.

Granted, the poor fellow did drop a couple of tortillas when Smith and his friends approached. In fact, the startled fellow shook his head in wonder as he watched the truck and companions start down the road.

But the Indian really looked bewildered when the bailing wire holding El Zopilote's springs together broke at the city's only intersection. Three leaves of the right rear spring clattered to the street, but The Buzzard's friends weren't inclined to stop.

THE INDIAN STILL was scratching his head as he watched the truck keeling at a dangerous angle to the right and disappearing into the horizon.

El Zopilote's closest brush with extinction was the time the fellows (Smith, Lloyd Findley, a UCLA graduate student, and Tom Richards, a University of Maine post graduate) were searching for rattlesnakes in Baja California.

The iron steed lost his patience somewhat when the boys came across an odoriferous pile of discarded tomatoes and started to pelt one another. But imagine the humiliation when after a few of the tomatoes splattered across the truck's backside, the chaps thought it would be amusing to paint him red.

Zopi reached the proverbial boiling point when the citizenry of San Vicente started laughing at the sight of a victim of a rotten tomato fight.

When the fellows rinsed him off with tepid water from a long unused well, his fuel line gave a ping and was no more.

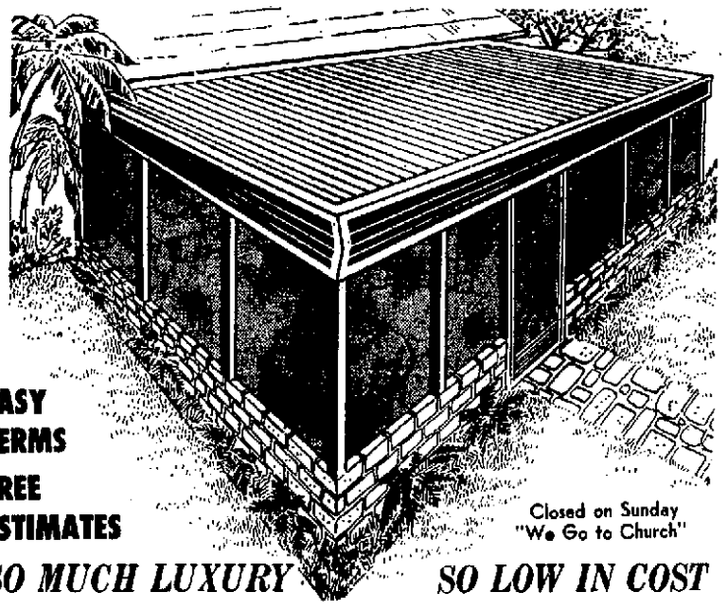

NOW, THE OTHERS were for leaving him there, but The Buzzard's loyal owner would have none of it.

A serious zoology student never goes

1 tblsp. lemon juice
1 cup water
1 cup strained plum juice
1 cup sugar
4 tblsp. cornstarch
⅛ tsp. salt

Mix thoroughly the sugar and cornstarch and stir into hot liquids. Add salt, and slowly simmer for two minutes until thickened. Cool slightly.

Filling: 6 fresh plums

Scald them by placing plums in saucepan and pouring boiling water over them. Let stand for two minutes. Skin pulls off easily. Slice wedges toward seed and cut away meat from seed. Passengers group under Lufthansa jetliner, ready to embark on one of first trans-globe commercial flights from Long Beach's now-international airport.

A 'Local' Airport Goes International

By M. E. Everett

LONG BEACH is the International City —a well advertised fact.

But the fact that Long Beach Airport is becoming an international crossroads of the air isn't nearly so well known.

It isn't a new role for the city's airport, for during World War II as headquarters for the Western Division of the Air Transport Command it demonstrated its traffic-handling capability when a plane was taking off or landing every minute of the day or night to or from some far-flung spot on the globe.

But it is a completely new operation in the modern jet age of air transportation.

One of the largest of the international air carriers has already moved its operation to Long Beach Airport, and more such moves are in prospect, according to Nicholas Dallas, the city's director of aeronautics.

Lufthansa, the German national airline, is currently operating from Long Beach Airport.

THE SUCCESSFUL and efficient manner in which Lufthansa has handled its traffic through here has caused other international carriers to seek facilities here, Dallas said.

During the current month, Lufthansa has 11 scheduled inbound flights from Europe and 11 outbound flights are slated to head for European capitals via the North Pole.

The international traffic has made it necessary for Dallas to arrange a number of innovations for the airport — including facilities for the Department of Immigration, U. S. Public Health Service, Department of Agriculture and the U. S. Customs Service, which the airport never had before.

Despite the complexity of embarking on international travel, it has been possible to process an entire planeload of passengers for a Boeing 707 through the local facilities in less than an hour.

"Our best time is 52 minutes," Dallas said, "but we plan on beating that."

A PECULIAR combination of circumstances—including the most modern of airports with the latest navigational facilities, easy access to any Southern California community, and freedom from the high-density traffic that plagues Los Angeles International Airport—has caused the larger international air carriers to seek Long Beach for their type of operation.

Physical facilities plus the ease of access are probably the most attractive features of Long Beach Airport to the foreign carriers, in the opinion of Dallas.

Captain (right) and crew of German jetliner pass through customs inspection station, a new facility at Long Beach Airport. Inspector is Duane Wordon.

Passengers wait for baggage at outdoor racks added to facilities at Long Beach Airport to handle greatly increased load since Europe-direct flights began recently.

Ease of access, he says, is particularly important. Long Beach Airport, only a stone's throw from the San Diego, Garden Grove, San Gabriel and Long Beach Freeways, is within easy reach of residents of almost any Southern California community.

Physical facilities provide a traffic handling capability that has already been demonstrated by the fact that for the past several years the airport has always been listed as one of the top five busiest in the United States without taxing its accommodations.

Long-range planning, states City Manager John R. Mansell, is vital to our airport's future in both domestic and international air traffic. Latest development scheduled to be placed in operation soon will be a new million dollar control tower placed advantageously to handle the ever-increasing amount of air traffic.

Ultimately, Mansell hopes, a new administration complex may be built on the south side of Long Beach Airport.

The new complex would not only house normal airport administration, airline ticket and operations service and other facilities but would provide facilities for immigration, health, agriculture and customs services in order to speed the jet age international traveler on his way

IN ADDITION, the complex would include space for lounges and restaurants and hotel accommodations for the many travelers who are expected to remain in this area because of its accessibility to Southern California tourist attractions.

The most heartening thing to Dallas during the initial step of the airport into international traffic with Lufthansa is the reaction of the passengers.

"They're really enthusiastic," he says, "about the speed and ease with which we can disembark them or load them aboard for their long trip over the Pole.

"They particularly like the fact that we load and unload from the same side of the building without the necessity of walking from one side of a huge building to the other as is the case in so many airports.

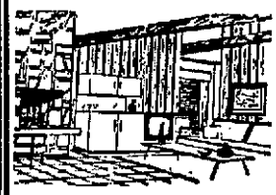

"They like the type of personalized service we try to give them . . .

"And, of course, they like Long Beach. That is what we want."

He's the King of 'Do-It-Yourselfdom'

By Ellen Krec

GLENN B. SCOTT could be called the king of "do-it-yourself." He not only constructed his linear home in Bixby Knolls, but he also has built seven fine homes in the Long Beach area since 1947.

In the Bixby Knolls project, he not only designed it, but also handled all of the contracting and even did much of the building. This was one of the easier projects since the Scotts were living directly across the street while the house was being built. The move was a short and happy one.

The long, low, contemporary home makes a U-turn to create a private patio and living room at each end of the swimming pool.

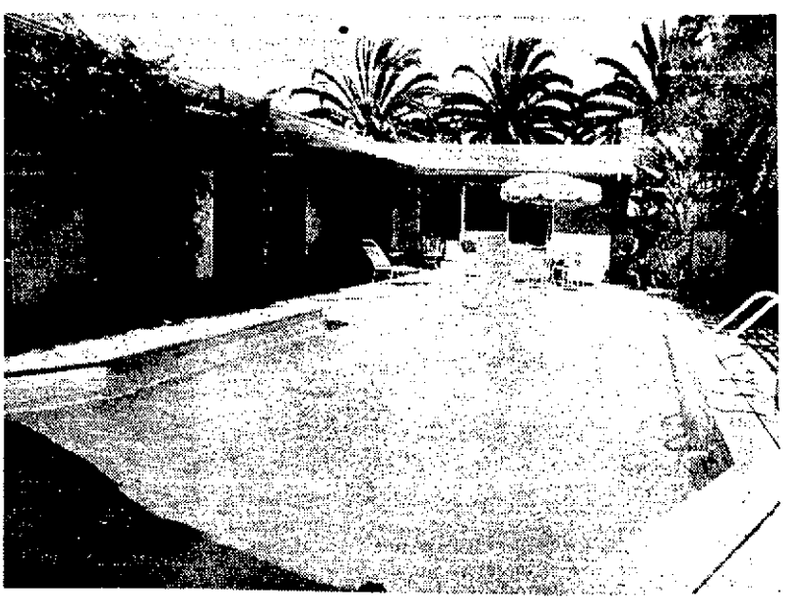

This home turns its back on the street to insure privacy. Each room has sliding doors and a wall of glass overlooking the pool-patio. A 6-foot overhang covering the complete home affords shelter from sun and rain. The facade is tongue-and-groove combined with stucco in shades of mushroom and banana. The rock roof is the same shade of mushroom, giving the home a quiet, natural look.

A slightly curved drive, lined with a Natal plum hedge and a lush Easter lily vine covering a sculptured concrete fence, passes through an exposed-beam carport. This is handsome as well as useful since it serves to break the long driveway. The area adjoining the drive is being used as a narrow garden for seasonal flowers. The home has a well-balanced landscape plan that includes tropicals and shrubs for texture and color.

One particularly unusual plant has tri-color flowers all in bloom at the same time. It is called "Today, Tomorrow and the Day After."

While Scott laid out the design, Mrs. Scott is responsible for the interior decorating.

A SPHERICAL wrought-iron light illuminates the entrance to the home. The front door is recessed and framed at the top of two steps.

The entrance hall becomes a part of all the rooms by the attractive use of wallpaper and mirror-lined walls. The wallpaper is a three-dimensional, gold-and-white hand print and is used on one wall of the foyer, the length of the hall and on into the living room.

The foyer has black slate flooring with a fringed area rug made from the same beige carpeting used throughout. A black-lacquered octagonal shelf projects from the wall and is balanced by a rectangular, gold leaf mirror.

To the left of the entrance is a compact kitchen with birch cabinets and panels and a wallpaper-bordered soffit screening the range. The basis for the color scheme comes from the pink kitchen equipment and the pink and oatmeal vinyl flooring. The snack bar is divided by shutters and becomes a serve-through into the living-dining area.

A silver-beige guest bath with touches of pink is placed conveniently off the long hall. At the end of the hall is a Hawaiian innovation—a dressing nook with a large mesh-doored closet.

The master bedroom and bath are at the half-way point in the home. Rooms are coordinated in soft pink, off-white and gold, and furniture is all gold-and-white French provincial. The room includes a most useful door for the toy dachshund, Tina. When the home was finished, Mrs. Scott wondered if perhaps an unwanted visitor might decide to use this swinging door opening, so she decided to try putting her five-foot-four self through the door, only to be caught in the middle. It took almost 30 panic-stricken minutes to free her!

The bedroom is a comfortable room with nooks for sewing and watching television. It doesn't matter what the weather, the Scotts always like to awaken to the sight of the pool and the lavender starflower which creates a cool, colorful frame for the big window.

Draperies are an unusual combination of woven wool, yarn and gold strips. These are effective in that they allow light to pass while affording complete privacy. A perfect touch of elegance was added with custom-made, Autrian pouffe hanging lamps over the commodes on either side of the bed.

THE DEN really is a sitting room with a built-in entertainment center. Scott built a monaural system because of the organ in the living room. The arrangement of the speakers gives a special depth to the music as it passes through the electric organ amplifying system. A color television, phonograph and tape recorder have been installed by Scott behind ash paneling with Oriental cut-out facing.

The black-lacquered, wall-hung shelves and cabinets hold groupings of Oriental art along with the many trophies Scott has received for his golfing ability (which he describes as "in and out"). The eight-foot bronze silk sofa is balanced by two black endtables and is the same shade as the antique Japanese screen above it. Woven draperies are the same sage green as the ceiling. This room is particularly useful for entertaining and can be changed readily into a dining or serving area.

The living room also opens onto the pool but has ribbon windows on the opposite wall for additional light. The windows are louvered for air but shuttered for privacy.

The exposed-beam ceiling has a gable that caused a near-disaster while redecorating. Scott was painting a beam when his scaffolding collapsed, allowing a bucket of paint to cover the carpeting and furniture! When the Scotts are able to discuss it, they will tell you it took eight hours to clean it up!

The far end of the living room has an oversized fireplace of Texas fieldstone. The hearth is the width of the room and has a cantilevered, travertine marble top, 18 inches from the floor. Ash-paneled book cases are on either side of the fireplace and above Scott installed a back-lighted, silk-lined grille of pre-cut ash panels to hide one of the speakers.

A pair of Sheraton chairs with harlequin design are on either side of the pale green-beige quilted sofa. Two four-foot, gold leaf, urn-shaped lamps stand on substantial hexagonal tables of cherry wood. Companion gold and beige wing chairs and the black-lacquered electric organ form a music and conversation space. The Oriental influence continues with the use of cherry stools with upholstered pads in geometric design.

A cherrywood game table with matching cane-backed chairs opens to serve eight for dining. A note of elegance also brought a bit of discord in the Scott family. While Scott was installing the exquisite chandelier, a link of chain broke and all 50 pounds of crystal and bronze dropped to the floor! Other than resounding crash the only disaster was the loss of a few small prisms.

The pool area requires little care since it is surrounded by a pink concrete patio with small exposed areas for tropical plants. A grapestake fence gives background for potted plants and a long pergola creates shadows and a place for hanging ferns. A neighbor's tree weeps effectively over the flats.

A small but compact guest house has been built adjacent to the four-car garage.

It's time to go informal! When days are warm, meals should be light, colorful and tempting. And nothing is more tempting on a warm day than cool foods. Imagination turns such foods into party fare as you can see by this pleasing menu. Lean, sliced cold meat twisted into perky cornucopias and spicy liver sausage-filled roll slices make up the do-ahead appetizer tray; they're a colorful array of meaty tidbits made from two sausage favorites that are flavorful and easy to store.

Hot and crispy French fried potatoes (both the frozen crinkle-cuts and potato rounds) go from freezer to serving basket to dipping sauces in a matter of minutes. While the potatoes heat, fill bowls with the new hickory flavored catsup and a sour cream dip made with the addition of a pizza flavored catsup and green onions. They're dipping good.

DIPPING GOOD FRENCH FRIES

Frozen potatoes are available in many forms but none are so popular as French fried crinkle-cuts and French fried potato rounds. They make tasty, nutritious nibbling food, as good before a meal as a part of it.

Prepare frozen French fried potatoes by either the oven or cold-start method. Sprinkle with salt and serve immediately with dips.

Oven-Method—Arrange frozen potatoes in a single layer in a shallow pan. Place in a very hot oven (450° F.) for 20 minutes, until golden brown.

Cold-Start Method—Arrange frozen potatoes in a single layer in a large skillet. Pour enough vegetable oil over to almost cover potatoes and stir gently. Turn the heat to medium high or if using an electric skillet, to 350 degrees. Stir occasionally as potatoes cook. Cook for 15 to 20 minutes, until golden brown. Turn heat off; remove and drain fries.

ZIPPY DIP

1 pint sour cream
½ cup pizza flavor catsup
½ cup finely chopped green onions and tops
1 teaspoon horseradish
2 cups Tabasco sauce

Combine all ingredients. Chill and serve as dip for French fried crinkle-cuts and potato rounds.

Note: Serve potatoes with hickory flavor catsup; it's a dip to use right from the bottle.

NEW ENGLAND CORNUCOPIAS

1 (17-oz.) package New England brand sausage
1½ cups finely chopped or shredded cabbage
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon salt

Cut slices of sausage meat in half. Combine remaining ingredients. Roll slices of meat into bells or cornucopias; secure with picks. Fill with coleslaw mixture (about 1½ teaspoons for each bell) and chill. Makes 20 to 24 appetizers.

BRAUNSCHWEIGER CIRCLES

1 (8-oz.) package Braunschweiger liver sausage
2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
1 tablespoon hickory flavor catsup
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
6 individual French rolls, 2 to 3 inches long

Combine all ingredients except rolls; blend well. Cut ends from rolls. With a fork hollow out centers of rolls to within ¼ inch from crusts. Fill with sausage mixture, being careful not to leave any air spaces. Wrap each roll securely and chill well, at least 2 hours.

To serve, cut rolls into slices, ¼ inch thick. Makes about 45 appetizers.

Girl Mule Skinners

for a living, Disneyland's horses have an enviable schedule. They work four hours per day with two days off each week. And they are outfitted with special rubber shoes to ease hoof problems caused by working on pavement.

Transition from mule train to Main Street surrey presents no particular problems for women, Carol said. Drivers, however, must keep a constant lookout for guests along Main Street who are often so absorbed with their surroundings they ignore the clatter of hoof beats.

Disneyland's equestriennes may branch out to other horsedrawn adventures in the Park, Pope has indicated.

ONLY THE streetcars pulled by giant draft horses down Main Street are guaranteed to remain an exclusive domain for male drivers. According to Pope, those big fellows are just too strong for a girl.

After all, the men have to retain some claim to their muscular reputation.

Carol Spaeth and the other young Disneyland horsewomen just smile at such male "foolishness." They've run into that kind of stubborness before and the mules are already behaving like lambs.

not generally used in San Francisco until the middle eighteen-sixties."

Q. Is it true that movie actor Tom Mix was once a real cowboy?—O.E.

A. Yes. Tom Mix (1880-1940) was a real cowboy long before he became one in the movies. During the Spanish-American War he served as a Rough Rider and afterwards fought in the Philippines and in China. Following his army service, he was in turn a bronco buster, sheriff in Kansas and Oklahoma, U.S. Marshal and livestock foreman. In 1909, he won the national champion cowboy title and in 1910 began his movie work.

Q. Which American newspaper was first to print a news picture? M.E.

A. The Boston News-Letter, established in 1704 by John Campbell, bookseller and postmaster. Edith M. Bartow, in her "News and These United States" says that Campbell complained in his columns of lack of income and need of money but "had enterprise as well as stamina. In 1707 he published America's first news picture, a woodcut, not very large, of the new flag of the newly united Kingdom of England, Scotland, and Wales."

Q. Please give the French term that means seeming to remember something one knows he never actually saw before.—C.V.

A. The French term is "deja vu"—literally, "already seen." This may be defined as the illusion of remembering scenes or events or persons as known at some past time, even though they are really being seen or experienced for the first time. This is also one of the meanings of the medical term paramnesia.

From Pyramids to Gide

A BOOK ON THE bow and arrow? On the Polynesian canoe? However offbeat the subject, the chances are that a university press has published it. Only the other day the University of California Press at Berkeley produced a work on the construction of the Egyptian pyramids, Ancient Architectural Design, by Alexander Badawy.

Such books share the university press catalogues with equally fine, scholarly works on Blake or Milton, Sam Johnson or Ben Jonson.

Syracuse University Press at Syracuse, N. Y., comes along with an anthology of The New Writing From the Philippines, a critique and a collection put together by Leonard Casper ($7.95). Eight short stories, a play, poems, an essay, a history of the Philippines, a survey of its literature, make up this book. The works are by Filipino authors who write in English; let's hope for a followup of writers in Tagalog and the other native languages there.

The University of Chicago Press at Chicago has long been a glory of American publishing. To pay proper tribute to its product would require a book in itself. Here are a few recent examples of its high quality:

Self-Portraits: The Gide-Valery Letters, 1890-1942, edited by Robert Mallet, $10. Andre Gide and Paul Valery are titans of modern French letters. Theirs was a warm friendship of 30 years—and a conflict compounded by greatly differing temperaments and disagreement on religion. Gide was a sensualist and a moralist, too; Valery an ascetic and a skeptic as well. Their differences make their correspondence the more piquant.

From the same press has come Ruth M. Underhill's Red Man's Religion, $7.95, the first comprehensive account of the religions of the Indians north of the Rio Grande. This work is the fruit of many and long visits with Indian tribes; it is a fitting crown for Dr. Underihll's 40 years' preoccupation, as anthropologist and Indian Bureau official, with every aspect of the American Indian. The University of Chicago Press is no green hand at fascinating works of this sort; this columnist recalls the reissue of James Mooney's classic study of the ghost-dance religion and recent sociological insights into modern Maya villages.

Sisters Recall Colonial India

By Morry Rabin

TWO UNDER THE INDIAN SUN, by Jon and Rumer Godden. Knopf and Viking, $5.50.

JON AND RUMER GODDEN, distinguished British novelists, have collaborated in a charming recollection—they call it an evocation—of five years as little girls in India, where their father was a steamer agent.

For their large and devoted followings, this memoir is especially delectable, not only for its blending of two considerable but individual talents, but because it calls forth events, impressions and background which have had a profound influence on their writings.

In 1913, when Jon was 6 and Rumer 5, they were taken to London, where, supposedly, all good English girls should be schooled. There they spent a dreadful year in the austere home of their grandmother and two unmarried aunts. The threat of zeppelins liberated them to their beloved India.

There, in the village of Narayangunj in the river country of East Bengal, the spirited sisters rejoined "Fa" and "Mam" and younger girls Nancy and Rose and a houseful of servants headed by the inscrutible Azad Ali, butler. Lacking companionship of other children—impossible in caste-conscious India—they got to know the staff as their parents never did.

There were Hannah, native, Catholic governess who ran a tranquil nursery, and Guru, the gatekeeper, who shared in their games, impoverished himself to buy the girls a doll for Christmas and brought tragedy to the home when a beautiful girl of lower caste who came to live with him was murdered by her father.

And there were Hannah's predecessor, a Eurasian nana; Fa's personal bearer, the white-clad Jetta, from Sikkim; the nursery bearer, Abdul, a liar, thief and cheat; the head gardener, Govind, and waiter, Mustapha, both competent and devout Mohammedans.

And so, in the colonial India of 50 years ago, the girls rode ponies and elephants, traveled steamers on crocodile-filled rivers through jungles of ferocious tigers, chattering birds and wild monkeys, shopped in the teeming bazaars and saw and smelled death, commonplace in the disease-ridden land.

THEIR RELATIONSHIP was far from serene and their fused pen admits an intense rivalry which led to jealousy, rage and, on one occasion, physical violence. Even then they aspired to be writers.

In their preface they note that many books give the impression India is a drab country; to the Godden sisters it was a wonderful land of every climate, every geographical marvel, every animal, every plant, every kind of people.

Alfred A. Knopf, publisher for Jon, and the Viking Press, publisher of Rumer's works, have jointly brought out "Two Under the Indian Sun," which is a Book-of-the-Month Club selection.

For the Younger Set

FOR YOUNG READERS, here are five new ones:

CANAL BOAT TO FREEDOM, by Thomas Fall. Illustrated. Dial Press, $3.50.

The story of a lad, who as a canal boat worker, becomes involved in helping smuggle slaves to freedom through the underground railway. Benja Lown worked as a hoggee for a hard-bitten captain, and it was his lonely job to walk miles along the towpaths each day, leading the horses that pulled the boat. He is befriended by a Negro deckhand who leads him into excitement and danger helping fugitive slaves. A good story well written. Up to 12.

BUFFALO GRASS by C. L. Murphy, Dial Press, $3.25.

Freddy Crowell was saved from an Indian raid by a buffalo hunter and taken to the camp of a rough crew who slaughtered buffalo for a living. Freddy hated the stench and waste of hunt and life was not made easier for him by the lead hunter, a man who bore the lad special malice. The story moves toward a climax as the hunters move farther after the herds and closer to the waiting, vengeful Comanches. Up to 14.

KUBLAI KHAN: LORD OF XANADU by Walker Chapman. Bobbs Merrill, $3.95.

Early in the 13th Century Genghis Khan united the nomadic Mongolian tribes into a mighty war machine and swept across Asia, conquering and plundering. Upon his death, the vast empire was divided among members of his family who fell to warring with one another. It remained for Genghis' grandson, Kublai Khan, to once again unify the empire.

Kublai Khan expanded the empire, adding most of the great territory of China. A wise, scholarly and sometimes ruthless man, he lived in great splendor. One of his greatest admirers was the young Venetian traveler Marco Polo, who lived at Kublai Khan's court and recorded the splendors and adventures for the Western world. For ages 12 to 14.

THE SECRET OF THE PHARAOHS by Barbara Schultz. Bobbs-Merrell, $3.95.

The story of an American boy who goes to Egypt in the 1880s and while visiting some archaeological ruins becomes involved in a dangerous adventure with the natives—including a village of thieves and a ring of tomb robbers. The book is based on actual events that in 1881 led to one of Egypt's most exciting archaeological discoveries. Ages 12 to 13.

CAPTAINS OF INDUSTRY by the editors of American Heritage. This richly illustrated book, with narrative by Bernard Weisberger, is 33rd in the American Heritage Junior Library series. It tells of 10 men who took advantage of the undeveloped resources of the North American continent during the 19th and early 20th Centuries to acquire tremendous fortunes and influence.

In doing so, they transformed the United States from an agricultural nation, clinging to the Eastern Seaboard, into a gigantic industrial power stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific.—Forest Jordan.

Beaux Art's Latest

THE WORLD OF MICHELANGELO. By Robert Coughlan. Time-Life Library of Art, $5.95.

The most recent scholarship on Michelangelo was taken into account by Coughlan, who attempts to separate man from myth (no artist's life is so befogged by mystery as Michelangelo's). Original source material, as well as the great artist's own letters and poetry, are drawn upon. It is a beautifully illustrated volume.

MONET AND HIS WORLD. By Raymond Cogniat. Viking, $6.95.

From a talented young caricaturist Monet became the unchallenged leader of Impressionism because of his natural brilliance and because he saw things in a new way. Raymond Cogniat traces his rise and the influences on Monet: new scientific discoveries, photography, other artists. Some 138 pictures illustrate the biography.

And Try Not to Miss . . .

REBECCA'S DAUGHTERS. By Dylan Thomas. Little, Brown, $4.50.

Although it's not Dylan Thomas at top form, "Rebecca's Daughters" is a delightful bit of English history in the form of a novel. A young Welsh squire, home from service in India, organizes the peasants against the landed gentry who oppress them sorely. They disguise themselves as women and in bonnet and blouse (and beards as well) give the gentry their comeuppance.

DEBATERS AND DYNAMITERS: The Story of the Haywood Trial. Oregon State University Press, $6.

Clarence Darrow, a young Chicago attorney, won his spurs in the 1907 trial of "Big Bill" Haywood and other leaders of the Western Federation of Miners, in the dynamite bomb death of Idaho's ex-governor Steunenberg. Senator Borah was one of those on the prosecution side seeking Haywood's life. One of America's most dramatic trials is presented grippingly against a background of ferocious management-labor war.

THE FAULKNER-COWLEY FILE: Letters and Memories, 1944-1962. Viking, $5.

In 1944, one literary editor exclaimed "Faulkner is finished" but critic Malcolm Cowley thought that was hogwash and took up the cudgels for the Mississippian. A friendship sprang up between the two, and the 26 hitherto unpublished letters in this book from Faulkner, with Cowley's story of their friendship, celebrates their closeness. There also is a first draft of a Faulkner essay, "On Privacy—the American Dream; What Happened to It."

New Carpeting Wears Well

By Georgia Coleman

POLYETHYLENE grass carpeting, called everGrass, is available in 6x6-foot pieces that are assembled easily and adapted to cover any indoor or outdoor subsurface with a carpet that looks and feels like living grass. The surface is composed entirely of extremely resilient 1-inch high "blades" that will spring back to an upright position even after prolonged compression by heavy objects and human traffic. The base of each everGrass square is perforated to allow natural drainage and drying of subsurfaces and permit thorough cleaning with a vacuum or hose. These perforations are also used to join the squares with small plastic inserts which resemble blades of grass.

The grass has been fully tested under artificial and natural light, in extreme heat and cold, and has proven to be weather and wear resistant and color fast. Made of 100% polyethylene, everGrass resists staining and soiling.

Because of its unique construction, it is very lightweight and unusually flexible and can be cut to shape with ordinary scissors. An assembled grass carpet can be rolled up easily for relocation or storage, or the individual squares can be disassembled and relaid to fit other areas.

COMMENTING on the recent trends toward indoor-outdoor carpeting, Andrew H. Wolff, vice president of Pegasus International Corporation, national distributors of everGrass, said, "Efforts to date to produce a satisfactory substitute for real grass have been made almost entirely by the carpeting industry, and while these efforts have resulted in some very excellent products, the essential ingredient is still missing —they still look very much like carpets and not like "grass." He added, "Since everGrass is not made the same way as conventional carpeting, its design is not restricted by the inherent limitations of carpet manufacturing equipment. Instead, using a patented molding technique and one of the most durable plastics known, each square duplicates exactly 968 individual blades of grass, resulting in a product reasonable in price and yet very much true-to-life."

The product is imported from France and is being marketed in this country by Pegasus International Corporation.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Safety for Specs

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical Science Editor

SAFETY GLASS for eyeglasses is recommended by an editorial in a New York medical journal.

Both prescription lenses and sunglasses can now be made of safety material, and the additional cost is slight: $2 for optical - grade plastic and $5 for case - hardened glass.

Those who especially need this protection are:

Persons with sight in only one eye.

Persons who work in laboratories with corrosive and explosive materials.

Persons who operate power tools at home or in industry.

Home gardeners who use insecticide sprays or who operate power lawn mowers.

And children.

ELIMINATION OF physical deformities in prisoners can often bring about a marked change in individual attitude and may prevent a return to crime.

A doctor tells of reconstructive surgery performed on 450 prisoners during the past 10 years in Oakalla Provincial Prison in British Columbia. Most of the surgery was to repair deformed noses but there also were operations to correct ears and chins and to remove disfiguring scars.

Only 42% of those operated on have relapsed into crime in the past 10 years, reports Dr. E. Lewinson. Yet the recidivism rate for the general prison population is 75%.

Thanks to reconstructive surgery, there has been a marked change in previously hostile and incorrigible prisoners, Dr. Lewinson says in Canadian Medical Association Journal. Morale has improved. Many have sought training for a trade.

THE CHIEF PSYCHIATRIST of the Suicide Prevention Center in Los Angeles says that suicides are not sudden, impulsive, unpredictable and inevitable acts.

"Most suicides occur at the end of prolonged emotional crises in exhausted patients who are temporarily unable to adjust to life's problems," says Dr. Robert E. Litman.

ABOUT 1% of the world's population is completely immune to tooth decay, reports Dr. Gordon E. Green, Detroit bacteriologist. He says tests show the saliva of these persons contains an antibacterial protein which appears to resemble an antibody. This protein, he says, may inhibit bacteria which cause tooth decay.

TEXAS RESEARCHERS have found virus-like particles in both leukemic children and their family dogs.

The particles resemble viruses known to cause leukemia in mice.

But as yet, medical investigators are unable to prove or disprove any link between malignancy in man and animals via viruses.

A SUBSTANCE extracted from a little-known Chinese tree shows promise of benefiting leukemia victims.

Although the substance, called camptothecin, has not yet been tried on human patients, it has displayed high anti-tumor activity in tests on laboratory animals.

Camptothecin has been extracted from the fruit, bark and wood of the tree Camptotheca acuminata, imported to the U. S. in 1933 by the Agricultural Research Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The trees are being grown at Chico, Calif.

What's in a Name? Plenty!

or Grosvenor, can be sure of one thing. he'll learn self-defense early.

In New York a tough kid smoked, swore, drank and gambled at the age of ten. He remained unmoved and unrepentant after several brushes with the law. His given name was Shirley, which is rarely given to boys. To prove he was no sissy, Shirley felt compelled to out-fight and out-steal the other fellows.

A NEW NAME was found for him—Robert, shortened to Bob. He moved with his family to a new neighborhood where the kids didn't know his original name. One year later, he had developed into an excellent student and attended church every Sunday where he became a popular class leader. Considerate parents should be sure the name they hang on their baby clearly denotes the sex for which it it intended.

Parents shouldn't dub their offspring with a set of initials which later may prove embarrassing. The Porters, for example, shouldn't name their son Samuel Albert. The initials S.A.P. don't look good on luggage or anywhere else.

The Garys should think twice before naming their boy Henry Oliver because that comes out H.O.G. In an era of FDR and HST, the late Sen. Robert A. Taft found his initials to be a political disadvantage.

It is quite possible to name children with meaningful and distinctive names without humorous or bizarre overtones. The Chester Johnsons of St. Louis selected names with a Christmas connotation for their triplets: Noel, Carol and Merry. Stanford Bardwell of Baton Rouge La., named his seven children for universities: Stanford Jr., Duke, T'Lane, Harvard, Princeton, Auburn and Cornell. His wife's name is Loyola.

Some people adopt startling middle names for identification purposes. Because there was another William Harris in the same neighborhood William Harris adopted the middle name of No. 1 and is listed as William No. 1 Harris on all his vital papers.

Probably, George Washington, who at one time worked at the White House Cafe in McAlester, Okla., has one of the most illustrious names of all.

When he reported to his draft board, the Selective Service officials asked, "How do you get your mail?" "Just send it in care of the White House," George Washington replied.

COIN ROUNDUP

Hawaiian Money

By Maurice M. Gould

HAWAII, LIKE our other 49 states, has regular U. S. coinage in circulation, but the time was when the Hawaiian monarchy issued its own money.

There were only a half-dozen or so varieties of regular coinage struck, the first in 1847 in a 1-cent denomination. This coin bore the portrait of King Kamehameha III and was approximately the size of the old U. S. large cent. Some 100,000 of these pieces were minted, but the issue was never really accepted by the natives and many pieces were thrown into the sea or otherwise destroyed.

It is not known where these coins were struck and it has been suggested that they may have been manufactured in the Boston, Mass., area since many of the first missionaries sailed from there and the various societies had their headquarters in this port.

These were the smallest issue of any Hawaiian coins. Because many were used for ornaments and destroyed, they are considered quite scarce today.

The only other issue of Hawaiian coins was minted in San Francisco. The denominations were the $1, half and quarter-dollars, and dimes. The coins were excellently made by Charles Barber, the famous engraver of the Philadelphia Mint.

Between a quarter of a million and 700,000 pieces were struck but a large number eventually were melted down, so that the scarcity is not reflected by the number minted.

The coins show a bust of the king, with the Hawaiian coat of arms on the reverse, along with the denomination.

All the coins, medals and tokens of Hawaii have become extremely popular with collectors since Hawaii became a new member of the Union.

A special U. S. commemorative coin was struck in 1928, the Hawaiian Sesquicentennial half-dollar. This popular coin, of which 10,008 were issued, is very scarce and has a catalog value of approximately $600.

The obverse shows Capt. James Cook, who in 1778 was the first white man to visit the islands, and the reverse shows a native chief. When first issued, these pieces sold at $2 each, so one can see the tremendous demand which has taken hold for this coin during the past years.

These half-dollars were a drug on the market for many years and I remember owning a few of them myself. After holding them for some time, I disposed of them at a dollar loss per coin. The lucky collectors and Hawaiians who kept these "sleepers" found they had an astute investment, as well as a beautiful coin for their collection.

AGAIN THE CONTROVERSY continues on the 1964 Lincoln cent with the multiple impressions!

Now a coin expert claims that although these coins could have been made at the Mint and probably are genuine, there was collusion at the Mint, resulting in the release of these unusual pieces.

Reliable sources report that the Secret Service is investigating the circumstances surrounding these 1964 freak coins.

anywhere unprepared. For the next 400 miles, the line was replaced by aquarium tubing.

The Buzzard also has undergone some body work in Mexico.

Near Puertecitos, his owner somehow hitched the right front fender onto a boulder. The piece of granite wouldn't move. The Buzzard couldn't.

But his ingenious owner pulled forth a sledge hammer and chisel and soon he was cruising down the road —minus half a fender.

Smith's friends have employed this form of body work when his undersides became coated with rust.

El Zopilote's clever owner also has devised devious methods to keep the doors intact. On the passenger's side, he's held together with barbed wire. Who knows, perhaps on his next quest to Mexico, he may assume the guise of a rail job from the Drag Races and boast nothing but chassis and seats?

THERE'S ONLY one thing which rankles The Buzzard and that's the young women who hold only derision for his appearance.

He's figured a way to dispense with that problem, though.

Just let Smith come near him, closely shaven and wearing suit and tie, and he has a relapse.

He wheezes, coughs, lets the old battery sniffle over a couple of times and forces his owner to squire the Young Lady about in his roommate's borrowed car.

He'll get even, even though Smith may do another body job on his left fender.

There's no doubt about it, like old soldiers who never die, El Zopilote is apt to fade away some day along a dusty road in Baja California.

PET PARADE

Pets Wait in Comfort

By Eleanor Avery Price

BOTH ENGLAND and Hawaii have a quarantine period for animals arriving there from the U.S. mainland. Since the adoption of the restriction, there have been no record of rabies in those places.

Six months is a long wait for dogs and cats. But methods have been devised to make the wait as pleasant as possible. The British Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals entertains borders with radios. One branch even has a tape recorder of the sounds of home.

THE FOLLOWING information on Hawaii's quarantine comes from Burleigh Bauer of Hawaii. The quarantine station is located between downtown Honolulu and Waikiki Beach. You reach it either by bus or automobile. Large trees shade the grounds and all housing for pets is adequately ventilated. It is an interesting place because of the variety of sizes and shapes of the temporary homes. Each animal is separate from the others; cats have their own section apart from dogs. Fresh water is available at all times and chow time is at 5 p.m. If a veterinarian or owner orders a special diet for a pet, this is provided.

Before animals are assigned to their respective places, each is photographed and given a complete physical examination. Parasites quickly are eliminated.

Breeding of animals is taboo in the station, but if a pet is already pregnant, she may have her babies there or in an animal hospital. Baby animals must stay with their mothers until the mothers are released. There is no charge until the babies are six weeks old. An adult dog costs 75 cents a day, which comes to $90 for the 120 days. Puppies cost 40 cents. Cats cost 50 cents per day, kittens 25 cents.

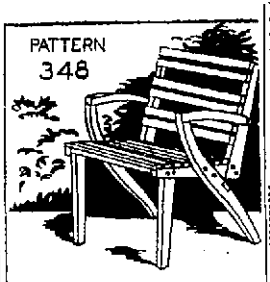

IF AN ANIMAL becomes ill, it can be released to a veterinarian upon certification of the station manager. If a pet needs grooming, the owner can hire professionals or station employes. There is a special grooming room with water and power.

Visiting hours for owners are from 3 to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays, and from 1 to 3 p.m. Sundays and holidays. These hours are noisy but happy ones.

Pictured today is Paddytoo of Toireh, beautiful black Persian cat owned by Celia Heriot and Geraldine Schwaderer, the latter, president of Pet Pride, a cat organization devoted to loving care of felines.

Santa Monica Cat Club now is taking entries to its big show Sept. 17-18 at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium. Telephone GLadstone 4-5976, or write the club at 1025 Chautauqua, Pacific Palisades.

WORKSHOP

A Back Yard 'Camelot'

By Steve Ellingson

KING ARTHUR started it all with his knights. He used a round table to prevent jealously over seating precedence at Camelot, we are told, but I suspect old King Arthur had a more practical reason. More people can be seated about a round table than a square one of like size. And what is more, each person seated at a round table faces the middle, which makes for easier and more pleasant conversation.

The table shown here with NCB's actress Diana Darrin was designed for families who take a vacation every day all summer long in their own back yards. After all, dining is more than a mere physical refueling. To be worthy of the label "dining," a meal must be eaten in an atmosphere of relaxation, pervaded by feelings of fellowship and hospitality and attended by friendly conversation. Nothing brings out these characterisitcs more than an outdoor meal.

Pouring at easily-constructed patio table is actress Diana Darrin. Table is 4 feet around.

The top of the table shown is over 4 feet in diameter (you may make it larger if you wish) and easily seats eight persons; two to each bench. It supports an umbrella which gives the set a gay appearance as well as shade for the diners. Wheels make it easy to move. It's put together with screws and bolts and will last a lifetime.

We also have added a pattern for the lazy susan shown on the table. It, like the table and benches, is very easy to build when one uses the full size pattern. You need only trace each part on wood, then saw them out and put the parts together.

To obtain the full size barbecue table and benches pattern No. 239 for $1, or the lazy susan pattern No. 343 for 50 cents, send coin, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys 91409.

Tips on Gardening

PLANT ZINNIAS for quick growth and lots of colorful flowers. The hot weather teases them to grow their fastest.

SMALL YOUNG aster plants set out now are less likely to become affected by aster wilt.

THERE'S A NEW concept in granular form fertilizer. Instead of being dusty, each capsule is a complete unit of fertilizer, containing the important fertilizer elements, necessary trace minerals and insecticide. No dust, no muss, no fuss, lighter in weight, easier to apply.

FEED those helleborus "lenten roses" for those lovely, long-lasting winter blooming flowers.

FEED ROYAL bird of paradise plants, and be sure to deep water them.

CRAPE MYRTLE, parkinsonia, locust and Texas umbrella trees all stand drier sectors of Southern California. Parkinsonia, the Jerusalem thorn tree, is equally as happy along the coast.

QUARTER-TURN container plants on porch or patio every couple of weeks. This aids the plants to grow full and shapely all around.

MULCH—top dress flower beds and shrubs with a fine organic mulch material. The mulch retains moisture in the soil, slowly works through the soil surface area, leavens the soil and helps it absorb moisture more easily thereafter.

EASIEST way to keep devil grass (bermuda) lawn from creeping into flower beds is to put in a metal lawn guard between lawn and lawn edge. It lasts for around five years.

SHAMEL ASH tree should be trimmed back at least twice a year for the first 2 or 3 years, to force more branching. If this is not done, the tree grows too tall, and provides shade for the neighbor rather than for you.

EVERGREEN ELM trees may become infested by scale. Check with your local nurseryman for kind of spray to control those pests.

EVERGREEN DAY lilies provide interesting Easter lily-like flowers that range in color from pale yellow shades, orange colors to deepest reds. One flower spike may have around 15 buds. All of them may not develop.

Soon as one blossom fades another opens up. This fading and new flowers blooming may continue for a week or more.

SAND VERBENA, a long-blooming seasonal ground cover that stands desert conditions and coastal areas, doesn't require the same frequency of watering as the large showy flowered varieties.

CYMBIDIUMS should be fed a fertilizer that has much less nitrogen content but much more phosphoric acid and potash.

Covering a Lot of Ground

MOST people want a big garden, but only a lucky few really know what to do with one. The average week end gardner never seems to have enough time or energy to keep the weeds down and out on those wide-open garden spaces.

Since most of us are week end gardeners with other things to distract us, a word about good ground covers seems timely. The California Association of Nurserymen suggests them for any and all who have a lot of ground to cover.

The beauty of most ground covers lies in their easy care. Except on rare occasions — every year or two — when they need some clipping or pruning, ground covers look neat and trim whether you care for them or not. Water them from time to time and they'll be perfectly happy.

AMONG THE ground covers on the recommended list is the Creeping Rosemary. There are various named forms of this evergreen sprawler and your local nurseryman will have one or another. In looks and habit they are very much alike, all thriving in neglected areas where water is appreciated but not often needed.

Creeping Rosemary, like its upright cousin of traditional gardens, is a grayish colored shrub with slender needle-like leaves and small blue flowers in later winter and spring. The flowers are almost a year round phenomenon in some California gardens where seasonal climate changes are small. The foliage is aromatic and a pleasure to pinch and inhale.

Creeping Thyme is another herb for general use as a garden cover. Intensely fragrant when crushed underfoot, it can also be used as a culinary aid in the kitchen. The foliage is dense and dark green. The flowers can be blue or white and are profuse in their own small way from May through summer. Creeping Thyme is like something from out of the past which has adopted to modern use.

AMONG GROUND covers which are not well enough known, is St. John's Wort. Technically it's Hypericum and that's how you'll probably find it listed in nurseries.

Southland Magazine offers a fresh new Crossword Puzzle each Sunday, a brain-teaser for those who enjoy this pastime. It's "automatic," too, because you can check your answers on another page . . . but no fair peeking.

Vines Work for You

By Joe Littlefield

VINES SERVE several helpful landscaping purposes. They may be used to eliminate reflected sunlight from a wall; to cover a bare wall or a fence where growing space is limited and shrubs simply cannot be used; for privacy to screen out neighbor's windows; to screen in a porch, or possibly the vine is grown for its attractive blossoms and graceful lacy effect.

Bignonia Violacea vines grow in narrow soil spaces, screen out light and create privacy.

Bignonia violacea, "violet trumpet vine," has lightly smother the shiny dark green attractive foliage.

The gardener who plants this vine should cut back long branches two-thirds of their length before setting it out. Cutting back thusly forces remaining branches to sprout more branches, fragrant 3-inch-long violet-lavender trumpet flowers in the Spring that literally there by providing better coverage of the wall and particularly covering the lower portion of the wall. This vine grows well inland as well as along the coast.

Another evergreen vine that truly is an "eye-catcher" is Disticitis lactiflora, "vanilla scented vine." The trumpet-shaped nearly purple blossoms truly are fragrant, and the vine continues to bloom for nearly half a year. We saw such a vine in Ventura some years ago. One vine had been trained to grow on a fence and was nearly 50 feet long.

Anyone who sees this vine in bloom is impressed with the showy flowers. Unfortunately for the folk who live inland, it is not a vine for their areas because it like the cool, damp, coastal conditions for best blooming.

These vines need supports to be tied to fence or wall for covering the bare areas. They do not cling to a rough surface.

About the only evergreen vine we know of that clings to rough stucco or brick is Ficus pumila ("creeping fig"), a graceful small leafed vine. The tenacious rootlets along the stems cling tightly to a wall surface.

Some gardeners have discovered it to be a heart-breaking experience trying to make the vine cling to the wall. They waited from some months to a year or more before there would be a stray branch or two that eventually grew on the wall.

THE ONLY positive way to force this vine to start to cling quickly is to cut all the branches back to within 4 to 6 inches of the ground. Flatten the plant root ball to an oval shape in order to plant it close to the wall. After planting, a board should be placed against the branch stubs, so the branch ends constantly are touching the wall. When new tip growths develop, immediately as the rootlets start to cling, presto—the vine grows quickly and clings to the wall! We have seen some start to cling where chicken wire was pressed close to the vines, but the branches started to cling perhaps a foot or so above the ground. The branches between the ground and where they started to cling were loose, hence a possibility of tearing off part of the vine from the wall.

Some gardeners like to use foliage of the flowers they cut for indoor bouquet. Despite the fact that tulbaghia violaceas's common name is "society garlic," the foliage is not welcome in a flower bouquet indoors because you may wonder who has been eating onion-garlic. The small bell-shaped lavender color flowers are gracefully attractive and provide the needed blue tone color in a particular spot of your sunny flower bed or flower bouquet.

Should you happen to be out of chives and you wish to add a bit of that onion-like flavor to your salad, simply chop up some of the tender foliage and you'll have it spicy.

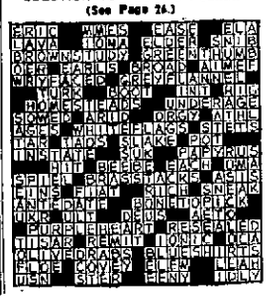

Allow a 2 foot diameter spread for one plant in the garden. It starts blooming in late May and continues to flower all summer on into October. The gray green foliage is attractive during the winter.

Some bulb plants foliage like the amarcrinum, "evergreen amaryllis" stay green the year round. The gladiolus leafage starts to die back. We must not dig up those bulbs to store them for next season planting until the foliage has died down.

A gardener does not have to dig up the gladioli and store them if he prefers to leave them in the ground. several years develop a colony of bulbs, which means they do not grow as tall and the flowers' spikes are shorter in proportion to the size of the bulbs.

Gladioli bulbs that are dug up, stored, then replanted provide the tallest flower spikes and the largest blossoms.

(See Page 26.)

Wooing Shoers

Those Scarce Smiths

By Isabel Dunwoody

THE vanishing art of horseshoing that was once a vital segment of this nation's past has been brought back to life.

To meet a growing demand, the craft is now offered at the Norwalk-La Mirada Adult School in Norwalk. But not until the school had overcome a problem in trying to scare up an honest-to-goodness blacksmith of the old variety for their instructor.

While the clang of the automobile horn silenced the ring of the anvil, there are today more than 60,000 horses in Los Angeles County alone, proving that the auto may have made over our lives, but it couldn't replace the warmth of the living animal. Since these horses must be well shod, it's learn to shoe your own horse or put back in business the village blacksmith.

A century ago, the blacksmith shop was a focal point of every village, the place where farmers, townsmen or race track owners brought their horses for new shoes, a place to exchange cracker-barrel philosophy, argue politics and purchase or have mended metal housewares. No used car dealer will ever command such homage as the blacksmith in his shop.

Almost a vanished craft, horseshoeing gains new attention in Excelsior adult curriculum.

TODAY'S blacksmith works in a department organization of some big engineering firm. With fellow workers he might forge a single piece weighing more than 100 tons. His forging hammer may be as tall as a four-story building, but he probably doesn't know the first thing about shoeing Dobbin.

Excelsior High School's search for a blacksmith who would know all about Dobbin's needs, from a corrective half shoe and hoof trimming to the actual forging of the horseshoe itself, turned up only two.

The first declared, "I haven't seen a horse in 25 years."

The second, Eugene Harris, 31, who apprenticed his trade when 14 years old, now teaches at Norwalk two full evening classes a week, with a waiting list of 80. "There are only 10 such licensed classes in the United States," Harris says, "two in California."

According to Thomas Merritt, associate professor of Animal Industry at Penn State University, whose school offered two short courses in horseshoeing this summer to meet the demand for skilled blacksmiths, "Those who complete the 10-day course (which incidentally costs $300 back in Pennsylvania; N-I-M's costs are $10 including care and feeding of horses) can recover their investment in another 10 days."

EUGENE HARRIS' classroom, located appropriately enough on Shoemaker Rd., resembles neither the little red schoolhouse nor its modern-day contemporary. Its walls and roof are made of galvanized iron-sheeting, supported by used telephone poles, the floor, good old-fashioned dirt.

Male and female students (yes it is co-ed) arrive in blue jeans, Levi jackets, boots and western hats, and come from as far away as Hemet and El Monte. They perch on grandstand-type seats.

Instructor Harris totes his tools of the trade with him, in the back of his truck, including a portable forge, and class begins when a skeptical horse is led in and faced away from the class.

Later these enthusiastic horse-owners will learn true blacksmithing, how to pinch off the correct bar of iron, to heat it in the fire pit until it glows in the jaws of the pincers, and the rhythm of hammer on anvil.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: A Water Puzzle.

NEEDED: A water hose with adjustable nozzle, a table tennis ball.

DO THIS: Adjust the water so that it comes out of the nozzle in a gentle solid stream. Place the ball on the stream of water and it tends to remain there seemingly in defiance of gravity.

HERE'S WHY: This is a variation of the Bernoulli principle, in which the lateral pressure of a moving fluid — such as air or water — is less than that of the still or more slowly moving fluid around it. Here the pressure of the faster moving water is less, and as the ball tends to move to the right (in the drawing) the faster moving water on the left exerts less pressure than the slower water on the right. The greater pressure of the slowly moving water tends to push the ball back into the stream.

The stream coming from the nozzle upward pushes against the lower side of the ball to keep it from falling straight down.

Shutters for Accent

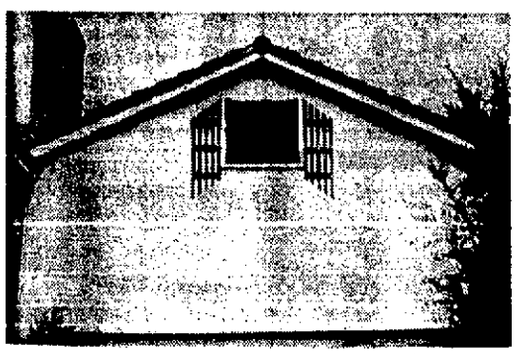

ATTRACTIVE shutters greatly enhance the appearance of houses, especially older structures where windows are far apart. On this page are seveal designs, most of them easily constructed by the home craftsman. Some are mounted on panels of exterior plywood, others of pine or redwood with scroll saw cutouts. They may be stained to match or contrast with house siding.—HI SIBLEY.

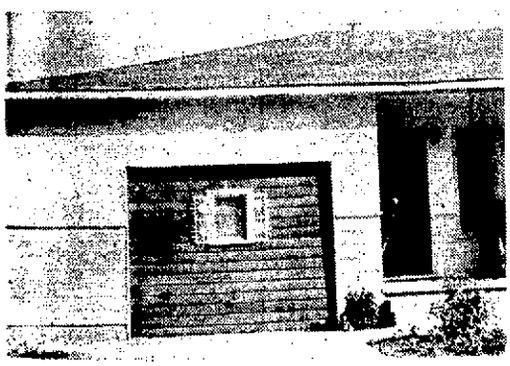

"Anchors aweigh" could be the design title.

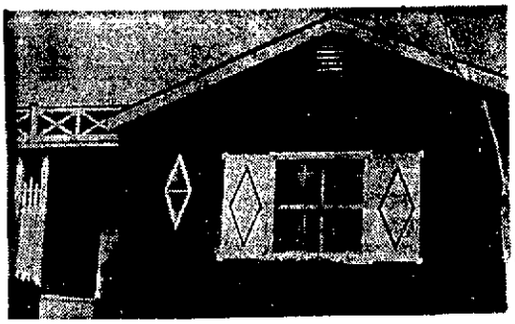

"Picket" shutters carry flower pot overlay.

Simply made shutters adorn high-up window.

Bare wall and small windows get relief here.

Grooved design enlivens these shutters.

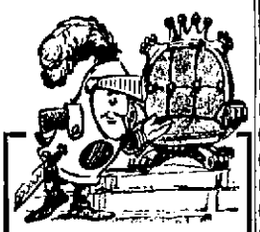

Novelty shutters break monotony of siding.

QUITE OFTEN readers ask this question: "Where can we dine on something really different?"

I could suggest fried octopus or squid, because I know restaurants which serve those delicacies. But I don't, because most people seeking new tastes aren't that daring. When they say "really different," they actually mean "a little different."

So I answer their question by suggesting the Wayfarer Restaurant, 2230 Pacific Coast Hwy., Lomita, a distinguished dining establishment which has several extraordinary entrees on its menu. One of these — not found in most restaurants — is stuffed mushrooms. It consists of large, tender mushroom caps stuffed with minced chicken and topped with two delectable sauces — one made with white wine, the other a rich Hollandaise. It's $3.25 on the Wayfarer's table d' hote dinner of relish tray, soup du jour, mixed green salad, ice cream or sherbet and coffee.

Host and owner Jimmy Richmond, an amiable epicure, also emphasizes such unusual treats as flaming duckling carved at your table ($12.50 for two persons) and Francois Gourmet Entree ($4.75), a tempting combination of veal picatta and grenadine of beef, served with green noodles. The restaurant, which has seating for 225 in its elegant dining rooms, also prepares more standard entrees, such as prime rib, steaks, superb beef Stroganoff, fried scallops and broiled swordfish, priced from $3.

Assisting Jimmy in operating the restaurant are his wife Frances, cashier; their son Frank, manager; daughter, Joan, hostess, and Frank's wife Lois, luncheon hostess-cashier. Closed Tuesdays, the Wayfarer serves its Sunday dinners from 4 to 11 p.m.

SUNDAY TREAT — Why do sea food experts like to dine at Sam's Sea Food and Hawaiian Village, 16278 Pacific Coast Hwy., Huntington Beach? For the very good reason that this large, decorative restaurant has the greatest selection of ocean entrees in the Long Beach-Orange County area. Featured, from $2.85, are such delights as soft-shelled crabs from Maryland . . . scallops from New Bedford, Mass. . . . filet of sole from Oregon . . . swordfish steak from the Channel Islands . . . yellowtail from Catalina . . . salmon from Puget Sound . . . and dozens of others.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

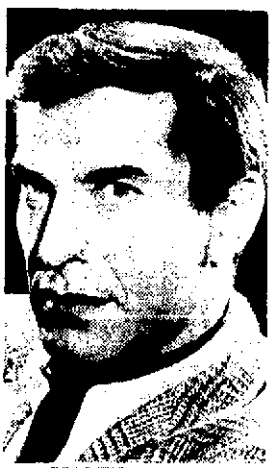

Sideline Spouse No Squelch for TV Smooch

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

MAKING TV LOVE to another man while your husband is on the sidelines watching is no more difficult than frying an egg sunnyside up.

Barbara Bain feels she can handle both —separately, of course—with poise.

The former high-fashion model stars in CBS-TV's fall "Mission: Impossible" Saturday espionage drama series. She plays a sort of American combination of Mati Hari and Marlene Dietrich.

MARTIN LANDAU

Her husband, actor Martin Landau, has the recurring role of Rollin Hand in the series and, in that capacity, is usually on hand when Barbara's scenes are being shot.

The pair, who have two daughters, Susan, 5½ years old, and Juliet, 15 months old, have been wed nine years.

"We met kissing other people in New York in an acting class," said Barbara. "He was the teacher and I was the greenest student."

She knows that her love scenes with other men doesn't bother her husband because both make differentiations between what is work reality and what is real life.

"If I see him kill somebody on the stage," she said, "I don't go home with him that night thinking I'm married to a killer."

There is more than just verbal differentiation definitions that distinguish the real from the reel.

"We know who we are," said Barbara. "We are keyed to each other."

THERE'S NO DENYING that each, as an individual actor, has a strong ego. It's part of the stock-in-hand of the acting game.

"But stronger than that," said Barbara, "is a deep respect for each other."

Her eyes twinkled.

"We're an unusual group," she added.

Producers of the series thought they had put in a call for an unusual characterization when they emphasized they wanted a girl who was very sexy, yet very elegant.

Barbara had no difficulty filling the role because, like other women, she knew something of which most men apparently are not aware.

"A woman can be sexy, elegant and the girl next door at the same time," said Barbara. "Woman is all these things, simply, not conflictually.

"Sex is not a separate thing. It is an intrinsic part of a woman, nothing to be self-conscious or frightened about."

Did Emily McLaughlin of "General Hospital" really just have a baby or was that just in the character of Jessie Brewer?

Mrs. J. A. Fullbright, Lakewood

Emily really had a baby nine years ago. His name is Robert Lansing Jr. Emily's husband, Bob Sr., formerly starred in "12 O'Clock High" and will be featured in a fall series, "The Man Who Never Was."

In TV why when you put on a picture do you have to play music? The way it is, it could break your ear drum.

Please tell them to cut the music on the picture when it's showing.

E. R. Stamm, Long Beach

If they do, E. R., our taxes will go up to support the influx of musicians that will need welfare aid.

* * * *

Could you please tell me if Mary Ann Mobley is the sister of Mary Tyler Moore? Also, is it true that the music played on the TV show "Green Acres" is the same as that played on "The Double Life of Henry Phyfe?"

Bill Starr, Lakewood

Mary Ann Mobley, a former Miss America, is not related to Mary Tyler Moore who is almost everybody's Mrs. America.

The music on "Green Acres" and "Double Life" is not the same. Each are original themes. However, the music for both shows was penned by the same man, Vic Mizzi, who also is responsible for "The Addams Family" theme.

* * * *

I recently learned that Patricia Morrow of "Peyton Place" will do a show for Walt Disney this fall.

Could you please supply more information?

Chrys Stone, Long Beach

Patricia will not appear in any Disney production. About 1½ years ago, she was approached to do a four-parter on "Disney's Wonderful World of Color." Shortly afterwards, she was considered for a role in a Disney film, "Happiest Millionaire." In both instances, her commitments to "Peyton Place" necessitated her turning down the Disney roles.

* * * *

Could you tell me if the current "Smothers Brothers Show" is going to be purchased by any other channel so that my friends and I can enjoy the reruns?

Also, what color is the Mustang used on that show?

Anne McCready, Anaheim

Taking the last question first, the car is red.

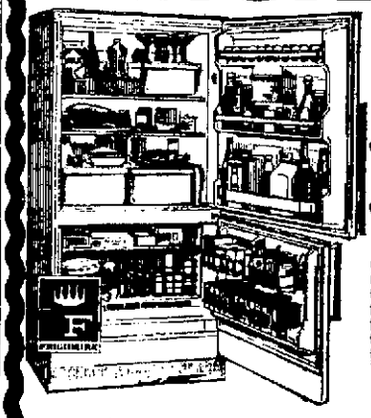

No other station has yet purchased Smothers' repeats. There is a chance the boys may be back in 1967 or 1968 with an original, weekly variety show.

SPECIAL

AFTERNOON AT TANGLEWOOD—Erich Leinsdorf conducts a concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra featuring music of Wagner, Brahms, Prokofiev, Schuller and Tchaikovsky. The 2½-hour colorcast of the Berkshire Festival concert, from the orchestra's permanent summer home at Lenox, Mass., features two second-place winners of the 3rd International Tchaikovsky competition in Moscow, 20-year-old Beverly Hills pianist Misha Dichter and 19-year-old violinist Masuko Ushioda from Japan. Edwin Newman is commentator at 2:30 p.m., ch. 4, in color.

THE RIVER NILE—James Mason describes civilizations and present shore inhabitants along Egypt's famed river during a color hour at 6:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Ninth of ten repeats on an "Encore" series, award-winning Lou Hazam-produced hour includes the Sphinx, the Pyramids and the Temples of Abu Simbel, and records evidence of the Nile's impact on Egyptian economy and culture.

PREVIEW TONIGHT—Five hour-long pilot films, with a reported investment of $500,000 but no sponsor interest, take over the 8 p.m. hour on ch. 7 for the balance of the summer. Van Williams, who later made it with "The Green Hornet," stars in the opener with Paul Comi, David Thorpe, Dame Edith Evans and Jessica Walter. Dealing with the men of a lone-wolf submarine in the early days of World War II, "Pursue and Destroy" once had a berth on the fall ABC schedule, but later lost out to "Shane."

VIET NAM: The Village War—Jerry Dunphy and a KNXT camera crew spent five weeks with GIs in South Viet Nam last May recording the war against hunger, fear, disease and ignorance waged by dedicated Americans who, on their own time, help educate and heal the frightened South Vietnamesse people who still don't understand the shooting war. Result is an hour-long report, in color, to screen at 9 p.m., ch. 2, as told through the eyes of U.S. servicemen, including Lt. Col. Kenneth B. Facey of L.B.

SPECIAL

THE HOOFER—Another Desilu pilot film that wasn't sold comes briefly off the shelf for a screening at 8:30 p.m., ch. 2. This one stars Donald O'Connor and Soupy Sales as a pair of turn-of-the-century vaudeville dancers, unsuccessful in getting a decent booking. The buck-and-wingers finally corner a top agent in a gymnasium and sell him a bill of goods in a climactic acrobatic dance production number. Jerome Cowan, Jackie Coogan, Cliff Norton and Jolene Brand are featured. (Norton, incidentally, did make it to the fall schedule with CBS' "It's About Time.")

CRITICS' CORNER

Program: "A White House Wedding, aired by all networks.

Many of the tv newsmen spiced their narration with appropriate humor.

At one point when Nugent kissed his bride for the photogs, one of them shouted, "One more for the West Coast."

He complied and then thanked them.

A gag that has been making the rounds was picked by one of the reporters, that President Johnson lost a daughter but gained a vote, and a Republican at that.

Program: "Heavyweight Championship Fight," aired by channel 7.

While the fight followed a predictable pattern, one could only be gratified anew at the technical knowledge that made possible its transmission live from London.

Except for a few moments—after the knockout, fortunately—the Early Bird satellite performed admirably.

So did the ABC-TV crew covering the fight. It's pre-fight training films and interviews were excellent as were the post-fight stop-action repeat shots of the knockout.

The whole performance was marred only by the lack of a contender of championship caliber, and you can't blame the Early Bird for that.

Critic Bert Resnik of "TeleVues"

Program: "Mickie Finn's," airing Thursdays on channel 4.

An oasis amid the desert of reruns, "Mickie Finn's" has improved considerably since it preemed last April, filling the vacancy left by "Mona McCluskey." They have now flavored it with a slight variation in format, giving the guestar more to do than just come on, sing that song or two, and depart.

Most Valuable Advice

By RON HARPER

Co-Star of "The Jean Arthur Show" in Fall on Channel 2

I don't think it's possible for anyone else to have received the best advice given to me when you consider that the man who gave it to me was a white-haired, always smiling, lovely man named Albert Einstein.

RON HARPER

I was a student of politics at Princeton when Einstein taught there and I was also active in the University Theatre. Dr. Einstein loved Shakespeare and came to see our performances regularly. He used to come back stage and chat with us.

The first time I met him the first thing that struck me about him was that none of his clothing matched. He wore a maroon jacket and pinstriped trousers and a shirt with no tie. He wore sandals without socks. It was quite apparent that clothing—or any other material things—meant nothing to him.

During a chat one day I laughingly asked him if he thought I could earn my living as an actor and if my performance that day was good. He was very easy to talk to and enjoyed the company of young people.

A smile crossed his face and his eyes twinkled. He then asked me if I had felt good while doing it.

"Then that's what counts," the professor said. "Never worry if you were good or bad—just if what you were doing seemed the right thing for you to do. If you're satisfied and happy you will soon find out that the good will more than outweigh the bad."

Einstein, of course, has given more profound advice in his time, but to a young student with acting ambitions, every word of his advice was golden and I've never forgotten.

SECOND VIET 'WAR'

Food, Clothing, Medicine Principal Ammunition

By JERRY DUNPHY
Newscaster for Channel 2

All of us know that we are fighting an unrelenting war in Viet Nam against a ruthless enemy, but not too many Americans are aware of yet another war being waged there, the ceaseless struggle by our servicemen to befriend the South Vietnamese people.

This "second war" is the subject of an hour-long documentary entitled "Viet Nam: The Village War," which will be broadcast in color today (Sunday, 9 p.m., channel 2).

LT. COL. Kenneth B. Facey of Long Beach appears in Viet Nam special at 9 p. m. today (Sunday), channel 2, in COLOR.

I had the privilege of spending five weeks with a KNXT News unit in that war-ravaged country getting this story on film for our Southern California viewers.

* * * *

FOR THE documentary, we moved to forward areas and into small villages and hamlets where no American civilians had ever been. It is in these areas where this second war is being waged.

Our troops are fighting this war with the help of USAID, CARE and religious relief societies. Their ammunition is food, clothing, medicine and the remarkable compassion of our servicemen and their fondness for children.

This second war is considered to be as important as the shooting war. As Lt. Col. Kenneth B. Facey of Long Beach put it: "He who gets close to the people and wins their support and loyalty wins the war."

We hope you will have an opportunity to see how our fellow Americans are achieving this end.

* * * *

THIS SECOND war is a military operation and its objective is to strengthen the Vietnamese by helping them help themselves. For example, a vicious maneuver of the Viet Cong is to move into a village and kill its chief. This leaves the villagers without leadership and they then become easy prey to the VC.

The military objective is to counter this by strengthening village governments. In the case where a chief has been slain, our servicemen help the Vietnamese choose a new leader then work with him to solidify the village and train villagers to fight the VC.

Our troops move into an area and build hospitals and schools to treat the ill and injured and educate the young. The basic idea behind this is to win the hearts and minds of the people.

* * * *

OUR documentary is told by these front-line troops. To get as much as possible in the hour, we tried to avoid as much as possible having questions asked while the cameras were running.

We would pose a question to one of our troops and then film him and his answer. In many cases, the voice of a serviceman reports what is happening in a village while the camera records it. We found that we could get much more of the story in the space of an hour in this manner.

LUNCH AT 10:30 A.M.

Soap Opera 'Frantic' for Movie Actress

By ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI)—JOAN BENNETT was a star in the great days of Hollywood when the journey to the studio was a leisurely limousine ride from a mansion to a dressing room the size of a luxury hotel suite.

There were flowers from the producer, the support of a small army of aides from secretaries to dialogue coaches and, if one cared for that sort of thing, a caviar and champagne lunch with such co-stars as John Barrymore, Spencer Tracy, Ronald Colman or Gregory Peck.

That was the Hollywood one would not blame Miss Bennett for recalling wistfully as she toils away the long hours in a studio on a dingy street in Manhattan in ABC-TV's daytime serial, "Dark Shadows." She is one of its most important featured players.

THE ECONOMICS of the world of the daytime serial permit no pampering. It is hard work. And Miss Bennett, still slim and elegant, was discovered in a tiny dressing room just off the ingenious set of what ABC calls "the first television program styled in the tradition of the Gothic novel."

"Let's find some place that's air-conditioned," she said.

Later, in one of the booth's in which sponsor's watch the programs, she talked with considerable good humor about her involvement in "Dark Shadows" and the tough schedule which, being a good trouper, she is learning to live with.

"It was frantic at first," she said, with a smile that smoothed the years. "I was really desperate the first few weeks. I thought I'd die. I was fighting with my agent for getting me into all this. But now its simmered down."

"In "Dark Shadows" Miss Bennett (the eighth generation of one of our most famous acting families) plays Elizabeth Stoddard Collins, mistress of the great stone mansion at the center of much of the mystery and menace of the program.

"ONE DAY'S WORK in this role is about the equal of three days work in Hollywood," she said. "Listen to this schedule: We arrive at 8:30 a.m. and we go to lunch —lunch, mind you—at 10:30 a.m.! Mine is usually a container of soup from a vending machine. We report back at the set at 11:30 a.m.

"Then we start taping the show. And as soon as we finish the taping we start rehearsing for the next day's episode! In order to keep the whole week from being frantic I have to study the script three hours on Saturday and three hours on Sunday. That leaves no time for a social life and I'm lucky if I can squeeze in a play or a movie or a dinner date."

Miss Bennett said she had seen herself only twice in the show and thought she looked "ghastly" because the overhead TV lighting made her appear as though she had no mouth. The lighting has since been adjusted. She finds it hard to accustom herself to the constant repetition of daytime scripts.

"But you have to say the same thing over and over again," she explained, "because you have to take into consideration new viewers trying to catch up with the story."

JOAN BENNETT . . . Called to Action

Miss Bennett spent a silent moment looking back over her long and distinguished career to see if there was anything she wanted mentioned.

"I could kick myself," she said, with feeling, "for not buying real estate in Hollywood all those years ago."

Colorful Change

Barton MacLane, who plays the regular role of General Peterson on NBC-TV's "I Dream of Jeannie," has beautiful white hair which photographs badly in color. MacLane's wife came up with the perfect solution, a special blue-platinum rinse which makes his hair a thing of beauty.

Long Beach Soldier TV Subject

A 22-year-old Long Beach native, Michael Frame, is the subject Monday of a half-hour television documentary on the transition of a civilian to a soldier.

The program will be aired at 9:30 p.m. on channel 28.

Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Frame. The father is with the Long Beach Fire Dept., and the mother, Vivian, is a realtor.

The program, including many scenes made in Long Beach, is entitled "GI Joe—1966." It follows Michael through his basic Army training.

Michael, before entering the service, attended Long Beach City and State Colleges. A graduate of Millikan High School, he attended Lowell elementary and De-Mille junior high schools.

Jewel in Rough

Nudie Johnson, the cowboy tailor who outfitted Chill Wills and Andy Devine for ABC-TV's "The Rounders," became so interested in the modern cowboy comedy series that he wangled a bit part in the show.

The day of his big walk-through scene, Nudie dressed up for the occasion by wearing some $10,000 worth of jewelry: three diamond rings, a diamond horseshoe stickpin, a watch decorated with $5 and $20 gold pieces and a belt of silver dollars.

Huntley Leaves for Viet Nam

New York Times Service

Chet Huntley, who with David Brinkley makes up TV's most celebrated reportorial team, announced recently that he was going to Viet Nam in mid-August to cover the preparations for the Sept. 11 elections there.

Huntley, a long-time critic of stay-at-home reporters who read the scripts of other men, had some harsh words for the widespread practice. "We've had a horrible thing going in television journalism," Huntley declared. "The producers of TV documentaries have been virtually unrestrained in their efforts to bring in the 'show.'

"We journalists frankly seem left out of it. It's about time we got the journalists out there in the field."

AUTO INSURANCE PIRATES: How They Menace the Public—and Reliable Companies

Q. Please tell me how many times Henry Fonda has been married and to whom. Who is the mother of his children, Jane and Peter, and what happened to her? Is Peter a narcotics addict?—R.S., Baltimore, Md.

A. Fonda has been married five times: to Margaret Sullavan, Frances Brokaw, Susan Blanchard, Afdera Franchetti and Shirley Adams. Frances Brokaw, mother of Jane and Peter Fonda, committed suicide. Peter Fonda was recently charged with possessing marijuana, after narcotics officers said they had found marijuana plants under cultivation at his home in Tarzana, Calif.

Family Plans, Youth Fares, Excursion Fares, etc. 25% off! Save 1/3rd! Save 2/3rds! Pay only 2/3rds! Pay only 1/3rd! 1/2 fare! Big confusion! Which airline has the lowest fares anyway? No airline! The Civil Aeronautics Board establishes fares for all regularly scheduled airlines . . . and we think that's the way it should be. These are called "tariffs" and they determine the price of a ticket over a given route for a certain type of airplane and service.* Cost, therefore, is not a factor in choosing an airline! Well—what is the difference between airlines? They use similar types of planes. They use the same skies. They even have the same fares. Yet—on Continental Airlines—there is a difference. You can't see it . . . you feel it! It's pride—the pride of Continental's people . . . in their jobs, in themselves, in their airline. That's understandable because, as major airlines go, Continental is not a great big, impersonal one. So Continental's people maintain their interest and involvement in how their airline is run. That's what you feel . . . and you feel good! Come travel with us and feel the difference pride makes. Your travel agent or Continental will arrange for the fare that suits you best.

*Sometimes you can save. For instance, on the Houston/Los Angeles route it is less expensive to take Continental's economy class Golden Jet service. No other airline offers this class of service on that route.

CONTINENTAL The Proud Bird with the Golden Tail

An increasing accident rate, reflected in crashes like this one, has produced the high-risk insurance problem.

AUTO INSURANCE PIRATES: how they menace the public—and reputable companies

by Charles W. Stickle

In Indiana, where high school basketball is "big league," 16-year-old Ronald Barricklow, leading rebounder on the Holton High School team, enjoyed near-celebrity status.

On the cold wet morning of Jan. 13, 1959, after boarding the schoolbus near his home, Ronald found himself the center of a lively discussion of his team's chances for victory in a forthcoming game.

Ronald Barricklow would not play in that game or any other basketball game from that morning on. Nor would he ever walk normally again. When the bus carrying Ronald and 30 other students stopped to pick up more passengers, it was rammed from the rear by a trailer truck.

Young Barricklow awoke the next day in a hospital, his right leg broken in three places, his left thigh fractured, his left hip dislocated. Eight operations and nine months later, Ronald was discharged from the hospital, his left leg three inches shorter than his right.

Medical and surgical expenses totaled $19,340.53. Ronald's father, a construction worker, paid the bills by mortgaging the Barricklows' small farm.

The truck that crashed into the schoolbus was insured by an out-of-state firm, which did a multimillion dollar business in 43 states. It was found completely insolvent in 1962 and left the Barricklows and 8500 other claimants without payment.

The story of the Barricklows and their insolvent insurance firm is but a single episode in a sordid casebook of mismanagement, fraud, embezzlement and financial machinations by carpetbaggers and incompetents who have invaded the American auto insurance market.

The soaring highway accident rate and the resulting heavy insurance losses have caused established companies to exercise painstaking care in choosing whom to insure. The carpetbaggers, taking advantage of this climate, have moved into the so-called "high-risk" market that services motorists who have difficulty obtaining insurance coverage because of poor accident records, age, poor health or physical disability.

The result has been catastrophic.

States Dean E. Sharp, assistant counsel to the Senate Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monopoly: "Passing virtually unnoticed has been the insolvency of 62 insurance firms in 21 states since 1960, including 33 in the last two years alone. These companies have left more than $275 million in unpaid claims, filed by more than 175,000 persons, many of them badly injured, and more than one million individuals with worthless automobile insurance."

Subcommittee counsel Sharp describes the situation as "one of the greatest scandals ever to affect the insurance industry."

The scandals, of course, have been limited to a relatively small percentage of companies, while many of the nation's most reputable insurance firms also write high-risk automobile insurance and reliably meet their claims. (Of 900 firms in the auto casualty insurance field, 350 perform the essential function of underwriting insurance for risky motorists.) But the scandals threaten to give an economic black eye to all.

A "FESTERING SPLINTER"

Illinois State Insurance Department Director John F. Bolton Jr., who was appointed last year when the state literally was being blitzed by hit-and-run insurers, says: "We are dealing with a splinter—a painful, festering splinter, but still a splinter."

The "splinter" Director Bolton refers to has two jagged edges. One of them jeopardizes the financial security of the motorist insured by the shaky high-risk company every time he gets in his car.

According to Vincent A. Carroll, judge of the Court of Common Pleas in Philadelphia, "There are thousands of motorists who believe they have fulfilled their social duty by purchasing insurance when, in fact, for all practical purposes they are not really insured."

His assertion proved bitterly accurate for a young Maryland couple who lost their home when an accident victim obtained a $12,000 judgment against them. They felt they were covered, but when the claim was filed, the insurance company was insolvent.

The other side of the "splinter" endangers the innocent motorist, when he is injured or his car is damaged by a high-risk driver who carries a worthless auto liability policy.

How many Americans are affected by these failures is reflected by the following statistics.

In Illinois, 19 companies have failed in the last three years. Cosmopolitan Insurance Co. of Chicago left 22,000 persons holding claims totaling $68 million. When examiners looked into the insolvency, they found assets of only $2.5 million. The collapse left 130,000 individuals without insurance.

In Missouri, Guaranty Insurance Exchange, one of six high-risk companies that failed in that state, was found able to pay only four cents on every dollar of the total of $2 million in claims against it.

WHY THE SCANDALS?

What are the reasons for the recurring failures and the resulting losses to motorists?

The basic one is that most reputable insurance companies have sustained mounting losses in recent years because of soaring claims and high jury awards. Rates, usually regulated by state law, have not been allowed to keep pace.

Caught in this squeeze, the companies have been forced to pick and choose whom they insure, placing more and more motorists in the "high-risk" market. Such drivers then face the alternative either of obtaining insurance through "assigned-risk" pools (by which established companies agree to carry a percentage of less desirable risks) or of going to a company that offers its own plan.

For many drivers, the latter choice has been more inviting, because many assigned risk plans offer only minimum coverage and because few motorists wish to be labeled an "assigned risk."

Elderly motorists, even with good driving records, can find themselves thrown into the high risk market if they have an accident. If a driver has epilepsy, he probably will find himself a high risk. Companies very carefully underwrite prospective policyholders with diabetes, heart disease, arthritis, total deafness or loss of sight in one eye.

Social factors also may count against a driver. The individual who cannot read or speak English can be marked "high risk." Ex-convicts or those on probation or parole are often in the same category.

But the high-risk market is by no means limited to the unhealthy or disadvantaged. Single men, 16 to 25, who own and drive their own cars probably comprise the largest single group of high risks. Of the nation's 2.5 million youthful drivers, nearly one-third buy insurance through assigned-risk pools. The remainder carry no insurance at all or are carried by high-risk companies or standard companies trying to accommodate parents already carrying insurance with their firm.

All these motorists have provided a happy hunting ground for hit-and-run insurance operators.

As Charles W. Gambrell, chief insurance commissioner of South Carolina, explained to this reporter: "When a large number of people find themselves unable to buy automobile liability insurance, and when they are under some form of real or quasi-compulsion by the state to buy insurance, the stage is set for the high-risk insurance pirate."

In many cases it is surprisingly simple for high-risk racketeers to get into the business. Thomas Finley, executive vice president to the Pennsylvania Federation of Mutual Insurance Companies, says that "charters of some small mutual companies are bought and sold like liquor club licenses. The going price may be from $5000 to $25,000."

After acquiring a company, unscrupulous promoters may wheel and deal to build an apparently legitimate corporate structure. But every move is calculated to enrich them. Such companies, Commissioner

Gambrell asserts, are organized to "go broke."

A common practice of the insurance pirates is to resurrect a company and run its affairs through "management contracts," which permit them to exert unlimited control and milk the companies of assets.

The case of one Minnesota high-risk insurance company is classic. Minnesota Attorney General Robert Mattson, whose investigation led to indictments in the case, explains it:

In 1963, after acquiring the management contract to operate an insurance company, a group headed by an ex-bail bondsman formed a new company and immediately transferred $100,000 in cash and government bonds to the new enterprise. Their next step was to arrange another management contract giving them power to run the second firm, charge it management fees and operate it with no questions asked.

The promoters then began to raid the new company of every asset they could get their hands on.

They set up a so-called "investment" plan that permitted them to sell to their insurance company real estate of highly inflated value and dubious title. They received in return nearly half a million dollars. Within six months, they had obtained title to the company's "home office" building and had mortgaged it for $250,000. This money later was deposited to the account of an insurance agency they owned.

The report by the Minnesota attorney general states that 25¢ of every dollar paid in premiums went to the promoters either through the investment plan or the management contract. As long as the premiums rolled in, the promoters lived off them. Out of policyholders' funds, they purchased three houses for themselves, a $6000 motorboat, furnishings and clothing.

In about two years, according to Attorney General Mattson, more than $3.5 million had been drained from the company, leaving it broke. The promoters now face federal charges.

Another device is to incorporate a high-risk company in the Bahamas, where there is little regulation and where a company can be chartered for $14. British International Insurance Co. of Nassau, Bahamas, is an illustration.

Already under indictment in Illinois on charges of embezzling $180,000, Charles Bray incorporated British International to sell more high-risk insurance to the U.S. But first he had to prove that his company was financially sound. Most states require that foreign insurance companies establish substantial trust funds to assure payment of claims should the company fail.

HOW TO START A BUSINESS

This proved no obstacle. Bray simply incorporated his own bank, the Market Insurance Bank and Trust Co., in Nassau. His next step was to present to a Kenosha, Wis., bank certificates of deposit, indicating that the funds in the name of British International were on deposit in the Nassau bank. A trust fund based on the worthless certificates was established and Bray was back in the insurance business.

Operating out of Kenosha, Bray's company took in more than a million dollars from policyholders throughout the U.S. But before too long post office inspectors, tipped off by Illinois insurance authorities, identified Bray with the earlier indictment. He was convicted of mail fraud and has received five years.

Even before high-risk companies fail, motorists are frustrated in attempts to recover losses. Some never receive acknowledgement of their claims until they hire an attorney. Others are bluffed and eventually shortchanged on claim settlements or "stalled" in efforts to obtain payments.

Still another trick is to twist policy provisions. A woman whose collision policy provided for $100 deductible skidded, struck one car and then another and wound up against a fence. Instead of deducting $100 from her claim, the company applied the deductible to each collision, two cars and the fence and would settle only if $300 was deducted!

Reputable insurance companies set aside a cash reserve for unsettled claims, but many high-risk companies make a mockery of this practice. For example, when a claim for $1000 was presented to a Maryland insurer, its adjuster determined that it might be settled for $600. The company reserved $60.

Companies also capitalize on the heavy backlog in court calendars. In Philadelphia, where the delay in trial of auto negligence cases is nearly four years, Common Pleas Court Administrator Edward Blake states that four mutual casualty companies that failed had an accumulation of more than 1000 cases. He describes this backlog as grossly excessive and indicative of a reluctance to settle claims.

How do the reputable companies view the problem of insurance pirates? Many of them are concerned.

"Certainly there is a place in our mobile society for the specialized companies that insure high-risk motorists who have difficulty obtaining automobile coverage in the open market and prefer not to go in to the assigned-risk plans . . ." says Bowman Boss, president of the Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. "But there is no place for any insurance company—of any kind—that does not meet its obligations to the people whose premium payments it has accepted."

Adds Thomas C. Morrill, vice president, State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Companies: "Only the very worst drivers—'repeater drunks' for example—need to buy high-risk insurance. Everybody else who can't get coverage from a regular company can always get liability insurance through the assigned-risk plans maintained by insurance companies in every state."

What the Insurance Information Institute says:

"The volume of auto insurance business, written by the poorly managed companies which invaded the high-risk auto insurance market and failed, is relatively small when compared with the $8.54 billion of auto insurance premiums of the more than 900 established companies, insuring most of the 90 million cars registered in the U.S. Nevertheless, the failures of these companies threaten to give an economic black eye to the insurance business at large. Responsible insurers and public will benefit from their exposure."

Clay Johnson, president of Royal Globe Insurance, declares: "The fact is that the price of insurance is not right. Failure to approve needed rate adjustments in full and long delays before any adjustments are made have resulted in serious rate inadequacies and consistent underwriting losses. As a result, responsible insurance companies have been forced to restrict their underwriting, making it more difficult for many persons to buy insurance. [And] when insurance is not available through established channels an economic vacuum develops that sucks in a black market, which does not serve the public interest."

Traditionally, insurance regulation has been left to the states. Some have faced up to their responsibility. At the same time, the high-risk scandals provide stark evidence that state regulation has been a sham in many places.

New York Superintendent of Insurance Henry Root Stern is on record as saying that "The adequacy of state regulation is not judged by the performance of states where it is strongest . . . . Regardless of the merits of state supervision, the least diligent states are used as the gauge of its effectiveness."

State insurance commissioners themselves admit that a lack of coordination and liaison has enabled high-risk predators forced out of one state to proceed to another and start all over again.

The Senate subcommittee is considering legislation to establish a regulatory agency similar to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. In this way at least some of the funds lost by claimants would be paid when an insurance company fails in the future.

The same legislation also would provide for federal insurance examiners.

Dean Sharp considers the failure to employ enough competent examiners as the "underlying weakness of state regulation." In at least six states, the job of standing watchdog over the industry has been left to fewer than four examiners. Nine states have no examiners.

The subcommittee's study also disclosed all too many instances of nonfeasance by state insurance departments. These included failure to:

Make annual audits to determine if companies are financially sound.

Examine the structure of newly formed companies.

Investigate out-of-state or foreign insurance companies.

Several states, rocked by insurance company collapses, are overhauling archaic insurance regulations.

A notable example is Maryland, where Insurance Commissioner Francis B. (Bill) Burch, who came to office only last July, has taken the lead. Prior to his taking office, Maryland had been shaken by the failures of three high-risk companies which had left 35,000 policyholders without coverage.

Burch has begun cleaning house through administrative and legislative programs. His legislative program has two objectives: (1) to extend additional protection to both policyholders and claimants and (2) to give his office additional weapons to drive undesirable and financially unsound companies from the state.

Major legislation enacted this year included laws to:

Increase the minimum capital surplus requirements of companies seeking to do business in the state by 50 percent.

Impose fines up to $25,000 on companies that violate the state insurance code.

Require companies whose licenses are subject to revocation proceedings to prove in court that they were entitled to continue business pending final determination of the case.

Require companies to give at least 30 days notice to a policyholder in the event of a cancellation or refusal to renew his policy.

Burch also has begun surprise examinations of high-risk auto insurers and is making in-depth examinations of financial and operating practices. He has instituted a training program to develop a competent staff of examiners, analysts and actuaries. Most significant is that at his insistence Maryland has set up an insolvency fund to take care of accident victims left unprotected by insolvent companies.

WHAT IS NEEDED

Maryland may well serve as a model for other states to follow. But at the same time, some observers feel the days of state regulation are numbered and that federal legislation will be enacted in the future.

"Eventual federal regulation of the insurance business may be inescapable," according to Royal Globe's Johnson, who served as president of the Insurance Information Institute in 1965.

"For more than 20 years our business has harbored the notion that state regulation was preferable to federal regulation," Mr. Johnson says. "Lately, however, we have come to realize that the 'status quo' isn't what it used to be, and that there surely can be devised a better mode of existence than that which we currently have under state regulation."

A more conservative viewpoint is, however, that the states should continue to regulate the industry, and that any federal legislation should only supplement and dovetail in with state laws.

One thing is certain. The inability in the past of some states to cope with the interstate aspect of this multibillion dollar industry has raised an issue of national concern. Once aroused, America's motorists will demand no small measure of reform.

JIM MAY IN VIETNAM

AN AMERICAN WITH A MISSION

by JAMES H. PICKERELL

COVER AND PHOTOS BY THE AUTHOR

Happy American and his flock: Children come running when AID man Jim May visits the villages of Quang Ngai province. A year ago he would have been greeted with suspicion.

QUANG NGAI CITY, SOUTH VIETNAM.

The streets of Tu Luong village are crowded these days. Open markets flourish. Children play. When Jim May walks through the marketplace, the children come running. They greet him with "hay-low" and "o-kay" and smiles so warm they could melt an iceberg.

Jim May, 44, Californian, career specialist in the Foreign Service, our man in Quang Ngai province, is the antithesis of the "ugly American." As the U. S. Agency for International Development (AID) province representative, he runs our foreign aid program in Quang Ngai. More important, he has captured the respect and the affection of the South Vietnamese.

It was not an easy job.

May is a married man with a daughter, 18, and a son, 16, living back in the States. He calls Santa Maria, Calif., home, but he has been away almost 20 years, doing a dedicated, professional and unsung job for his country, mostly in the Middle East and North Africa. He came to Quang Ngai over a year ago, a volunteer on loan from the State Department. What he found might have made a less dedicated man wonder why he'd ever left the embassy in Tripoli, Libya.

Viet Cong were overrunning the province and seemed on the verge of taking the capital city, Quang Ngai, where thousands of refugees had fled. Dr. Bui Hoanh, the able province chief, May and the Vietnamese and U. S. military launched a return-to-the-villages campaign. The military cleared out areas held by the Viet Cong. AID provided clothing, building materials and food to those villagers willing to work to restore their homes.

In Tu Luong village, for example, May had found only desolation when he arrived. "There wasn't a soul in sight," he said.

May's job basically is problem solving and liaison with the Vietnamese. Sometimes he looks for the problems, sometimes the problems look for him. He works closely with the province chief. He advises, the province chief administers. But there is more to it than that. May teaches, directs, supports, persuades, consults, confers, coaxes and oversees projects involving civilian aid.

Much of what has happened in Tu Luong is a product of May's ability to achieve rapport with the province chief and local officials. The villagers now have electricity, which many had never seen before. "It has a tremendous psychological impact on the people," May says. He came up with a five-kilowatt generator from AID and found some copper wire in a warehouse. The province government did the rest. May delivered another generator to nearby Tu Thanh. "It was just across a river within eyeball distance of the Viet Cong," he says. "We figured we'd let the people over there see the lights, too, then decide where they'd rather be."

May also got an AID victory-garden program going, providing seeds and fertilizer for the villagers.

But the civilian aid cannot be divorced from the military aid. Not until the battle of Chu Lai, 15 miles north of here, where the U. S. Marines knocked out hard-core Viet Cong battalions that were threatening the entire province, did the people begin coming back to their villages. By fall, 20,000 had returned.

"There has been steady progress," says May, ". . . and every indication is that it will continue. If this sort of thing goes on all over Vietnam, we're going to win."

May is a realist, though. He knows there are doubters in South Vietnam. Only a visitor who practices self-delusion can deny it.

It is six months since President Johnson's Honolulu declaration, in which he held out for the people of South Vietnam "the dream of a better life" and offered them a pledge "to stabilize the economy, to increase the production of food, to spread the light of education, to stamp out disease." To a people weary of war, hungry for food, anxious for security, fearful of the predatory Viet Cong, the President of the U. S. spoke beautiful words. Now, in Quang Ngai province, the people wait to see if the U. S. has the desire, the intention, the capability to translate the beautiful words into something they can see and feel.

"(Some of them) have never seen electricity. . . ."

Jim May checks an AID-supplied generator and helps with maintenance problems.

May does not doubt that the U. S. can win both wars—military and social—if it will pay the price. As he sees it, the price is the nasty word more — more money, more military personnel, more civilian personnel. It's not the kind of sugar-coated news Americans like to hear, but Jim May is no sugar-coater.

"I did not come here to lose," he says. "I think I know what it takes."

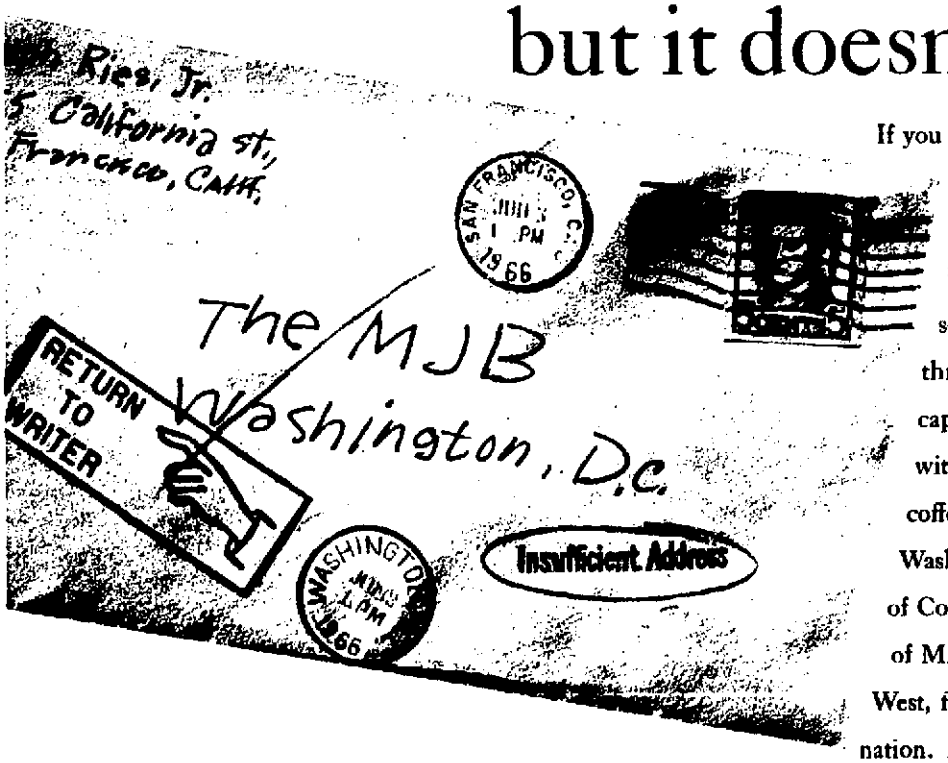

The U. S. is spending $10 billion a year on the military, and AID has imported hundreds of millions of dollars worth of fertilizer, pharmaceuticals, machinery and other essentials and has helped to create 90,000 new jobs. Jim May says it's only a beginning.

"It is necessary," May says, "for the

but it doesn't have MJB.

If you sent a letter addressed like this, the Post Office would return it PDQ. In spite of the fact that Washington has more initials than a quart of alphabet soup, it doesn't have the magic three—MJB. So the country's capital has to struggle along without the country's best coffee. That's because Washington is in the District of Columbia, not in the Territory of MJB. This Territory is in The West, for the MJB people simply cannot supply the whole nation. Back in 1881, when MJB first started making the finest coffee, they decided quality had to come before quantity.

And it still does. MJB still makes coffee the special MJB way, which is downright persnickity. For extra freshness, for instance, every single can of MJB Coffee is packed fresh the very same day it's roasted. Every single can! That's why MJB gives you first-cup-in-the-morning flavor all day long. So, Coffee Lover, be glad you're in The West. And if you're running for Congress, campaign until your constituents agree to keep you supplied with MJB.

Do you have a favorite city that's deprived of fine MJB Coffee? Write the MJB people, 665 Third St., San Francisco, and tell them about it.

peasant to have no doubt as to who will win. He has plenty of doubt at present and with good reason. This is traditionally a Viet Cong stronghold. The Communists have been dug in here for over 20 years. They are numerous and long-entrenched in a number of locales. Many young people in Viet Cong areas have never lived under any other kind of government.

"Nevertheless, it is clear that the people respond to the benefits that their government officials bring—with our assistance."

In Quang Ngai, with a population of 700,000 (about 250,000 under Viet Cong control), May is supposed to carry out President Johnson's dream with a staff of two Americans and 65 Vietnamese. There are all sorts of logistical and manpower obstacles that May refuses to allow to defeat him. Sometimes he has to bend the rules. "That's great," an official in Saigon told him about one project, "but I don't want to know how you did it." One standard rule-bender is to sell AID commodities (technically illegal) to get money to buy materials needed for other projects. Recently, May needed a warehouse but lacked the money to build it. He sold some extra cement and made a trade, and the people got their warehouse.

One of the pleasures of his job, May says, is the people. Sometimes pictured as lazy and apathetic, the Vietnamese are cooperative, friendly and enthusiastic when somebody points them in the right direction. Some of them, May says, are real "tigers"—like Dr. Hoanh.

"In this province," he says, "we are doing a great job in providing medical care [23 American and Cuban medical personnel work under AID direction], but we have not yet begun to fight seriously in the fields of agriculture and education."

May has asked for at least 60 additional Americans to implement programs that are dragging. AID recently trained and graduated its first class in a cadre of 2600 Vietnamese farmers, health workers, teachers, medical workers and others who will go into the provinces to work on socio-economic programs. The goal is self-help, but until enough leaders can be trained the cadres have to be backstopped by American civilians.

There is a great potential for improvement in agriculture and education, but May has almost none of the personnel he needs to supervise the local workers. AID helped the Vietnamese build a rural trade school in February, 1966. It has been empty since then, unstaffed, unequipped. One American mechanic with a toolkit would be a start in a backward, isolated area, where there are few secondary schools and no colleges, and where it is unusual to find anyone with more than three years of schooling. "Any teacher," says May, "is better than no teacher."

There are now only 484 schoolrooms in the province—enough for half the school-age population. May wants 750 more, but the current construction rate is 35 to 40 rooms a year. There seems to be a notion, origin unknown, that every new school should be a Frank Lloyd Wright production. May prefers to settle for something more practical in a country where only 40 percent of the people are literate. When a scarcity of wood prevented the pattern-oriented Vietnamese from building desks for a school, May suggested bamboo. Local carpenters were horrified. It had never been done. May was unable to convince them it could be done, until he got an outsider to build a desk out of bamboo.

Hardly a monumental problem, but it's the kind May encounters regularly. He finds the Vietnamese intelligent and hard working but lacking in our problem solving techniques.

Most of the problems could be solved by someone with "a Boy Scout merit-badge knowledge of a subject." It is May's belief that the U. S. has set civilian recruiting standards too high. He'd like to have, say, the Foreign Service applicants who fall just short of those chosen by the Foreign Service each year or some farm boys with good 4-H backgrounds or some mechanics. For lack of personnel, expensive equipment goes to waste. Trucks sit idle in an area where transportation of supplies is a major problem. One automotive mechanic could do the repair job. Only two out of four generators are operating, because there is no one to repair them.

Militarily, in Quang Ngai, the U. S. has stopped the Viet Cong. "They are no longer winning," says May. But he adds:

"We must win on the civil front as well. If the Viet Cong beat us here, we're not going to have another chance."

WHAT WE SPEND IN VIETNAM

Here is a breakdown on how the U. S. spent upwards of $640 million to subsidize the socio-economic revolution in South Vietnam during the year ending June 30, 1966:

Commercial imports (Medicine, pharmaceuticals, fertilizer, fuel, cement, machinery, etc.)	$370 million
Food for Peace (Milk, flour, rice, corn, wheat, beans, etc.)	$99.7 million
Projects and activities (Refugee relief, schools, health, water, agricultural improvement, transportation, rural electrification, industrial development, etc.)	$171.1 million

"They are intelligent, hard working and sincere."

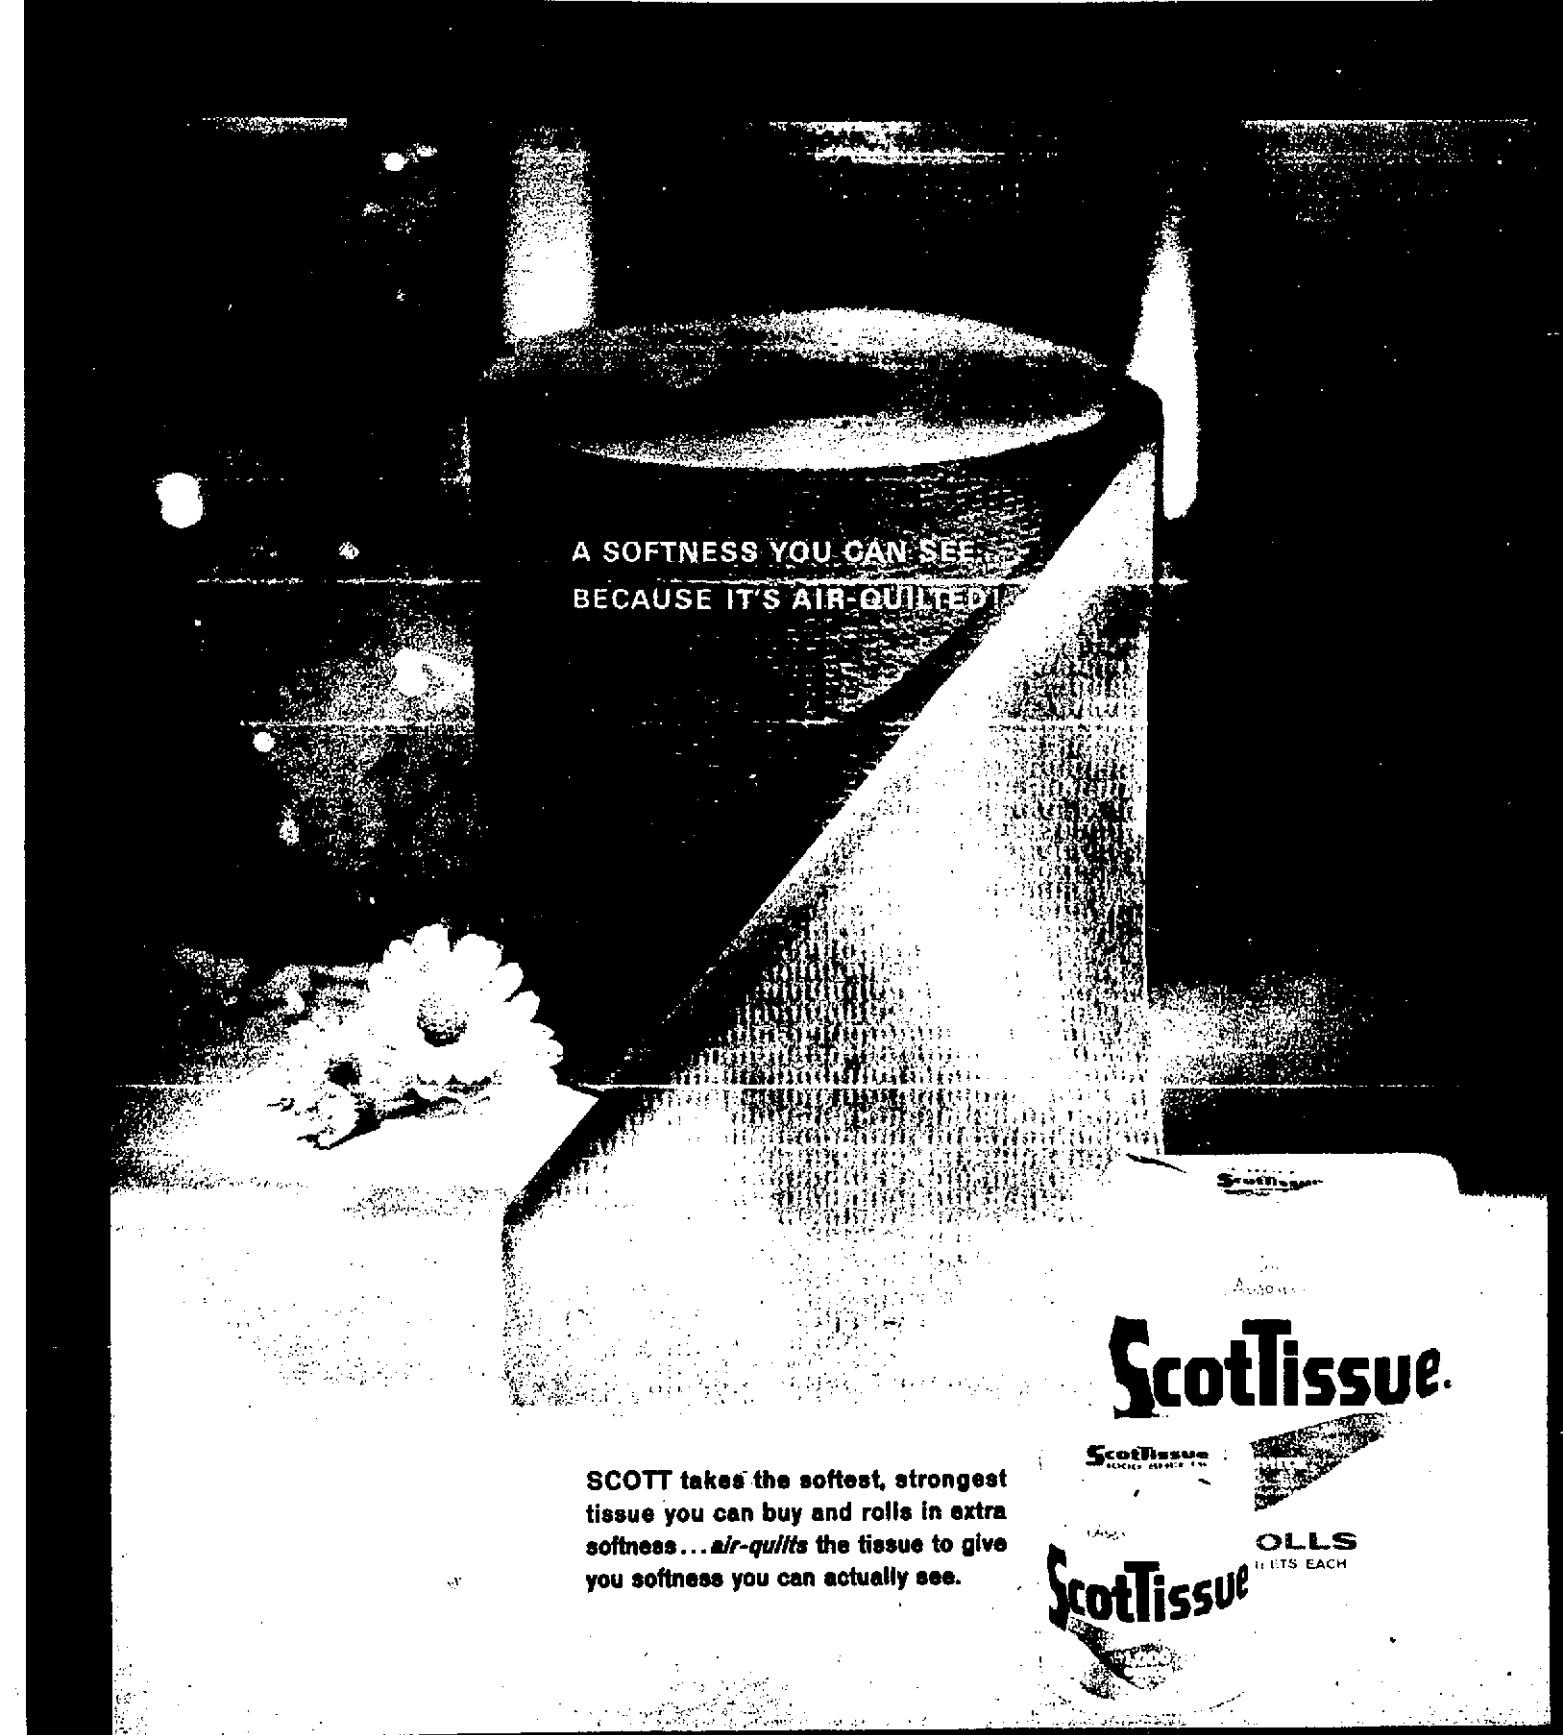

May meets with province officials regularly to discuss their problems and plans.

"I did not come here to lose . . . . I know what it takes."

May inspects some of the millions of dollars in commodities that are being shipped to South Vietnam annually under AID program. Machinery, fertilizer and food are imported.

SOMETHING NEW:

Salmon Salad with Melon

by Beth Merriman

PARADE FOOD EDITOR

If anyone in your family asks, "Why don't we have something different for a change?"—take up the challenge with Seattle Salad, a new and different main course. Named after the West Coast city, because beautiful big salmon are caught in Pacific waters off Seattle, the salad features an improbable but delicious combination—canned salmon, honeydew melon, diced pepper and celery slices. It's not unusual to serve fruit with fish—apples are often combined with tuna and grapes make a lovely garnish for sole—but it just doesn't occur to people to mix melon with salmon. Try it, you'll serve it again and again.

FROM PARADE'S TEST KITCHEN

Seattle Salad

½ large honeydew melon
1 can (8 oz.) red salmon
½ green pepper, minced
½ cup sliced celery
½ cup vegetable oil
2½ tablespoons lime juice
¼ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
½ teaspoon sugar
Few grains paprika
1 tablespoon snipped parsley

Remove seeds and stringy center from melon half. Scoop out pulp with melon ball cutter, making scalloped edge. Drain salmon, remove skin and bones, separate into chunks, add to melon balls with green pepper and celery. Combine oil, lime juice, salt, pepper, sugar and paprika. Beat with rotary beater until well-blended. Add parsley and toss with melon ball mixture. Fill melon shell with mixture. Serve salad greens separately. If additional dressing is desired, serve half mayonnaise and half sour cream, blended. Makes 3 servings. (This recipe is easily doubled to use both halves of melon and serve 6.)

Trust this name—in training pants as in baby food.

If the Gerber® Baby is on a training pants label, you know you'll get the quality you always associate with Gerber. Like extra workmanship that means durability and washability. Heat-resistant elastic (stands up to the dryer). And triple-fabric crotch, for extra absorbency. You'll appreciate the comfort and durability in all Gerber babywear: crib sheets, shirts, socks, vinyl pants and bibs. Look for them at your supermarket, and discover why, in babywear as in baby food, we're proud to say: "Babies are our business... our only business!"

BRINGING UP BABY®, Hints Collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber, Mother of Five

How your baby blossoms out

Worth remembering when you're tempted to compare your angel's achievements with a same-age baby of your acquaintance. If your baby seems to be temporarily outdistanced, he (or she) will catch up in mental and physical skills when mind, spirit and body are ready.

If your baby's in the lead, chances are he'll level off while the other little tyke catches up to him. Remember, each baby is an individual. Thing to do is to delight in your child as he flowers and progresses naturally.

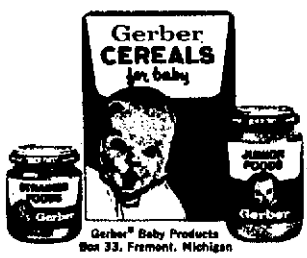

Another progress report

Your baby's physical progress depends, in part, on well-rounded nourishment. And that means serving a variety of foods for the different food values they provide.

Look at this for mealtime bliss: Gerber offers luscious fruits and lively vegetables. Savory meats and succulent high meat dinners. Delicate cereal-fruit combinations and tasty dinners. Pleasant-as-you-please desserts and flavor-fresh egg yolks. Even subtle, scrumptious creamed cottage cheese with pineapple. All are "custom-cooked" according to their individual requirements to preserve natural nourishment to a high degree.

Advanced ideas

When your baby reaches the six-months' mark, he'll try all manner of exciting things. Encourage? Yes! But a few words to the wise:

• Remember, he can absorb just so much at one time. If you teach one thing at a time, and make a game of each lesson, your cherub will respond with relish, learn faster, fare better. And, you'll be pleased as punch at his daily progress.

SPECIALTIES OF THE MONTH

Finger-foods are fine for developing hand-to-mouth skills. Great Gerber helpers:

Meat or Chicken Sticks
Cookies for Toddlers

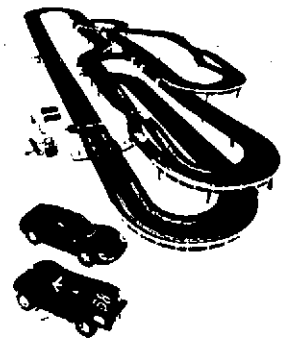

All provide protein to aid your baby's growth.

Note: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods. Comfortable, durable babywear, too. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business ...our only business!"®

VIRTUE TAX. How would you like to pay an abstinence tax? Thousands of Australians who don't smoke, drink or gamble may soon find themselves in the awkward position of having to pay taxes on their virtues.

According to Australia's Deputy Premier Arthur Rylah: "The abstainers pay far less than other members of the community who pay taxes on alcohol, tobacco and gambling. Abstainers content themselves with TV and football, make practically no contribution apart from income tax to government revenues. This should be put right."

Australia's taxmen are looking into the situation, about which the various churches, no doubt, will voice strong opinions.

FROM HOPALONG TO U.N.C.L.E.

TV & TOTS. Have American children's tastes in television matured in the past 15 years? Yes, says Dr. Paul Witty of Northwestern University, after polling pupils, teachers and parents in the Chicago area.

In 1950 the kids' favorite TV programs were (1) Hopalong Cassidy, (2) Howdy Doody, (3) The Lone Ranger, (4) Milton Berle, (5) Arthur Godfrey.

In 1965 the children's favorites were: (1) The Man from U.N.C.L.E., (2) Bewitched, (3) Shindig, (4) The Addams Family, (5) My Favorite Martian.

DIAL THE WORLD. By the early 1970's each of the 200 million telephones in the world with long distance service will be able to dial each other without the help of an operator. Direct dialing will become commonplace.

Until recently every overseas phone call has required the help of at least two operators. Many international connections are transmitted via shortwave radio beams which are vulnerable to disruptive external influences. Once the undersea cable and communication satellite systems are extended, these disruptions will be a thing of the past. Connections will then be made by the subscriber dialing 12 digits at the most. With the first number the caller will engage the automatic foreign service, then with a 1- to 3-digit group he will reach the foreign country he wants.

For example, a "7" will ring Russia, a "49" will contact Germany, a "251" will get Ethiopia. Technical correlations between countries will be necessary before the system can operate. In other words, when an American dials "0," he triggers 10 electrical impulses, while in Sweden the "0" is at the beginning of the dial and releases only one electrical impulse. In New Zealand the dial begins with "9" and goes backwards to "0." Automatic equipment will correct such discrepancies. A computer will see that a Swedish "0" in contact with the U. S. will transmit 10 impulses. The biggest problem to date lies with the many countries that have combinations of letters on their dials.

The Danes who have no "W" on their dial would not know how to dial an American party with that letter in his prefix. Americans with no "Q" cannot dial ROQuette in Paris. Moreover, some countries -- Japan, Russia, Iran -- use letters from Cyrillic and Asiatic alphabets. The only solution to this problem is to replace all letters with numbers.

By 1968 many Americans will be able to dial Europe directly, may even be able to dial the Kremlin on the hot line, the number of which is 7-240555.

SEASONALITY OF BIRTHS. In the U.S. more babies are born in August and September, fewer in April and May. The lowest period of conception (resulting in births nine months later) occurs during the summer months of June, July and August. The high period of conception centers around Christmas time. Patterns of legitimate and illegitimate births are virtually identical although there is a definite regional variation, seasonality being twice as great in the South as in the Northeast.

It is interesting to note that in England, Sweden and West Germany, seasonality of births contrasts strikingly with the U.S. pattern. There, the figures are nearly reversed. Peaks in conception occur during the summer months.

Observers have proposed various explanations for seasonal variation in births. One is that in industrial countries there is a strong correlation between conception and major holidays. In many Catholic and Orthodox countries, for example, the peak period of conception occurs during the Lenten and Easter seasons. This is especially true in Italy, Yugoslavia and Greece. Another explanation suggests that climate plays the determining factor with high temperatures reducing sexual activity or impairing the strength of sperm cells and thus reducing the risk of conception.

ANOTHER "FIRST" FROM UNION OIL

THE NEW MINUTE MAN IV TIRE ...with the red carpet ride

Concave design... tomorrow's tire today

You'll be hearing a lot about "concave" tire design in the months and years ahead. It's the latest principle in the construction of racing tires.

Here's the engineering breakthrough that enabled the big machines at Indianapolis to complete a grueling 500 miles on a single set of tires! (And still have plenty of wear left at the end of the race!)

Someday, all tires will probably be built with "concave" design.

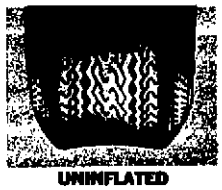

Today, the only passenger car tire in America offering this advanced construction is the new Minute Man IV from Union Oil.

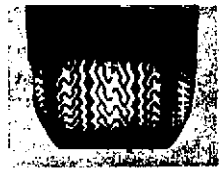

RACING TIRE

40% better mileage

Simply speaking, "concave" design means that the tire has a slight, saucer-like depression when it is not inflated. As a result, it puts 100% of its tread squarely on the road when inflated to proper pressure.

This unique design lets the tire run 20% cooler, provide 15% greater traction and give 40% better mileage. (Based on actual tests comparing the new Minute Man IV with "concave" design and the famous Minute Man IV of conventional design.)

UNINFLATED

INFLATED

OTHER ADVANTAGES OF THE NEW MINUTE MAN IV

3-rib construction offers better stability, puts more rubber on the road for improved traction. Wall-to-wall tread provides greater safety and ease of turning and cornering. Contoured cord body construction gives a soft, Red Carpet Ride.

Puncture-protected — probably America's Safest Tire. If a nail enters the tire a special sealant prevents air from escaping. You can continue driving in complete safety. Stop in at the Sign of the 76 and ask about the new Minute Man IV.

INSURED TIRE WARRANTY America's Only Insured Tire Warranty. If the tire fails for any reason during the first year or 10,000 miles, whichever occurs first, you get a new one free (excepting, of course, malicious damage or repairable puncture.)

After this first year, the Road Hazard and Workmanship and Materials Warranties continue to protect you for two more years.

Up to 15 months to pay — no money down on approved credit. The new Minute Man IV costs surprisingly little more than ordinary tires. And it offers so much more.

My Favorite Jokes

by Kurt Kasznar

EDITOR'S NOTE: Kurt Kasznar, born in Vienna, Austria, 50 odd years ago, got his first taste of American show business and also his U. S. citizenship by joining the U. S. Army at Ft. Bragg, N.C., in World War II. As a member of Special Services, Pvt. Kasznar took part in Army shows, learned something about the American idiom. Following his military discharge, he became a Broadway producer, then a character actor specializing in comedy. He appeared in such Broadway hits as The Happy Time, Waiting for Godot, Seventh Heaven and The Sound of Music. Kasznar has also starred in a long list of films, in addition to many TV shows. He makes his home in New York. Herewith are some of his favorite jokes:

When the widow appeared at the attorney's office and learned that her recently departed spouse had left most of his fortune to a Broadway chorus girl, she grew livid with rage.

Off she raced to the cemetery where she demanded that the inscription on her husband's tombstone be changed immediately. The manager explained that such a change was impossible, that the inscription "Rest in Peace" would have to remain.

"O.K.," said the wife indignantly. "But underneath that line, add the words, 'Until we meet again.' "

In a London train compartment a gentleman removes a cigar from his pocket. "Excuse me, madame," he says, addressing himself to a little old lady. "May I smoke a cigar?"

"Do exactly," says the lady, "as if you were at home."

"All right," sighs the gentleman, and sadly puts the cigar back into his breast pocket.

"What do you want for your 'Sweet Sixteen' birthday party?" a father asked his daughter. "Flowers? Candy? A rock 'n' roll band? Ice cream? Cake?"

"They're all right," the daughter conceded. "But what I really want is two boys for every girl."

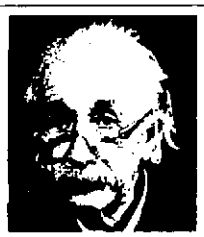

Two Europeans were discussing Americans. "Do you know," asked one, "the difference between a rich American and a poor American?"

"Of course," answered the Italian. "In the United States the poor American washes his Cadillac himself."

anecdote of the week

Albert Einstein, one of the world's great scientists, was well-recognized at Princeton University as the original absentminded professor. One day on board a train, he was unable to find his ticket. Said the conductor: "Take it easy. You'll find it. I'll be back in 10 minutes."

When the conductor returned, Einstein still couldn't find the ticket. Said the conductor, recognizing the famous scientist: "No matter, Dr. Einstein. I'm sure you bought a ticket. Forget about it."

"You're very kind," Einstein said. "But I must find it . . . otherwise I won't know where to get off."

Eisenhowers celebrate Golden Anniversary

On July 1, for the first time in 119 years, a U.S. president and his lady had a fiftieth wedding anniversary. (Last were the John Quincy Adams in 1847.) Because so many Americans are so fond of "Ike and Mamie," a group of friends have designed a Golden Wedding celebration in which everyone can join.

Led by Bob Hope and former Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, the Eisenhower admirers have organized a special drive in support of a new college named for the General. Located in Seneca Falls, N.Y., Eisenhower College, a co-educational liberal arts institution is to open in 1967. Ground was broken last year but additional funds are needed to assure opening on schedule. No anniversary present would please the Eisenhowers more than a donation to the college that bears their name. All contributions are tax-deductible and will be permanently recorded at the college. Gifts should be sent to: Eisenhower College, c/o Postmaster. No further address is required.

14th Jet Downed in 'Costliest' Week

SAIGON, Sunday (UPI)—Communist gunners Saturday shot down a Navy F8 Crusader over North Viet Nam to raise a seven-day toll of U.S. planes lost over the Communist territory to 14—the costliest week of the air war so far.

U.S. military spokesmen said today the 14th loss came during an attack on oil barges near Haiphong when the Navy plane was hit and the pilot bailed out. He was rescued later.

Losses over North Viet Nam last week included the record one-day loss last Sunday of seven planes, the loss Monday of three more for a two-day record loss, the loss Thursday of one plane, Friday's loss of two and the Crusader Saturday.

3,000 MORE TROOPS ASHORE

VUNG TAU, VIET NAM, Sunday (AP)—More than 3,000 troops of the new 196th U.S. Light Infantry Brigade arrived in Viet Nam Saturday in a further buildup of American forces.

The new arrivals raised to 291,000 the total of U.S. troops now in Viet Nam. U.S. officials have announced a prospective buildup of 400,000 by the end of the year.

The new brigade, from Fort Devens, Mass., came ashore at the coastal town of Vung Tau from troopships.

Trained in counterguerrilla and counterinsurgency fighting, the new brigade will be based at Tay Ninh, a province north-northwest of Saigon on the Cambodian border.

Its strategic location there is aimed at holding back North Vietnamese infiltration from across the Cambodian border.

The unit, first light infantry brigade in U.S. military history, was activated at Fort Devens Sept. 15, 1965. About 50% of the troops were inexperienced when they began training.

As a separate unit, the brigade will be attached to the 25th (Tropic Lightning) Infantry Division, making the division the largest U.S. combat force in Viet Nam.

As the troops walked off landing craft, they were greeted by an Army band and pretty Vietnamese girls. The girls garlanded the troops with leis and pinned roses on some.

On hand also to greet the newcomers was Lt. Gen. Jean Engler, deputy commander of the U.S. Army in Viet Nam, who gave the troops a brief pep talk.

As they stepped ashore, Vietnamese sources reported a sharp battle with the enemy far to the north. They said Vietnamese marines fought the Communist force Saturday some 345 miles northeast of Saigon and killed an estimated 300 of the enemy.

The battle scene was near Que Son in Quang Tin Province, where U.S. and Vietnamese marines have been on a joint operation for eight days.

There was no immediate report that U.S. Marines were engaged in Saturday's battle.

U.S. sources said Saturday that Communist losses in the operation, code name Colorado, had reached 514 dead and 49 captured, but apparently this did not include the new Vietnamese kill.

U.S. briefing officers, in giving the 514 figure, a sharp increase from Friday's total, said the rise was due to late Vietnamese reports, but they made no mention of Saturday's engagement near Que Son.

Demos Oppose Rumford Repeal, Blast Extremism

Planks Woo Independent --GOP Votes

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

SACRAMENTO — Democrats Saturday denounced political extremism and opposed repeal of the Rumford Act in major departures from Republican stands taken here last weekend.

The 170 officeholders and nominees comprising the Democratic State Convention thus adopted their 1966 platform which they said included a place for Independents and moderate Republicans.

While opposing "repeal of existing laws aimed at eliminating discrimination," Democrats did not mention the Rumford Fair Housing Act by name in their platform. Their human rights plank asserted, however, that the party stands ready at all times to "improve such laws."

Democrats were specific on denunciation of extremists, of either the left or the right, "from the Communist party to the John Birch Society, who are attempting to destroy our American way of life."

Platform cochairmen Sen. Walter Stiern, Bakersfield, and Assemblyman Win Shoemaker, Santa Barbara, said their human rights plank was agreeable to Gov. Edmund G. Brown's

NEBRASKA DISASTER

17-Foot Flood Buries Town

United Press International

Torrential rains pounded Nebraska Saturday night, burying a town under 17 feet of water. Rivers swelled and dams and levees crumbled under the tremendous pressure of the floodwaters.

Rivers in portions of Missouri and Texas raged in the wake of the driving rain. A tornado dipped down near Hartford, Ky., and another was reported 90 miles south of Dallas, Tex.

Civil Defense workers carried out rescue work from boats at Fullerton, Neb., submerged under 17 feet of water.

Excessive pressure burst the town's water main and left its sewage plant partially submerged.

A Fullerton official said 35 persons were removed from a nursing home there. Three persons stranded in a tree and three others on top of a power building were rescued by National Guardsmen called out for the emergency. Hundreds of cattle were isolated or washed away, and crop damage was severe.

Gov. Frank B. Morrison, after an aerial survey of the area, said "there is several million dollars in crop damages in Nance County alone. This is by far the worst I've ever seen the river at Fullerton."

Red Cross disaster units were sent into Fullerton and Columbus, Neb. Columbus was expected to sustain the most severe flood damage when the crest of the Platte and Loup reached the town early today.

* * * *

HEAVY RAINS in eastern Nebraska indicated probable flooding of the Missouri River in southeast Nebraska and extreme northwest Missouri in the next four days. Flood crests are expected at Nebraska City, Neb., and St. Joseph, Mo., Tuesday and Wednesday.

In Texas, the town of Uvalde braced itself for the floodwaters of the Nueces River.

While smaller rivers and streams in Nebraska reported the highest water levels in history, thunderstorm activity spread in other parts of the nation.

Fort Worth, Tex., got 1.2 inches of rain; Tinker Air Force Base at Oklahoma City, Okla., got 2.16 inches, and Ashville, N.C., got 1.13 inches.

Bellflower Clerk Slain in Holdup

A 26-year-old Bellflower liquor-store clerk was slain with a sawed-off shotgun Saturday night — his last day on the job.

Deputies found Dennis Sponspeller sprawled on his back — his chest spattered with blood — behind the counter at Al's Liquors, 13770 Clark Ave.

Friends of the victim said he had planned to quit working at the store to return to school and accept a promotion in the Department of Motor Vehicles.

* * * *

HE WAS a clerk with the DMV and worked part-time at the liquor store.

Witnesses said Sponspeller of 9215 Alondra Blvd., was alone in the store when the balding suspect walked in shortly before 8 p.m. — armed with a shotgun and a revolver.

It was not immediately known if the gunman emptied the cash register before shooting Sponspeller and fleeing northbound on Clark in a car driven by another man.

* * * *

ONE WITNESS got the license number of the getaway car — it was from Missouri—and another witness tried to follow the car, but lost it northbound on Lakewood Boulevard a few blocks from the store.

Deputies immediately alerted the Project Sky Knight helicopter to patrol the area, but the aerial survey was fruitless.

Union Backs Out on Air Pact--Wirtz

Claims $84-Million Package Approved —Then Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz disclosed Saturday night that agreement apparently was reached Friday in the 36-day-old airline strike, but the striking machinists later torpedoed it.

Wirtz said the airlines and the union at first apparently agreed on a package that would have cost the airlines an estimated $84 million over three years but the union later backed out of it.

* * * *

WIRTZ' statement followed within hours a report that union negotiators stormed out of a meeting Saturday with the labor secretary.

Wirtz said a joint meeting Saturday "was abruptly terminated, shortly after it started, when Mr. (Roy) Siemiller (union president) withdrew from it, taking his bargaining committee with him, on the ground—which has no basis in fact—that one of the carrier representatives had reflected on his integrity."

A spokesman for Siemiller issued this statement in behalf of the union:

"No one is more eager for a fair settlement of the airlines strike than the union.

* * * *

"LAST NIGHT a subcommittee of union negotiators met with a subcommittee for the carriers. We found they had not even been informed of our position. The meeting ended with no agreement.

"This afternoon when we arrived at the Labor Department, we learned that the carriers had come to sign a package settlement they thought we had agreed to. We don't even know what was in it.

"We hope everyone will read the union's statement of this afternoon and judge for themselves. It represents the facts as we know them."

Asked if union negotiators would go to a meeting called by Wirtz today, the spokesman said, "We'll be there. We're still trying to settle this dispute."

Brown Opposes and Reagan Backs Capital Punishment

By BILL HAZLETT

The Death Penalty silently waits in the wings while the people of California convene, campaign and caucus themselves toward the coming elections.

Despite the moral, religious, psychological and sociological considerations — capital punishment is a political issue.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown and his opponent, Republican candidate Ronald Reagan, are in direct, and outspoken, opposition on the death penalty.

* * * *

IN EXCLUSIVE, and separate interviews with The Independent, Press-Telegram, each candidate discussed his stand — and other issues attendant to the matter of taking a human life — on the capital-punishment question.

The governor, veteran of many stormy sessions over the problem, is a bitter opponent of capital punishment. "I oppose capital punishment because it weakens the very society it is meant to protect," the governor said.

But, he added, "As long as the death penalty is the law of the state of California, I will faithfully see that the sentences of the courts and juries are carried out."

Reagan favors capital punishment, an issue he says is "as much on the minds of the people in this state as (the campus problems at) Berkeley."

* * * *

"I BELIEVE we have the right to take human life in defense of our own, and I believe capital punishment is a deterrent—that it does prevent murders from taking place.

"And as long as that is true, I favor capital punishment," Reagan said.

California has not had an execution in the gas chamber at San Quentin Prison since Jan. 23, 1963. However, there are 61 condemned men on Death Row, and a new wing recently

Widespread Among Major Firms

'PSYCHE' TESTS RANGE FROM SEX TO SNAKES

By DAVID SHAW

If you applied for a job anywhere in the United States today, your prospective employer couldn't ask what country you were born in without risking violation of a federal law.

But he could ask if you ever indulge in unusual sexual practices.

He could also ask if you believe in the second coming of Christ, if you frequently dream about sex matters, if you sometimes feel your soul leaves your body, if you like mannish women and if you are afraid of windstorms, snakes or death.

FIRST OF A SERIES

These questions — and thousands like them — are asked of job applicants every day in major companies and governmental agencies throughout the United States.

In the Long Beach-Orange County area alone, personality and psychological testing is a prerequisite of employment for many positions at General Telephone, Sears, Pepsi Cola, Robertshaw Fulton, Dean Witter and General Motors and at police departments in Los Angeles, Downey, Compton, Santa Ana, Torrance and Redondo Beach.

Nationally, the companies using these tests range from Revlon Cosmetics to Standard Oil to Warner Brothers, and from Fanny Farmer Candy Shops to IBM to Campbell Soup.

Though psychological tests were first given more than 40 years ago—primarily in the armed forces—their use did not become widespread until the Sputnik-spawned education revolution of the late 1950s and 1960s.

LBJ Chooses Woman Ambassador

Combined News Services

President Johnson announced Saturday four new diplomatic appointments, including the fifth woman he has named to an ambassadorship since he became President.

CAROL LAISE

She is Miss Carol C. Laise, named to be the new ambassador to Nepal. Miss Laise is a 48-year-old career foreign service officer who is director of the Office of South Asian Affairs in the Department of State.

If confirmed by the Senate, she would succeed Henry L. Stebbins, who recently was named ambassador to Uganda.

The other three appointments announced Saturday are Glenn W. Ferguson, to be ambassador to Kenya; Leo G. Cyr, to be ambassador to Rwanda, and John Morgan McSweeney, to be minister to Bulgaria. The United States maintains a legation, but not an embassy, in Bulgaria.

Exercising

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara traded the burdens of the Viet Nam war for a back-pack Saturday on a vacation in the Pacific Northwest. Because of the airline strike he had to fly from Washington by way of Austin, Tex., and San Francisco to get to Portland.

Flanked by his son, Craig, 16, and daughter, Kathy, 22, he said a climbing party of nine would spend a week's vacation in the Cascade Mountains. In the party are Dr. Willard Goodwin, professor of surgery at the University of California at Los Angeles and Dr. Robert Livingston, professor of neurosurgery at University of California at San Diego.

Court Drama

An African woman was acquitted of murder Saturday when her identical twin sister made a sensational courtroom confession in Port Elizabeth South Africa.

Mrs. Nelle Vuma, 30, denied in the Supreme Court she had stabbed Miss Caroline Kama to death March 23. Her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Kate, was called as a defense witness, and confessed the killing.

High Rite

The wedding party near Highland Heights, Ky., had its head in the clouds — almost literally. The marriage of Deirdre Dorsel, who is 6 feet tall, to Charles J. Seligman, 6 feet 3, took place Saturday.

The couple plan to set up housekeeping in Erlanger, Ky. — on Short hill lane.

Setback

A decrease in kidney function, the first complication reported in Houston, Tex., Methodist Hospital's latest artificial-heart-pump patient, led doctors to hike the work load of the plastic device Saturday.

However, the condition of Mrs. Esperanza del Valle Vasquez, 37, of Mexico City, "appears entirely satisfactory," an advisory said.

One official said Mrs. Vasquez was alert and talking. "She is feeling well and she is eating well," the hospital said, adding, "All of her vital signs are satisfactory."

Mrs. Vasquez has suffered many years with heart trouble. Rheumatic fever damaged two of her heart valves, which were replaced with artificial ones Monday before the pump was connected.

The President of the University of Minnesota, Dr. O. Meredith Wilson, will become director in July 1967 of the Center for Advanced Studies in the Behavioral Sciences at Stanford University, it was announced Saturday in Palo Alto.

Dr. Ralph W. Tyler, director of the center since it opened in 1954, will retire when he turns 65 to live in the Chicago area where he will continue his writing on education measurement and research.

De Gaulle Spurned U.S. Offers--Ike

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower rejected Gen. Charles de Gaulle's 1958 plea for a tripartite NATO directoratae because the United States, Britain and France could not decide the fate of other allies and because "very serious problems" would be raised by any attempt to make NATO a global policeman.

Eisenhower's letter, made public for the first time Saturday, has long been considered the starting point for De Gaulle's policy of French independence of NATO, which has resulted in France's disassociation from military integration in the alliance and espousal of a national military policy.

A State Department memorandum accompanying Eisenhower's letter reports that on three occasions the United States sought without result to inerest De Gaulle in arrangements for tripartite consultation.

* * * *

FRANCE NEVER replied to a joint U. S.-United Kingdom proposal for military talks on African problems nor did De Gaulle respond to the President's suggestion for talks among staff officers on military issues of interest to France outside the NATO area, the memorandum said.

Eisenhower's final attempt was a request to the general to circulate his views on NATO in a memorandum. "General De Gaulle had twice before promised to circulate such a 'memorandum,'" the State Department document says, but finally responded "only in his press conference on Sept. 5, 1960."

The letter was made public by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, R-Wash., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on National Security and International Operations. Sen. Jackson requested declassification of the document in a letter written to Secretary of State Dean Rusk on July 16 after former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter had referred to it in a subcommittee hearing.

An accompanying State Department memorandum and the letter throw new light on the genesis of the dispute overe NATO's future between France and the U. S.

The release of the letter and the memorandum falls within the control of the subcommittee's work.

French spokesmen on various occasions have contended that President Eisenhower either never answered or rejected out of hand De Gaulle's request.

'Tough' Mao Vindicated in 12-Day Airing by Party

TOKYO (AP)—Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tze-tung has won complete vindication for his tough policies at home and abroad in a 12-day appearance before a full-dress session of the ruling Communist Party central committee.

Assailed by domestic enemies, denounced by the Soviet Union and criticized by Asian Communists for refusing to forge a united front with the Russians to fight against the United States in Viet Nam, the 72-year-old leader got a warm welcome from the first plenary committee session to meet in four years.

The committee endorsed his vow to back the Communists "in fighting to the end until final victory" in Viet Nam.

* * * *

SITTING IN PEKING from Aug. 1 until Friday, the committee issued a communique Saturday night which said:

"The plenary session fully approves the series of brilliant policies of decisive and fundamental importance put forward by comrade Mao Tze-tung over the past four years."

The committee disclosed that the often-postponed third five-year plan is under way at last and said in a confident vein that "an invigorating revolutionary atmosphere prevails in the whole country and the situation is one of a new all-round leap forward emerging."

The secret plenary session—the 11th of the eight central committee since it was elected in September 1956 and the first since September 1962 — posed as many questions as it answered.

Its failure to announce any important new policies and refusal to list who else was present suggested that much of its time was devoted to an examination of Mao's old policies and ways to implement the new ones, including the nationwide purge now under way.

It was not known, from the communique, whether any of Mao's enemies in the politburo or the central committee who have been disgraced were in their seats. They include Deputy Premier and former Chief of Staff Lo Jui-ching and Lu Ting-yi, minister of propaganda, both named to their posts by the 1962 plenary session, and Mayor Peng Chen of Peking, a member of the powerful political bureau.

* * * *

ONLY ONE NAME besides Mao's was listed in the communique, that of Marshall Lin Piao, minister of defense, and now possibly the next most powerful man in the nation. He was praised for calling on the army to study Mao's works and for his analysis of people's wars in 1963. As the man in charge of the army purge he now ranks slightly above Chen Po-ta, who heads the civilian purge, among Mao's lieutenants.

In San Antonio, Tex., President Johnson's diplomatic and intelligence officers advised him the Red Chinese communique contains little new information.

The advisers feel the communique is nothing more than a reaffirmation of domestic and foreign policies expounded at length during the past year.

On foreign issues, Johnson's advisers reported, the communique breaks no new ground.

On Chinese aid to North Viet Nam, the Experts told Johnson, it employs general and unspecific language, merely endorsing "measures already taken and all the actions to be taken" in joint consultations with the North Vietnamese.

Wife Cleans Rifle, Killed Accidentally

Maud Mahoney of Westminster accidentally shot and killed herself Saturday afternoon while watching an old John Wayne western movie on television.

Police Lt. Bob Johnson said Mrs. Mahoney, 54, of 14072 Nancy Lee Dr., was writing a letter to her daughter shortly before the accident.

Her last written words were:

"I'm going to stop now, as there is a John Wayne movie I want to see on TV. I'm going to clean Joe's gun while I watch."

"Joe"—her husband — said he had no idea why his wife wanted to clean the .22 rifle "since I haven't used it for years."

Anaheim Area Man Found Beaten, Dead

By STEVE STOWE

The nude, battered body of a 41-year-old Anaheim area man was found Saturday in the bedroom of his home by a friend who was bringing him the morning newspaper.

Orange County deputies said Robert L. Nusbaum, of 10971 Huber Ave., had been brutally beaten about the head and torso with a heavy sharp instrument apparently while he was asleep.

Deputies said an arrowhead-type fireplace poker found in the kitchen of the victim's home is believed to be the weapon used to inflict the numerous puncture wounds on the victim's body.

* * * *

PRELIMINARY investigation indicated he had been dead about 12 hours before the body was discovered at 11:21 a.m., deputies said.

The friend, Richard Miller, told investigators when he went to visit Nusbaum he noticed the morning paper was still on the doorstep. Miller said he picked up the paper and then found the door was unlocked.

Miller told deputies he entered, saw the poker on the livingroom floor, picked it up, then walked into the kitchen, and saw the victim lying face up on the blood-soaked bed in an adjoining bedroom.

Miller said he dropped the poker in the kitchen. He called deputies from Nusbaum's home.

Sheriff's Lt. Jim Sands said Saturday night no suspects had been named in the slaying. Deputies said the victim's car, a 1963 four-door sedan, is missing and a search is under way.

Detectives said there were no signs of a struggle, and no evidence the killer forced his way into the house.

Neighbors told deputies Nusbaum, a machinist for Hughes Aircraft in Fullerton, was not married and had lived in the modest three-bedroom, one-story home for about 10 years.

Lt. Sands said a preliminary record check on the victim revealed he was the subject of a missing persons report in 1960.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Daley and Bartell Mortuary, Anaheim.

Morrison Ahead in Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—After trailing in early returns, 12-term Democratic Rep. Jimmy H. Morrison pulled ahead of his staunch conservative challenger who campaigned against the Johnson administration, as returns mounted Saturday night from Louisiana's Democratic primary election.

But another Democratic veteran, Rep. Edwin E. Willis, chairman of the powerful House Committee on Un-American Activities, appeared headed for a runoff with an old political foe — Dudley J. LeBlanc, the flamboyant Cajun salesman who made a fortune as the purveyor of the tonic Hadacol.

Meanwhile, 75-year-old Sen. Allen J. Ellender swept triumphantly to a sixth term in what has been called the "world's most exclusive club."

Morrison's chief challenger was John R. Rarick.

At 11:15 p.m., CST, the count in the 6th District from 265 of 329 precincts stood: Rep. Morrison 58 325; Rarick 49,651.

In the 4th District, where the health of Willis was a campaign topic, the count from 247 of 260 precincts gave Willis 39,853; LeBlanc 22,271, and state Rep. Dick Guidry of Galliano, 19,554.

A DAY FOR TALL CORN STATE FOLKS
"Far-west Iowans" now living in Long Beach gathered at Recreation Park Saturday to take part in the food (right) and the general merry-making at the 61st annual gathering. Emory H. Clements (left), once a trapeze artist for a circus, wears a hat to show that his heart is still under the big top.

New Nurse Pay Offer Reported

PALO ALTO (UPI) — The directors of Stanford-Palo Alto Medical Center were reported to have offered nurses a new salary proposal Saturday in an attempt to head off the threatened resignation Monday of 340 nurses who have demanded pay increases.

The terms of the new proposal were not disclosed. The nurses were expected to meet late Saturday to consider the offer.

The nurses said they would resign Monday unless their salaries were raised to a range of $530 to $782 a month. The hospital's previous offer was a range of $515 to $745.

The hospital was reducing its patient load in anticipation of the walkout. As of Saturday there were only 216 patients, as compared to 515 a week ago. A hospital spokesman said the goal was to reduce patient load to 30% of normal by tonight.

The hospital was accepting only emergency patients and asking doctors to arrange for their maternity patients to go elsewhere.

WHO IS HE?

Identity Sought With Police Aid

Efforts were under way Saturday to discover the identity of a neatly dressed man about 25 who told Long Beach police he suffered a lapse of memory.

He was taken into protective custody Friday after he told police he couldn't remember anything prior to about 8 p.m. Thursday.

* * * *

THE MAN'S fingerprints were sent to the State Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation with negative results. An FBI check won't be completed for several days.

"I hope this does some good," he said as a newspaper photographer took his picture. "I just don't remember a thing."

The blue-eyed, blond-haired man, attired in a yellow sport shirt, beige trousers and cordovan brown shoes, said he walked all Thursday night looking for familiar landmarks.

* * * *

AT 2 P.M. the next day he walked up to Officer J. R. Fontaine at the foot of Pine Avenue and asked for help. "I can't work it out alone," he said.

He said he appeared to "wake up" on Terminal Island and walked through Long Beach and Seal Beach during the night.

He carried no identification in his pockets, officers said.

Thousands Stage 61st Iowa Picnic

Several thousands former Iowans who left the Tall Corn State for various reasons gathered at Recreation Park Saturday for one reason—to eat and have a good time.

The Iowans had a grand time eating under the eucalyptus trees, joking by the punch table and renewing old friendships at the 61st annual get-together.

Huge tables spread with bright cloths were overflowing with samples of the women's cooking and no dish was left uncovered.

The clan began gathering about 10 a.m. and while they talked and waited for the food under the trees, they were entertained by the Long Beach Salvation Army Temple Band, conducted by Hendrick Jouvenaar, which played several nostalgic numbers.

* * * *

LONG BEACH BOY Scout Troop 24 presented the colors and the picnic was officially underway.

The principal speech was made by City Councilman Paul Deats, who described himself as a "far-west Iowan."

"First of all," Deats said, "the membership has shown acute discernment by choosing Iowa as a state to be born in. Next, they have added wisdom and selectivity by choosing Southern California as a place in which to spend the rest of their lives.

"The most sagacious and astute among these have clevcrly demonstrated their acumen by selecting Long Beach as the best possible place in Southern California for residence," he said.

Psyche Tests Range From Sex to Snakes

women than ever before, personnel directors found they needed far more than school records and references to evaluate their job applicants.

They began to supplement standard hiring procedures with such improvised psychological testing as:

—Leaving their office in the midst of an interview, then dialing their own extension from another office to see if the applicant answers the telephone and what he says if he does.

—Offering the applicant a cigarette in a room without ash trays.

—Slanting the Venetian blinds, then noting how much he squirms when the sun glares directly into his eyes.

—Cutting two inches off the front legs of his chair, and ignoring his obvious discomfort.

These crude techniques still are used by some executives, but most companies have abandoned them in favor of the more refined written psychological examination.

The piece de resistance of psychological testing is the 566-question Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory, developed by testing inmates in hundreds of prisons and mental institutions. The MMPI probes the job applicant's views and experiences on every conceivable subject—including sex, politics and religion.

Reaction to such interrogation has been so resentful in some quarters that Congress, in writing the Civil Rights Act of 1964, included a provision that the use of "professionally developed mental tests" is not "an unlawful employment practice."

The next year, both the Senate and the House conducted lengthy investigations of the tests. Because of the testimony given at these hearings, the Peace Corps has dropped from their tests what Sargent Shriver admitted were "our most obnoxious questions."

The Central Intelligence Agency, United Nations and certain sensitive bureaus in the departments of State, Labor and Health, Education and Welfare have followed suit.

Despite these adjustments, personality and psychological testing has remained a controversial subject.

To its proponents—men such as USC psychologist J. Paul Guilford, developer of the Guilford-Zimmerman Opinion Survey—the test is a "systematic, scientifically measured job interview, the best one available."

To its opponents — men such as author Martin Gross ("The Brain Washers") — the test is a "shocking, snooping, psuedo - scientific form of prejudice."

Exercising Pet Expensive

NEW DELHI (AP)—A villager named Sayeed took his pet to town and ran into some unexpected expenses. Police took the pet to the New Delhi Zoo and fined Sayeed $6.50 for bringing it to town without a permit. The zoo charged him $39 for keeping the animal a day. Sayeed called for his elephant and headed home.

Brown, Reagan Give Views on Executions

was opened because of overcrowding.

Two executions were slated for August and September, but a last minute stay prevented an outbreak of controversy over the death penalty. For the most part, legal technicalities and a semiofficial moratorium—supported by Gov. Brown—have been responsible for the execution ban.

* * * *

OTHER MEN could "go down" to the apple-green, eight-sided chamber between now and November, and opponents of capital punishment feel such action —the spectacle of a quick series of executions—could force the death penalty issue to the forefront in an election year.

Capital punishment was an issue — as recently as Saturday—at the Democratic State Convention, in Sacramento. LeRue Grim, of San Francisco, Democratic congressional candidate, submitted a resolution urging the governor to stay all executions in California until adjournment of the 1967 legislative session.

MICHAEL L. Ingerman, executive secretary of the Friends Committee on Legislation, a church-supported group opposing the death penalty, says several bills to abolish capital punishment will be submitted durinf the next year in California.

Concerning the issues, Reagan says of the governor, "I think there is weakness in his whole approach with regard to crime."

Gov. Brown describes Reagan as a man who, "has had no experience in law-enforcement during his long life," while 23 years in government, "have given me experience in law-enforcement very few people in this country can match . . ."

VETERANS' HOSPITALS CONTINUE LSD RESEARCH

VA Planning Mental-Health Center for L.B.

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A top official of the Veterans Administration has announced plans for a comprehensive mental-health center for Long Beach.

The official, who heads the largest medical-specialty service in the VA hospital system, also disclosed:

● That research with LSD is continuing in the VA hospital system with the blessing of the U. S. Food and Drug Administration.

● That alcoholism is a growing problem in the veteran population, as elsewhere, but real headway is being made in alcoholism research.

● That a shortage of research-oriented and teaching-oriented psychiatrists poses a major problem.

The disclosures were made by Dr. John J. Blasko, Washington, D. C., director of the psychiatry, neurology and psychology service for the entire Veterans Administration.

His is the largest medical service in the VA, for on any one day, more than 50% of approximately 112,000 hospitalized veterans are psychiatric patients.

Dr. Blasko, in an interview in Long Beach, said that the new, 240-bed psychiatric building now under construction at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital is to be more "than just a bed service."

* * * *

HE SAID IT is to be developed as a comprehensive mental-health center, including an outpatient program to follow up previously hospitalized psychiatric patients.

The program, he said, will include also a day hospital where certain patients will be treated by day but allowed to return to their homes at night.

Emphasis also will be placed on improved relationship with community resources so that patients can be better prepared for a return to community living, he said.

This facet of the program will include an expanded vocational guidance and placement service for the previously hospitalized psychiatric patient.

Dr. Blasko said the VA will continue to stress "integration of psychiatry with the rest of the medical specialties."

* * * *

"THIS WILL provide the patient with the opportunity of being seen by all the medical specialties," he said.

"The chances of making a breakthrough (in the psychiatric illnesses) would be improved in this setting," he pointed out.

In psychiatric research, he said, equal consideration must be given to biochemical factors in mental disorders, psysiological aspects, psychological aspects and even sociological factors.

"We can't neglect any area," he said, noting that no one knows in what category the breakthrough will occur.

Dr. Blasko said that the Food and Drug Administration is permitting the VA to continue its medical research involving the use of LSD, the controversial hallucinating drug.

LSD has proved to be a "very valuable" drug in the control of intractable pain of terminal cancer, he disclosed.

The drug has been able to give pain relief by producing changes in sensory preception, he said.

"Medical science still knows very little about pain," he remarked.

* * * *

IN SOME instances morphine requirements have been eliminated for the cancer patient, thanks to LSD, Dr. Blasko said.

Encouraging results also have been obtained with the use of LSD in the treatment of alcoholism, he disclosed.

More than one dozen VA hospitals are actively conducting research into alcoholism, he continued.

"There has been an appreciable increase in the number of hospitalized veterans with drinking problems," he said.

He emphasized, however, that the increase coincides with that outside the VA population in the U. S. and in all of western Europe.

He said that remarkable results are being obtained by VA researchers with a new-type aversion therapy for alcoholism involving mild electric shocks.

* * * *

"THE ALCOHOLIC patient himself controls the shocks," Dr. Blasko said. "Some chronic alcoholic patients have now gone for more than a year without taking a drink, even without the use of drugs."

In this type of treatment, the alcoholic associates unpleasant stimuli (the shocks) with the ritual of drinking and eventually grows to dislike drinking.

Dr. Blasko said he is concerned about the manpower shortage in the mental-health field. Needed are more psychiatrists, clinical psychologists, psychiatric nurses and psychiatric social workers.

Especially in short supply, he said, are qualified psychiatrists with a special interest in research. Also badly needed are psychiatrists especially interested in teaching.

* * * *

HE SAID the number of psychiatric patients cared for by the VA follows the pattern for the rest of the nation. Half of all hospitalized patients are those with mental disorders.

In the Veterans Administration hospital system, the major mental health problem is the chronic schizophrenic and psychiatric disorders in general among the older veterans. Depression, for one thing, is commonly seen in the aging person, he said.

Second Hose Follows First

'Clean' Drive for Prop. 16 Viewed as Greatest Censor Threat in Years

By PETER BART
New York Times Service

LOS ANGELES — The sign on the door says simply, "Clean, Inc." On the walls are pinned copies of the Pledge of Allegiance and a "Prayer of the Day."

The offices are the headquarters of a committee working for the passage of Proposition 16. Advocates claim it would "close the lid" on obscene literature in California.

* * * *

OPPONENTS WARN it would pose the most serious censorship threat in generations and that, under its broad tenets, even the Bible and works of Shakespeare could be banned from the state.

Although the "Clean" campaign is just commencing this week, some opponents say it already has an excellent chance of passage. "It's an explosive issue," said one high elective official in Southern California who opposes the initiative. "If you say you're against 'Clean' you automatically become a 'dirty,' and in this area that's political suicide."

Civil libertarians note the "Clean" campaign comes at a time when there is sharply increased pressure for strict censorship around the state.

This trend was evidenced by the efforts of committees in various communities to ban such books as Salinger's "The Catcher in the Rye;" Kazantzaki's "The Last Temptation of Christ" and Harper Lee's "To Kill a Mockingbird," and by the recent drive to remove an exhibit by the artist Edward Kienholz from the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. That campaign was led by Los Angeles County Supervisor Warren Dorn, a board member of Clean and who objected to the Kienholz exhibit of "Assemblages" because one work depicted a portion of a house of prostitution and another showed a couple embracing in the back seat of an old automobile.

The Clean initiative (the initials stand for the California League to Enlist Action Now) is directed by William C. Shearer, who says of himself, "I always like to think of myself as the most conservative man in San Diego County."

Though Shearer denies the Clean movement is weighted with conservatives, his board embraces many men long associated with ultraright causes.

* * * *

THESE INCLUDE John G. Schmitz, a state senator and member of the John Birch Society; Dr. W. S. McBirnie, an ultraconservative who conducts a radio program called The Voice of Americanism, and Walter Knott, operator of Knott's Berry Farm and a longtime backer of conservative organizations.

The founder and president of Clean is a Republican state assemblyman and former navy chaplain, E. Richard Barnes, who argues that obscene literature is a key cause of America's "moral crisis."

To remedy this "crisis," Barnes' initiative would eliminate the U.S. Supreme Court's requirement that a book or movie must be "utterly without redeeming social value" to be declared obscene. According to the Clean initiative, a work would be obscene if "its dominant theme or purpose is an appeal to prurient interests."

The Northern California-Nevada Council of Churches say it is "appalled" by the initiative, noting it could be used to ban the Bible.

The Southern California chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union warns literature could be brought down to a child's level because a publisher of a book that contained any sex at all would be liable if the book fell into the hands of a child.

Evelle J. Younger, district attorney of Los Angeles County, says the initiative would surely be declared unconstitutional and thus would leave California with no obscenity laws whatsoever until legislation could be passed.

Despite these warnings, the Clean drive continues to pick up. Nearly 600,000 signatures have been collected on petitions to qualify the initiative for the November ballot, 100,000 more than the required number.

liaison people who read it. They said they did not consider it to conflict with the governor's keynote speech call for a bipartisan commission to propose amendments to, or a substitute for, the Rumford Act.

Assemblyman William Dannemeyer, Democratic nominee in the new Orange and Los Angeles County 35th District, was unsuccessful in his effort to amend the rights plank to advocate outright repeal of the Rumford Act. Speakers aligned against him included Assemblyman Rumford himself and Los Angeles Congressman Thomas Rees.

Although the voice vote against the "repeal" language was heavy, only 45 of the 170 delegates were in their seats for it.

While ultraliberal spokesmen voiced their hostility over the party's stance on the Rumford issue — they are against "repeal" language even with Rumford not mentioned—their words were directed mainly to newsmen.

Liberals, including Gerald Hill, president of the California Democratic Council, called a Saturday news conference to declare their intention to try for a Viet Nam resolution in today's Democratic State Committee meeting — nominees plus their committee appointees.

The resolution calls for a cessation of bombing of Viet Nam, north and south, and that our ground actions be restricted to defense. It asks too that the U.S. immediately offer to negotiate a ceasefire and a final settlement with the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong) and seek free elections throughout Viet Nam.

Support for any government freely elected by the Vietnamese people and for an offer of U.S. assistance in rebuilding the country were also included in the proposed resolution.

With the platform out of the way, electioneering resumed Saturday night in the matter of selection of a new Democratic state chairman between Mrs. Carmen Warschaw, the candidate of Gov. Brown and Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh, and Assemblyman Charles Warren of Los Angeles, the candidate of Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson, controller Alan Cranston and, in general, the more liberal Democrats.

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Ronald Reagan, Republican candidate for governor, Saturday night denounced the proposal by Gov. Edmund G. Brown to create a citizens' commission to draft a revised version of the Rumford Fair Housing Act. Reagan told a press conference prior to addressing a United Republicans of California board of governors' meeting that Brown's proposal is a mere "political maneuver."

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Edmund G. Brown proposed a "working society" Saturday to Democratic State Convention platform builders and to Californians and deplored the "temporary" loss of "our" longtime partner in progress . . . the moderate, progressive Republican party."

Brown said his 10-point work schedule for the Working Society will fill the void left by last week's GOP platform. He called it a farce "written by Spencer and Roberts (the campaign firm handling GOP nominee Ronald Reagan's candidacy for governor), starring Ronald Reagan, and featuring a thousand bit players, not many of whom had speaking parts."

The platform, said the governor, permitted Reagan "to escape from the realities — and Mr. Reagan went that-a-way."

Brown's ten points:

1. Abolition of welfare for all employable workers through a new system of education, training and employment techniques.

2. Across-the board tax reform which would cut property tax, eliminate nuisance taxes on household furniture, simplify and cut business inventory tax, provide special relief for elderly homeowners and more equitable assessment of agricultural land.

3. Aggressive action to consolidate and extend the state's leadership position in technology of the future—in space, ocean resources and new frontiers of science.

4. Massive rededication of all society to the rule of law, plus modernization of the war on crime and violence.

5. Expanded state services to local government and expansion of the state's community service center concept "to simplify the role of government and make it more responsive to the will of the people."

6. Legislation to help guarantee a higher net income to farmers and improve the stability of the farm labor force through unemployment compensation.

7. Improve and extend to all workers the federal minimum wage-hour law; a broader consumer protection program, including fuller disclosure of interest and credit costs.

8. Highest priority to improvement of the educational system from educational TV to reduced class size.

9. A comparative, regional approach to resources development through joint-powers agreements with local governments to stimulate regional economic growth and preserve and protect natural resources.

10. A major new drive for health, including early detection and prevention of disease recruitment of many more professional technicians in the health sciences, and expansion of the Short-Doyle Act for services to the mentally ill and retarded.

The governor then delivered his proposal on the emotionally volatile Rumford Act, advocating a bipartisan commission to solve the sensitive issue outside the arena of politics.

DR. KING ILL, SHRIVER WILL LEAD PARADE

Festive Negroes in Watts — disappointed by the Rev. Martin Luther King's last-minute decision to stay in Georgia—will watch national poverty war director Sargent Shriver lead a parade through their streets today.

Dr. King was scheduled to dedicate the Opportunities Industrialization Center's vocational skills center in central Los Angeles at 5:30 p.m.

Officials of the center called a press conference for King in Los Angeles Saturday, then had to use the event to announce his visit had been canceled.

King, suffering from strep throat, will remain at his Atlanta home, but his place at the dedication will be taken by an assistant, the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy.

The parade through Watts — with Shriver as grand marshal—will assemble at Manchester and Central Avenues and move through the heart of last summer's riot area, starting at 2 p.m.

Shriver is expected to attend several other events on closing day of the three-day Watts Summer Festival—a festival Negro leaders have called a "positive, constructive reminescence" of the riots that ripped south-Central Los Angeles one year ago this weekend.

AMONG EVENTS scheduled today are several jazz concerts, a dance, a play in the Watts Happening coffee house and a panel discussion on "The Significance of Last Year's Revolt and This Year's Festival."

Thousands of Negroes attended similar events Saturday—including the "Ballet of Watts," an adaptation of Jean Genet's "The Blacks," a Miss Watts beauty pageant, a late jazz concert and a basketball game featuring Walt Hazzard of the Los Angeles Lakers and Tom Hawkins of the Cincinnati Royals.

Negroes in Community Alert Patrol cars continued to cruise the main street of the three-day carnival—103rd Street, the "charcoal alley" of Watts, 1965—while police remained posted at the outer limits of the area . . . just in case.

Officials of the Jordan High School Alumni Association, sponsors of the festival, expressed pleasure at its trouble-free success and popularity Saturday.

They called the festival the "only viable alternative" to the "violent outburst" and "deepened, more hopeless despair" Negroes feel when their "cries and lamentations fall on deaf ears."

Harriman's Cambodia Visit Canceled by Miffed Prince

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI) — Cambodian chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk announced Saturday he has canceled the planned visit of U.S. roving Ambassador Averell Harriman here to discuss normalization of relations between the two countries.

Sihanouk told reporters he canceled the visit in retaliation for the alleged modification of Cambodian frontier maps by American authorities placing a number of Cambodian communities in South Viet Nam.

Sihanouk's decision apparently dashed chances that the United States might be able to resume normal relations with Cambodia, a neighbor of embattled Viet Nam.

Sihanouk broke off relations with the United States in May 1965 charging repeated violation of Cambodia's frontiers by American armed forces.

Harriman was due here early in September—only a few days after the Aug. 30-Sept. 2 state visit of French President Charles de Gaulle.

President Johnson was understood to have asked Harriman to seek not only possible restoration of diplomatic ties with Cambodia but to discuss with the 44-year-old Sihanouk his views on how to end the Viet Nam war.

(In Paris, Harriman's mission had been widely considered designed to dampen the effects of De Gaulle's much advertised visit to Phnom Penh.)

Sihanouk said he originally agreed to Harriman's coming as "a personal visit, in the interest of peace."

Lunar Orbiter Finds Canopus

PASADENA (UPI) — Lunar Orbiter, headed toward a picture-taking date with the Moon, Saturday solved the one problem that has marred its otherwise successful voyage by finding its chief navigational reference point—the star Canopus.

The spacecraft was scheduled to go into orbit around the moon at 8:34 a.m. PDT today, and about five days later begin snapping pictures of potential landing sites for astronauts.

By 9 p.m. Saturday, the Lunar Orbiter, first in a series of five shots, was cruising at about 1,000 miles an hour relative to earth, was 204,800 miles from earth and 44,300 miles from the moon.

The space vehicle was reported "in good shape" and on course for the most critical maneuver—a 10-minute burn of its retro-rocket to slow it enough to enter a lunar orbit.

* * * *

PROJECT OFFICIALS said a sensor on the spacecraft was properly locked on the star Canopus.

After its launch Wednesday, the flying photography laboratory failed to lock onto Canopus with its star tracker. But scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said the tracker found the star Saturday.

Although scientists used the craft's inertial guidance system, controlled from JPL, to keep the star within the craft's vision, they said they felt confident that eventually the star tracker, which follows the star automatically, "would eventually do everything it was supposed to do."

A spokesman said project officials were quite encouraged by the tracker locating the star.

He said, "The failure to lock onto Canopus was the one problem that has bothered us throughout the mission."

The moon itself was used as a substitute navigational reference point for Canopus in a critical midcourse correction maneuver Thursday.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Ky's Quick-Win Views Altered

New York Times Service

South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky backed away, Saturday from statements that U.S. troops could be withdrawn from Viet Nam in two years and that he strongly favored an invasion of North Vietnam.

But the 35-year-old Air Force commander said he believed that "in two or three years, or even before, the Communists will accept defeat."

Ky spoke at a news conference at Saigon Airport upon his return from a visit to the Philippines.

Ky indicated there had been little, if any, actual change in his attitude toward a negotiated peace settlement, despite a recent interview in which he said he would negotiate if North Vietnam took a "reasonable" position.

Saturday he said he would negotiate if the "Communists withdraw the North Vietnamese troops (infiltrated into South Viet Nam) north of the 17th parallel."

Dual Suspects

TOMS RIVER, N.J. (UPI) — A 34-year-old parole violator was seized by police Saturday and charged with the slaying of Mrs. Dorothy Louise McKenzie, 45 — one of five auburn-haired women slain in the New Jersey seashore area in less than a year.

The suspect, Edward Anthony Lynch, a bartender of Silverton, N.J., was lodged in the Ocean County jail pending arraignment.

LYNCH

At the same time, a wanted alarm was issued from William J. Nunebilleer, 85, who is wanted on charges of aiding and abetting in the shooting of the attractive housewife.

Lynch was seized by police only hours after they had seized a suspect in another of the killings — Ivan Joseph Rule of Edison Township, N.J.

Rule, 18, was picked up in the slaying of his former girlfriend, Catherine Baker, 16, also of Edison, and hanged himself only hours later in an Edison jail cell.

Holden Charged

LUCCA, Italy (AP) — Movie star William Holden has been charged with manslaughter following an automobile accident.

The prosecutor in Lucca said Saturday it was up to the examining magistrate to determine whether Holden, 48, must stand trial. He added that in the meantime Holden was free to travel anywhere he wished. He is vacationing in Italy.

Holden was at the wheel of a small sports car July 26 when it was in collision with another small car driven by Giorgio Valerio, 42. Valerio died on the way to a hospital. Holden was unhurt.

'Hogwash'

SANTA MONICA (AP)— Joseph Crosby, state chairman of the United Republicans of California, branded as "hogwash" Saturday a 29-page report contending that Republican gubernatorial candidate Ronald Reagan is linked with extremists.

Crosby also denounced statements in the report claiming his wife, Jane, is a paid member of the John Birch Society and an organizer of the Network of Patriotic Letter Writers.

The report, issued Thursday by Robert Coate, state Democratic chairman, claimed that members of "secret" extremist groups were giving Reagan financial support.

Crosby, a Pasadena business executive, said Coate was using "the lowest form of guilt by association." He said his wife has "never been paid for any of her patriotic work" and did not help organize the letter network.

Crosby did not deny Coate's statement that Mrs. Crosby had been a member of the Birch Society.

Fire Kills 29

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Twenty-nine elderly men died and 12 others were injured Saturday night in a fire at a Salvation Army home for the destitute, police reported. They said it was the heaviest death toll from a single building blaze in Australia's history.

Chief Fire Officer John Patterson said the fire, which raced through the top floor of the four-story building, probably was caused by an electrical fault or by someone smoking in bed.

Probe Aims at Anti-War Extremists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities puts aside its 18-month-old investigation of the Ku Klux Klan this week to take a look into extreme anti-Viet Nam groups.

Hearings will start Tuesday.

The committee has subpoenaed 11 persons who, it claims, are leaders of organizations that have collected money, supplies or blood for use in Viet Nam by the Communist Viet Cong, or who have attempted to block movement of troop trains here in the United States.

At present, there are no federal laws barring such acts unless a formal state of war has been declared.

Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., has introduced a bill to make it a criminal offense — punishable by up to 20 years in prison — for an American citizen to send tangible aid to groups engaged in armed hostilities against the United States. The measure would provide the same penalty for anyone purposely impending military traffic.

Those being subpoenaed claim the hearings are aimed at stifling opposition to U.S. policy in Viet Nam. But Pool says he is interested only in "overt acts" that aid those fighting against U.S. troops.

A committee source said the witnesses will come solely from groups which have committed one or more of the activities outlined by the bill.

"There is no organization that is merely an opposition group" he said.

Many of the groups are from the so-called "New left." Also included are representatives of the Progressive Labor Party (PLP), an avowed Communist-style outfit with ideological ties to Red China.

In 1963, a committee hearing on unauthorized travel to Cuba featured PLP witnesses. Their appearance triggered outbursts by their supporters that resulted in scores of policemen hauling out dozens of youths.

Part of Downed U.S. Plane Shown by Russ

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Russians displayed a two-foot section of wing Saturday they said was part of the first U.S. plane shot down over North Viet Nam.

The wreckage, mounted on velvet and encased in glass, showed one point of a white star. It was put on public display in Moscow's Central Army Museum along with several other objects the Russians claimed were North Vietnamese trophies taken from downed U.S. aviators.

A Soviet newspaper hailed the exhibit as "quite a success among visitors." But a reporter who spent an hour in the crowded museum Saturday observed that most gave it only a cursory look.

A sign beside the plane wreckage identified it as "a splinter of the first American plane shot down over North Viet Nam, a jet fighter-bomber F105D. It was shot down over the town of Kho-Sa on March 2, 1965."

The display was only a short distance from the larger permanent exhibit of the wreckage of Francis Gary Powers' ill-fated U2 spy plane, shot down over Soviet territory in 1960.

REPUTED CHIEF 'RAT FINK'

Clear of Racist Count, Young Republican Quits

CHICAGO (AP) — A regional vice chairman resigned from his post in the National Young Republican Federation Saturday after the group's executive committee absolved him of accusations that he is a racist or anti-semtic.

The resignation of Richard F. Plechner of Metuchen, N.J., an alleged leader of the Rat Fink Society, a New Jersey faction accused of racism, was announced after a closed meeting of the executive committee which lasted several hours.

* * * *

PLECHNER, a regional vice chairman of the national executive committee for Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware told the group:

"I've never engaged in any racist or anti-semitic activity nor will I. Due to the controversy surrounding my position, I hereby resign as vice chairman of Region 2 of the National Young Republican Federation."

R. F. PLECHNER
Exonerated, Steps Down

Clark Allen, chairman of the New Jersey Young Republicans, made the announcement that Plechner had been absolved of the accusations.

Allen added that seven New Jersey Young Republican groups which previously had been suspended for alleged association with the Rat Fink faction would regain their charters if they vote by a two-thirds majority to dissociate from Rat Fink, the John Birch Society or any other factional group.

Donald Ross, GOP national committeeman from Nebraska, told newsmen he will report to the party that "we find no evidence that Plechner wrote or sang any of the Rate Fink songs or is a racist or bigot."

Plechner told reporters earlier that the charges against him were a smear and part of "a campaign to rid the party of conservatives."

Thousands Watch Pilot Power Dive, Die in Fire

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI)—A World War II fighter plane making a power dive Saturday plunged to earth and exploded before several thousand persons watching an air show.

Shelby M. Kritser, 51, the pilot, was killed. He was the former general manager of the Globe - News Publishing Co.

He was flying an F8F Bearcat and putting it through rolls when he went into the dive. The plane burst into flames when it crashed. No one else was injured.

Kritser, a member of a pioneer Texas Panhandle family, was president of Tradewind Airport and chairman of the Texas Aeronautics Commission. He also served as a consultant to the Globe-News firm.

Brazil Takes Over Land Holdings of Californians

GOIANAIA, Brazil (UPI)—The Goias state government Saturday seized land holdings of 151 Americans under a new expropriation order.

The Americans, most of them California residents, have six months to agree to prices offered by the state. Most of the land is in the northwest section. If the Americans refuse the government offers, the state will deposit its money with Brazilian courts and begin condemnation action.

The expropriation decree was actually signed last March by the then-federal intervenor, Marshal Emilio Ribas Jr. The state has already expropriated 153,928 square miles owned by Brazilians under the decree.

A spokesman for the governor's office said some 60 billion cruzeiros in indemnities (about $28 million) has been paid to Brazilians for the lands taken in what he called "the first state appropriations."

Saturday's move was called the "second stage expropriation and included a score of Brazilians along with the Americans.

Most of the properties involved are located some 7,600 miles west of Rio de Janeiro in a fertile agricultural belt. The Americans will be notified of the expropriation through advertisements to be placed in American newspapers, the government announcement said.

Di Giorgio Advises Vote for Teamsters

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Di Giorgio Corp. Saturday recommended that employes at its Sierra Vista and Borrego Springs farms who wish to join a union vote to affiliate with the Teamsters.

Union - representation elections are scheduled at the farms Aug. 30. In addition to the Teamsters, the combined National Farm Workers Association - Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee is seeking to represent the laborers.

Robert Di Giorgio, president of the large agricultural company, said he was making the recommendation in letters to employese eligible to vote.

He said he was urging affiliation with the Teamsters because:

—"1. Employes of the two ranches already have expressed a preference for the Teamsters at an election on June 24, which was boycotted by the NFWA-AWOC.

—"2. Di Giorgio has found in its dealings with the Teamsters, who represent more than 600 of the company's nonfarm employes, that while they fight hard in their members' behalf, they are fair and responsible.

—"3. The competing union on the ballot, the National Farm Workeres Association, achieved tentative recognition with only two growers, the larger of which, this year, shifted production from table grapes to wine, thus eliminating a great many jobs."

Students Urged Not to Smoke

SAN MATEO (AP) — Dr. Julio L. Bortolazzo president of the College of San Mateo, has advised his 8,000 students to give up smoking.

Dr. Bortolazzo, who doesn't smoke, said he knows of no other college president who has taken such action. In a welcoming letter to students at the two-year college, he says:

"There is a badly mistaken idea in the minds of some young men and women that smoking is a collegiate or adult way to act. They fear, perhaps, they will be branded as immature if they abstain.

"In view of the overwhelming medical evidence on the lethal effects of cigarettes, we believe it is the smoker rather than the nonsmoker, who is far more likely to be imature . . . because he refuses to face the facts.

"So strongly are we convinced of all this that we do not permit the sale of cigarettes on our campus; we do not want to encourage anyone to kill himself.

"We cannot prevent you from using cigarettes. That is your decision. I would only hope in reaching it you will rely on intelligence rather than inhallation.

"If you have not yet acquired the cigarette habit, dont. If you are a smoker, stop . . . before it is too late."

L.A. Deputies Book 5 in Phone Booth Theft

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies, going off duty early Saturday, became suspicious when they saw five men at a pay telephone booth on Santa Monica Boulevard.

One man was inside a booth, another was standing outside and three were sitting in a car parked in front.

When they inquired what was going on, deputies said, two men attempted to hit them and then tried to escape.

The five were arrested and booked at West Hollywood station on suspicion of burglary by taking money from telephone coin boxes.

They were identified as Peter Spencer, 29, Ethan Van Hecke, 33, William Denny, 36, Robert Blevins, 43, and John Doherty, 50.

A spokesman for the Pacific Telephone Co. said more than $100,000 has been taken from telephone booths the past six months.

Can of Paint Hurled at Demonstrators

PORT CHICAGO, Calif. (UPI)—Occupants of a passing auto tossed a five-gallon can of paint Saturday at anti-Viet Nam war demonstrators outside the Concord Naval Weapons Depot.

One demonstrator, Phillip Lewis, 23, of Oakland, was taken to Contra Costa County Hospial for treatment of paint in his eyes. At least three others out of 30 were splashed.

Police attempted to trace the license number, but a spokesman for the pickets, [illegible] Bernard, said they would not sign a complaint.

The depot has been the scene of more than 40 arrests of demonstrators during a week of picketing.

Fire From Hotbox Warps SP Track

DUNSMUIR, Calif. (AP) — A fire which apparently started in a hotbox on a Southern Pacific freight train Saturday tied up the SP's main line from San Francisco to Portland in the Shasta National Forest near Dunsmuir.

An SP spokesman said the blaze spread through three cars full of lumber, warping the track. He said a load of burning poles rolled off one of the cars, starting a small forest fire which was controlled after burning about three acres.

The spokesman said there would be "a lengthy delay" in getting trains moving again.

Computer Center to Study Quakes

By BAXTER OMGHUNDRO
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — A highly computerized center to gather quickly and disseminate information about the earthquakes will begin functioning Monday in nearby Rockville, Md.

The center is a keystone in the government's 10-year program aimed at a capability of predicting within the hour when and where an earthquake of medium or greater magnitude will occur.

An immediate benefit of the center will be an ability to alert more quickly civil defense and other public-safety agencies when a destructive temblor has hit a populated area.

Operated by the Environmental Science Services Administration, the center receives data from six seismic observatories of ESSA's Coast & Geodetic Survey as well as hundreds of cooperating seismologists throughout the world. Survey observatories are planned later in Puerto Rico, the Antarctic and the San Francisco area.

* * * *

HEAVILY instrumented survey observatories are located at Tucson, Ariz., Fairbanks, Alaska; Guam, Honolulu, Newport, Wash., and Washington, D.C.

The new center will exchange information with the U.S. Geological Survey's earthquake-study center in Menlo Park, Calif.

Earthquake data from the survey centers and the cooperating observatories in the United States will be flashed by teletype to the center for quick comparison and evaluation. The resulting information then will be distributed through the Weather Bureau's communications network.

Information from foreign points sometimes will be sent by State Department or military communications channels. From some places, such as the Soviet Union, the data will be forwarded to the center on a fortnightly basis by mail.

The survey's center in Hawaii will be incorporated with its seismic sea-wave warning center there, exchanging information on quakes which may send out destructive ocean surges such as those that damaged the Northern California coast two years ago.

In addition to the speedy transmission of earthquake data for emergency action, the center will disseminate longer-range information useful in activities such as formulating building codes in temblor-prone areas and keeping scientists abreast of late observations.

* * * *

THE CENTER will concern itself mainly with quakes of 6.5 on the Richter scale or larger.

Opening of the center represents a large-scale refinement of the Survey's earthquake-monitoring and research activity since it was assigned this activity by Congress 41 years ago.

Last year the Survey received reports of 2,050 temblors in the United States, of which 1,750 were in Alaska. The rest of the quakes were in 18 states, led by the 114 in California. The worst was the April 29 tremor in the Northwest that killed six persons and caused $12.5 million damage.

Gathering and correlation of the data on the Northwest tremor took nearly a day and would have taken even longer had it occurred when the survey stations were not manned.

With the 24-hour-a-day manning, the new equipment and additional stations, the Survey will be able to gather more precise information on a comparable quake within two hours.

LAKE ARROWHEAD (AP)—Unmanned sea cameras have discovered a huge shark-like fish at a depth of 6,000 feet off San Clemente Island, oceanographers said Saturday.

Scientists of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, La Jolla, said they could not determine the species of the fish because the 9x12-foot field of the cameras photographed only its gills and pectoral fin.

"It is probably a shark—but a shark the like of which we have never seen before," said Dr. John D. Isaacs, director of marine life research for the institute.

Speaking at a conference entitled "The Ocean Frontier," Isaacs described the fish:

"Living at such great depths, it has not been seen on the surface before, although we have always believed that such huge marine animals must live at great depths."

Isaacs estimated the length of the fish at 15-20 feet and the width as three to six feet at the thickest part.

Klansman Given 10 Years in Wife Attack

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—A Ku Klux Klansman convicted last month on federal charges of conspiring to violate the rights of Negroes has been sentenced to 10 years in prison for assault with intent to murder his wife.

Joseph Howard Sims, 43, of Athens, pleaded guilty to charges last month. His wife, Betty, mother of eight, was shot last May while working as an aide in an Athens hospital.

Officers said witnesses named Sims as the assailant and searched for him for two days before he surrendered.

Superior Court Judge James Barrow gave Sims the maximum sentence Saturday on the assault charges.

Sims was also sentenced to 10 years by U.S. Dist. Judge William A. Bootle in July after he was tried on federal conspiracy charges in the death of Lemuel W. Penn, a Washington, D.C., Negro educator. Penn was hit by a shotgun blast on a remote, fog-shrouded road in Madison County in 1964. Sims was later acquitted of charges of murder in a state court.

Rustlers Slay Shepherd, Son on Sardinia

CAGLIARI, Sardinia (AP)—Death-dealing cattle rustlers struck again in the central hills of this outlaw-plagued island Friday night, shooting a shepherd and his son.

The bandits fired a bullet into the shepherd's head, then chased down his teen-age son, smoked him out of a cabin and killed him also, police said. The two apparently had seen the rustlers stealing cows.

The shepherd, 43-year-old Antonio Caboni, was found dead near the town of Allai. The body of his son Salvatore, 15, was found outside a nearby cabin where he had tried to take refuge from the rifle-toting outlaws.

Police said the youth locked himself in the cabin, which the rustlers set afire. When the blaze destroyed the cabin door, the outlaws dragged the boy from under a bed by his feet and shot him in the head.

SENATORS URGE POLICY REVISION

Richest States Getting Most Federal Spending

By ALBERT EISELE
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rich states are getting richer and poor states poorer because of the uneven distribution of the federal government's massive expenditures, a Senate study indicates.

The study, made public last week by the Senate subcommittee on intergovernmental relations, shows states with more people and higher per capita incomes are getting the lion's share of federal spending.

The study warns that unless there is a major change in present distribution of federal spending, inequalities among state and regional economics will become even greater.

* * * *

"WE MUST avert this trend now, before the division between rich and poor states gets any wider," commented Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, subcommittee chairman.

Muskie asserted that if full employment and increased opportunity are to be achieved for Americans, "Policy-makers must understand the impact of federal spending and be able to manage its distribution in the most effective way."

The study examined federal spending in six separate categories between 1957 and 1963, taking fiscal 1957, 1960 and 1963 as typical years.

The six categories, in order of size, are defense and space procurement, civilian and military wages, transfer payments, aid to states and localities, civil works and military reserve expenditures, and aid to individuals and nonprofit institutions.

The study shows federal expendiutres have a vital effect on the economic growth of states and regions, particularly defense, space and defense-related allocations.

Total federal spending in the six categories grew by 57.5%, from $56.3 billion in 1957 to $88.6 billion in 1963, with defense and space expenditures about 31% of the total each year.

* * * *

CHIEF BENEFICIARY of all federal spending during that period was California, then the nation's second most populous state and one of the six highest in per capita income. California's share of federal payments rose from $7.1 billion in 1957 to $12.4 billion in 1963, 14% of the nationwide total.

In the same period, California also benefitted most from defense and space procurement, going from $3 billion or 17% of the national total in 1957 to $5.9 billion or 20.8% in 1963.

Other large-population, high-income states such as New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Massachusetts bore out the California pattern by getting major portions of total federal spending as well as defense and space money.

By contrast, midwestern states such as Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Wisconsin and Kansas all trailed in total federal spending, particularly in defense and space.

* * * *

MINNESOTA, for example, received $.7 billion or 1.3% of total federal expenditures in 1957. In 1963, although the figure had risen to $1.1 billion, the percentage remained the same.

During the same time, Minnesota's defense and space payments remained at a constant 1.1% of the national total, although it rose from $.2 billion in 1957 to $.3 billion in 1963.

The study concluded that states with more people and personal income tended to attract more federal money, especially in defense and space, civilian and military wages and transfer payments.

But the study also found that while richer states tended to receive more federal expenditures in general and defense and space procurement in particular, poorer states tended to receive more aid to individual, grants to states and localities, and spending for military reserves and civil works.

Also it noted that while defense spending is sometimes viewed as a burden for the national economy as a whole, some states and regions tend to view it as a prop sustaining their state or regional level of income.

Finally, the study concluded, unless present spending policies of the federal government are changed, "growing federal outlays in the future will only perpetuate and aggravate inequalities among state and regional economies."

Yard Asks Londoners to Track Killers' Car

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard issued an unprecedented appeal Saturday for London citizens to take to the streets and search for the 10-year-old station wagon in which the killers of three unarmed detectives escaped.

Even London's tightly organized underworld, shocked by the violation of the traditional gangster code against use of firearms, pledged assistance in the search which stretched throughout the British Isles.

Shocked Britons responded to the tragedy with a massive outpouring of sympathy and assistance for the families of the slain police. A trust fund started with a donation of 100,000 pounds ($280,000) grew rapidly.

Detective Supt. Robert Chitty of the Yard's murder squad broadcast a description of the getaway car in a special plea to citizens of the 12-square-mile area of London around the murder scene.

* * * *

HE ASKED THEM to check the streets, garages and other likely hiding places for a "wishy-washy blue" vehicle converted from a panel truck to a station wagon with a defective exhaust which, he said, "should stick out like a sore thumb."

"I must find it," Chitty said. "It must have been used prior to the killing. "I want to know when, why and where it was garaged. A car just doesn't vanish into a row of streets without somebody seeing something."

Americans Set to Leave Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — The first group of 880 American citizens waiting to leave Cuba under an evacuation program worked out by the Swiss embassy in Havana is now expected to leave for Miami, Fla., via Mexico Aug. 19, Swiss officials said Saturday.

The Americans, together with 1,820 of their Cuban relatives, have been trying to leave the country for many months. They mostly are of Latin descent.

The first plane from Havana was reported to have arrived in Mexico City Saturday after two delays due to mechanical trouble. No Americans were aboard.

Swiss officials, who act for U. S. interests in Cuba, said the Mexican government is cooperating in the plan to fly the group out via normal commercial transportation by speedily issuing transit visas. About 40 persons are expected to make the trip weekly.

Cars Race Fire Engines

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) —Police Chief George Warren of Sale, a town about 130 miles east of here, has lost patience with the hundreds of local drivers who race the town's fire engine to a blaze. He warned that the drivers will be booked for hindering firemen, speeding and parking in driveways.

Hot Line to Kremlin Stays Unused 3 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Washington-Moscow "hot line," set up to prevent war through miscalculation, appeared certain Saturday to end three years of 24-hour readiness without ever having been used.

Although the Defense Department withheld comment, it was understood that only hourly test messages have been sent over the system's 5,000-mile cable and radio circuits since they became operational Aug. 30, 1963.

The line was installed for the exclusive use of the heads of state after a communications breakdown during the 1962 Cuban missile crisis. Since then there apparently has been no such time of tension between the United States and Russia.

* * * *

THE $350,000-A-YEAR system may have almost as much chance as the nation's multi-billion-dollar array of intercontinental missiles of never being used. But officials said the slim possibility of it carrying a significant message never has slackened the vigilance with which it is kept open around the clock.

At least half a dozen times, including recently near Helsinki, Finland, the cable section of the line has been broken by fishing trawlers or in other accidents.

Each time the cable link has been rerouted within minutes over other circuits. The longest delay so far recorded was 16 minutes.

Even if the cable should be broken, teletype messages could still be sent on the radio circuit which is relayed through Tangiers, Africa.

The United States is paying $102,347 annually as its share of the cable lease, plus $52,480 for the 24-hour radio hookup and $27,608 in maintenance charges for the Pentagon terminal.

* * * *

FRENCH President Charles de Gaulle apparently believes such a hookup is worthwhile. He recently negotiated a similar communications link between Paris and Moscow.

A Pentagon spokesman said at least two teletype operators and a translator are always on duty at the U. S. terminal and that their test signals always get a quick response from a similar staff in the Kremlin.

The idea for the line first was projected by President John F. Kennedy after he and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev clashed over the presence of Russian missiles in Cuba.

Precious hours elapsed before Kennedy could make it clear to the now deposed premier that he was looking down an American nuclear barrel which could explode unless the missiles were removed promptly.

In the wake of this, Khrushchev readily agreed to creation of the communications link.

Pistol-Packin' Shopkeeper Wings Another

BERKELEY (AP) — Claude Willsey, who has killed two robbers in his liquor store since 1952, wounded another Saturday.

Willsey, 60, told police:

A young man forced him, at gunpoint, to hand over $70. Mrs. Willsey, in a back room, grabbed a shotgun and fired. Frightened, the gunman fled.

Willsey got a pistol, ran to the door and fired one shot.

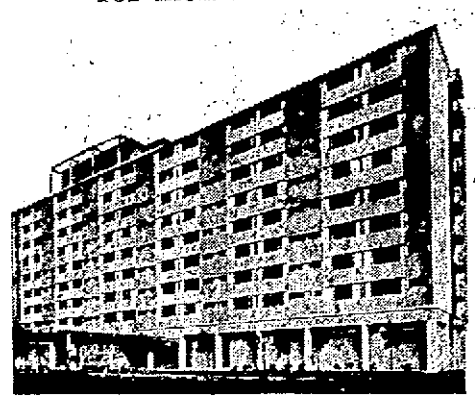

A few minutes later, Eddie Davis Jr., 23, wounded in the left arm, was captured and taken under police guard to Highland Hospital.

He was booked on suspicion of armed robbery.

Rep. Hosmer Hits Lag on Accelerator

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The most widely sought plum on the federal money tree is due to drop to some lucky community any time now.

Five months ago, six finalists were announced for a well-publicized 200-billion-electron volt accelerator, but a congressman on the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy has said the much-delayed decision will be further delayed.

Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., charged Saturday the five members of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) have come to an informal consensus regarding one of the six sites but are sitting on the project out of political considerations.

* * * *

FINALISTS in the multimillion-dollar sweepstakes are Ann Arbor, Mich.; Sierra Foothills near Sacramento; Denver, Colo.; Brookhaven National Laboratory, Long Island, N.Y.; Weston, Ill., near Chicago, and Madison, Wis.

First announcement of the accelerator came in April of 1965. Proposals for more than 200 sites came pouring in. The AEC narrowed these down to 85 by September of that year, then handed the problem to the National Academy of Sciences for further winnowing.

In the five months, Hosmer said the AEC has had ample time to make a decision.

"The AEC has been sitting on that list since it got it," Hosmer said. "I think it has been ordered to do so by the White House.

"My speculation is that the Johnson administration wants to stall the project a year or more due to its budget difficulties."

* * * *

HOSMER WENT ON to speculate the announcement is being withheld to insulate the administration from the political wrath of the losing communities at the polls.

"Should Weston, Ill., be the favored location," he added, "the word might be given Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., to publicize at a strategic time during his tough campaign for re-election."

Hosmer said the accelerator should be built at or near California's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory or the Brookhaven Laboratory on Long Island.

These are the two existing high-energy physics centers which have won the United States so many Nobel prizes," he said.

"Further, there are only about 40 people in the United States capable of designing and building a first-class 200-BEV accelerator. About 20 of them are at Lawrence, 10 at Brookhaven and the rest scattered around the country."

Hosmer said the big Russian atom smasher at Dubna was not built by top-caliber people and it took years to get it running right.

"The Russians aren't repeating that mistake with their new 70-BEV accelerator and we should not repeat it with our 200-BEV," he said. "We should put it where the people are who can build it."

The gaint atom smasher is estimated to cost $280 million and be located on 3,000 acres. It will require 2,000 persons on the operating staff and take eight years to design and build.

Postal Clerks Give Hallbeck 4th Term

LOUISVILLE, Ky (AP) — E. C. Hallbeck of Washington was re-elected Saturday to a fourth two-year term as president of the United Federation of Postal Clerks, AFL-CIO.

It was Hallbeck's first opposition in six years as president of the largest union of government workers. He received 1,062 votes against 195 for Harry L. Smith of Tampa, Fla., and 45 for Kenneth Swetnam of Anderson, Ind.

The election came at the close of a week-long convention.

The delegates chose Minneapolis, Minn., as the site for their 1968 biennial national convention over Los Angeles, Washington and Hot Springs, Ark.

ONLY BIRCHER IN LEGISLATURE

Sen. Schmitz Writes Argument Against Constitution Revision

By JIM McCAULEY
From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The only member of the John Birch Society ever to serve in the legislature, Sen. John C. Schmitz, R-Orange County, will lead the fight against a constitutional revision.

The secretary of state's office confirmed Saturday that Sen. Schmitz had written the arguments which will be used on the ballot against Proposition 1-A.

Originally, Assemblyman Leo Ryan, D-South San Francisco, was to present the ballot arguments.

However, Ryan later stepped aside and agreed to submit the Schmitz arguments with a Ryan disclaimer. It is past the deadline time for a new author to be named.

* * * *

RYAN HAD opposed the wording of Proposition 1-A because it limited to 5% a year future legislative pay increases. However, he bowed out to let Schmitz write the arguments because the Orange County senator is opposed to revision on a broad basis.

The official Schmitz ballot arguments say constitution reform as proposed in Proposition 1-A "would mark a significant departure from our traditional system of citizen legislators to fully paid full-time legislators."

Schmitz, who was graduated with a Master of Arts degree from California State College in Long Beach in 1960, will say in his official ballot arguments:

"The passing of laws in a free country ought not to be a full-time profession for anyone. When it becomes so, the country permitting it will not long remain truly free.

* * * *

"WE CERTAINLY need legal professionals in our courts, at the bar and on the bench. We certainly need police professionals to enforce the law and protect the innocent. We may or may not need professional bureaucrats in other branches of government. But we do not need professional legislators.

"The men who founded our American system of government assigned the lawmaking responsibility to elected legislatures which were much closer to the people than either the executive or the judiciary.

"The executive and the judiciary were in the hands of professionals. The legislature was the people's check on the appetite of government professionals for more and ever more power and money."

Meanwhile, the office of Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch revised the ballot description for constitution reform in response to protests from reform advocates.

As written originally, the Lynch definition would have put the emphasis on the one point ballyhooed by critics of constitution reform, Legislative pay raises.

* * * *

THE ORIGINAL ballot description said the amendment "authorizes legislature to fix own salaries."

The definition had been hotly contested—particularly the word "fix" and its unpleasant shades of meaning.

Two new descriptions, issued last week, more accurately describe the broad nature of constitution revision.

The new version tells how constitution reform calls for annual legislative sessions, provides for succession to the office of governor, defines separation of powers, and mandates the legislature to enact laws prohibiting members from conflicts of interest.

* * * *

ON LEGISLATIVE pay, it says the revision provides "compensation of members of the legislature shall be prescribed by statute passed by two-thirds vote and limits rate of annual future adjustments.

The 1966 legislature passed a bill providing for the stiffest lawmaker conflict-of-interest code in the nation and also for raising the pay of legislators from $6,000 to $16,000 annually. The pay raise is effective only if 1-A passes.

'Pile of Junk' Tracks Satellites

By ROBERT LIU

HONG KONG (AP)—While other countries use multi-million-dollar equipment to track weather satellites, the observatory in Hong Kong is using junk and scraps for the same purpose.

"We've got a pile of junk which gives us million dollar tracking results," boasts observatory director Gordon Bell.

He is absolutely right, but the crudeness of his tracking equipment probably would horrify technicians at Cape Kennedy.

In what resembles a Rube Goldberg contraption, the observatory has tossed together a pole, a tubular coil, a large metallic disc, an assortment of electrical wiring and a 40-gallon oil drum weighed down with bricks and rubble.

* * * *

THE COIL IS WOUND around the pole and acts as the aerial. The disc is attached to the base of the pole to aid reception, and the drum — complete with calibrated longitudinal figures scribbled on its side—supports the aerial.

An electric cord connects all this to a brick storehouse where, in one corner, the observatory has an assortment of old electronic equipment salvaged from various sources.

Until recently, the observatory relayed signals from the U.S. Tiros and Nimbus series weather satellites to an obsolete television set and used a camera set for a long exposure to snap pictures as they were gradually produced on the screen.

But with progress, the observatory purchased a facsimile machine to obtain quicker results and a tape recorder to record signals from satellites for possible playbacks.

"Without the recorder and facsimile machine, our tracking equipment is valued at about 1,200 Hong Kong dollars (about $200 U.S.)," Bell said in an interview.

But he expressed belief that with the launching of more complex satellites the observatory may some day have to invest in additional gadgetry.

* * * *

THE OBSERVATORY has been using its present tracking equipment since 1963.

The men assigned to tracking the satellites are equally unsophisticated.

They consist of a 20-year-old scientific assistant and the observatory's watchman.

The assistant calculates daily the path and schedules of passing satellites and mans the equipment in the storehouse.

SHARE SECRETS, CHOCOLATES

15-Year Life of Ease for Churchill Poodle

LONDON (UPI) — It was only a dog's life, when all is said and done, but for Sir Winston Churchill's brown poodle, Rufus II, it was a life of pampered ease that any other hound might envy.

Rufus' veterinarian, W. L. (Buster) Lloyd-Jones, adds the latest bit to the Churchill legend in a book published today, "The Animals Came in One by One."

"Rufus arrived to see me one day in the back seat of a chauffeur-driven car," Lloyd-Jones wrote. "He was a nice little chap but very spoiled indeed. He was plump and lethargic and his teeth were in an awful state.

"'What has this dog been eating?' I said.

"The chauffeur looked despairingly to the sky.

"'Chocolates,' he said."

Rufus ignored the chidings of medical men as did his famous master, and lived to a ripe old dog's age of 15.

Rufus died in his sleep Aug. 16, 1962, while Churchill was in London's Westminster Hospital recovering from a broken thigh.

"Rufus's trouble was, of course, Sir Winston," said Lloyd-Jones. "He loved the dog, he loved chocolates. So he gave the one to the other. Indeed he gave the dog anything he happened to be eating himself. If Rufus had been a smoker he'd have had the finest Havanas."

"Churchill once said Rufus was his "closest confidant . . . He heard everything."

"Poor Rufus lost most of his teeth that day," said Lloyd-Jones, referring to the visit. "I took them out and he was far better and healthier without them."

* * * *

"'NOW HERE is a diet sheet,' I said firmly to the chauffeur," Lloyd-Jones recalled. "'Tell Sir Winston it must be followed.'"

The chauffeur's reply was reminiscent of Sir Winston.

"'A diet?' the chauffeur said, apparently thinking of Churchill's frame. 'You must be joking.'"

Salvation Camp Meetings Set

By LES RODNEY
Religious News Editor

Featuring the stirring music which has identified the Corps for 100 years, the Salvation Army of Southern California will hold its ninth annual Long Beach camp meetings in Municipal Auditorium starting Saturday.

SAMUEL HEPBURN
National Commander

Top national and international leaders will address the nine-day rally, in which sessions open to the public are slated on the first and last Sundays at 3 and 7:30 p.m., and daily at 2, 3 and 7:30 p.m.

All sessions will include music by Salvation Army bands, soloists and varied instrumental and vocal groups.

* * * *

A SPECIAL music festival Saturday night, Aug. 27, will feature the New Jersey Youth Band, which has performed on network television and radio shows, and in many countries, and the Southern California Divisional Chorus, which was hailed earlier this year in a Los Angeles Music Center concert.

Another special event will be a youth rally, Friday night, Aug. 26.

Keynote convention speakers will be Commissioner Samuel Hepburn, national commander; Lt. Commissioner Francis A. Evans, international conference secretary; and Lt. Commissioner Edward Carey, international secretary.

* * * *

COMMISSIONER Evans, headquartered in London, is the Army's representative to the United Nations, and a member of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches. His earlier work included serving with the French Third Army as a Salvationist welfare officer in World War II, and directing all Corps activities in Italy, Greece, Austria and The Congo.

In addition to his speaking schedule, Commissioner Evans will teach a Bible study class every weekday afternoon.

Patrolman Jobs Open; Pay Is $605

Short 15 patrolmen, the Long Beach Civil Service Board will hold a written examination Sept. 8 for the job which pays a starting salary of $605 a month and top pay of $748.

Deputy Chief of Police Ralph G. Kortz said applicants must have a high school education, be between 21 and 31 years old and be in good physical condition.

Men who are accepted for the position will receive eight weeks of training at full pay in the state approved Long Beach Police Academy.

They will receive 26 hours of instruction in criminal law, eight hours of what constitutes criminal evidence, 75 hours of basic criminal investigation, 49 hours of traffic control and traffic law, 32 hours of defensive tactics, 30 hours of firearm use, 10 hours of first aid training and 52 hours of patrol procedures.

Application forms are available at the Civil Service Board office, 215 W. Broadway, and the closing date for filing for the job is Sept. 2, Chief Kortz said.

In April, 58 men applied for the job and 11 completed the Police Academy courses and were appointed patrolmen.

Anybody Lose an Alligator?

LEICESTER, England (UPI)—The pink, white and red roses in Mrs. Mary Williams' rose garden were lovely. The three foot-long alligator nestling among the thorns was ugly.

"Alligator," shrieked Mrs. Williams, tossing her roses in the air and dashing into the house.

Herbert Hawksworth of the Royal SPCA rushed over and lassoed the alligator. He took it to Robert Osborne, a local reptile expert, who said it was a South American alligator. The 'gator then bit Osborne.

POLICE DRIVE IS SUPPORTED BY PHYSICS

Tailgaters Foul Freeways

If you are far behind in your driving, that's where you're supposed to be.

Drivers who follow other cars too closely are responsible for most of the traffic accidents on the freeways, according to Long Beach police, simply because they can't stop in time. As a result, "Operation Tailgate," an areawide program aimed at educating drivers to keep their distance, will begin Sept. 1.

"The ultimate objective of 'Operation Tailgate' is to encourage voluntary compliance by the driving public," said Long Beach police Chief William J. Mooney. He emphasized that most drivers do not understand the hazards of following another car too closely.

Police consulted physicists and mathmaticians at UCLA and came up with a set of fixed laws that they will stress to drivers.

The laws are based on a safe following distance, about one car length for each 10 miles an hour of speed. Thus, a driver traveling 50 miles an hour should keep at least five lengths or about 100 feet behind the car he is following.

* * * *

POLICE NOTE that a driver of a car going 50 miles an hour, will travel 55 feet from the time he decides to hit the brakes to the time his foot hits the pedal. Then the car will go ahead another 125 feet after the brakes are applied.

If the car is under 2½ lengths behind the other, an accident is unavoidable at 50 miles an hour.

These statistics alone should be enough to stop tailgating, but in the past officers have not had a firm guide for citing offenders.

Chief Mooney said his officers "will ask themselves if the physiological and physical laws involved in a given situation will permit a vehicle to stop without colliding with the vehicle ahead. If the answer is no then there is a violation."

Lt. Orville James of the Long Beach Traffic Bureau said the 400 patrolmen in the Long Beach force have just completed a training course to help them judge distance and speed in order to identify offenders.

* * * *

ANOTHER FACTOR that has hampered a crackdown on tailgaters in the past has been the disagreement in the courts on what distance is unsafe.

James said Long Beach courts and the district attorney's office have agreed to support the new guidelines.

"What we're looking for is public cooperation," said James. "We will be issuing pamphlets explaining the dangers of following too closely and will begin giving citations Sept. 6. But I hope drivers will realize that they can't break the laws of physics and avoid an accident."

Citation Boosts 'Morality Week'

"Law and Morality Week," now under way in Long Beach, was given a shot in the arm Saturday with announcement that Long Beach was one of 12 cities in the nation cited for "Outstanding achievements in police traffic supervision activities."

Mayor Edwin Wade proclaimed the week of Aug. 11 through Aug. 18 as "Law and Morality Week," and announcement of the proclamation was issued Aug. 12 by a new foundation, Christians and Jews for Law and Morality.

* * * *

THE FOUNDATION, its sponsors say, is "a nonprofit foundation dedicated to the preservation and promotion of a better understanding on the part of all citizens of the essential role law and morality play in the future of freedom."

'Hardware' Arrives for Thums Oil Isle

The first hardware for Thums Long Beach Co.'s offshore Oil Island A—four giant drilling platforms valued at $1 million each—was unveiled Saturday in Long Beach by Moran Bros. Inc., of Wichita Falls, Tex., drilling contractor.

The 500-ton, 25-foot-high behemoths will support drilling towers rising 180 feet over the island, first of four being built by Thums to tap the immense East Wilmington field off the Long Beach shore. The platforms will travel on rails around the perimeter of the island, sinking one well after another.

Moving day for two of the monsters—they're now at 3500 Cherry Ave. — is Monday. Eleven trucks will take the disassembled platforms to Pier G, where they'll be loaded on barges.

By Friday, they'll be set up on the island, said Gene Durkee, a Moran vice president.

The other two platforms will be moved next month.

Drilling equipment installed within the platforms was manufactured by Continental Emsco Co. of Dallas under subcontract to Moran. The platforms themselves were built by Cantrall Steel Co. of El Monte.

Sailor's Gun Stolen

Part-Time Pupil Tax Irks Dumke

A proposed change in income tax regulations which would penalize thousands of part-time students taking "keep-up" courses was protested Saturday by State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke.

Under current tax laws, adults returning to college to brush up on their specialties may deduct college costs as business expense.

But the proposed change would forbid deduction if classes taken lead to a degree, the chancellor said.

* * * *

HE ADDED that the tax change would affect "hundreds of thousands of adult students throughout the country and particularly the nearly 30,000 teachers who study part-time at state colleges."

The teachers usually return to college to fulfill state or school district regulations, to win advance in pay or keep up with developments in their fields.

Dumke noted that nearly all state college courses lead to degrees.

The chancellor said the tax change would "materially injure" education and he plans to protest it at a hearing before the U.S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The hearing date has not yet been set.

BIRD SIT-IN

Owl Be Seeing You --Every Day

One day last week a great horned owl flew into Mrs. C. P. Boden's backyard and landed on her lawn swing.

Mrs. Boden and the owl met in the morning when she left her home at 5314 E. Fourth St. to go to work at Douglas Aircraft Co. "He was just sitting on the lawn swing staring at me," she said.

* * * *

MRS. BODEN left some strips of bacon on the lawn for the bird. When the owl didn't touch them(she tried to recover her offering.

"That's when he ran at me," Mrs. Boden said, "with his wings flapping. He also screeches a lot at night."

Mrs. Boden said she didn't mind being observed by the bird every morning when she went to work, but when the owl began to rip the stuffing out of the swing, she fought back.

"I let him have it with the garden hose," she said.

Its feathers dripping, the owl still sat there. "I don't know what to do," Mrs. Boden said. "I don't want him hurt. I just want him out of my yard."

Big Eye Keeps Track of Orbiting Objects

By JAMES FELDER

EGLIN AFB, Fla. (UPI)—Jutting majestically at a 45 degree angle from the sweltering Florida panhandle is the Air Force's newest watchdog on satellites, rockets and assorted space junk.

The FPS85 is a $30 million near-duplicate of a similar structure that burned in a fire Jan. 5, 1965 before becoming fully operational. The newest version is more refined in its abilities and, naturally, jammed with fire-fighting equipment.

Its purpose, in military terminology, is to "detect, track, identify and catalog man-made objects orbiting the earth, and to detect, track and provide data on ballistic missiles penetrating its detection coverage."

* * * * *

MORE SIMPLY, it keeps a radar eye on outer space and tells the U.S. Air Defense Command what's going on out there.

Aimed at the equator, the gleaming white face resembles what could be a modern temple to the gods. Across its right section, extending at the top to 153 feet, is an octagon-shaped figure which contains 4,500 receiver units.

On the left side, extending 100 feet into the Florida sky is a square containing 5,184 transmitting units.

This is radar that does not look like radar. Instead of the revolving scanner, the beam of the FPS85 is electronically aimed in microseconds from the face. The Air Force says it is faster and covers more area.

* * * * *

THE SPACE tracker sets up a coverage area into outer space of about 8% of the earth's surface. Its range is classified.

By computer control, the unit picks up orbiting matter in equatorial and polar tracks and flashes their description and path to the ADC headquarters at Colorado Springs.

The need for such an installation which can file away records on orbiting matter can be found in the fact that as of mid 1965 there were about 500 items in orbit. Today the figure exceeds 1,000—much of it space junk.

Cache of Arms May Be Fidel's

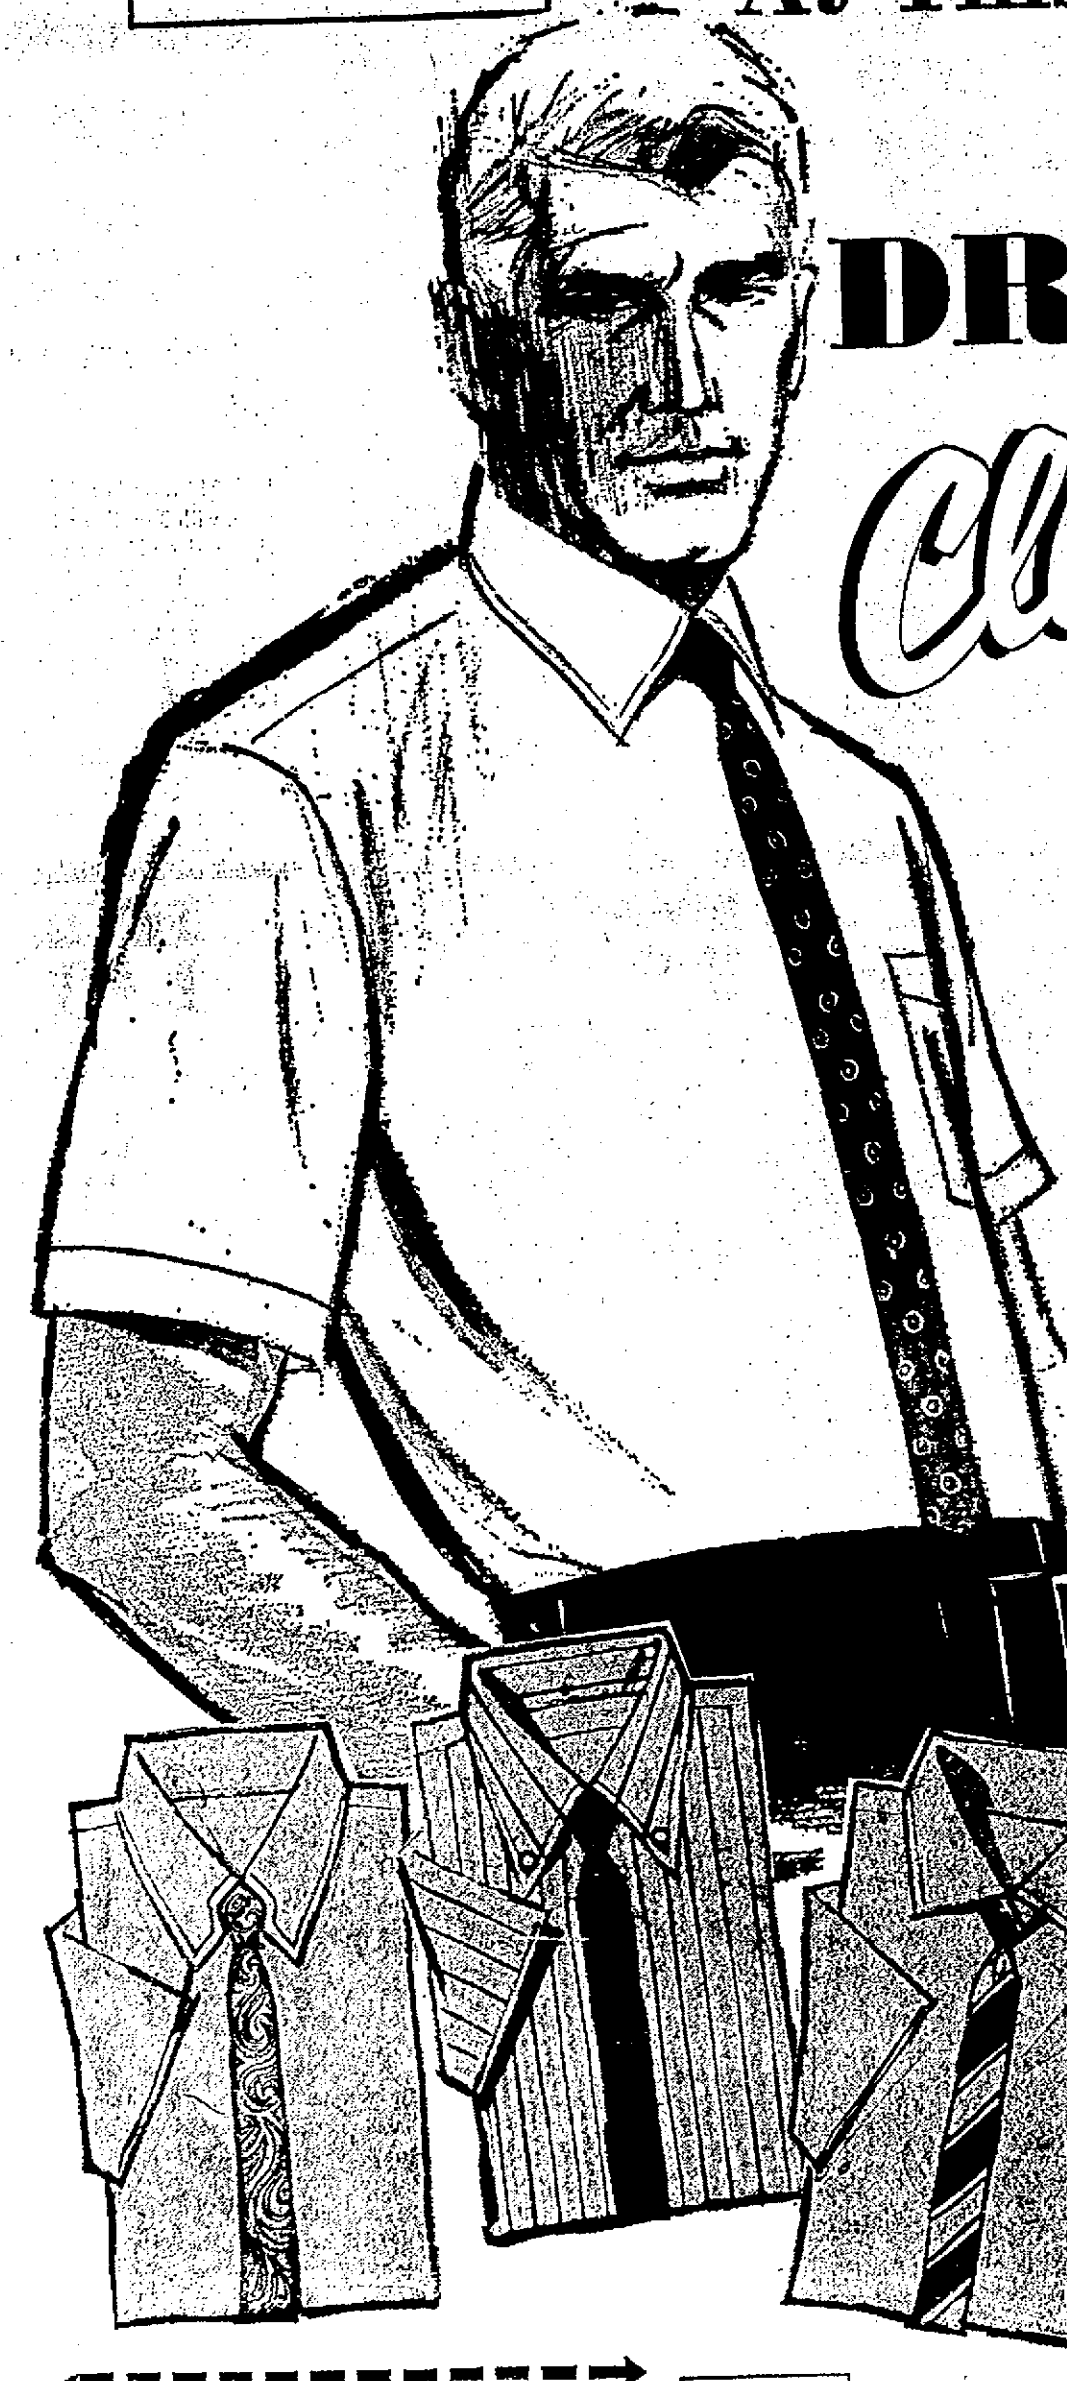

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—Skin divers swimming in the waters off western Venezuela have stumbled on a cache of explosives, machine gun and Rifle Parts, tents and medicines. They were sealed in watertight containers.

The Interior Ministry said in Caracas Saturday it believed the equipment was stored for use by pro-Castro guerrillas. A similar cache discovered in 1965 was traced to the Castro government and led all members of the organization of American states except Mexico to break relations with Havana.

MALCOLM EPLEY

AS we head into another political campaign, I find myself worrying about public relations men who "handle" candidates.

As a citizen with a vote to cast, I like to know all I can about a candidate. Not just his principles and philosophy, but his personality, how he reacts to situations, his spontaneous comments and other things which indicate just what kind of a fellow he is.

But nowadays the major candidate has p.r. experts who set out to create a preconceived image for him that may or may not be a genuine reflection of the man. They decide what line he shall follow, what questions he shall answer and how, what he shall wear, whether his wife should appear with him, his campaign methods and so on. They try to sell like a product on the commercial market.

The candidate, who pays handsomely for such expert service, usually follows the prescribed directions.

All of this makes it difficult for the voter to determine how much is artificial and how much real.

Moreover, these specialists can be wrong, and they can distort the image of a good man so he loses an election he ought to win, and one he would win if he were allowed to be himself. Or they can make a second-rater look better than he is.

So we voters have a job to do. We have to be discerning enough, if we can, to look through the window dressing for the genuine article. It's a problem that suggests, at least, that we be wary against superficial impressions and hasty con clusions.

THREE well-dressed women came out of a Pine Ave. cafeteria to be greeted by a newspaper vendor showing a big headline: MAN GUNS DOWN FOUR IN CAFETERIA.

"Why we weren't even safe in there," said one.

"Nor are we out here," said one of her companions, looking warily up and down the street.

They laughed nervously. It was a rather sad little commentary on the state of our society.

SOMEBODY has sent me a clipping from the Hartford, Conn., Courant (Aug. 7 issue) presenting a story by John P. Cummiskey, night city editor, about a visit to the Douglas Aircraft plant here to pick up a DC-9 for Allegheny Airlines.

Cummiskey, apparently, made the trip, and has told a good story in great detail, from the Douglas briefing to the rabbits on the airport.

But the Connecticut scribe evidently didn't know where he was. "Out to the Douglas plant in South Beach, Calif.," he wrote. And again: ". . . it is towed across a highway to the South Beach airport for its flight tests." Finally, ". . . the DC-9 left South Beach Airport and swung east, headed for Pittsburgh, its new home."

It made it ok., and we're glad Cummuskey got safely back to his desk at the Hanford Current. How are things in Vermont this summer?

DRIFTWOOD — Answering many queries: Fred Wilson, the raggedy bicyclist who hasn't been seen around here this summer, is still perambulating. A traveler reported seeing him on a street at Santa Barbara . . . Construction has started on the Loynes Dr. bridge across Cerritos Channel at the east edge of town. Pile-driving activities at 7:30 a.m. have notified nearby residents and improvement is under way.

Red Cross Blood Bank Planned Thursday

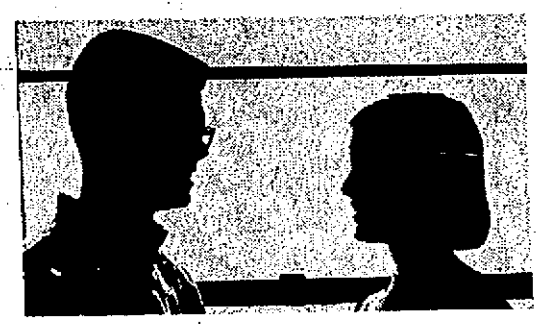

A Red Cross blood bank open to the public will be conducted Thursday from 3 to 7:30 p.m. at the Long Beach Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave. Advance reservations made through Long Beach Chapter, American Red Cross, at 319 W. Broadway are recommended but not imperative, as drop-in donors will be served.

The Summer Student...

...sometimes studies under a tree

Mike Granger and Dana Fleming take advantage of warm summer weather to do their studying under the shade of a campus tree. Like other summer students they do a lot of studying and like most, they do it where it's most comfortable.

...has other interests

Summer students don't always have to study. Somehow there is always time to be found for more intimate interests.

Everything's a little—not entirely, you understand—but a little different during the summer session. The periods are longer and the term is compressed into six weeks instead of the customary 18. Then there's the weather. It's quite a bit warmer during June, July and August than the rest of the year. But despite the more concentrated class time which would seem to indicate a more hectic gait, the attitude is deceptively casual and seems more relaxed than during the fall and spring semesters. It's a time for sunglasses, sandals, swimming and other accouterments of a semi-tropical climate—and oh, yes, some studying. Summer students at California State College at Long Beach reflect the image of summer students all over the nation.

...is sandaled

In summer session the accent is on comfort in the Southern California heat. The dress is casual, shorts, sandals and cotton dresses replace coats and ties, sweaters and skirts.

...eats on the run

The snack wagon is one of the most popular places on campus because most students have jobs and take classes in the morning or afternoon and time is important—they eat on the run.

...goes near the water

Alamitos Bay only a few minutes from campus—as the sports car flies—is always a retreat for hard-studying and tired students who, when the classroom becomes too dry, need a nice wet antidote. Mary Freer, 19, and Vickie McCull, 19, (right) know the art of keeping cool.

'MIKE FRIGHT' IRONED OUT

Profs Rehearse TV Routine at LBCC

By BOB SANDERS
Education Editor

"Four Minutes" the sign said.

The man in front of the television cameras said nothing.

He looked helplessly at his notes, then at the cameraman.

The cameraman reached down and unconcernedly tied his shoe.

"It was one of the most unnerving things that ever happened to me," the man said later. "I was sure when I started I had enough material to talk for the required 28½ minutes. It never occurred to me I could run out."

* * * *

THE MAN WAS a professor at Long Beach City College. He was appearing on the television program, "Scope," one of two programs on which City College professors appear.

Kenneth Carter, who teaches radio and television classes at the college and is the coordinator for the programs, says the professor's experience was pretty typical.

"It's amazing how a teacher who can lecture for hours on his favorite subject gets all tied up in knots when he gets before a camera," says Carter. "It's the old radio 'mike fright' all over again—but doubled by the camera."

* * * *

AS TELEVISION coordinator, it is Carter's job to line up people to appear on the program and advise them on their presentations. He also has to schedule their taping of the shows.

Right now he is involved in taping 20 shows for "Scope," which will be shown Monday through Friday at 7 a.m. over KABC, and five for "Guidelines" which airs at 6:30 a.m. over the same station.

The programs are designed to cover the entire curriculum of City College and any professor can make arrangements to appear by contacting Carter.

* * * *

"SUBJECTS are no problem," Carter says, "Every teacher has a pet topic he likes to talk about.

"The two big problems are timing and props."

Although the shows are taped in the Los Angeles studio, they are rehearsed on the City College campus. For the rehearsal Carter has an old wooden box made up to look like a camera—somewhat.

"The idea of the box," says Carter, "is just to give them practice in speaking into a camera and trying to project themselves to the television audience.

"It also prepares them for what they are going to run into at the studio—a cameraman who could care less about what they are saying. After all the cameraman has his own problems—and they don't usually include understanding what the professor is saying.

* * * *

"FOR MOST OF these people speaking in a room where everybody is doing something else and paying no attention to them whatsoever is a new experience—and not always a pleasant one.

"Of course they recover when they see themselves on the show. And almost all of them feel it was worth all the trouble."

The television programs are new for City College, having just started last year. Of course the college has been doing radio shows, some of them over the school station WLON and some over commercial radio, for several years.

"I'm convinced that, in some cases anyway, appearing on the shows helps the professor in his classroom teaching," Carter says. "It opens the visual possibilities of teaching.

* * * *

"WE ALWAYS TRY to get some kind of props to use. It breaks the monomtony of a speaker just staring at the camera and gives him a chance to do something while he's talking. And it also makes the presentation more interesting.

"If the professor talks about someone or some thing we make him get a picture of them or it. Some of our people tell me they now use 'our' props in the classroom presentations."

L.B. Girl Serves in South Viet Nam

Joni Sweatt, was a substitute Long Beach school teacher but last June she became a "regular" with the U.S. First Infantry Division in South Viet Nam.

"I really like it here, feel there is a great need for more girls," she wrote from Di An, where she is serving as a recreation aide for the American Red Cross.

"I've had some bad times with guys who are upset because of the loss of their friends or what they saw in the field, but find if I let them talk it out they feel better. I suppose that is why I am here. They can relate to me, feel that life can't be too bad if American girls are here."

JONI IS THE ONLY girl from Long Beach Chapter, in the Red Cross service which is recruiting young women to help staff 13 recreation center-clubmobile operations in South Viet Nam.

Another Long Beach girl, Carol A. Wallace, is one of six American girls serving at the Army Base at St. Barbara, Korea, and a third, Lynda Hallenbeck, will be assigned to Korea after she completes training in Washington, D. C.

Red Cross Chapter manager H. Dale Jacobs said there is an urgent need for more women to serve in South Viet Nam. "Young women applicants must be college graduates between 21 and 24. They may make application at 319 W. Broadway. Those who qualify this month will join the training class in Washington, D. C. from Oct. 24 through Nov. 4 and be assigned to one-year tours in South Viet Nam."

Criminal Code Needs Revision

SHOULD SOCIETY KILL?

Reporter Bill Hazlett has written a painstaking account of Death Row and of the 60 men who sit there in a limbo between life and death. Many have been sitting for years. There have been no executions in California since 1963.

Death Row troubles the consciences of all civilized men. If the state is going to kill these men, it should get on with it. It is neither justice nor mercy to keep these men waiting year after year after year.

Of course, much of the delay is due to appeals under recent U.S. Supreme Court rulings. But let's face it. California shrinks from this kind of justice. The cyanide falls into the acid only when there is no other recourse.

California is not alone. Seventy-two nations and eight American states have abolished capital punishment. Five others have only very limited grounds for the extreme penalty.

Those who favor capital punishment have two main arguments: it is revenge against an enemy, and it is a deterrent to other criminals.

Revenge seems scarcely a worthy motive. What does California gain when a man inhales poison gas?

The deterrence theory has many advocates, but statistics do not support them. States with similar cultures have similar murder rates whether or not they have capital punishment.

There is, however, one sure element of deterrence. An executed man will never repeat his crime. For that reason, the death penalty should be kept on the statutes as society's ultimate defense against inhumanity, but NOT as an ultimate PUNISHMENT.

The argument about the death penalty should be shifted to one about the whole meaning of criminal law. What are those ugly gray walls and armed guards for? Some say they are for punishment of wrong - doers. Penitentiaries are places where men are sent to become penitent as they "pay their debt to society."

It doesn't always work. Many come forth as hardened and more skillful criminals.

THE CIVILIZED reason for prisons and executions is the protection of society. There may be men so dangerous that guards and fellow convicts should not be forced to live with them; so dangerous that society cannot risk exposure to them.

It would be unwise to attempt to revise our ancient criminal code completely, but there should be frequent revisions.

The safety of the public should always be the prime consideration. Rehabilitation of those criminals who can be rehabilitated is a factor in public safety.

Time to Halt Racial Strife

THE TEMPER of the American people is being tested by the continuing racial strife. Unless this nation takes decisive steps, it could face massive tragedy.

On the side of government it must be clearly understood that force will be met by force. Force must be used impartially against white and Negro rioters.

But the problem goes deeper than that. Negro agitators, some of whom have revealed themselves as revolutionists by their own words, want the violence. They are men with death and hatred in their hearts.

This is criminal foolishness. Except for a few lingering unjust laws in the South, Negroes have exactly the same rights as other Americans. They can vote, they can go to school, they can work, they can marry whomever they please.

It is true that prejudice exists, but prejudice will not be overcome by Molotov cocktails. It is true that many are poor; but so was the frontier boy, Abraham Lincoln.

More doors open to Negroes every day. The Negroes have won their revolution in Congress and the Supreme Court. It is up to them to figure out how to win the peace. And whites should give them every assistance. Negroes will find most white people friendly. It will be tragedy if they let nuts and hoodlums destroy their victory.

There is plenty of evidence that Negroes intend to win the peace. Many of them are working quietly to use their American freedom. Each year shows more dark faces on campuses and in business positions.

THIS WEEKEND brought a dramatic demonstration. Watts is putting on a festival complete with jazz concerts, a parade, a beauty pageant, cultural exhibits, workshops, poetry reading, plays, rides, games and basketball.

The big event is located on 103rd Street between Wilmington and Compton Avenues.

The people of Watts see the festival as an expression of Negro pride, but it is a constructive expression in contrast to the violent outbreak of frustration that took place only a year ago.

Today's Negro Protests Recall Bonus March That Won Reforms

WASHINGTON — The demonstrators who camped on Bolling Field to demand that that Air Force base give way to public housing are reminiscent of another encampment on the same field exactly 35 years ago to the week —the bonus army of the great depression.

More than a generation has passed since then and the nation, including the swamplands along the Anacostia River which have now become firm runways, has seen great changes. Yet there is a certain underlying similarity between the two protests.

The bonus army of World War I veterans, 20,000 strong, was as ragged as the Confederate troops who once entered Washington under Gen. Jubal, early in 1864.

THEY WERE WITHOUT funds, without anything save a determination to rebel against continued unemployment; and they came in a spontaneous pilgrimage toward the Mecca of their hopes. They came like a rolling snowball, attracting unemployed veterans from Maine to Arizona. Some brought their children, some their wives, some not even a bandanaful of belongings.

After they arrived, they paraded up Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol, reversing the route many of them had taken when they stepped jauntily past the White House, eyes left, on their way to France. Gone were the pomp and pageantry of 15 years before.

DREW PEARSON

This was an army that marched in the same trousers, the same overalls and blue denim shirts it had worn when it left home three weeks before. And after it staged its demonstration along Pennsylvania Avenue this army proceeded to camp on the sprawling mud flats of the Anacostia River where it erected an amazing city out of tin cans, packing boxes, junked automobiles, dugouts roofed with wallpaper, egg crates covered with dockweed leaves—anything that could be twisted into some form of shelter.

Eventually the three drawbridges across the Anacostia River were raised to keep the bonus army from marching on Congress. The veterans stood in packed crowds, sullen, silent.

Finally, President Hoover ordered Gen. Douglas MacArthur, then Chief of Staff, to evacuate them. MacArthur had his troops ready, but had forgotten his uniform; so held up the evacuation until he could bring a suitcase from Fort Meyer and change clothes in his office. Then he rode down Pennsylvania Avenue in glistening boots, three rows of medals on his bosom, with six tanks, six hundred infantrymen and two troops of cavalry ahead of him.

I WATCHED the cavalry clear that ragged army of war veterans from Pennsylvania Avenue while the infantry set fire to their pathetic collection of huts on the banks of the Anacostia where Bolling Field is now.

After it was all over Gen. MacArthur held a swaggering press conference at which he announced victory.

The victory came later for the veterans, not for him. For though their army was routed in degrading defeat, they contributed later to the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt and indirectly to the enactment of Unemployment Insurance, Old Age Pensions, the Wagner Act guaranteeing the rights of labor, the Securities and Exchange Laws, and the Social Security program enacted in the 1930's. That program lifted the war veterans to relative prosperity and gave their children a future.

THE BONUS ARMY was 99% white, demonstrating in a period of depression. The handful of demonstrators who recently camped on Bolling Field was largely Negro, demonstrating in a period of national prosperity which has passed them by.

The demonstrations recently staged in Chicago, Cleveland, Brooklyn and other big cities are not as massive as the bonus army of 1931. But their root cause is similar—the protest of a minority, a minority as unpopular and as unwanted as the white bonus army of the depression days, to find a more equal place in society.

Abraham Lincoln once said, "This nation cannot exist half slave and half free." Today the big cities of America cannot exist half prosperous and white; half depressed and Negro.

Our State Colleges in New Image

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO—California's state colleges quietly have shed their poor step-child image. No longer does University of California grab all the higher-education glory.

It means more influence and prestige for California State College at Long Beach—and similar campuses at Fullerton, Dominguez Hills, etc.

The clincher on the emerging influence of the state colleges was the 1966 special session. In a break with tradition, state college professors were voted a larger pay increase than the University of California faculty. Colleges got a 6.7% boost, the university 2.5%.

Also, a resolution sailed through which called for a study on renaming the 18-campus system California State University.

In the pattern of Michigan State, Colorado State, Utah State, etc., the college campuses are likely to become formal "universities" within the next few years. There could be the votes to achieve the name change in the next session.

BUT PERHAPS THE most significant breakthrough occurred recently in Washington.

In the nation's capital city, the colleges made tentative arrangements to lease a Washington office to tap more federal research money.

Some $500 million a year now flows from Washington to the University of California—biggest haul of any university in the nation. In contrast, state colleges now receive some $7 million a year.

State colleges intend to hire a lobbyist in a bid for a more realistic share.

Les Cohen, director of governmental affairs for California State Colleges, said target of the campuses will be the 42 federal agencies that dispense federal research funds.

California State College at Long Beach is contributing $2,540 toward the office overhead. The Fullerton campus is putting up $249.

WHY DO the state colleges hire a federal lobbyist?

A National Science Foundation executive recently told a Californian: "We didn't realize you people weren't still teachers' college." The new Washington office hopes to reshape this concept.

Meanwhile, state college enrollment has skyrocketed to 160,000 — double the number of students in the university system.

It is obvious that the era of the small teacher college has passed. Like it or not, new major universities are emerging on 18 campuses. It probably will open the door to major new research projects in Long Beach.

'Irresponsibility' Denied

EDITOR:

In the letter of Mr. Don Drury, writing as chairman of the Fair Housing Foundation in your issue of July 27th, he does admit the congressional mail is running heavily against Title VI of the Civil Rights Bill. We thank him for this statement, indicating how well the realtor boards throughout the country are doing their job informing the public.

He charges the state and national associations are "guilty of flagrant irresponsibility in opposing all efforts to solve minority housing problems."

These associations have always been on the front line in opposing so-called "fair housing" laws which seek to dictate to a housing property owner as to whom he may sell or to whom he may rent. His statement that the realtors helped create present problems has no foundation in history, theory or fact.

Realtors should be proud the majority of our citizens' honor them for being in the van in the fight against unfair laws which seek to penalize a homeowner, not for what he does but for what he thinks.

Age and Parental Care

EDITOR:

I work in a hospital and find that it is not uncommon for women 40 years of age and more to give normal birth to a baby. (One age 52—this was a rare case). I can't help but wonder if, when God blesses these parents with their offspring, that He take into consideration that at the teen-age years there will be nothing but problems, due to the age difference. (According to Miss Jean Selden, social worker).

In the case of Judy Ann, I don't know who to feel the most sorry for: The little girl who will go through life with a broken heart, the parents who will probably go to their graves with broken hearts, or Miss Seldon who must have no heart at all.

Gov. Brown Criticized

EDITOR:

The effort of Governor Brown to get Mr. Reagan to declare himself against the John Birch Society is a mirror which clearly reveals the heart of a real politician.

Mr. Brown's supporters, like Alan Cranston, may be able to prove that there are some Birchers in California who are anti-Semitic.

So what? It can be proved that there are some anti-Catholics in California, some anti-Baptists, some anti-Jehovah Witnesses, some even anti-God.

Does this mean that a man in order to prove himself a good candidate for governor should declare himself against one or all of these groups? The fact that Mr. Brown has declared himself against the Birchers (and this writer does not belong) is a clear indication that he is unfit to be governor.

A governor has no right to discriminate against any law-abiding group. It is his business to be governor for all.

Move to Toss Out 5 Justices Wouldn't Be Easy

FIVE OF THE SEVEN California Supreme Court justices are up for "yes" or "no" votes on their retention on the November general election ballot.

The board of directors of the California Republican Assembly (CRA) last June initiated a kind of junior impeachment move for all five. By resolution they whereas-ed that the court "has rendered politically motivated decisions in the areas of reapportionment and forced housing."

Then they urged a "no" vote on retention of the justices.

Appearing on the ballot will be the names of Chief Justice Roger John Traynor, for an eight-year term; Louis H. Burke, four years; Marshall F. McComb, 12 years; Stanley Mosk, eight years; and Paul Peek, 12 years.

Presumably, the CRA board would like to see a newly-elected Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan appoint five new justices, or else just build up enough of a negative vote to serve notice of censure against the present court.

You can file the replacement effort under lost causes. An opinion of the state legislative counsel demonstrates the virtual impossibility of such political moves to throw out a court accused of political motivation.

The first unprecedented hurdle would be to get the "no" votes. Even if Reagan becomes governor the CRA board's wish hardly stands a chance.

Say all five are voted down. It then becomes the governor's responsibility to appoint five to fill the vacancies. But which governor?

The election is Nov. 8; the governor's term and the justices' terms do not end until Jan. 2, 1967. Five spurned justices could resign any time in November or December and the in bent governor—Edmund G. Bro could conceivably reappoint all or appoint five replacements. appointees would serve at least the next general election in 196

The new appointments woul quire only confirmation by a maj of the three-member Commissio Judicial Appointments and filin such confirmation with the secretary of state. This commission consists of the state attorney general, the senior presiding justice of the District Court of Appeal and — the Supreme Court chief justice himself.

If the justices did not resign after their defeat and decided to wait until their terms expire Jan. 1 at midnight, and if Reagan were elected, Brown might still be able to slip in new appointments before Reagan took his oath Jan. 2. Of course Reagan could easily head off that possibility by taking his oath at midnight Jan. 1.

While the machinery exists to vote a justice out of office, it is sufficiently difficult that a man like Chief Justice Traynor, with 26 years of service on the high court, doctorate degrees and numerous judicial honors cannot be easily dismissed.

Brown, Reagan Debate Death Penalty Issue

In exclusive interviews with gubernatorial candidates Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Ronald Reagan, I, P-T staff writer Bill Hazlett today presents their debate on capital punishment as a followup of his penetrating series entitled "SHOULD SOCIETY KILL?" Hazlett is assistant city editor of The Independent and a widely experienced journalist in the field of crime-fighting and penology.

A SERIES OF IDENTICAL questions, dealing with the death penalty issue, was asked each candidate. Below are the questions and answers.

1. WHERE DO YOU STAND ON THE QUESTION OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT?

BROWN: As long as the death penalty is the law of the State of California, I will faithfully see that the sentences of the courts and juries are carried out.

I believe, however, that the long delay between commission of a crime and the execution of the criminal has taken away the certainty of penalty. In view of this and (from) my long experience in law enforcement, I feel the death penalty should be abolished and life imprisonment without possibility of parole substituted therefore.

REAGAN: I don't think there is anyone in this country who doesn't wish we would reach the day when capital punishment will be unnecessary. But, accepting the fact that we do have the right to take lives, in the defense of our own, and accepting the opinions of men in law enforcement who feel it is a deterrent to crime, and that it does prevent murders, I have to approve of the continuation of capital punishment.

I will say, however, if ever evidence indicates capital punishment is purely punishment and not a deterrent, then certainly it should be abolished. I believe in our entire penal system, as no longer being purely vengeance, but a system for rehabilitation and deterrence.

2. DO YOU FEEL THE DEATH PENALTY IS A DETERRENT TO CRIME? WHY?

REAGAN: Yes. Going on the evidence of men, such as J. Edgar Hoover, whose whole life and training have been devoted to law enforcement, I am convinced capital punishment serves as a deterrent, particularly to murder.

BROWN: I do not. They have the death penalty in Illinois and in Texas. Still, in the past few weeks we have seen the most terrible crimes almost in the history of this country.

The record shows that in the states where capital punishment has been repealed, and in England, there has actually beeen a diminution of the homicide rate. It is not clearly convincing, but it is there, despite that fact.

3.DO YOU BELIEVE THE CAPITAL PUNISHMENT QUESTION WILL BE A FACTOR IN THE CURRENT POLITICAL CAMPAIGN? WHY?

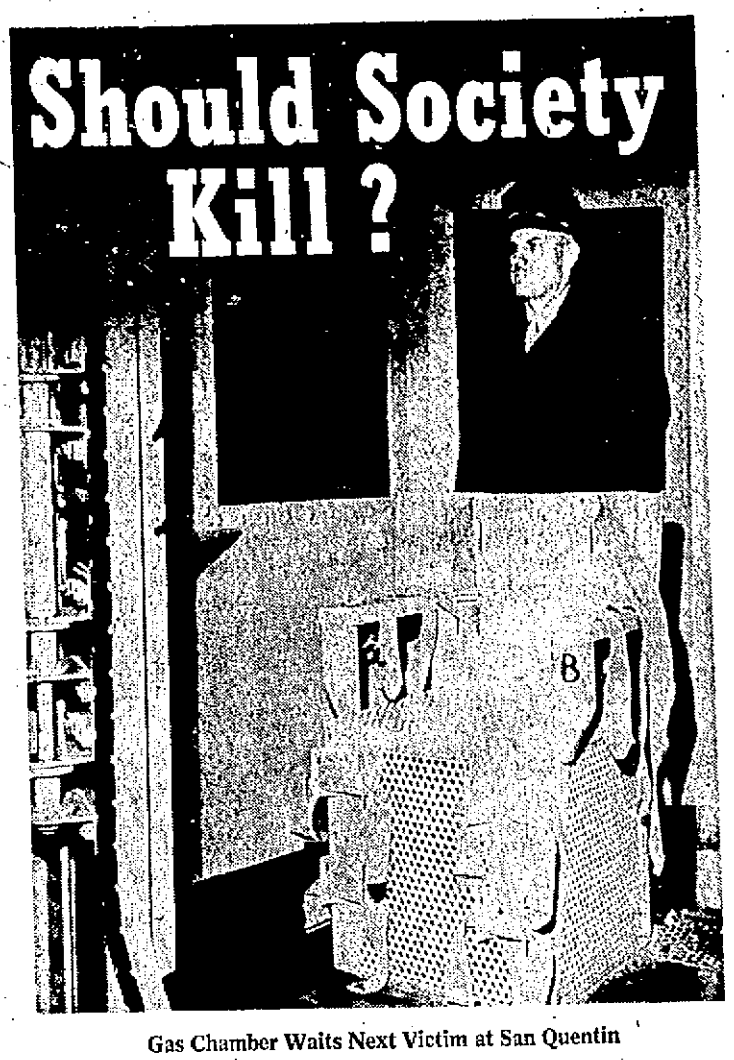

BROWN: I do not. I think because the people of the State of California know that it is up to the Legislature, and they know that as long as I am governor of this state, and as long as the death penalty is the punishment in the State of California, I will carry out the intent of the law.

REAGAN: It won't be so far as my continuing to bring it up. Governor Brown has stated his position on the question, and I have stated mine. We must wait for the reaction of the people. The issue of capital punishment lies with the people, and it will be the people who decide. So far, the people of California, through their elected legislators, have decided to keep it.

4. DO YOU THINK THE DEATH PENALTY IS AN ISSUE IN THE PRESENT CIVIL RIGHTS MOVEMENT?

REAGAN: I don't think it should be, but I think many people have attached themselves to the Civil Rights movement, and they try to introduce things like capital punishment and such issues to add size and importance to their cause.

BROWN: I do not. I believe that judges and juries deal fairly in these cases with human beings, whatever their religion or race might be.

Gas Chamber Waits Next Victim at San Quentin

5. DO YOU THINK THE DEATH PENALTY IS FAIRLY ADMINISTERED IN REGARDS TO MINORITY GROUPS?

BROWN: In the United States the evidence will show that Negroes suffered the death penalty far out of proportion to their race. This is not true in California.

REAGAN: I don't think that the issue of minority groups is part of whether or not to have capital punishment. But, I am aware that because of economic and other factors, which exist not only in minority groups, we should do everything possible to make all people equal before the law. It is not a factor of the penalty, but a factor of equality. You correct the inequality, you don't knock out the necessity for the law.

6. WHAT IS YOUR STAND ON THE INSANITY ISSUE WHICH CROPS UP TO CLOUD MANY CAPITAL CASES?

REAGAN: Here, I think there are more professionally qualified people, better able to answer, both in law and medicine. But, I don't mind saying that serious revisions are needed with regard to individual responsibility. There is a great and present danger in a certain school of thought which says that no normal person commits a crime, and therefore crime is the fault of society. I don't think society alone is to blame for the current crime wave.

BROWN: The whole basis of crime and punishment in the United States is intent. Persons must deliberate and premeditate in order to be guilty of murder in the first degree. If a person is mentally ill, he is incapable of consummating that intent. He has a sick mind, and you can no more punish a person with a sick mind than you can punish a person with a sick chest or a sick stomach. I do believe, however, that the people who commit crimes of violence, even though medically insane, in too many cases have been permitted to get out of mental institutions. I think that when a person has once evidenced that he is incapable of controlling his emotions, whatever the reason may be, he should be confined till there is no doubt about whether he will hurt others, and I think the doubt must be resolved in favor of society.

7. DO YOU THINK A SYSTEM OF SENTENCING CONVICTED KILLERS TO A LIFE TERM, WITHOUT PAROLE, IS THE ANSWER TO THE CAPITAL PUNISHMENT QUESTION?

BROWN: Yes, I do. I think that life imprisonment without possibility of parole is a more sensible alternative. I think that we'd waste less time. Punishment should be sure and certain and this would be a greater deterrent to these psychopaths who commit these crimes. They actually fear life imprisonment without possibility of parole more than they fear death.

Since I have been governor of California we have increased penalties by 25% for violent offenders. Crimes of violence per capita in California have gone down, compared to other large states according to the Bureau of Criminal Statistics.

REAGAN: I think that has been answered in my support of capital punishment. What provisions for protection are there if the individual continues to kill, even in prison—guards or inmates? What preventives exist?

8. WOULD YOU FAVOR A LIMITED APPLICATION OF THE DEATH PENALTY, SUCH AS IN THE MURDER OF A POLICE OFFICER OR PRISON GUARD, THE BOMBING OF AN AIRPLANE, OR PROFIT MOTIVE, PROFESSIONAL SLAYINGS, OR THOSE COMMITTED IN ANOTHER FELONY SUCH AS ROBBERY?

REAGAN: We do have limited application of the death penalty. We have gone a long way to reduce the number of capital punishment crimes and make subject to the death penalty only those crimes of premeditation—the cold-blooded variety.

BROWN: I would prefer that to the present laws, in view of the fact that I think the death penalty actually acts as a stimulant to the commission of homicide because it cheapens human life. I don't favor it in any case whatsoever.

9. A RECENT POLL BY LOUIS HARRIS SHOWS FOR THE FIRST TIME THAT MOST AMERICANS WOULD LIKE TO SEE CAPITAL PUNISHMENT OUTLAWED NATIONALLY, WHY DO YOU THINK THIS IS SO? (The poll referred to shows that on a nationwide basis, 38% favor capital punishment; 47% oppose capital punishment; and 15% are not sure of their stand.)

BROWN: I do think this is so. I think the people have gotten disgusted with the slowness of criminal justice in these cases. We have capital punishment in California and there has not been an execution since January, 1963. Every single student of crime and punishment knows that certainty of punishment is a greater deterrent than severity of punishment.

If they would take these criminals, quickly try them with a minimum of publicity and drop them into prison with hard labor for the rest of their lives, I think we would see a real drop in crimes of violence in the United States.

REAGAN: I don't know how accurate polls can be. California has endorsed the death penalty. Perhaps California is different, or perhaps the poll is worded in such a way as to weaken its validity. Besides, from the figures presented, the margin is certainly slim. Many people may say, "Yes, I wish we could abolish the death penalty," and this shows up as a vote favoring abolition. Our whole religious heritage is one in which we are torn between belief in God's right to decide, and our right to protect. There is nothing in the Bible to oppose the death penalty, the Bible opposes murder. I believe this, just as I feel there is nothing in the Bible to support conscientious objection to military service.

10. WHAT DO YOU THINK IS THE MAJOR WEAKNESS IN YOUR OPPONENT'S STAND ON CAPITAL PUNISHMENT?

REAGAN: Frankly, I think there is weakness in his whole approach with regards to crime, in his opposition to legislation for strengthening law enforcement. In my opinion he has an excess of concern for the rights of the criminal, and not enough concern for the victims. If the murderer still has the right to execute, then society has an even greater right.

BROWN: He has had no experience in law enforcement during his long life. I have been district attorney and sent people to the death chamber in San Quentin. As attorney general I have fought hard to uphold the law under my authority of office regarding the death penalty. And as governor, despite my powers of pardon and commutation, I have scrupulously preserved the law of this state and permitted people where justly convicted by a jury of their peers to suffer the extreme penalty.

All of these things have given me experience in law enforcement very few people in this country can match, and I know what things can be done to make it better.

L. A. C. SAYS

Yes, I Am a Lucky Collins

A BETTER Business Bureau bulletin has an item headed "Are You the Lucky Collins?" It tells of London, England, "Beneficiaries Search, Ltd.," circulating the Collins tribe in this country. It says you may be one of the heirs to the estate of a Collins who died last year in England. You are supposed to fill out a form and send it in with $15 for the search to show if you are eligible.

SINCE THE Collins name is about as common as Smith it is apparent there is quite a prospective market for the promoters of the scheme. The BBB checked with the British Consulate in New York City. No record of the promoters could be found. It is therefore a warning to any hopefuls that they may be gambling $15 wtih little chance of winning. It is probable most name groups have been subjected to similar approaches over the past.

Many of my friends have sent me the bulletin and asked if I was a "Lucky Collins." My answer is Yes, I am very lucky. I am lucky because I live in this country, have a good job and can write about anything I wish to present to my readers. Above all I am lucky in that for over a half century I have worked in many jobs, from starting with shining shoes at 9 years of age and constant employment ever since.

I AM LUCKY that as a salesman covering every state in the Union, and as a small manufacturer, I had the opportunity to be a part of the growth of this country. I have seen the growth of our great industrial empire with the highest living standards known throughout the world. And I have helped pay for the great aid we have given to 130 other countries. It has been a struggle all the way. But I am grateful that opportunities have always been available to me, just as they are to all who will work for them now.

It has been a very wonderful past. But I am wondering if the future will give the same opportunities. The trend of dependence on government to provide for us what we in the past achieved for ourselves is changing the outlook for a vast majority of our people. Unions are receiving pensions, free medical care, payment for not working, and their members are keeping in office men convicted of law violation and disregard of the rights of others. They refuse to accept young people as apprentices in many unions. The freedom to get or hold a job in all but 19 of our states is dependent upon subservience to the union leaders and their programs.

WE ARE LIVING in a period of virtual anarchy with riots, thievery and killing under the guise of civil rights. We have a state law that prohibits the right of a property owner to choose to whom he may sell or rent his personal property. We have gone far in breaking down the discrimination against minority groups, only to find our city streets unsafe to travel at night in areas where riots occur—and that applies to about every city in the nation.

Yes, I am a fortunate Collins because I am of the older generation. But I do not consider my grandchildren lucky to be facing the changes that are occurring. Unless we who are voters take enough interest in the future of these young people we will be betraying the trust they should have in us. We must elect men to office who believe in the dignity of man and that government is supposed to protect the freedom of enterprise under which we have grown. We must insist that we first take care of our own people under this system rather than trying to finance all the rest of the world. We are all lucky we still have time to save our system—but time is running out.—L.A.C.

By BUCK LANIER

Who's going to be Miss Whitehat of 1967?

This selection is due to be made Sept. 7 after a preliminary judging round on Aug. 28.

Entry deadline is noon Aug. 26

Miss Whitehat is the Independent Business Men's Association envoy to all the enlisted personnel of the Navy, Marines and Coast Guard in the Long Beach area.

For the first time enlisted personnel will have a hand in the judging.

Storekeeper 3.C. Steve Chambers of the Coast Guard has the assignment from his service while Petty Officer Pete Musitano of the USS Topeka will be one of the two Navy judges.

Mary Ellis Carlton, women's news director, and Terry Sattoria, picture editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, will be the professional judges.

Among the first entries are Elaine Mooers, 21, of 3112 Copal del Oro, Los Alamitos; Carla Lynn Conti, 18, of 7138 Wardlow Road, Long Beach; and Bobbie Walling, 19, of 5958 Clark Ave., Lakewood. The first two are brunettes and the other a blonde.

Interested single girls are asked to contact the IBMA office at 432-3884 or Mary Lou Finley at Julia Gibson's Career College, 427-7971.

Floyd Ayres, IBMA event chairman, said he was expecting about 20 to 25 entries. The preliminary judging will be at noon on the 28th at the Career College, he said.

Cadillac owners are practical people.

It's true that a new Cadillac is a most impressive motor car—unequaled for its quiet performance and its many outstanding comforts. Yet owners find Cadillac's ability to hold its value is one of the great personal satisfactions.

More new car buyers have selected the 1966 Standard of the World than any other luxury automobile ever built. The reasons are varied. Many owners say that Cadillac's impressive styling, comfort and quietness caused them to make their decision. Others point to Cadillac's long and distinguished leadership in engineering and quality. There is also genuine approval of Cadillac's unexcelled safety and convenience benefits. Such features as its triple braking system, cornering lights, three-speed windshield wipers and padded instrument panel give a unique sense of driving security and confidence. Most important, the Cadillac owner finds his car the finest of all automobile investments. For he knows that traditionally a Cadillac provides the highest return on his original purchase price when he chooses to trade. Visit your authorized dealer soon. He'll be pleased to introduce you to one of the world's most practical luxuries.

3 Boys Back Home After Baja Hitchhike

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM—B-5
Long Beach 12, Calif., Sunday, Aug. 14,

By ROGER GILLOTT

Three 17-year-old boys — two from Lakewood and one from Long Beach—are home after a month of hitchhiking through the barren and often roadless reaches of Baja California.

Their diet during the trip, which took them nearly 650 miles down the peninsula, ranged from steak and venison to mule meat and beans.

"The Auto Club, border authorities and Mexicans said we were foolish to try it without proper provisions and equipment," said Tony Sanger, of 2634 Ladoga Ave. "We just wanted to prove to them that it could be done."

"I think we are about the first guys ever to go so far south on the peninsula by hitchhiking," said Tony, a dark-haired, bright-eyed Millikan High School student.

Tony and the other boys—Gregg Robinson, of 2823 Rutgers Ave., and Bruce MacEvoy, of 760 Bennett Ave.—left Long Beach July 16. Each took only $50, a sleeping bag, one change of clothes and a few provisions for the month-long journey.

"We spent nearly half of the trip on the road," said Tony. "At night we would sack out in our sleeping bags on the beach, in vacant lots, or wherever it was convenient. Once some Mexicans let us sleep in a vacant schoolhouse."

The first "civilization" the boys saw in Baja was at Guerrero Negro (Black Warrior), a salt-mining town of about 1,300 people. After spending the last 12 days on the road, sleeping at night on the ground which was often alive with snakes and centipedes, they spent that night in a hotel. It cost 40 cents each.

"We had only planned to stay there for a day," said Tony. "But we couldn't get a ride out and ended up having to stay five days. Finally, the mayor—his name was Castro—arranged for someone to drive us out."

"However, the guy didn't take us too far before he decided to stop at the local saloon and get drunk. When he returned to the car, he was so pickled he sped off down the road at 15 miles per hour—which is suicidal on those roads.

"After going about a mile, he drove over an embankment. Nobody was hurt, but the car was pretty messed.

"Every time we were ready to start out on another leg of our trip, especially if it meant crossing a desert, the local Mexicans would tell us that just before we arrived three other young Americans had attempted it and died. And always it was 'just before we arrived,'" said Bruce, also a student at Millikan.

"Actually," Bruce said, "A lot of things could have happened to us. I guess we were just lucky that they didn't."

Did the boys bring back any mementoes of their trip?

"Nothing to speak of," said Bruce. "Although I did bring back one black bean."

"And a couple of stomach aches," Tony reported. "I think it was the food."

TV Tosser a Tosspot, Police Say

If you decide to throw your television and stereo sets out a second-story window in Long Beach, you'd better be sober.

Otherwise, you'll probably land in jail.

An upholsterer learned this the hard way Saturday.

Police arrested him on suspicion of intoxication after he threw a portable television set, stereo speakers and part of a record player from his apartment in the 6900 block Long Beach Blvd.

Officers J. M. Wilhite and L. L. Enger said they arrived at 4:15 p.m., found the pieces scattered on the patio, and noticed the man Tucker staggering from his apartment.

"It's my TV," he was quoted as saying. "I'll do with it as I please."

The officers took him into custody, saying they noticed a strong odor of alcoholic beverage on his breath.

Collision Hurts Mom, Daughter

Two members of a Lakewood family suffered minor injuries Saturday in a two-car collision in southwestern Utah.

A los Angeles man driving the car that struck them was killed, according to the Utah Highway Patrol.

Mrs. Evelyn Joyce Rasmussen, 39, and her daughter, Diana, 17, of 6169 S. Hayter Ave., sustained cuts and bruises when a car driven by 81-year-old William Lawrence Pearen of Los Angeles crossed the center lane of U. S. 91 and struck their pickup-camper.

Utah Highway Patrolman Don Best said Mrs. Rasmussen's husband, Kinney, and two other children, Steven, 15, and Gail, 14, were not injured.

The youths were riding in the camper at the time of the accident.

Col. Jackson Named Chief of Staff at SSD

Col. Edgar R. Jackson Jr. Saturday was named chief of staff of the Air Force's Space Systems Division in El Segundo.

Col. Jackson, a resident of Rolling Hills, is a former deputy for civil engineering at SSD.

As chief of staff, Col. Jackson will be responsible for all administrative support necessary to carry out the division's dual mission—timely development, acquisition and test of military space boosters, satellites and spacecraft, and support of the U.S. civilian space program.

Auto Stereo Stolen

A prowler took a $129 auto stereo tape player Saturday from a car owned by Richard Cowan, 1524 Poppy St., while it was parked in front of his residence, Long Beach police said.

'GHOST WANTED'

Joyfully Offered, Received

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Staff Writer

"Ghost Wanted," Jordan High School's just-closed summer theatrical, was one of those shows the cast enjoys equally with its audience — as both did Friday night.

It was a play of a type high school groups across the land once did with regularity. Neither involved plotline nor complex, talky undertones which sometimes overmatch a young cast with the playwright were in this one.

Instead, the cast slambanged across a tiny proscenium at the rear of the regular stage in old time melodramatic style. A capacity crowd loved every minute of it.

* * * *

WITH A TITLE like "Ghost Hunters" it had to be a gothic "horror" tale, complete with Victorian "castle" on an Atlantic isle, paintings that become secret tunnel entrances, walking zombies, shricks in the night and all that jazz. It was.

One of the funniest lines —whether ad-libbed or added earlier—emerged as the plot evilly thickened. The house collapsed with laughter as one young actor blamed THRUSH for everything.

But alas, a man from the FBI, not U.N.C.L.E., finally saved the day.

Male leads were done well by Mark Bethel and Chuck Thomas, two out-of-work types who answer a help-wanted ad seeking a ghost. Sisters Ginger (Candy Arter) and Gale (Diane Keenum) are determined to use them in scaring off an unwelcome guest.

* * * *

PERHAPS THE outstanding jobs of the evening were turned in by a pair of character actors, Ann Robinson doing the Elsa Lancaster-like spiritualist Madame Zolga, and Colleen Emslie as the spryly decrepit Grandma Kate.

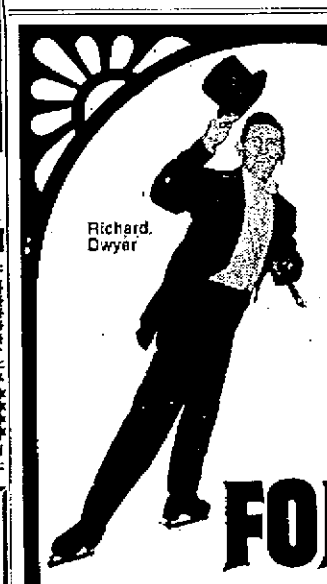

Then there were Carol Beeson as the maid-of-all-work; Lewis Cunnington doing to a T the suavely evil professor; Kris Esaacson, half-witted fisherwoman; investigator Nora Van (Donna Teel) Sheriff Bradshaw, Ed Grimes; the "ghost," Keith McConahaay, and with a very Sidney Greenstreet-ish flourish, Bill Earl as Hatcher the enigmatic yardman.

Directing were faculty member John Alberico and his student colleague, Marrietta Ferrazzi. An excellent set was designed by Don Moran and the entire cast was credited with building it.

Animal Problem in 'Doolittle'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Builders of sets for "Dr. Doolittle" solved a few problems to accommodate 115 types of animals. All it took was five months and $200,000.

The set is an African Village of 11 huts on stilts, two lakes and three waterfalls on a 10-acre site at 20th Century Fox' Malibu Ranch. It's surrounded by a 10-foot high chain link fence.

THE ACTION'S IN EUROPE

Hollywood Output Down

By PETER BART
New York Times Service

HOLLYWOOD—The decline and fall of Hollywood as the world's major production center for motion pictures has been in the cards for some time, but this summer the trend seems especially rampant. A great number of movies are being made this summer, but the action is in Europe, not Hollywood.

Of the 45 movies now in production under the aegis of the seven major companies, 27 are being shot in Europe, 12 in Hollywood and six on locations somewhere else in the United States. Eleven of the European ventures are in London, four in Rome.

Even more significant, nearly all of the potentially important movies—big budget pictures as well as the small "art" films—are being shot in Europe, not Hollywood. Among them: "Casino Royale" with Peter Sellers, "A Man For All Seasons" with Paul Scofield, "The Taming of the Shrew" with Liz and Richard Burton, "Grand Prix" with James Garner, "Two For The Road" with Audrey Hepburn and Albert Finney, "Dr. Dolittle" with Rex Harrison and "You Only Live Twice" with Sean Connery.

* * * *

THIS IS NOT to say that Hollywood's vast entertainment assembly lines are standing idle. There's a lot of activity in the big studio but most of it is devoted to TV. They're shooting next season's TV series, a few pilots even some "cheapie" movies that will be sold directly to TV. The crews are hard at work, actors are eating regularly, the extras are thriving.

But Hollywood's a changed place. The talk in the studio commissaries is about TV, not movies. You hear a lot of references to C.B.S. and N.B.C. but little about M.G.M. and Paramount. To some of the old-timers it all seems rather sad.

What has happened of course represents another classic example of the old dictum, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em." Fifteen years ago the movie moguls were vowing to fight TV to the death. Now the two industries are linked in worshipful embrace. Indeed you can't tell the TV and the movie people apart any more. Many of the people directing and starring in movies in Hollywood are from the TV world. Dick Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore are starring in separate films. Such TV veterans as Carl Reiner, David Swift, Lamont Johnson and Fielder Cook are directing motion pictures.

* * * *

OVER AT Universal they have been making seven two-hour features that are being called "movies" even though they were co-financed by the networks and will be shown first on TV, not in movie theaters. In true TV style the budgets are low and the shooting schedules brief.

No one would object to TV people turning to pictures but many are concerned about the application of TV standards to movies. A surprising number of the movies now in production in Hollywood are being turned out like TV shows. They slap together a couple of sets on the studio back lots, sign a director, toss him a script and say "Wind it up in 30 days."

At Universay Jack Webb, who was directing one of the two-hour "TV movies," followed such a brisk shooting schedule that his actors were reading their lines off telephompters. Worst of all many Hollywood movies are built around plots that would barely sustain a half-hour TV episode. It's as if the studio were so conditioned to TV that they've lost their motion picture know-how.

* * * *

ESPECIALLY worrisome to Hollywood is the fact that some of the regular TV series are following the example o fthe movies and are shifting their locales overseas. The reasons are similar. First, production costs are out o fline in Hollywood. Second, both the movie and TV industries have been thoroughly internationalized. Both media seek international stars and locales to expand their potential audience.

But there's also a more subtle reason, and that relates to talent. Three decades ago Hollywood was a magnet drawing the world's great creative talents. Today that's no longer so. The magnet has lost its pull; indeed the flow is outward, not inward. Hollywood's once-limitless creative resources seem to be running thin.

Gas Prices' Comeback Continuing

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Nationwide gasoline prices that ended a seven-year downward trend in 1965 are continuing their comaback.

Products price stability and increased sales volume are being listed as important factors behind healthy financial reports of many major companies on operations during the first half of 1966.

A recent survey indicates a record January-June demand of gasoline was 4.5% above the year-earlier level.

A 52-city survey by the Oil and Gas Journal also indicated an average major brand regular grade gasoline price of 20.95, excluding federal, state and local taxes that average about 10 cents per gallon. The year-earlier average was 20.20 cents per gallon, giving 1966's January-June first half an increase of about three-fourths of a cent per gallon.

The Journal's mid-year report said higher 1966 retail gasoline prices were recorded in all except two major marketing regions—the West Coast and the Rocky Mountain areas.

* * * *

WEST COAST prices were unchanged at 20.6 cents a gallon. Rocky Mountain averages declined from 21.1 cents in 1965 to 20.9 cents.

Meanwhile, Midwest prices advanced 1.5 cents to 21.8 cents a gallon. Smaller increases averaging seven-tenths of a cent boosted the East Coast to 21.0 cents a gallon, the South Central area 20.9 cents, and Texas prices to 19.8 cents.

The Journal said the 52-city pump price, including taxes, averaged 31.27 cents a gallon compared to year-earlier average 30.49 cents.

John E. Swearngen, board chairman of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), is among the executives who have described the general firming of domestic gasoline prices as one of the healthier developments in the petroleum industry the past year.

* * * *

HE SAYS A 1965 increase that averaged less than one cent a gallon has drawn some criticism from sources that have failed to take into account the decline of the seven preceding years.

Swearingen, writing in the summer edition of his company's shareholder-employe publication Span, said the prices of 1958 through 1964 declined under the impact of heavy sales competition.

"The increases last year left prices still below the level of 1960, which certainly is no inflationary record," he said.

However, during the 1958-1964 period, Swearingen said, gasoline quality was being steadily improved despite the price decline.

"Each of these improvements in quality has added to the cost of making the product," he said. "In any event, the consistent rise in state and federal taxes on gasoline cannot be ignored. These taxes have increased about 1½ cents per gallon in the last seven years."

Swearingen said taxes now add about 50% to the price of regular grade motor fuel.

"What has kept prices down has been intense competition and it is our firm belief gasoline prices should continue to be determined by competition rather than by views of anyone outside the industry as to what is or is not a proper level.

"As the record shows, competition has served the motorist very well indeed."

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Economy Overshadows Apathy in Stock Market

By THOMAS E. MULLANEY
New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Apathy in the stock market last week was overshadowed by the exuberant state of the economy and the volatile interest-rate structure.

There has been no let-up in inflationary pressures resulting from excessive aggregate demand or the quest for new funds.

Some analysts fear a liquidity crisis this fall with the normal seasonal surge of credit demand. Many also envision more increases in interest rates and bearish implications for the stock market.

* * * *

CONTINUED inflation is the big worry, despite obvious efforts by the administration to soft-pedal the danger. In that connection businessmen were impressed by a recent statement of the liberal vice chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, James L. Robertson.

"We are in the midst of an inflationary situation," he said. "The dangers of inflation today are much greater than the dangers of high interest rates. We must curb excessive demand."

It is becoming increasingly clear that government monetary and fiscal action will be necessary, however unpalatable it might be in a pre-election period.

This without doubt was the main factor behind the stock market's hesitancy and caution after its somewhat encouraging performance the previous week in response to the unchallenged steel-price increase.

* * * *

THE MARKET was too distracted by fears of what's ahead to take encouragement from numerous favorable developments or extend its recovery on steel's price breakthrough — as it normally would.

Instead the market sank back toward its year's lows—and to the vicinity of 1964 levels in the popular indexes. Trading volume averaged little more than 5.7 million shares a day, against the average turnover of almost eight million shares in the first seven months.

Had there been less concern about higher interest rates, greater yields for competing investments and an impending squeeze on corporate profits, the stock market might be faring better these days after its 16% "correction" in the last six months.

Bankers maintain that the current 4.5% discount rate is unrealistically low when other interest rates are well above 5%. Federal funds, for instance, have been carrying rates as high as 6%. The prime rate, now at 5.75%, might soon go to 6%, or possibly higher, to discourage or reduce borrower demands.

* * * *

EVEN WITH most types of bonds providing their highest interest rates in more than four decades, investors have not been snapping them up. This is partly because big investors are short of money and partly because the institutions believe rates are headed higher.

If the business boom continues—and most analysts believe it will — interest rates certainly will be raised.

Almost all the latest readings point toward a continued boom, though not as heavy as it was in the first half of the year. However, it still appears that this year's growth will run close to 8%, including price inflation, bringing the gross national product close to three-quarters of a trillion dollars ($750 billion).

* * * *

THE LATEST monthly review of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York noted that business activity might quicken in the second half of this year, "intensifying the strains on the economy's productive resources."

Consumer spending in the balance of the year, the bank said, should be stimulated by federal pay increases and by the beginning of Medicare payments. It also said pressures on prices will persist and that cost-plus factors might become more important, particularly when the heavy round of wage negotiations begin about the turn of the year.

"The inflationary threat over hanging late 1966 and 67," according to Moody's Investors Service, "has become a more imposing factor in the investment background. Labor costs, which in some instances have already begun to outpace productivity, will almost certainly exert strong pressure on profit margins."

Some of the more buoyant economic statistics last week included the further rise in retail sales in July (1%) from the revised figure of June and an upturn in weekly steel production for the first time in almost two months.

* * * *

THERE WAS also word from Washington that the nation's balance of payments took a turn for the better in the second quarter, reducing the deficit to less than $150 million — a big improvement over the $563 million deficit in the first three months of 1966.

However, the improvement did not result from a better trade balance. With the domestic economy so strong, the nation's trade surplus actually narrowed as imports continued in great volume.

The improvement instead came largely from a reduction in capital outflow from the U.S. and this might have been a technicality that resulted from the shifting by official holders of dollars abroad from investments maturing in less than a year to those of longer maturity.

True Dick Tracy Wrist Radio Possible

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. said it has developed a tiny transistor that could lead to the construction of miniature space television cameras and radios the size of a wrist watch.

The transistor eliminates the need for conventional, bulky coils of wire.

A key part of the transistors is a pure gold sliver which vibrates. It's about 10-thousandths of an inch long, which is two or three times the diameter of a human hair.

A standard transistor has no moving parts. But the new one, with a vibrating sliver, gives the transistor entirely new capabilities, Westinghouse said.

Chief among them, said Westinghouse, is the ability to "tune" integrated circuits. The new device performs an entire electronic function — normally achieved by the interconnections of dozens of separate electronic components —in a single slice of silicon about the size of the head of a pin.

With further development, "we will see the day of the true Dick Tracy wrist watch," said Dr. William E. Newell, one of the developers of the transistor.

Westinghouse said the research was supported in part by the Electronics Technology Division at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio.

CUBS BECOME 19TH VICTIM

Koufax Tires, Still Wins

By GEORGE LEDERER

Sandy Koufax likes cool days and warm nights.

Saturday was a warm day, which explains why Koufax tired in the last two innings and didn't get his shutout against the Cubs. He had to settle for a 6-1 victory, his 19th, ending a string of four Dodger losses and reducing the first-place gap to three games.

Tommy Davis made it comparatively easy for the super southpaw with four hits, including a home run, and three runs batted in. He raised his average 12 points to a club-leading .309, while Koufax shaved .03 points off his ERA to 1.62.

Koufax entered the eighth inning with a one-hit shutout, then allowed four singles and a ninth-inning run.

"I got a little tired," said Koufax. "I didn't throw between starts this time because I preferred to sleep. We got in at 5 in the morning (from Atlanta) on the day I should have thrown and I just didn't feel up to it."

* * * *

LEO DUROCHER thought Koufax "was just fooling around in those last two innings. Before that, his curve was fantastic. I'd never seen a better one. He threw some that started at (Ron) Santo's head and wound up at his knees.

"The man is the greatest I've seen and I've seen a lot of 'em."

Koufax, the first 19-game winner in the majors (19-6), again moved up among the strikeout greats and passed Rube Waddell for No. 9 on the all-time list. He fanned 11 Saturday, giving him a season total of 240 in 233 innings and a career mark of 2,319 in 2,235 innings. Waddell struck out 2,310.

It had been 19 games since the Dodgers had a complete-game victory and three weeks to the day since Koufax had one, against the Mets. Saturday, the bullpen was able to take the day off, thus should be at full strength for today's series concluding double-header.

Don Drysdale (8-13) and Joe Moeller (2-2) will pitch for the Dodgers against another pair of lefthanders, Curt Simmons (3-3) and Bob Hendley (3-3).

* * * *

WALTER ALSTON decided to save lefthander Claude Osteen for the Cincinnati series, which begins Monday night.

The Cubs' bullpen didn't stir, either, although loser Dick Ellsworth dispensed 13 hits enroute to his 18th defeat. He has won but five, one against the Dodgers.

"I wanted Ellsworth to

Sandy Koufax follows through on way to striking out 11 Cubs Saturday, moving him into ninth place on major league's list of all-time strikeout artists.

Cowboys Speed Dazzles

Meredith Connects With Speedsters Bob Hayes, Gent

By AL LARSON

The Dallas Cowboys considered by many as the team to beat in the Eastern Division this season, lived up to their speed ratings as they dumped the Rams, 20-10, Saturday night at the Coliseum.

A crowd of 44,217 saw Don Meredith throw touchdown strikes of 33 and 63 yards and Danny Villanueva boot two field goals as the Texans locked up their second straight NFL exhibition victory.

Trailing 3-0 the Cowboys turned the game around in the second quarter when Pete Gent pulled in a 33-yard bomb with only 7 seconds elapsed.

Then it was Bob Hayes turn to flash his speed. The former Olympian sprint star latched on to Meredith's 63-yard payoff pass and left defender Irv Cross in the dust.

If rivals wondered about Hayes' hands and courage, they can stop now. What they've got to find is a miracle cure for the headaches he's causing every defensive back that tries to match him stride-for-stride. That remedy won't be found in any medical journals.

The Rams scored first when Bruce Gossett kicked a 34-yard field goal with 13:54 elapsed. But Meredith went to work in the second quarter and cut the Rams defense to shreds with his two scoring bombs.

Trailing 17-3 and with time running out in the first half, Bill Munson connected with a 2-yard touchdown pass and the Rams went into the dressing room trailing, 17-10.

The Cowboys final three points came with 1:52 remaining when Villanueva split the uprights from 21 yards out.

Coach George Allen said after the loss: "The Cowboys

Knox Leaves Bench to Hurl Flyers' Win

Legion Nine Faces Erwin Again With State Title on Line

YOUNTVILLE — What's there to do on a sunny Saturday afternoon in Yountville?

Rich Knox, a reserve shortstop for Flyers Post, had just about resigned himself to spending it on the bench where he's been most of the season since losing his job to Bob Grich.

But coach Jack Graham asked for volunteers to pitch and Knox said "What the heck," raised his hand and then went out and shut out Montclair, 6-0, on eight hits to give the Long Beach team a crack at the American Legion State baseball championship today.

FLYERS MEET Erwin Post of Oakland at 1. If Mike Coble can gain revenge for a 9-5 defeat on Thursday, Phil Keller will get the call for the losers' bracket team in a second and deciding game.

Flores Ignites Raider Charge

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Quarterback Tom Flores hit Art Powell with a 20-yard pass with 54 seconds remaining Saturday night to give the Oakland Raiders a 14-7 American Football League exhibition win over the San Diego Chargers.

The pass culminated an 83-yard drive which took 13 plays. The game appeared destined for a 7-7 tie until Flores suddenly regained his throwing form and completed seven passes in the scoring march.

The Raiders led 7-0 midway in the third quarter when Lance Alworth suddenly electrified the home crowd by scoring on an 89-yard pass play triggered by quarterback John Hadl.

Oakland held without a first down in the first quarter, scored on its first opportunity in the second quarter.

Fred Biletnikoff outdistanced the Chargers' secondary by 10 yards, took a Flores pass over his shoulder on the 10 and went into the end zone.

The Chargers dominated the game statistically but were unable to put together a scoring march. The Raiders' defense paced by Tom Keating and Bill Budness stopped almost every Charger threat.

Budness recovered a fumble to end the first Chargers scoring drive and blocked a field goal attempt in the second quarter. Keating, acquired from Buffalo in the off season, threw Hadl for four key long losses and recovered a third quarter fumble.

ANGELS HAVE LAST LAUGH

'Brat' Spanked Hard

By ROSS NEWHAN
Staff Writer

CHICAGO—The Brat got spanked Saturday.

The aroused Angels administered the licking to Eddie Stanky and his White Sox, 7-3, as Fred Newman, who had not won for 100 days terminated Chicago's eight-game victory streak.

If a return to the first-division was not enough motivation, the Angels were stimulated by Stanky's connivery even before the first pitch.

At the top of Chicago's lineup card which passed through umpire Frank Umont's hands into Bill Rigney's, Stanky had inked a large "No 9," indicating that an extension of the White Sox winning streak was in the cards.

"I was really burned up," said Rigney, as he enjoyed the last laugh.

"I couldn't wait to get back to the bench and show the card to my players. Who does that little (blank) think he is?"

By the time it was the eighth inning and the lead was 7-0, the Angels had done some art work of their own.

They unveiled a towel and called Stanky's attention to the message which read:

". . . your No. 9."

Stanky got the message as early as the second inning when the Angels routed Joe Horlen for four runs, the impetus of an 11-hit attack which included three-hits by Tom Satriano, two-run singles by both Newman and Bobby Knoop, and Jim Fregosi's eighth home run.

"Tonight," said Rigney, "I'm going to look all over this town for the biggest stamp I can find. And tomorrow I'm going to imprint my lineup card with No. 2."

By this time, Rigney was in a jocular mood, pouring fuel on a potential feud with his former Giant roommate. In Anaheim last week, Rig referred to Stanky as "Mr. Rule Book" when the Chicago manager protested a bandage on Clyde Wright's stitched finger.

One required a record book rather than a rule book Saturday to locate the last time Newman (2-5) won. It was May 5 when he and Bob Lee shut out Kansas City on four hits.

Thus, in his fourth start since spending 51 days on the disabled list, Newman regained the form which made him such a favorite in the Angels future book last spring.

"I really didn't think I'd pitch at all this season," revealed Newman of his frustrating seven weeks on the sideline.

"Even now I don't believe Rig is planning to use me too much the rest of the way. The doctor wants me to rest the arm as much as possible so that I can come back strong next year."

The pain has left the arm and all that remains is a soreness born of infrequent employment. Rig plans to start Newman every fifth day.

"The only problem I have now is controlling the breaking pitch," said Newman. "I was aiming my curve and slider today. I hope it comes around the next time."

Newman had yielded only three hits when he issued his second walk of the game, to Floyd Robinson, opening the eighth. Two outs later, Bill Skowron singled and Don Buford doubled to snap the shutout and send the tiring righthander to the showers.

Singles by Tommie Agee and Pete Ward greeted Minnie Rojas, cutting the deficit to 7-3, but the relief ace then

GET-'EM-NEXT-TIME-GANG

The Black Maxers Invade Pittsburgh

By ROY McHUGH

PITTSBURGH (NEA)—You can't do it every day. But the Pittsburgh Pirates know that if they stick with 'em and hang in there, probably they'll get 'em next time.

Can't-do-it-every-day, stick-with-'em, hang-in-there and get-'em-time are the verbal pats on the back the Pirates award one another to alleviate gloom.

Thus pitcher Steve Blass, who has lost four games this season and has not gone the distance in 20 starts, sums up his record as "four stick-with-'ems and 20 straight can't-do-it-every-days."

First baseman Donn Clendenon leads the Pirates in get-'em-next-times with 95. "One for each strikeout," he says.

A hard line drive into the waiting hands of an infielder or outfielder is only a time at bat in the box score, but it merits a fervent hang-in-there.

Blass and Clendenon belong to the Black Maxers, hence the bookkeeping. The Black Maxers are an in-group among the Pirates and to maintain his membership each of the Maxers must get at least one citation a week.

It is all part of the high jinks the Pirates are going in for this year—a burlesque not only on baseball cliches but on a current motion picture called "The Blue Max," itself an unconscious burlesque on every bad World War I movie Hollywood ever made.

AS RELIEF PITCHER Pete Mikkelsen describes the movie, which the Black Maxers saw in Chicago one day, "It's about dogfights during World War I. The Blue Max was a German medal. If somebody knocked down 20 British planes he got a Blue Max from the Kaiser or whoever he was. One guy in the story wanted that more than anything. He wanted a Blue Max."

Steve Blass wanted enough Blue Maxes to start a Blue Max chapter on the Pirates and he toured Chicago's Loop in a taxicab, rummaging through novelty stores. He had to settle for 12 black surfer's medals and the would-be Blue Maxers changed their color scheme.

Surfer's medals are replicas, actually, of the German Iron Cross, a military award that goes back to 1813, when William of Prussia conceived it. During every war since, the Germans have revived the Iron Cross. The Nazis revived it in World War II, replacing William of Prussia's cross with a swastika. For that reason surfer's medals arouse a certain amount of hostility.

However, even in World War II the award was for achievement on the battlefield, and a West German consul stationed in this country has said, "We think of the Iron Cross not as the Iron Cross of the terrible Nazi period but as being from the rest of German history, which contains 200 years of culture."

The Black Maxers pretend to no history of culture at all but are representative of the Pirates' flakiness. Manager Harry Walker, a Bronze Star winner in World War II (he captured a whole truckload of Germans) approves.

"This is a colorful team," Walker says. "Baseball needs color. Those guys are serious on the field and this is their way of staying loose. You'll notice the only time they clown around is when they win."

When the Pirates don't win, they're as melancholy as any other team. When they win, they hurry into the clubhouse and put on their Black Maxer hats.

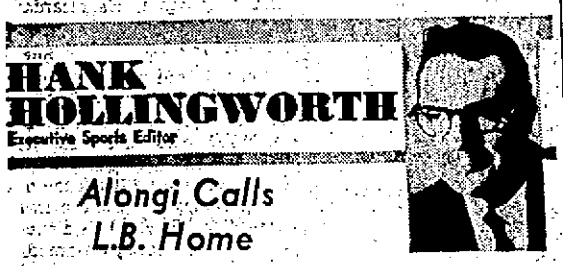

THERE'S A WORLD War I aviator's helmet, complete with goggles, for Jim Pagliaroni. Blass and Roy Face have Western-styled black Stetsons with skull and crossbones taped to the brims and Mikkelsen wears a night club comic's Crazy Googenheim number, also with skull and crossbones.

Chuckie, the clubhouse boy, is an honorary Black Maxer. So is Joey Diven, the world's strongest beer salesman. "We use him for special projects," says Chuckie. "Like overrunning countries."

The dozen original Black Maxers have added but one active member—Coach Johnny Pesky, who bears the title of field marshal and rates a "von" in front of his name.

Once a week, a board of inquiry meets to review everybody's qualifications, and Blass, the squadron supply officer, may be up for promotion this month. At a recent luncheon, he announced, "They tell me I can't go nine innings. Lately, I've been lucky to go three."

Says Tommie Sisk: "Little quotes like that keep your standing up. It's not your performance on the field that counts, it's your thinking." Of Woody Fryman, Sisk says, "He's not going to make it, doing the things he does now. He goes to bed at 8 o'clock."

Alongi Calls L.B. Home

Long Beach has a new fighter representing this city today. The man's name is Tony Alongi, a nationally-known heavyweight with sterling credentials—38 wins, two losses and two draws.

The Pacific Coast Club purchased Alongi's contract from a New York group and Tony will box out of the Coast Club here. The official owners will be E. L. Fraser, PCC president; Vallie Matcheski, the club's athletic director, and Milton Sugerman, a prominent club member.

Matcheski will train Alongi, along with "Fabulous Fabela" Chavez, the well-known Southland firebrand who has more than 200 bouts under his belt, including five matches with Lauro Salas. Sugarman will be the manager, while attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey (the "silver fox" and long a favorite of fighters and boxing) will serve as financial advisor.

Alongi will arrive from Patterson, N.J., sometime during the week and immediately begin workouts for future engagements at Olympic Auditorium, L.A. Sports Arena and perhaps Long Beach Arena.

A 6-3, 205-pounder, the 26-year-old Alongi boasts 23 knockouts, a decision over George Chuvalo, and two draws against Jerry Quarry, 21, this area's coming "white hope" who despite his tender age has received tremendous national publicity.

Alongi thus joins an ever-expanding group of area fighters who have projected Southern California prominiently into the national boxing scene. In addition to Alongi, Long Beach itself boasts the popular, unbeaten featherweight Armando Ramos, who scored his 10th consecutive triumph Thursday night in two rounds at Olympic Auditorium. Quarry resides in Bellflower, while fellow heavyweight Joey Orbillo is from Wilmington. One of the nations' great lightweights, Raul Rojas, this corner's nomination as world champion in 1967, is from San Pedro. The list is even larger, but you get the idea.

PCC manager Dennis Coder says when Alongi arrives here, he also will help instruct the club's youngsters in the art of self-defense. As a suggestion to Dennis, why doesn't he match Alongi in an exhibition with Ben Agajanian, the club's gin rummy king? I remember the day in Houston when Bootin' Ben (then with the Chargers) squared off with one of the Oilers who belted him good after Aggie had kicked off. Ben threw some fair roundhouse punches before teammates dragged him from the field.

SOME BACKGROUND on Alongi might best be gained by a June Sports Illustrated story describing the second Quarry-Alongi match in Los Angeles.

"Alongi made Quarry look like the fighter he is: a kid of 21 and a genuine, raw prospect who has had 20 fights, the majority of them against refugees from poolrooms, factories and welfare lists. Alongi does not qualify for any of these categories; he is on the lam from Sears, Roebuck, where he was a salesman during two years of inactivity.

"Whether Alongi will eventually be deposited back into the appliance department is still unpredictable. One thing is clear, however. His future . . . was on the line against Quarry, and he did not look for a place to hide.

"The mystery was why Quarry was fighting Alongi at all. Quarry should have settled for the first draw in Madison Square Garden, which was accepted by those who saw it as a good lesson that would not bear repeating."

"QUARRY KEPT TELLING people how often in the first fight Alongi had hit him low, and the second time he would be ready for him. 'I got a specially designed protector for the big mouth this time,' said Quarry, answering Alongi's comment in the papers that Quarry was too old to be blubbering.

"Tony, on the other hand, was not disturbed by the accusations by Quarry until the waitresses in the restaurant where he ate began to serve up reproach with the steaks. 'He'll pay for that,' Alongi said to one. TONY IS QUITE SENSITIVE TO WHAT WOMEN THINK OF HIM."

During the L.A. fight Alongi was much sharper than he had been in N.Y. and Quarry was decidedly less so. Alongi, with his long left jab, at one point stopped, put hands down and said to the referee, "Hell, ref, he doesn't wanna fight."

ALONGI DIDN'T GRUMBLE at the second draw verdict . . . in fact, he was in high spirits. He was certain that the draw proved that he had won.

"I get a draw in L.A. and to me that's a win," commented Alongi. "These were the easiest 10 rounds I ever went. If you ask me, Quarry is punch shy. He doesn't want to get hit."

After the Quarry fight, Alongi's former manager Lou Duva commented: "When we fight Clay, we're gonna change Tony's name to Benito Mussolini. Get that, huh? And all around at ringside we're gonna have guys wearing carnations and big hats, dark shirts and white ties, and they'll smoke big cigars. Muslims? Forget 'em. We got the mob right here."

Alongi won't have any "mob" around here, but the Pacific Coast Club will guarantee him a host of followers . . . and a fight with Clay is a distinct possibility. After all, even Cassius can't ignore a 38-2-2 record.

Reds, Deluge Join in Rout of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati erupted for eight runs in the fifth inning and Jim Maloney hurled a two-hitter as the Reds walloped the Pittsburgh Pirates 11-0 Saturday in a game called at the end of five innings because of rain.

The shutout, first over the National League-leading Pirates, since June 15, when they lost 1-0 to St Louis, ended their winning string at four games.

The Reds sent 11 batters to the plate in the fifth inning. Vada Pinson, Pete Rose and Leo Cardenas knocked in two runs apiece and Tommy Helms and Deron Johnson delivered one each

Cincinnati rapped seven hits in the inning, including doubles by Johnson, Helms and Rose as they knocked out rookie Woody Fryman, now 9-7.

The Reds scored in the second on a single by Tony Perez and Don Pavletich's triple. They added two more in the third on run-scoring singles by Johnson and Perez, who collected three straight hits

Exploding Orioles Nip Nats

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Baltimore scored five times in the fourth inning, giving Jim Palmer the cushion he needed for his 13th victory, in pitching the first-place Orioles to a 5-2 triumph over the Washington Senators Saturday night.

Palmer, who leads the Baltimore staff in victories, shook off occasional early wildness in seeing that the Orioles maintained their 12-game hold on the American League lead. He needed relief help from Eddie Fisher in the last one and one-third innings.

BOSTON (AP)—Pitcher Earl Wilson drilled a grand slam homer and two singles while checking his former Boston teammates on four hits as the Detroit Tigers bombed the Red Sox 13-1 Saturday.

Wilson hit his bases-loaded blast—the first of his major league career—in the seventh inning off Dan Osinski, capping a six-run rally.

I, P-T BATBOY AN 'ONLY' BOY

By CHUCK MEDICK

Mike Love, an 11-year-old boy with a simple wish, will have it answered Saturday when he represents Long Beach as Dodger batboy for the day.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ocie B. Love, of Long Beach, was the winner of the just completed contest run by The Independent, Press-Telegram and will be the toast of the town when the Dodgers face the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday afternoon.

Over 400 boys and 17 girls entered the contest, with Mike, only boy in a family of four children, gaining top honors.

Mike's winning entry concerned a family problem and, at least on Saturday, it won't bother him.

His letter went as follows:

"I have been one of your fans for a long time. I have no brothers, but three sisters. You don't know how happy I would be if I could spend just one day with a bunch of fine men like you out on the field. No girls!"

HIS THREE sisters, Linda, 18, Connie 17, and Marilyn 7, will be there, but not on the field with Mike; he'll have his day.

Congratulations are in order for the 10 runnerups who will each receive a pair of tickets to Saturday's game. They are Max Mason, Los Alamitos; Jerry Haviland, Long Beach; Danny Wachter, Lakewood; Stephen Summers, Long Beach; Dave Johnson, Long Beach; Marty Rosenberg, Lakewood; Dave Germaneri, Long Beach; Mark Rasmussen, Long Beach; Danny Harkins, Long Beach and Joe Ables, Long Beach.

Giusti Retires 22 Giants in Order, Defeats Marichal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dave Giusti pitched a one-hitter and Ron Davis hit his first major league home run Saturday to lead the Houston Astros to a 3-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Despite the loss, the Giants remained in second place in the National League, two games behind the Pirates, who lost to Cincinnati.

The only hit the hard-throwing Giusti permitted was a line drive single to center by Cap Peterson after two outs in the second.

Giusti, gaining his 12th victory against nine losses, did not issue a single walk and struck out four batters.

After Peterson's hit, he didn't permit a single Giant to get on base, retiring the next 22 batters in order.

Cepeda Sparks Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Orlando Cepeda, who had been benched because of a hitting slump, clubbed a three-run homer in the first inning, sending the St. Louis Cardinals on their way to a 9-6 victory over the New York Mets Saturday.

Right-hander Bob Gibson yielded eight hits in registering his 15th victory against nine losses. He has won four in a row and has a 15-2 career mark against New York.

Cepeda, who had only five hits in his last 41 at bats, hit his 18th homer off Bob Friend in the first following a walk and Curt Flood's single.

SISTERS ARE ALL RIGHT, SOMETIMES
Mike Love, 11, didn't really mind Saturday when sisters Connie (left), Linda and Marilyn helped him celebrate his selection as Dodger batboy for Saturday's Independent, Press-Telegram Day at Dodger Stadium. Embassy Whips Ri Tux in Final Steps of La Jolla

By ERNIE MASON

DEL MAR—Rex C. Ellsworth's gritty Embassy came on again after being headed in the stretch to outgame Ri Tux and win the $16,625 La Jolla mile in a stirring battle before 19,747 fans Saturday afternoon.

Overhauled in mid-stretch after setting the early pace, the Toulouse Lautrec Colt responded to the hard urging of jockey Bobby Menell to forge to the front in the final strides and score a neck decision over Ri Tux in 1:35 2/5. Hill Clown was third and top-weighted Drin fourth in the field of nine three-year-olds.

Embassy, who tipped his hand with a fast-closing third in the six-furlong Oceanside Handicap two weeks ago, rewarded his followers with $9, $5 and $3.80. Ri Tux paid $6.60 and $4.60 and Hill Clown returned $5.

"The race didn't come up as planned at all," said Menell later in the jockey quarters. "We figured we'd be laying third, behind the speed, but there we were on the lead so I went on with him."

* * * *

EMBASSY, a bay colt who was scoring his first stakes triumph, enjoyed a length lead after a quarter in :22⅗ and had the same margin at the half in :45⅕. However, at the quarter-pole, after six furlongs in 1:10 1/5, jockey Mario Valenzuela sent Ri Tux after Embassy in deadly earnest and the gray colt drew alongside the pacemaker as they straightened away in the stretch.

With an eighth of a mile to travel, Ri Tux stuck his head in front and appeared on his way to victory. But Embassy took up the challenge and slowly began to cut into Ri Tux' narrow edge. In the final jump, with Menell whipping right-handed, Embassy reasserted himself and was drawing away again at the wire.

Closing strongly behind the top two were Hill Crown, who was 1½ lengths back of the runner-up and Drin, another 1½ lengths back of the third-place finisher.

ANGELS--

stripped the final four Sox.

The Angels chased Horlen (7-11) on the two-run singles of Knoop and Newman after loading the bases on Norm Siebern's single, Buck Rodgers double and an intentional walk to Satriano.

Fregosi tapped Dennis Higgins for his homer in the fifth and the Angels punished Juan Pizarro for two more in the eighth on a two-run single by the now-feared Satriano following singles by Siebern and Rodgers.

The Angels admitted that Stanky provided the incentive.

"When you start taking things for granted in this game," said Joe Adcock, "you usually get dumped on your rear end."

Stanky, however, fell flat on his face.

ANGEL ANGLES: Marcelino Lopez (5-10) and Jim Coates (0-0) dual Bruce Howard (6-3) and Gary Peters (9-8) this afternoon in the final action between the two clubs for '66 . . . Both Peters and Howard are among the league's five ERA leaders.

Quickie quote from Stanky: "I don't mean to imply that the Angels are a one-man team but they are considerably easier to pitch to without (Rick) Reichardt." . . . Adcock accepted an award from the Wisconsin Little Leagues on Rick's behalf . . . John Romano was forced out in the third inning when hit on the right hand with a foul tip . . . Fregosi's home was only the Angels' fourth in the last 23 games . . . Satriano now batting .253.

JUAN MARICHAL brought a flutter to hearts of many Giant fans Saturday when he raised bats over head while having pleasant conversation with umpire Chris Pelekoudas. Last time he raised bat over head of man in mask, it cost Giants pennant.

go six innings but surprised everyone by going the distance, striking out four while walking only two. "He got the ball over and had a good curve," said Graham, "and he'll probably have a sore arm for a week. But he sure came through in the clutch."

All-America footballer Terry DeKraai gave Knox a 1-0 cushion when he muscled the game's first pitch over the centerfield fence. The 400-foot blow was the first home run of the tournament and first of three hits for the hard-hitting centerfielder.

In the second inning, Larry DuRee led off with a walk, went to second on a balk and third on Eddie Crosby's single to left. Mike Cooper plated DuRee with a fielder's choice moved to third on Knox' safety and scored on a DeKraai liner up the middle.

DuRee pushed across another run in the third, following hit-batsman Keller with a bombing double to left-center.

After three scoreless frames, Grich opened the seventh by getting aboard on a dropped fly in left. Jerry Leininger walked and Jim Burke rifled a double to right-center for the final runs.

Knox was never in serious trouble but inning-ending double plays by Crosby-Grich-Leininger, with runners at first and third, in the sixth and DuRee-Crosby-Leininger, with men at first and second, in the eighth kept the 6th Area champions at bay.

Vikings Strongarm Hapless Pittsburgh

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bob Berry, working to hold a place on Minnesota's quarterback-rich squad, led the Vikings to an easy 35-6 National Football League exhibition victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday night.

Coach Norm Van Brocklin let the former University of Oregon quarterback play the full game before a cheering home crowd.

Berry passed for two touchdowns and was increasingly sharp as the game went along.

The Viking defense halted the Steeler ground game and made the Pittsburgh passing attack both ineffective and hazardous.

The Vikings scored twice within 65 seconds on pass interceptions late in the second quarter.

End Jim Marshall picked one off from quarterback Bill Nelsen and scored from 33 yards. On the second play after the kickoff—with Jack Stofa of Buffalo replacing Nelsen — John Kirby intercepted a Stofa pass and scored from 39 yards.

Pittsburgh's Mike Clark saved the Steelers from being blanked with two field goals in the last two minutes of the first half.

Lakewood continued its torrid pace in the Pony Regional finals at Los Alamitos Saturday night with a 6-3 victory over Canoga Park-Woodland Hills. Lakewood faces Gardena in the finale today at 2.

The pitching duo of Clint Meyer and Randy Wick limited Canoga Park to four hits. Wick relieved Meyer after Canoga Park's Paul Kellerman drilled a two-run homer in the third.

Lakewood chased Canoga starter Mark Fishback early, scoring four runs in the first inning on back to back triples, two singles and an error.

Namath Out, But Jets Top Oilers, 16-10

BIRMINGHAM (UPI)—The New York Jets rallied without Joe Namath to beat the Houston Oilers 16-10 Saturday night before the largest pre-season American Football League crowd in history.

Namath, who gained fame at the University of Alabama, reinjured his right knee during a scramble for a loose ball late in the first quarter and sat out the rest of the game.

The Jets' team doctor said Namath suffered a minor strain in the back of his right knee — the one operated on last year — but added it did not appear to be serious. He said Namath could have returned to action if it had been a regular season game.

* * * *

THE JETS WERE paced to the victory by Mike Taliaferro, relegated to the second team by Namath, and Jim Turner, who kicked three field goals.

Taliaferro scored on a 10-yard sweep in the first half while Turner booted field goals of 25, 37, and 17 yards, the last two coming in the final quarter to provide the winning margin.

Veteran quarterback George Blanda figured in both Houston scores, kicking a 40-yard field goal and passing 16 yards to Charlie Hennigan early in the final period. Blanda kicked the extra point.

The paid attendance of 57,205 exceeded by 20,000 the largest previous pre-season game in AFL history.

Falcons Fall to Morrall, Giants, 14-7

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Veteran quarterback Earl Morrall passed for two touchdowns as the New York Giants defeated the new Atlanta Falcons 14-7 in a National Football League exhibition game Saturday night.

Atlanta, looking for its first victory, threatened to tie the score in the final two minutes but stalled at the Giants' eight-yard line when Jimmy Patton and Wendell Harris deflected a pass in the end zone.

Morrall concentrated on his passing attack, completing 20 of 31 attmpts for 213 yards. He connected seven times to Joe Morrison for 84 yards and hit Morrison and end Homer Jones for two touchdowns.

Atlanta tied the score in the third quarter when rookie defensive back Ron Smith, who has two of the Falcons' three touchdowns in exhibition games, intercepted a pass and returned it 68 yards to score.

The first Giant touchdown drive covered 80 yards, with Morrall tossing to Morrison from the two for the score. Morrall's TD pass to Jones covered four yards.

Unitas in Form as Colts Win

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A nimble Johnny Unitas and his No. 1 stand-in, Gary Cuozzo, pierced Philadelphia's air defense with four touchdown passes Saturday night as Baltimore defeated the Eagles, 31-17 in an exhibition game.

Unitas, whose injured knee hurt the Colts in the National Football League race last year, was in prime condition, and the mammoth Colt line guarded him ferociously.

Operating for the first half only, Unitas nailed end Jack Mackey with a spectacular 40-yard touchdown pass for the first Colt score. He hit end Butch Wilson from 32 yards for the second.

Cuozzo, not as flashy but almost equally proficient, nailed Jimmy Orr with a 21-yard TD pass and also hit flanker Willie Richardson with a 30-yard scoring heave.

The Eagles' first touchdown came after Randy Beisler intercepted a Unitas pass on the 34. Fullback Earl Gros rammed over from the one-yard line eight plays later.

Texan Air Game Routs Keystoners

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI)—The Texas aerial circus rolled up more than 400 yards through the air as the boys from the South crushed Pennsylvania, 34-2, in the rubber game of the Big 33 Football Classic Saturday night.

If Texas was limited to less than 80 yards on the ground, it was only because their aerial attack was so devastating, it had no need for the running game.

Longview's Jim Street threw two touchdown passes, Texarkana's Joe Norwood tossed another and San Antonio's Charley Hixson completed the rout in the second half with a fourth aerial marker.

The victory put the Texans one up on Pennsylvania in the Big 33 series. Pennsylvania won in 1964 but Texas easily captured the 1965 game and Saturday night's contest.

Martindale Fires 66 in Thunderbird Tee

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP)—Young Bill Martindale, who admits he can't see the tee without his thick, horn-rimmed spectacles, soared into a two-stroke lead but felt the heat of a rallying Jack Nicklaus Saturday in the third round of the $100,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic.

The 27-year-old former Texas A&M athlete fired a six-under-par 66 for a 54-hole total of 207 over the 7,055-yard, par 72 Upper Montclair Country Club course.

Nicklaus, booming 300-yard-plus drives and sinking a half-dozen long putts, also cut out a 66 which placed him in a tie at 209 with Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., and 29-year-old Tommy Aaron.

Rudolph shot a 70. Aaron, coming from four shots off the second round pace, fired a 67 during a near perfect day on a course made easy by pin placements and shortened tees.

Like Martindale, Aaron has never won a tour event.

Billy Casper, the U.S. Open champion and year's leading money-winner, lost his halfway lead when he skied to a final round 76 for 214.

Arnold Palmer fought back with a sub-par 70 after appearing to have blown his chances, and was still in contention, tied with Casper and three others at 214.

Tied for fifth place at 211 were long-hitting Tom Weiskopf, with a 69, and Texan Jacky Cupit, with a 68.

At 212 were Julius Boros, the two-time U.S. Open winner, 68; Jerry Pittman, a club pro from Glen Cove, N.Y., who knocked in two eagles and tied the course and tournament record with a 65, and Miller Barber, 70. Martindale, son of a lumber executive in Jacksonville, Tex., had eight birdies and two bogeys.

* * * *

"I WAS REAL lucky out there," he said. "I didn't hit too many good shots but the ones I did were close to the hole. I made a lot of putts, but you have to do that to win one of these."

One of the most awesome exhibitions came off the explosive sticks of Nicklaus.

Jack chipped in from 35 feet for a birdie at the first hole, sank a 25-footer for another bird at the second and birdied five of the last nine holes.

Kids Get Chance in Fishing Derby

Boys and girls of Long Beach and the surrounding area will have just as much a chance to win top prizes in the first annual Independent, Press-Telegram Long Beach Metropolitan Fishing Derby as will adults. The derby begins next Saturday and runs through Sept. 18, with a $500 fishoff on Oct. 1.

Nothing would give this columnist greater satisfaction than to see one of the youngsters in the 12th annual city-wide kids' fishing rodeo on Belmont Pier Aug. 25 catch a prize-winning fish. Remember that croakers (corbina are in that category), bass, bonito and halibut are eligible for entry into the I, P-T contest, and they do not have to compete with catches from the deep-sea boats, even though those species are duplicated on such craft.

The Recreation Department, the Southern California Tuna Club and all others concerned with the kids' fishing rodeo on Belmont Pier extend an invitation to all boys and girls to participate in the annual event Aug. 25. It doesn't matter if you have taken part in the Tackle Busters' program this summer, although a background in that is very helpful in fishing from Belmont Pier or any other place.

Bait will be provided free of charge to all fishing youngsters, and this columnist, as usual, urgently requests that adult anglers leave the pier to the boys and girls in the 6 a.m.-noon period.

ENOUGH MEMBERS OF THE SCTC turn out on each kids' derby day to help untangle lines, gaff fish, if necessary, and generally make themselves useful. Upwards of 1,000 children show up for the annual event. It is to be hoped that there will be no red tide nor oil slicks to interfere with normal Belmont Pier fishing on that day.

R. Burr Dilday heads this year's SCTC committee. He has as helpers Buck Buchanan, Roy Cabe, Warren Merrill, Dr. Marvin Baecker, Johnny Miller, John Turner, C. S. Thompson, Harold Beckley, William Cree, Dr. Thomas Buhl, Dr. James Fowler, Sidney Ellis and this writer, plus any number of others who love boys and girls and want to help.

The Independent, Press-Telegram is giving the top prizes to both boys and girls for the largest overall fish. In addition, the SCTC gives prizes in each classification. And there will be free soft drinks and ice cream.

Once again, Lonnie Williams will be supplying free anchovies for bait. This has become a tradition with the annual kids' rodeo. Williams has the bait boats, Sunbeam, the Sunbeam II and the Alaska Queen, all of which are operated in Long Beach and Los Angeles Harbors.

With the weather as near perfect as possible—let's hope it stays that way— it looks like one of the best kids' tournaments in history.

CONTRARY TO EXPECTATIONS, the billfishing season is here sooner than expected and some rather odd experiences are being related. For instance, a mother-daughter team, Juanita and Sharon Hartman, both hooked into a broadbill off the east end of Catalina Island while fishing from the Sea Bar, out of Newport Beach, with Bryan Hartman skippering.

It took them two hours and 45 minutes to bring the broadbill to gaff, and the fish, 284¼ pounds, had to be put on another boat because the Sea Bar couldn't handle it. It was weighed at Ray Hamilton's Fish Market at Avalon.

The mother had hooked the broadbill in the gullet and the daughter's hook, a Knucklehead lure, was in the bill. Each woman fought with her own rod, and the unusual catch presents quite a problem for presentation of trophies later this year. I'd suggest a special mother-daughter type of thing.

The honor of taking the largest marlin of the season went to Karolyn Smull, San Marino, fishing on the boat Salty, with Len Laudsenback as skipper. The fish, caught on light tackle, weighed 181 pounds at Avalon. Two other marlin were taken Friday off the east end of Catalina. Darlene Coultrup, on the Lucky Duck, out of the Long Beach Yacht Club, caught one on light tackle. It weighed 120 pounds.

Most of the action is from Long Point to the east end of Catalina and many fish are being seen off The Slide. Twenty-nine fish have been weighed in at Avalon (through Friday). Warren Merrill, of the SCTC, caught two, a 92-pounder on medium and a 133-pounder on three-six.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—The Long Beach Sportsman's Club is having its annual Ocean Fish Protective Association benefit dinner at 6 p.m. in the clubhouse, 3623 Santa Fe Ave., Monday, Aug. 22. The dinner tab is $3, with all proceeds going to the OFPA. John Dimas (GA 7-9240) and other club members have tickets. Bub Thomas will emcee the program and provide plenty of entertainment, and, as usual, there will be lots of prizes. It's a good chance to support the OFPA and have a great time.

Joe and Vi Kwasnicke have bought Neal's Camp at Palo Verde, near Blythe, and are now getting ready for the dove season and, later, the fall and winter fishing season. They may be reached at P.O. Box 55, Palo Verde, Calif. 92266.

Neal Robinson, P.O. Box 3004, Compton (NEwmark 6-8420), is preparing to open Robbie's Gun Club in south Fontana on Sept. 11, and is now taking reservations for memberships. Pheasant and chukar shooting will be on the menu from the opening through February, 1967.

Shooting days will be Saturdays, Sundays and Mondays. A state hunting license is required, but not pheasant tags. Robinson has installed a clay pigeon trap that throws regulation targets for those who wish to sharpen their shooting eye before going into the field.

DODGER SUPER-SPEED MEANS RUN Dodger Willie Davis arrives at home plate in cloud of dust Saturday after beating throw from outfield to score team's first run. Davis came home on Lou Johnson's fly ball, barely beating tag by Chicago catcher Randy Hundley. Umpire is Ed Sudol. Dodgers won, 6-1.

No Revolt Planned by Pros

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — The touring pros denied Saturday that they are on the verge of a break with the Professional Golfers Assn. and expressed confidence that their petition for greater autonomy would be approved at the PGA's annual meeting in December.

"This is not a matter of the players deciding that they can run the tour better than the PGA," said Tommy Jacobs, tournament committee chairman and a PGA vice president.

"The players, acting entirely under the constitution of the PGA, have petitioned to be recognized as a players' section of the the PGA.

"We are just suggesting that this may be the time for the PGA to divisionalize this part of its operation.

* * * *

"THE GROWING administrative and communications problems in operating this great tour have proven a strain on the national staff. Under the proposed reorganization, we will have an executive staff working entirely on the prudent management of professional tournament golf.

"We share membership in the PGA with over 5,000 friends and that is the way we want it to stay. We have been dismayed to hear this referred to as a potential revolt. Discussions will continue until the annual meeting in December."

WET WAY NOT THE BEST WAY—ARNIE

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — What's the penalty when a golfer drops all 14 clubs in a hazard?

Arnold Palmer found out the wet way Saturday during the third round of the Thunderbird Classic.

Palmer's second shot on the 440-yard, par 4 12th hole almost hit the green, then kicked into nearby water.

Before dropping a new ball, Palmer tossed it to his caddy, Steve Acocella. "Catch it, Steve," he said.

"I didn't want to catch it for fear of causing him a penalty," said Acocella. As he ducked, ball, bag, clubs and Acocella all went into the water.

"We went through a five-minute drying out process," said Palmer.

DID HE HELP fish the caddy out?

"I wanted to push him in further," Palmer grinned.

"He was nice about it," said Acocella, a receiving supervisor in a chemical plant when he's not caddying.

"He laughed like the devil. At least I have something to tell my grandchildren."

KOUFAX WINS 19TH--

pitch nine innings no matter what happened," explained Durocher. "He wasn't gonna beat Mr. Koo today, so I let him go. He needed the work and we're trying to find out what's wrong."

Durocher said he did not leave in Ellsworth for his hitting. Ellsworth got the second hit against Koufax, a single with one out in the eighth.

Koufax nearly got even in the Dodger eighth. He blooped one to left field, grabbed by Byron Browne after a long run in. On his way back to the bench, Koufax ran past the mound and told Ellsworth, "I hit mine as good as you did."

Durocher didn't learn much about Ellsworth's long exercise. "He threw a changeup curve to Tommy Davis and that's one pitch you can't make on him. Tommy is as good a hitter as Willie Mays on that pitch and if you throw him one, you better make sure it's in the dirt or away from him.

"Ellsworth put it right here," said Leo, pointing to his belt. Tommy bolted it into the Dodger bullpen for his third homer of the year. Willie Davis and Maury Wills had singled and Lou Johnson had driven in the first run with a sacrifice fly before T.D. connected.

A bases-full bloop single by W. Davis, who had three hits, made it 5-0 in the sixth inning and T. Davis drove home the sixth run with his fourth hit in the seventh.

* * * *

TOMMY, BATTING .369 against lefthanders and .250 against righthanders, says he has felt better since studying movies of his batting title form in 1962 and 1963.

"I was wiggling my bat and didn't realize it. I didn't do that three years ago. I also noticed that I was lunging at the ball and committing myself too soon. I'm standing still now and just moving my arms.

"If I'm jammed with a pitch, I don't try to pull it. I'll try to go with it, to the opposite field."

Chicago's run came in the ninth on singles by Billy Williams, Santo and Byron Browne. An unusual double play helped Koufax. Santo, running on Ernie Banks' liner to left, passed second base, failed to retouch it on his way back to first and was doubled off.

* * * *

DIS AND DATA—Koufax struck out 10 or more for the 13th time this season and 54th time in his career. Until Koufax broke it two years ago, the major league record for 1st strikeout games was 36, held by Bob Feller and Waddell ... Koufax has held the Cubs to four earned runs in his last seven games for a 6-1 record and an earned run average of 0.60 ... Koufax has a 7-0 record in day games this season and a nine-game day-time winning streak ... T. Davis' home run was his first since June 13 and second at Dodger Stadium ... Dodgers have hit 28 homers at home in 51 games, two more than they hit here all last season. Lefthanders leads with eight ... Paid attendance was 21,471 for a season home total of 1,671,519.

U.S. Netters Gain 2-0 Lead in Davis Cup

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Veteran Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and neophyte Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, shot the United States into a 2-0 lead over Mexico Saturday by winning their opening singles matches in the Davis Cup American zone tennis finals.

Ralston, the top-ranked American in his seventh year of Davis Cup competition, whipped Mexican ace Rafael Osuna, 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, 6-1, after the bespectacled Graebner, playing his first Davis Cup singles match, defeated Joaquin Loyo-Mayo, 6-0, 4-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

A doubles match is scheduled for Sunday in the best-of-five series with Ralston meeting Loyo-Mayo and Graebner opposing Osuna on Monday.

* * * *

RALSTON, THE runnerup at Wimbledon earlier in the year, led off with two consecutive aces, thereby setting the tone of the match. Both players held their service until the 10th game when the Californian broke his opponent with a forehand smash which bounced five feet over the Mexican's racket.

Mrs. Carner Wins Ladies' Golf Crown

SEWICKLEY, Pa. (AP) — Scrambling JoAnne Gunderson Carner of Seattle, Wash., fought back after a shaky start Saturday, then outlasted Marlene Stewart Streit to win the USGA National Women's Amateur Golf Championship for the fourth time on the fifth hole of a sudden-death playoff.

Mrs. Carner sank a two-foot putt to par the 41st hole and close out the match. Mrs. Streit took a bogey on the hole when her second shot from the rough struck a tree and glanced into a trap.

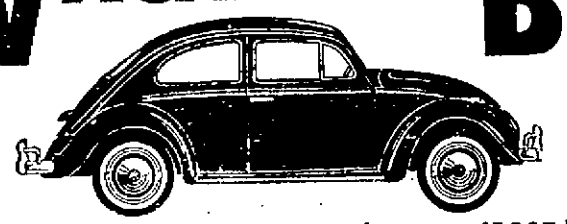

It was the first time the final match went into sudden death.

In winning, Mrs. Carner reversed a decision of 10 years ago when she lost a 4-up lead on the last nine holes and lost to Mrs. Streit for the title at Indianapolis, Ind.

Mrs. Carner, who twice blew 3-up leads, evened the match at the 35th hole with a par when Mrs. Streit three-putted from 32 feet for a bogey.

The championship match at the 6,120-yard, par 73 Sewickley Heights Golf Club course was a study in contrast between the grim and determined Mrs. Streit and the free-wheeling and easy-going Mrs. Carner.

Torres Risks Title Against 40-Year-Old

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Jose Torres defends his world boxing title here Monday night against Eddie Cotton in a match that might well be billed a battle of the ancients.

Torres is only a mere 30 but the transplanted Puerto Rican from Brooklyn is the oldest world champion in action today. His is a slender honor, however, because he's only about four months older than the lightweight champion, Carlos Ortiz.

Cotton is truly a legitimate ring antique. The Seattle veteran is 40 years old and is the oldest challenger currently in boxing.

* * * *

WORD FROM California says that Archie Moore, the elderly former king of the 175 pounders, positively does not plan to come out of retirement and fight the winner.

Archie retired in 1964 at an age variously estimated between 47 and 55.

The Monday fight will be nationally home televised on a special sports network beginning at 7 p.m. PDT.

The contest is billed for 15 rounds in the Las Vegas Convention Center but past records of both fighters indicate it won't last the distance.

Torres has scored 23 knockouts in 39 fights and has been stopped but once in the lone defeat of his career. This was a five-round knockout by hard-hitting Florentino Fernandez in San Juan, P. R., in May, 1963, when Jose was a middleweight.

Cotton, who began his professional career in 1947, has appeared in nations around the world and has been in at least 76 bouts. An aircraft toolmaker as an off-ring occupation, Eddie has stopped 31 opponents, lost 17 by decision and has been halted three times.

The last assault was by Roger Ruse in October, 1965, in Butte, Mont. Eddie went out in seven.

Torres won the championship with a ninth round kayo over a suddenly aged Willie Pastrano in New York March 30, 1965. It was only the second time in Willie the Wisp's career that an opponent had managed such a thing.

Torres defeated Wayne Thornton of Fresno, Calif., in his first and only defense of the crown in New York last March 30.

* * * *

HE FLOORED Thornton twice in the second and won easily in 15. It was a match that rates high in ring history for its lack of artistry.

Cotton's credentials as the current challenger seem singularly unique. He has had seven fights in 1965 and 1966. He won three—once by a knockout; lost three—one by a knockout; and notched one draw.

Eddie is now working on a two win streak, having stopped a man named Sipa Fine in New Zealand in February and outpointed a little-known German import from Los Angeles, Emil Umek, in Vancouver, B.C., in April.

Japanese Group in Race Bid

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — President John D. Schapiro of Laurel race course announced Saturday he has agreed to invite a Japanese horse to the $150,000 Washington, D.C. International if a worthy challenger is named by a Japanese selection committee.

The 15th running of the 7½ mile turf race will be held Nov. 11.

Schapiro said he was advised recently by Hiroshi Ishizaka, president of the Japan Racing Association, that a Japanese recommendation committee had been formed and was in the process of screening horses for the International.

* * * *

THE COMMITTEE is composed of the Japan Racing Assn., owners, trainers and newsmen.

Japan has been represented in two previous runnings of the International, Takamagahara finished 10th in a 13-horse field in 1962, and Ryu Forel was eighth and last in 1964.

Belgium Bans French Horses

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Belgian Equestrian Sports Federation said Saturday it has banned French horses from competing in a contest this month because they may be contaminated following an epidemic in France.

It did not disclose the nature of the epidemic, but said it had affected French thoroughbreds.

DO AS I SAY...

CAL STATE at Long Beach and coach Jim Pullman can only hope his charges do as he says and not as he does when football practice begins Sept. 1. Actually Pullman, watching frosh coach Ron Schwandt sign his cast, broke his ankle on tennis court, not gridiron. Pullman's duties will be restricted until cast is removed.

LBCC's Marv Motley Signs Letter of Intent at USC

By LOEL SCHRADER

Apparently the rich DO get richer.

USC, already wealthy with backfield talent, this fall will have the additional talents of halfback Marv Motley, twice junior college all-America and part-owner of the record book at Long Beach City College.

Motley has signed a letter of intent with USC and will report to the Trojans at the start of practice on Sept. 1, the Independent, Press-Telegram learned Saturday.

That the 175-pound halfback was called "Marvelous Marv" during his days at City College is not surprising, in view of these notations in the Vikings' record book:

—Most yards gained by rushing in one game, 300.

—Most yards gained rushing in one season by a freshman, 1,174.

—Second longest run from scrimmage, 96.

—Third in total yards gained rushing in two seasons, 2,002.

Additionally, Motley was named "player of the game" in the Vikings' 1964 Junior Rose Bowl victory and "player of the year" for 1964 in the Metropolitan conference. He was named to the all-conference team both of his years at City College.

HOW ABOUT THAT DEPT: USC already has sold 25,000 football season tickets, 3,000 ahead of this time a year ago. Ticket manager John Moore estimates a total season sale of 34,000 . . . Obviously, coach John McKay produces both winning and crowd-pleasing football. During the past four seasons, McKay's Trojans have won 32 games, lost eight and tied one . . . During that span, more than 2 million persons have attended Trojan games . . . USC players return to the campus Aug. 29, pictures day is Aug. 31 and practice begins officially on Sept. 1 . . . Opening game is Sept. 17 against Texas in Austin.

What caused Texas coach Darrell Royal to back out of an exchange of spring football game films with the Trojans? Could Texas' switch to the I-formation be the reason? The Longhorns used the split T last season, and that's what the Trojans are left to view on films . . . Rod Sherman, USC's leading all-America candidate, was married Saturday to Jayne Roberson.

It's more than a rumor that star UCLA swimmer Harold Busby will report for football. Busby is serious about it, and so are Bruin coaches . . . UCLA is hurting for receivers . . . and Busby could be the answer . . . They call it the Arizona State University football team, but 22 players on the Sun Devils' roster are from California and 16 from Pennsylvania . . . Only 35 are from Arizona . . . Cal coach Ray Willsey has signed 12 JC transfers to Berkeley. The Bears also have 39 sophomores on their roster of 73. Willsey welcomes this infusion of talent and predicts the Bears will have their first winning season since 1958.

What happened to the USC-UCLA finger pointing contest? When conference publicists were asked to predict which often of the AAWU, USC and UCLA drum-beaters picked Stanford . . . UCLA coach Tommy Prothro said last spring he was picking USC as the favorite and "six of the other seven coaches in the conference will agree with me." Trojan coach McKay said that "any team that has four all-Americans has to be favored." He was referring to the Bruin publicity campaign on behalf of Mel Farr, Gary Beban, John Richardson and Dallas Grider.

One football magazine tabbed UCLA for the national championship, promoting Prothro to sumitsa: "I hope that magazine is better at predicting than it was last year. I think they said we'd lose every game."

Havasu Fish Derby Gets Quick Start

LAKE HAVASU — The third annual Lake Havasu City Bass Derby got off to a fast start last week with a 3 lb.-6 oz. largemouth taking the top weekly prize.

Fishing on the lake was fair to good during the opening week of the public derby with 67 entries bringing in catches. The derby will continue through Sept. 25 with $1,500 in prizes at stake for the overall winners.

Mrs. Nora Moss of Lake Havasu City brought in the heaviest bass, a 3 lb.-6 oz. which she caught near Havasu Cove campgrounds using a repalla lure, and won a Zebco rod and reel spinning combination.

Second with a 2 lb.-10 oz. bass caught in Thompson Bay with a waterdog was Richard Kingsbury of Lake Havasu, who won an Adventurere tackle box and assortment of Arbogast lures.

George Foster, owner and operator of the Lake Havasu Marina, reported many fish are being caught in the lake during the early morning and early evening hours but most of them are on the small side, averaging about 1½ lbs. Surface lures, plastic worms and waterdogs are geting the best results.

1 Question Left for AL: Who Is MVP

Orioles' Trio Make Choice Difficult

NEW YORK (AP)—"We had just about the same ball club last year, and we finished eight games out. Now here comes Frank, and we're way ahead. Maybe you have to lean toward him. But then you go back to Brooks and Boog, and they're having great years."

That, as set forth by teammate Andy Etchebarren, is the dilemma facing anyone trying to pick the American League's Most Valuable Player from the Baltimore Oriole trio of Frank Robinson, Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell.

* * * *

IF THE Orioles win the pennant — and there doesn't appear to be anyone around that can stop them—any one of their three sluggers could justifiably be named the league's MVP.

But trying to decide which one is another thing.

Following completion of their 113th game, in New York, leaving only 49 to go, the records of the trio looked like this:

Average—Frank .315, Brooks .297, Powell .295.

Runs batted in—Powell, 87, Brooks 84, Frank 80.

Home runs—Frank 33, Powell 26, Brooks 20.

Runs scored—Frank 90, Brooks 74, Powell 65.

Hits Brooks 135, Frank 130 Powell 111.

GOLFER AL GEIBERGER

'Peanut Butter Kid' Gets Enough to Last Lifetime - - Pleads for Halt

By WILL GRIMSLEY

CLIFTON, N. J. (AP) — Al Geiberger, golf's Peanut Butter Kid, wishes the producers would call off the dogs—he has the stuff running out his ears.

"One company sent me my weight in peanut butter," the beanpole PGA champion from Carlton Oaks, Calif., said today. "Another sent me a dozen cases. At least six companies have given us supplies to last for years.

"We have it stored in the kitchen, in the basement and even in the bathroom. If it doesn't stop, we may have to desert the house and turn it over to peanut butter."

The 6-foot, 2½-inch pro became the darling of the peanut industry when he won the PGA championship at Akron last month while munching peanut butter and jelly sandwiches between swings.

One producer wanted to make him "Peanut Butter Man of the Month." Another asked him to author an "I Love Peanut Butter Cookbook." Still another suggested he combine golf tips with peanut butter recipes.

* * * *

"I'VE ALREADY signed with a big peanut butter manufacturer," said Geiberger, a contender in the $100,000 Thunderbird Classic here. "I don't know what I'll do with the stuff from the other makers, maybe give it to orphanages."

Geiberger has become so closely associated with the product — like Gary Player bananas and Bill Casper with buffalo meat — that his fans are disappointed when he strays from his image.

"They boo me now if I don't nibble on a peanut butter and jelly sandwich," he said.

"Wednesday I had a hamburger at noon. When I didn't take out a sandwich, the crowd gave me an awful ribbing."

Geiberger said the sandwich habit began in the 1965 PGA at Laurel Valley, Pa.

"The first two rounds, I was paired with Arnold Palmer, playing on his home course," he said. "My wife, Judy, and I knew thousands would be following the match and we wouldn't get near the refreshment stand. So Judy packed a cold lunch of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches for us and my daughter, Lee Ann.

"It wasn't until later after I won the American Classic at Akron that anybody knew it. In the press interview, I was asked if I got tired, I said, no, because I carried a sandwich. That's when I really took hold."

The legend was embellished in the recent PGA at Akron.

* * * *

GEIBERGER said he chose peanut butter and jelly because it's dry and easy to make. His wife usually prepares it but when she's not along he makes the sandwich himself.

"I carry just one," he added.

"I eat half of it around the seventh hole and the other half about the 14th. One thing about peanut butter and jelly. You can sit on it, and it doesn't get soggy."

Ivy Quartet Leads Winners Among Top College Grids

Associated Press

Yale, Princeton, Penn and Harvard — those venerable Ivy Leaguers who started it all—remain college football's Big Four.

If their national championships are only memories, their victory totals remain unchallenged.

Starting with a three goals to none decision over Columbia in its 1872 inaugural, Yale still sets a rugged pace heading the field at 607 triumphs.

Princeton, which helped launch the American game by splitting a pair of 1869 challenges with Rutgers, is the Tiger on the Elis' tail with 575 victories. Penn has 559 and Harvard 552.

Michigan, Notre Dame, California, Texas, Army and Dartmouth round out the top 10. The rankings are based solely on the number of games won with percentages a factor only when teams have these same totals. Thus Alabama .718 edges Navy .646 for 11th although both have captured 430 decisions.

* * * *

NEBRASKA and Pitt, blood and thunder rivals of the 1927-42 era, are the newest members of football's 400-winner circle swelling the ranks to 22.

The Ivy quartet still dominates the standings partly because of the big head start they had. At the end of the 1888 season, Yale had won 92 games, Princeton 91, Harvard 79 and Penn 51.

By comparison, Michigan claimed 16 and neophyte Notre Dame one.

November 16, 1872, was the day Yale began the long march. Observers tell us the winners were smaller and not as well outfitted but were better drilled.

It didn't hurt Yale and the concept of sportsmanship that when the Elis were forced to retire one player of her 20 starters due to injury—no substitutes, please! — Columbia pulled one of her men to keep things balanced.

By compiling an 8-1 season in 1965 while Yale was 3-6, Princeton actually took the lead in winning percentage with .781, one point above the Elis and Notre Dame. The Tigers also have a record 18 perfect campaigns behind them.

But even at its recent hot pace, Princeton will need at least four more autumns to reach the magic 600 mark.

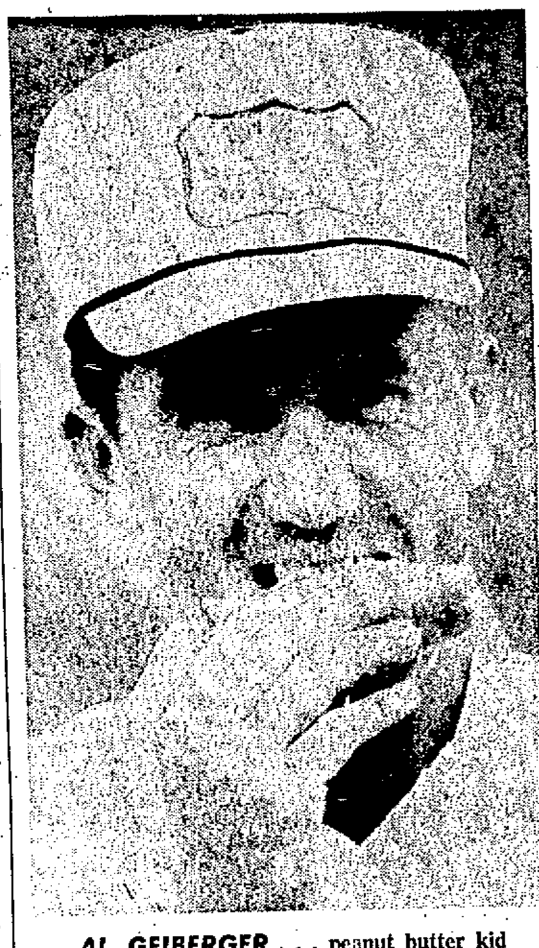

* * * *

HARVARD, which shaped football's destiny by introducing rugby aspects to a soccer-oriented game, is fast closing in on third place Penn, now only seven victories astern of the slumping Quakers. The Crimson got off the mark meeting McGill twice in 1874. Two years later Penn started by losing to Princeton, six goals to none.

A comparative late comer among the leaders, Notre Dame is pushing Michigan for fifth place. The difference between the schools is simply that the Wolverines beat the Fighting Irish the first eight times they met in those early days.

Nitehawks Play Tonight

The Long Beach Nitehawks will meet Hanson's Huricanes of the Long Beach City Softball League, tonight in an exhibition game at Park Avenue field at 8.

The Huricanes have been one of the top area teams for the past five years and will serve to give the Hawks a tune-up for their coming trip to the World Tournament at Rock Island.

The final appearance of the Nitehawks this year at Park Avenue will be Friday night in the all-important fund-raising game with the Pomona Bombers. Proceeds from this game will help to send the team back to the world tournament.

4 Heisman Winners Play in AFL Pair

Four former Heisman Trophy Award winners will share the spotlight Saturday night at Anaheim Stadium where Jim Hardy stages his big AFL doubleheader of pro football.

Topping the glittering list will be USC's 1965 consensus All-American Mike Garrett, who will be making his pro grid debut as the 1965 Heisman winner for Hank Stram's tough Kansas City Chiefs, who meet Sid Gillman's AFL runnerup San Diego Chargers in the second game of the twin bill.

Also in the limelight will be 1964 Heisman winner, John Huarte, the former Mater Dei prepper from Anaheim who went on to grid heights at Notre Dame, and who will start at quarterback for Boston in front of his home town folks. Teaming with Huarte in the Patriots' backfield will be another ex-Heisman winner, Joe Bellino of Navy, who spent a four-year hitch in the service before returning to the pro grid wars.

* * * *

LAST, BUT NOT least, among the former Heisman awardees is LSU's ex-All-American, Billy Cannon, still a potent runner for Johnny Rauch's Oakland Raiders, who takes on Boston in the 6 p.m. first game.

The Chargers, though not boasting a Heisman winner in their midst, have plenty going for themselves, however, bringing one of the most potent backfields ever assembled in pro ball . . . their vaunted "Hall of Flame," consisting of John Hadl at quarterback, Paul Lowe at half, all-around Keith Lincoln at full and the incredible pass-catching Lance Alworth at flanker.

A REAL WATER WALKER

The Thunderbird with Dick Genth at the helm displays the type of action spectators can expect while watching the running of the Hennessey Cup Race to be held during the California International Sea Festival in Long Beach in October. Genth will bring his 70-mile-an-hour, 28-foot, twin Chrysler-powered offshore racer to Long Beach from Miami for the race on Oct. 15. The blown, 426-inch engines generate more than 1,000 horsepower.

Hennessy Cup Race Set During Oct. Sea Fete

A $1 million fleet of the speediest and most rugged ocean racing power boats will compete in the 198-mile Hennessy Cup Race on Oct. 15, according to Sandy Kemp, director of the forthcoming California International Sea Festival.

The Hennessy race, which will take boats on a figure eight course 60 miles out around San Clemente Island, is the first of two major power boat events to be staged during the month - long festival, Kemp points out.

"The second offshore event is the longest and most challenging contest ever held in the sport's century of development," claims the director.

"The fleet will run from Long Beach to San Francisco across 439 miles of the roughest water in the world. The crews will lay-over in Morro Bay the first night of the two day race. This will give crews time to retune boats or make repairs before the final dash to the finish line under the Golden Gate Bridge in front of the St. Francis Yacht Club," Kemp reported.

The event will be staged on Oct. 28 and 29.

On hand to try for a repeat performance of last year's Hennessy race will be winner Bill Wishnick, New York businessman. He will be running a new 32-foot aluminum, twin turbo charged, 1,200 horsepower boat named Big Broad Jumper.

Last year's winner is currently a contender for the world power boat driver's championship, Kemp claims.

In the Long Beach-San Francisco race 70 mph racing boats and high performance yachts will compete. The power boats will be competing for $15,000 in prize money while the yachts will try to win the highly coveted gold Sir Thomas Lipton Trophy.

The long offshore race boats will use the Long Beach Yacht Club as a base of operations.

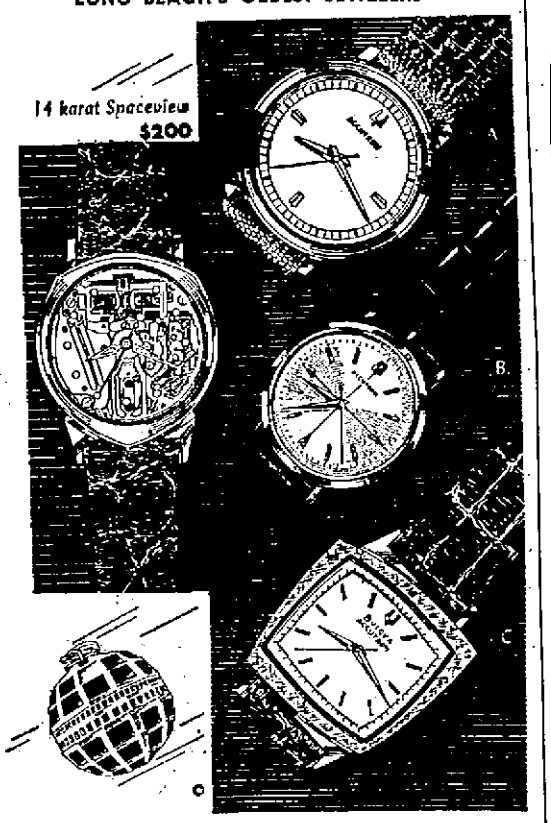

Both races are sponsored by the Pacific Offshore Power Boat Racing Assn.

ALLSTATE Passenger Tire Guarantee
Tread Life Guarantee Against Failures

Every ALLSTATE tire is guaranteed against all failures from road hazards or defects for the life of the original tread. If tire fails, we will—at our option—repair it without cost; or, in exchange for the tire, we will replace it charging only for tread worn (charge will be a pro-rata share of regular selling price).

TREAD WEAR GUARANTEE

We guarantee tread life for the number of months designated. If tread wears out within this period, return it. In exchange, we will replace it charging the regular selling price less a set dollar allowance.

Compare Sears New Radial Tire with an "ordinary" tire . . . see how its patented construction gives new strength, new stability and unsurpassed wear.

- Runs much cooler because sidewall and tread area work independently of each other
- Interior friction is minimized and tread squirming is virtually eliminated
- Plies are laid radially bead to bead instead of criss-cross, are extremely flexible, absorb more road shock
- The tread, supported by layers of steel cord is stable and undisturbed by tire wall movement...because thousands of tiny triangles (like bridge trusses) permit only a free-rolling movement!

ALLSTATE RADIAL TIRE GUARANTEE

Sears guarantees, the ALLSTATE Radial Tire, so long as it is used with ALLSTATE Radial Tubes on passenger cars or station wagons as follows:

1. GUARANTEED AGAINST TREAD WEAR-OUT AND ALL FAILURE FROM ROAD HAZARDS FOR 40,000 MILES. If tread wears off or if tire fails before 40,000 miles, we will, at our option, repair it free or, in exchange for your tire, replace it or give you a refund, in either case charging only for the mileage received (charge will be a pro-rata share of the current regular selling price plus Federal Excise Tax).

2. GUARANTEED AGAINST ALL FAILURE FROM DEFECTS FOR THE LIFE OF THE ORIGINAL TREAD. If tire fails, we will, at our option, repair it free, or in exchange for your tire, replace it or give you a refund, in either case charging only for tread worn (charge will be a pro-rata share of the current regular selling price plus Federal Excise Tax).

If routine bores you — consider becoming an IBM Customer Engineer

Because here's a position that has as much variety as it does responsibility. You're at the center of a vital service performed by the fast-growing industry of electronic computers and associated equipment, you keep studying and developing throughout your career. There's no boredom in a job like that!

What is it like to join the IBM company as a Customer Engineer? You enter an IBM training program (with full pay). Later, you assume responsibility for your own territory, where you install and service data processing systems. You work with customers in business, industry, science, education or government. You get an in-depth view of one or more of these fields while representing IBM.

Interesting? Yes, and just as there are virtually no limits to what computers can do — your opportunities for a long-range professional career with IBM would be unlimited, too. Go as far as your abilities take you!

What do you need? A mathematical aptitude plus a good knowledge of basic electronics. A minimum of two years' technical education or recent electronics experience — military or civilian. A knack for meeting and getting along with people. If you qualify, you may find yourself in a fascinating job with lots of built-in educational benefits.

If you would like a position with unlimited variety, call for an appointment (Days—Evenings—Saturdays).

Mr. De Pietro

Born and educated in British Columbia, Canada, 1913. Attended Los Angeles Technical Schools in 1937. Brought his skis along, met and represented the "Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce at various ski tournaments from California to Utah. Established a Class "B" jumping record of 243 feet at Big Pines. In 1940 with the assistance of the good members of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce group he entered the United States for Amrican citizenship and continued to participate at many ski meets until 1941.

After the war in 1946, he established his own business in Signal Hill, and married a wonderful girl named Elleanor. In 1956 he sold out and decided to study real estate and received his license in 1957. Being always ambitious, he passed the state brokers' exams and opened his own office at 5892 Orange Ave., known as A-A Realty. Served 2 yrs. on Realty Board grievance committee.

At present a staff of 9 professional sales people are "pledged to observe the Realtors Code of Ethics, and act fairly towards all in the spirit of the Golden Rule."

Mr. De Pietro has always believed in the practice of benevolence and was actively engaged in many organizations including Boy Scouts, Foresters, Masonic Order; also quite active in civic and political affairs to the point of being a candidate for office at one time.

He stresses we must abide by the American principles — "That every American has certain rights and duties and responsibilities." "It is therefore my desire and pleasure as agent and consultant to help and guide my clients in their real estate transactions." The "motto" of A-A Realty is: "Pleasing You — Pleases Me."

Years away from your first luxury car?

Meet the Mind-Changer.
(Ambassador 990)

Our young scientist pinched his pocketbook—and figured his first luxury car was a couple of years away. Then he met the Mind-Changer: an Ambassador 990 with a brawny 327-cube V-8*. Its lavish interior included plush cut-pile carpeting, inlays of simulated walnut, elegant coil-spring reclining seats*. On the road, it was a revelation. ("Very smooth, very, very quiet.") When he heard the low, low price tag for all this Ambassador luxury, he changed his mind for keeps. Wouldn't you? American Motors . . . where quality is built in, not added on. *Optional.

STOP Built with your safety in mind, Every American Motors car includes a Double-Safety brake system, Single-Unit body construction, padded dash and visors, outside mirror, seat belts, backup lights, windshield washers, higher-strength windshield, variable-speed non-glare wipers.

Big cleanup savings now at your American Motors / Rambler dealer.

Two Tragic Errors Made in Viet Nam

By DON HASTINGS

Two tragic, costly errors were made in Viet Nam last week.

At dusk Tuesday two U.S. Air Force F100 Supersabre jets strafed, bombed and dropped napalm on the villages of Truong Trung and Troung Tay in the Mekong Delta region. Twenty-six South Vietnamese, including six children, were killed.

American medical teams and nurses pitched in to treat the 124 wounded and American soldiers lined up to give blood.

The strike was made in response to a request by a South Vietnamese officer acting on intelligence reports that the villages were controlled by the Communist Viet Cong. Four of the dead are believed to have been Cong.

President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered a detailed report on the attack.

* * * *

THE SECOND mistake occurred in the dark hours before dawn Thursday when three USAF planes pounced on a blacked-out vessel off the southern coast of North Viet Nam and raked it with machine gun, rocket and 20-mm. cannon fire. The fliers thought they were hitting an enemy trawler, but they were blasting the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Point Welcome, on antismuggling patrol.

The cutter's captain, Lt. (j.g.) David Brostrom, and one of his crew were killed. All 11 other men aboard the boat were wounded.

"It was a regrettable and unfortunate incident," said Coast Guard Capt. Robert J. LoForte, who launched an investigation.

AMERICAN losses on the ground and in the air continued to mount.

In raids over North Viet Nam's capital city of Hanoi and the port city of Haiphong, a record 10 U.S. planes were downed in two days.

Ground action was concentrated in the Ia Drang Valley in South Viet Nam's central highlands and in the area south of Da Nang.

Latest casualty figures released by the U.S. Command listed 71 Americans killed, 615 wounded and 10 missing or captured during the week. American dead in the war since 1961 now total 4,610.

DAMAGE DONE by friendly planes to U.S. Coast Guard cutter Point Welcome when mistakenly attacked off coast of North Viet Nam is inspected by Chief Bosun's Mate Richard Patterson of Swansboro, N.C. Patterson is in cutter's wheelhouse.

THE NATION

Racial strife continued in the North and South, but there were no large-scale outbreaks of violence. Incidents flared in the northern cities of Chicago, New York, Cleveland, Detroit and Lansing. In the South, race problems beset Hopewell, Va., and Grenada and Carthage, Miss.

Most of the incidents were the result of white reaction to Negro demonstrations for better economic and living conditions and equal rights.

* * * *

MEANTIME, the House passed a new civil rights bill, 259 to 157.

The major clause in the bill is designed to combat racial discrimination in the sale or rental of housing. As passed by the House, the bill exempts about 60% of the present housing units, but nearly all new construction will be covered.

The civil rights measure also includes a uniform juror selection system for federal courts and authorizes federal action to insure elimination of discrimination in the selection of state court juries. It gives the attorney general authority to seek injunctions against anticivil rights actions and makes it a federal crime to use force or threats against civil rights workers.

Also included is an antiriot section that provides stiff penalties for crossing a state line or using the telephone or mails to lead or take part in a riot.

* * * *

CIVIL RIGHTS groups oppose both the housing and antiriot sections. They oppose the housing provision because it does not include private housing or apply to agents acting for private owners. They feel the antiriot section is dangerous, fearing it could be used against demonstration leaders such as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Council.

President Johnson, who had requested the legislation, hailed it as "an important new milestone toward racial justice" and asked quick Senate action. But the bill is expected to face rough going there.

Besides opposition from Southerners, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican minority leader, is opposed to the housing section as it is written. No Senate action is likely before Labor Day and even then the measure faces filibuster or radical amendment.

* * * *

ON THE economic front, a comprehensive report by the President's cabinet indicated the nation is still under strong inflationary pressure, but there appears to be some easing ahead.

The report was part of the administration's effort to reassure the American people that the general outlook is good.

* * * *

ONE OF the nation's biggest problems was the continuing strike by machinists that has grounded five major airlines. If and when the strike is settled, it is expected that the wage settlement will exceed the wage-price guidelines laid down by the administration. The recent steel price hikes slightly exceeded the guidelines.

Airline strike negotiations were virtually at a standstill and Congress wrestled with the issue of forcing the machinists back to work. At week's end, the House Commerce Committee approved a Senate-passed bill that would send the strikers back for 30 days while they continued negotiating. The bill also would give the President power to extend the return to work for another 150 days.

Neither labor nor government was happy about legislating an end to the walkout, particularly in an election year. Final House passage appears far off.

* * * *

IN HIS 69th news conference since taking office, President Johnson last week expressed optimism about most of the nation's problems, including the cost of living, civil rights and the war in Viet Nam.

On the rising cost of living, he said it was worse in other countries and noted he does not know anyone who wants to leave the United States to find a place where it is lower.

On civil rights, the President called for congressional action on bills already under consideration and said the administration is planning to request additional appropriations for the next fiscal year. He urged state and local governments to provide recreation facilities and employment for residents of slum areas.

Of heavy casualty reports from Viet Nam, the President said, "Our plane losses are under those that we have estimated. Our helicopter losses are under those estimated."

* * * *

A CALL-UP of part of the nation's trained reserve was urged Friday by the Senate Appropriations Committee to help meet steadily escalating manpower demands in Viet Nam.

The call came as the committee formally approved a $58.1 billion military appropriations bill. The bill, cut by about $426 million from the total previously approved by the House, is expected on the Senate floor early this week.

* * * *

AT WEEK'S end, President Johnson flew to his Texas ranch where aides said he hoped to get some rest, but that he faced "a pretty busy weekend."

Part of that busy weekend included filling of four diplomatic posts. His nominees: Carol C. Laise, a career foreign service officer, ambassador to Nepal; Glen W. Ferguson, director of VISTA, the domestic version of the Peace Corps, ambassador to Kenya; Leo G. Cyr, director of the State Department's Office of African Affairs, ambassador to Rwanda; John Morgan McSweeney, a career foreign service officer, minister to Bulgaria.

ANOTHER member of the First Family, Mrs. Patrick J. (Luci Baines Johnson) Nugent and her husband of a week were honeymooning in the Bahamas. The Nugents emerged from their borrowed villa for one public appearance, a tea given by the British governor-general.

Luci's sister, Lynda Bird, was in New York City where she was job-hunting by day and dating actor George Hamilton by night.

MORE PICTURES of the moon are expected to be received by American scientists today when Lunar Orbiter, a camera-equipped, 850-pound satellite begins a close-up orbit of the moon. The vehicle was launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., in one of the most sophisticated space projects ever attempted by the United States.

THE WORLD

It looked like musical chairs as British Prime Minister Harold Wilson shuffled his cabinet. The most important switch in the exchange of portfolios made George Brown the new foreign secretary. His old spot of economics minister went to Michael Stewart, the former foreign secretary.

Conservative opponents called the shakeup merely a political maneuver to focus the nation's attention away from its economic woes.

Also during the week, the House of Commons passed a severe wage-price freeze asked for by Wilson's government.

Then members of parliament and cabinet went on holiday. It was opening of grouse season.

* * * *

THREE YEARS of undeclared war ended last week as Indonesia and Malaysia signed a formal peace agreement.

Malaysia's Deputy Premier Tun Abdul Razar flew to Jakarta and, along with Indonesia's Foreign Minister Adam Malik, signed the treaty which had been drafted in negotiations in Bangkok, Thailand.

The treaty ends former Indonesia President Sukarno's "crush Malaysia" campaign. He had said Malaysia threatened the security of Indonesia. Gen. Suharto, head of the new Indonesian government, put out peace feelers immediately after Sukarno's ouster.

On Friday, Indonesia said it is ready to join Malaysia in fighting communism. Under Sukarno, Indonesia had been communism's chief ally in Southeast Asia.

THE FIFTH anniversary of the construction of the Berlin Wall was celebrated Friday and Saturday in East Berlin. Red leaders dedicated a memorial to East German border guards killed trying to prevent escapes to West Berlin and viewed a military parade. Walter Ulbricht, East Berlin's Communist party chief, addressed a rally of army and paramilitary units.

In West Berlin, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and Mayor Willy Brandt condemned the unprecedented celebration in nationwide television and radio addresses. In previous years the anniversary has gone unnoted.

THE WEST

The second Friday night of August 1966 in Watts was in marked contrast to the second Friday night of August 1965.

Instead of gunfire, burning and looting, there were stage productions, jazz concerts, art displays, athletic events, a beauty pageant and a parade.

The Watts Summer Festival, sponsored by the Jordan High School Alumni Association, is being held to celebrate social gains and progress made in rebuilding the once riot-torn area. It will continue through today.

A HUGE ocean oil slick —that at one time stretched from off Cherry Avenue in Long Beach to Huntington Beach—polluted water, dirtied boat hulls and gummed up beaches most of the week. First reported Sunday, the slick ebbed and flowed onshore until Thursday when it began dissipating. By Friday evening, city and county crews along the coast had cleaned most of the beaches and they were ready for the weekend crowds.

Cause of the slick is still under investigation. Speculation about the oil source included rupture of a line at an offshore drilling rig, fuel pumped overboard from a ship, rupture of a sunken ship's oil tanks, or an earthquake-caused fissure on the ocean bottom.

* * * *

DESPITE howls of protest from residents of the little community of Sunset Beach, directors of the Metropolitan Water District last week voted to build the world's largest nuclear seawater conversion plant off Bolsa Chica State Beach in Orange County.

Approval of the $357-million project was given at a meeting between Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall, Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty and the MWD board. At the meeting, Udall agreed to increase the government's share of the cost of construction.

The project calls for construction of two nuclear plants, one to be owned by Southern California Edison Co., and the other by the Los Angeles City Department of Water and Power, and a desalinization plant to be owned by MWD. They will be built on a man-made, 40-acre island about 3,500 yards offshore.

Initially, the plant is to produce 50 million gallons of drinkable water daily. By 1975, it is expected the plant will produce 150 million gallons daily and generate 1,800 megawatts of electricity — more than Hoover Dam generates.

HOW TO TAME A HURRICANE

Scientists Ready to Start Most Massive Experiment

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Weather scientists were poised Saturday for the most massive experiment ever attempted to find out whether hurricans can be tamed by upsetting the balance of forces which drive them.

The new experiment will be carried out, nature willing, as part of Project Stormfury, a joint cloud-seeding program of the Navy and the Commerce Department's Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA).

From now until Oct. 15, Stormfury scientists, aircraft, and flight crews will be on 72-hour alert to fly hurricane seeding missions in the Western Atlantic from Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico. More than 160 persons and as many as 17 airplanes are participating in the project.

The hurricane research program was started by the Navy and the Weather Bureau (now a part of ESSA) in 1961. Inconclusive seeding experiments were made with hurricanes Esther in 1961 and Beulah in 1963.

* * * *

THE YEAR BEFORE last produced no hurricanes suitable for seeding, and two 1965 attempts, with Betsy and Elena, were called off because neither storm was in the right stage of development at the right time and place.

The 1966 experiment calls for bombarding the clouds surrounding the center, or eye, of a hurricane with silver iodide crystals over an eight-hour period from altitudes ranging from 1,000 to 60,000 feet. The hope is that this new attempt — with specially equipped planes observing the results for hours before and after — will "produce more pronounced, longer-lasing effects than those in previous tests."

Scientists believe a hurricane's primary power house is situated in the cloud "chimney" at its central eye. This chimney "is the main connection between the lower inflow and the upper outflow of the storm."

Silver iodide particles poured into the chimney from bottom to top are expected to convert supercooled water in the eye-wall clouds to ice crystals with a resultant release of latent heat.

The idea is that this change in the hurricane's natural anatomy may alter its "balance of forces" enough to modify the storm in ways yet to be determined.

* * * *

FOR SAFETY reasons, Project Stormfury rules demand that any hurricane to be seeded must be situated in the Western Atlantic well north of Puerto Rico and south of Bermuda and moving in such a way that it cannot strike a populated area anywhere within 36 hours after seeding.

This is because seeding the eye-wall clouds, instead of moderating the hurricane's fury, conceivably could intensify it.

If no hurricanes suitably placed and developed for eye-wall seeding occur this year, second Stormfury priority will go to attacking hurricane rainbands — narrow, curved strips of heavy rainfall found at some distance from the hurricane eye. Silver iodide generators will be dropped in this new experiment across a section of the rainband to see what happens.

* * * *

THOUGH NO hurricanes or rainbands were seeded last year, Stormfury scientists did carry out a seeding experiment with tropical cumulus clouds like those which have been observed before the birth of a storm.

Twelve clouds were seeded and seven others, serving as experiment "controls," were left alone. For whatever it means, the seeded clouds grew vertically by an average of 7,500 feet while the control clouds were rising only 2,300 feet.

This appears to indicate that seeding has a powerful effect upon the evolution of potential storm clouds.

"The probability of this difference occurring by chance," ESSA said, "is less than one in 1,000."

$410,000 A WEEK

Demo Spy Checks Rocky's Spending

By WILL LISSNER
New York Times Service

NEW YORK—One day last week a man, keeping himself so inconspicuous that he wasn't noticed, gumshoed about the campaign headquarters of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on the 9th and 10th floors of the New York Hilton Hotel, acting like an interested Republican.

He was interested, but he wasn't a Republican.

He was a Democrat, it turned out, and according to the Republicans, a "spy," but in the parlance of the Democrats a "researcher." The results of his visit came out Saturday and immediately became the subject of debate between the contending parties.

Democratic State Chairman John J. Burns, using the results of the gumshoe research, issued a mimeographed release contending that Rockefeller's campaigners were spending $410,740 a week as follows:

New York Hilton Hotel rent	$ 14,000
Television Commercials	117,000
Salaries	52,000
Telephones	5,000
Equipment rentals	2,100
Postage	3,500
Messengers and delivery	450
Storefronts
Rent	4,600
Salaries	4,600
Equipment rental	3,500
Banners, promotional materials	4,000
Travel, entertainment, etc.	6,700
TOTAL	$ 410,745

An effort was made to check the rent with the New York Hilton management. The assistant manager, who said he was "the employe in charge," said the records were locked up and added with utter frankness, "If I had them, I wouldn't give them to you, but honest, I don't really know, myself."

The man in charge at the Rockefeller campaign headquarters, promised that his anonymity would be preserved, was more helpful.

"This is a free country and any citizen can drop up, mosey around and see what we have," he said. (When this invitation was repeated to the Democrats, they disclosed that their "researcher" had anticipated it.)

The Republican spokesman looked at some charts on his desk. "Today," he said, "we have all the rooms we're going to get. For the first time. Before we had need for all of them we saved money by letting the hotel put guests in some of them. Right in the midst of things. Why not?

"We have the entire 9th floor, 54 rooms, for the state campaign and 21 rooms on the 10th floor for the city campaign. That's 75 rooms. If we used all of them for a week and if we paid $15 a day per room, they would cost $7,875 a week."

* * * *

THE REPUBLICAN spokesman said he didn't know what rental figure was settled on but he did know that the campaign committee negotiated to get the cheapest rate and was seeking the convention discount, another discount as office space with no maid service and still another discount for a block rental.

At the Democratic state committee the $14,000 figure was explained. Their man counted 80 rooms X $25 a day X 7 days a week equals $14,000. Asked what he thought about this arithmetic, the anonymous Republican replied, "That's hilarious."

The Rockefeller aide said that $52,000 a week might be a "terrific underestimate" for salaries if everybody was paid "but it happens that half the people who work here, nearly two-thirds, in fact, are unpaid volunteers."

"The other figures are ridiculous," the Republican said.

Invisible Enemy

LONDON (UPI) — An attempt to ban Hubert Selby's novel, "Last Exit to Brooklyn," branded as "filthy and disgusting" by a group of conservative Members of Parliament, was in difficulties Saturday.

Police could not find a copy of the book to produce in court.

Beatniks Block Tots

PARIS (UPI)—Mothers living in the Latin Quarter, traditional rendezvous for the arty set, have complained to police that beatniks are taking over children's playgrounds there, the Parisian Libere reported Saturday.

College to Probe Saucers

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — In obvious response to public disquiet regarding recent "flying saucer" episodes, the Air Force is organizing a new approach to the problem.

It is seeking to contract with a leading university to undertake a program of intensive investigations of a certain number of such episodes.

The identity of the university will not be made public until the arrangement is final, but Air Force sources say it is an institution of sufficient stature to guarantee in the public mind an impartial inquiry.

Investigation teams are to include at least one physical scientist, such as an astronomer or someone familiar with atmospheric physics. There will also be a psychologist, preferably one with clinical experience.

* * * *

THIS MARKS a departure from past Air Force policy. It has not taken very seriously the thousands of reports of "unidentified flying objects" or UFOs that have come in during the past two decades.

The investigations have been termed "project blue book" because the results are reported in such books. The attitude of the Air Force toward the problem is reflected in the fact that the project staff has consisted of one officer, one sergeant and a secretary.

The blue book analyses of 10,147 sightings from 1947 to the start of this year furnished a conventional explanation for all but 646 of them. The remainder were classed as unidentifiable for lack of adequate information.

The explanations have ranged from weather balloons to swamp gas. The latter was cited to explain strange glowing lights reported at two points in Michigan last March.

More Pleasure Boat Moorings Needed in Area

THIS PROPOSED MARINA ON PIER J IN THE PORT OF LONG BEACH WOULD HELP MEET SHORTAGE OF MOORINGS FOR PRIVATE BOATS. THE PROPOSED NEW BRIDGE IS SEEN NEAR THE TOP

By JACK O. BALDWIN

The demand for outdoor recreational facilities in the Los Angeles megalopolis is currently growing at a rate greater than the population — and the population is growing at a rate that will see it nearly double by 1980.

Surveys conducted by the state and area Chambers of Commerce indicate the demand for free-time recreational facilities is expected to increase at a rate 1.37 times that of the population of the area encompasing Long Beach, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, and Ontario.

It is anticipated that this demand for outdoor recreational facilities and activities will rise from 847.9 million participation days to 1,671.8 million participation days by 1980—an increase of 98.5%.

MUCH OF THIS future free time will be spent on the water.

And much of it will be spent on the waters off Long Beach.

The demand for mooring for pleasure boats in this area is far greater than the municipally-owned and private marinas can provide.

In an effort to offer marina facilities for the skiing, sailing, and power boat owners of the area, the city of Long Beach is acting to alleviate the present shortage of moorings and to help meet the demands of the future.

The city will send two representatives on a "sales call" to five of the country's largest companies.

All five companies have expressed a definite interest in developing a proposed marina on the eastern face of Pier J in Long Beach Harbor.

IN ADDITION to the marina the companies are interested also in developing Pier J as a site for modern motels, high-rise hotels, and fashionable restaurants.

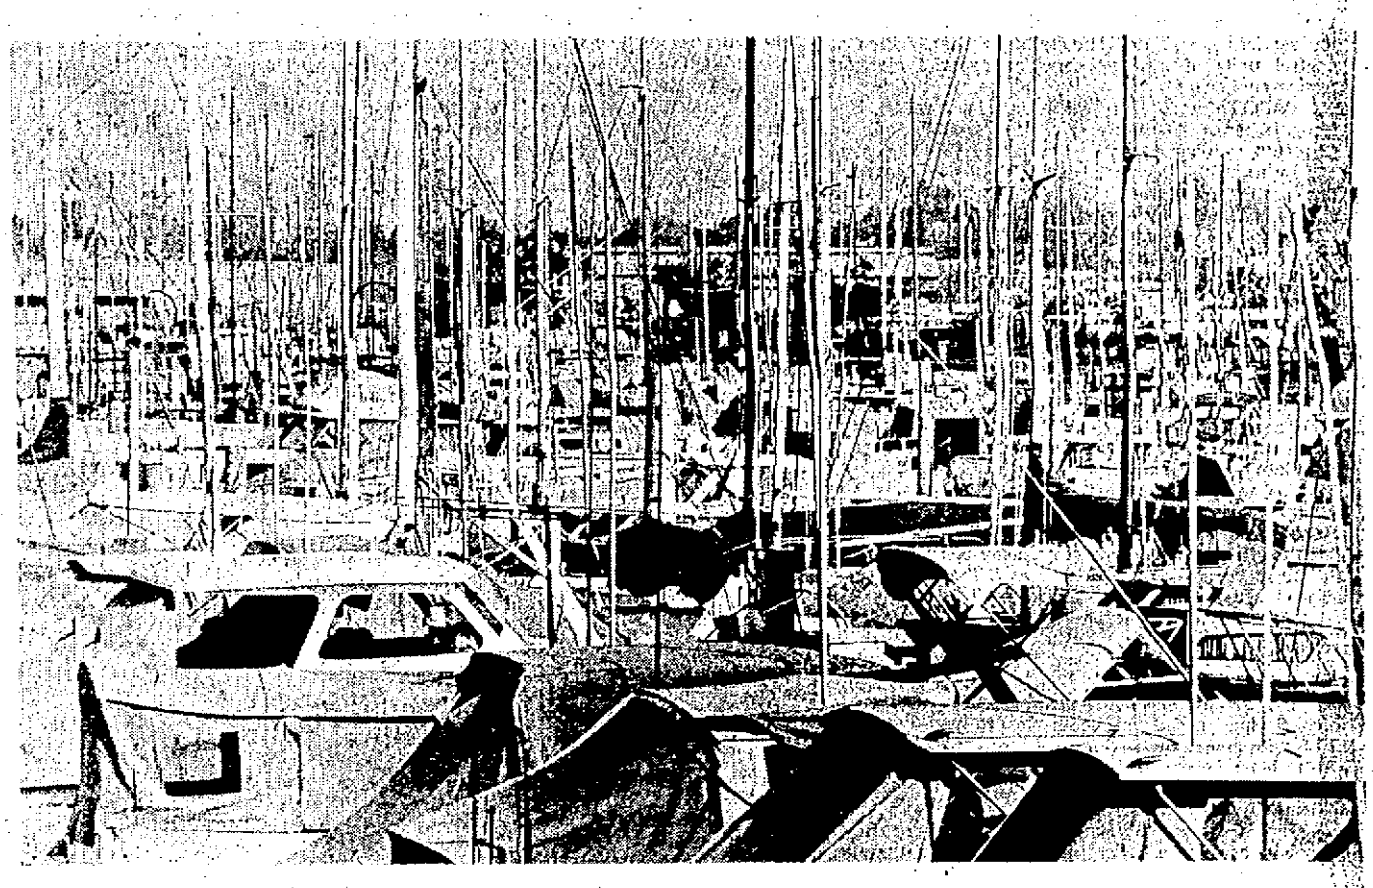

Scheduled to leave are H. E. (Bud) Ridings, Jr., president of the Long Beach Harbor Board of Commissioners, and Harry Fulton, special assistant to the city manager.

The two "salesmen" will be armed with a portfolio of photos of models showing the proposed development of Pier J and the adjacent marina.

THE PORTFOLIO CONTAINS only suggestions for the development of the area—not definite specifications. Several alternate plans are suggested.

The actual manner in which the area would be developed would be left to the discretion of the company that wins the right to develop the Pier J complex. Any plans, however, would be subject to approval by city and harbor officials.

Education, Recreation Important Factors When Buying New Home

"Homes should hold appeal for each member of the family," says Irving Solomon, principal of S.I.R. Development Co., builders of Brookhurst, a $6 million development of garden patio homes on a 39-acre site on Brookhurst Ave. between Ball and Cerritos Roads in Anaheim.

"Location is a very important factor in choosing a family home," adds Solomon, "and people with growing families are looking for a community which will provide nearby educational and recreational facilities.

"Additional considerations are churches, shopping centers and dental-medical facilities."

"AT BROOKHURST, parents have far less worries about their children walking to school or playing after school, as the development is adjacent to West Anaheim City Park. It is within a block of a church, grade school, junior high and high school."

These homes are within a short distance of Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm, Movieland Wax Museum, the California Angels Stadium and the seashore, as well as all municipal services.

"Another important factor," Solomon says, "is living space. Families need elbow room and privacy, and it is provided here with up to 2,447 sq. ft. of living space in each home."

PRICED FROM $35,500 to $39,450, Brookhurst homes were designed to take advantage of the Southern California way of living.

Patio kitchens are sophisticated and pleasant diversions in home decor which allow the family an attractive outdoor setting to have a barbecue or party.

"Since people are by nature social beings," Solomon said, "we have provided comfortable and attractive interiors for home entertainment with dramatic fireplaces and expansive glass windows.

"We used the most modern appliances available to make the kitchen decorative and carefree for the homemaker. Countertop blenders, built-in ovens, ranges, dishwashers, garbage disposals, custom cabinets and a spacious polished serving bar and views of the patio, make kitchens at Brookhurst a pleasant room for culinary chores."

Sharp Drop in Oil Drilling Over U. S.

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

A decided slump in oil drilling is noted over the nation except in tidelands areas such as offshore here in the Long Beach area.

Lack of prospects, rising costs and the low price of crude outweigh firm prices, higher allowables and discovery incentives in the minds of oilmen, says the Oil and Gas Journal.

However, there are some other reasons. The low and slow rate of return on drilling is not as attractive to oilmen now as are some other types of investments. And, there is a slowdown in outside investment.

The nature of modern drilling also is a big factor. Today's wider spacing and improved recovery techniques require fewer wells. The stepped-up search for gas is hurting. You can develop a gas field on 640-acre spacing while oil takes up to 160 acres of spacing.

THE TREMENDOUS offshore lease prices undoubtedly have drained off money that would have drilled more wells ashore. Foreign operations continue to cut into funds that could have gone into lower-cost domestic operations.

The first half of 1966 saw completions drop 14.7% from a year ago and footage fell 16.5%.

Independent oilmen aren't so active this year. In 1965 the independents drilled 80.6% of all completions and 21 of the largest oil companies drilled 19.4%. The first half of this year independent drilling skidded 17%.

Perhaps the number of wells drilled isn't too good a barometer because about the same amount of money has been spent on drilling the deeper wells this year, although fewer in number.

INDEPENDENTS ARE HARD HIT. Oil is becoming more difficult to find, calling for deep and costly wells and extensive seismic operations. Few independents can compete in this play. Instead they are exploring fringe areas of proven fields so the possibilities of finding big reserves are diminished considerably.

In the big development of Long Beach tidelands oil, now under way, five of the major producers joined under the name THUMS to launch the project. So what chance would the little guy have in today's major development?

UTILIZING THE CHEAP LABOR in the Orient, a Costa Mesa firm is providing American manufacturers of electronic equipment with a unique method of lowering costs.

Pacific Assemblers Co., 1780 Monrovia Ave., Costa Mesa reports they now are serving over 20 large companies across the nation with this service. Examples of the services are printed circuits, assemblies, switch and control units of memory cores and special electronic testing equipment.

PASCO's production facilities are in Kowloon, Hong Kong. Charles Woodward, president, who lives in San Clemente, says the advantages of using PASCO are many.

By using the low cost labor in the Hong Kong plant the cost of assembly of parts made in the U.S. and the testing is reduced by one-half or more, compared to the similar operations at home. Woodward adds that the Hong Kong labor force is well trained.

This program, he continues, reduces management and overhead costs. The units are returned to PASCO's plant where they undergo final inspection before delivery.

"MORE INFLATION is what we can expect from the bill reported out of the Senate Banking Committee which authorizes the Federal National Mortgage Association to borrow three billion dollars from the U.S. Treasury to pump into home loans.

This was the statement of Joe Crail, president of Coast Federal Savings and Loan Association, in sharply criticizing the pending legislation. Crail further stated that the effects on the general economy of such a measure would be just as inflationary as if the Federal government added three billion dollars to its spending.

"This bill appears even more unnecessary and of little benefit to home buyers when we consider what the Federal Home Loan Bank Board is currently attempting to do," Crail said.

"The FHLBB is using its considerable influence to force Savings and Loan companies to pay back the FHLB with money the Savings and Loans would normally loan to home buyers. This action by the FHLB would reduce the amount of money Coast Federal has to lend on homes by 50%," Crail continued.

"Those Savings and Loan companies which are strong financially because of their prudent policies are supposed to pay money to the FHLB so that the FHLB can redistribute the money to the weaker associations that need it because they have not been financially prudent."

Crail continued, "Adding to the conflicting programs we are hearing out of Washington is another plan by the FNMA to sell $4.2 billion worth of mortgages on the market this year. This will siphon off savings money from the economy which would normally have gone into Savings and Loan companies to make loans.

"The FNMA is offering these participations at rates from 5.3% to 5.7%. The Savings and Loan industry now finds itself in competition with our own government for savings. These funds which the government is siphoning off the savings market would have been more prudently invested in mortgages by the Savings and Loan companies than they will be by a government agency," he said.

"The only solution to the tight money situation in some Savings and Loans which would be consistent with our free enterprise economy is to allow the Savings and Loans who can afford it to pay a high enough rate to attract money out of consumer spending into savings accounts."

* * * *

"A STRONG SOURCE of home loan funds is available in this area," according to Taylor Richardson, chief loan officer of Home Savings and Loan's Lakewood branch, 4909 Lakewood Blvd.

In a firm denial of the recent gloomy reports circulating about the lack of real estate lending funds, Richardson continued, "I can't speak for the entire savings and loan industry, but I can tell you that at Home Savings our lending volume reached an all-time high of $173 million in the past six months!"

In the Lakewood office, Home's second quarter 1966 loan volume jumped 17% over the first quarter. The Lakewood office is Home's lending headquarters for Lakewood, Long Beach and surrounding communities.

Home plans to continue to build its thriving real estate lending activities in this area, and does not anticipate major changes in restrictions or loan interest rates for prospective borrowers.

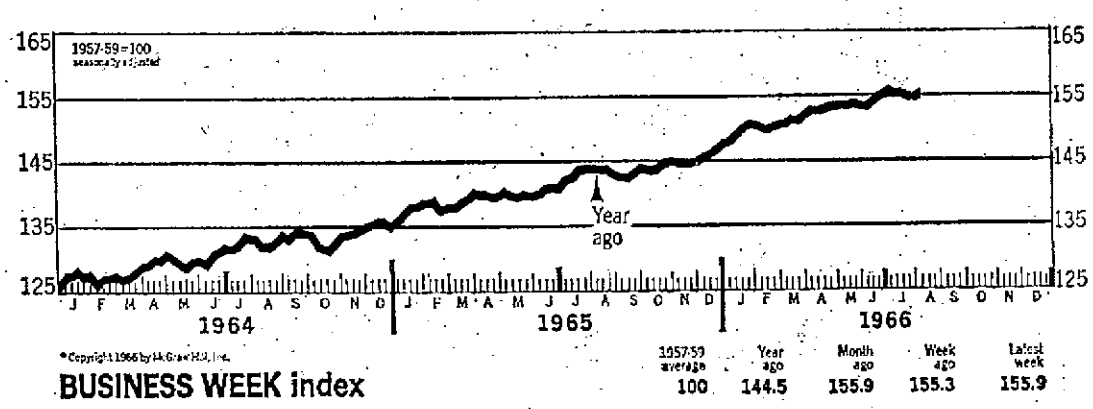

* * * *

"THE ONLY MAJOR CHANGE Home's made in interest rates is in what the association pays on savings," said Richardson.

In June Home announced that the association's savers would earn 5¼% on regular savings and 5¾% on "bonus" accounts, effective July 1. In its announcement Home's management said the boost in savings rate was made to assure Home a continuing healthy source of saving dollars, which in turn could be invested in prime real estate loans.

"Home will continue making good loans in this area in future months because July did bring the association a sizeable increase in new funds," concludes Richardson.

BUSINESS WEEK index

1957-59 average	Year ago	Month ago	Week ago	Latest week
100	144.5	155.9	155.3	155.9

Autos Only Index Weak Point

The Index may be ending its mid-summer doldrums. Nearly all of the weekly components turned upward in the latest figrues, and the Index turned up with them—to a point equalling its record peak of three weeks ago.

Autos remain the only weak point. And, since this week marks the end of the 1966 model run, the chart should soon reflect the surge into production of the 1967's. Weekly auto output figures are meaningless now as a business indicator; the important point is that the domestic auto-makers ended their 1966 season only 2.7% below the all-time record of 1965.

The steel figures came to life this week, after a six-week decline. Production was 1.7% ahead of last week—but is still a bit behind for the year as a whole.

The energy industries are also forging ahead. Electric power for the most recent week was 1.5% above the previous week, and 12.9% ahead of the corresponding week in 1965. And crude oil refiners ran 2.9% ahead of last week and 3.5% above a year ago.

Finally, the surface transportation components in the Index—railroad carloadings and intercity truck tonnage—reflected a rise in shipments both domestically and in Viet Nam goods, and also were obviously absorbing some of the load from the prolonged airline strike.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Trade Tips ON THE WORLD MARKET

There's a chance for a U.S. businessman to make money on a lottery—and he needn't even buy a ticket.

The opportunity involves a project of the Ministry of Commerce of the Government of Greece, which is shopping in the United States for 10,000 reams of white bank post paper for lottery tickets.

American manufacturers could cash in on this one—and on hundreds of other opportunities to sell their products around the world. A German firm wants hospital furnishings.

Because export sales mean added profits for U. S. businessmen, the Department of Commerce each week publishes a series of Trade Tips gathered by the government's worldwide commercial listening posts. Here is a current sampling with names and addresses:

BELGIUM—Wines, apertifs and other spirits. Direct purchase and agency. Maison J. P. Moreels, S.P.R.L., 1 Avenue de la Toison d'Or, Bruxelles 15.

HONG KONG—Nail enamels and lipsticks. Grand Co., 703 Shaw's Bldg., Nathan Road, Kowloon, Hong Kong.

To Expand Output of Aluminum

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Reynolds Metals Co., announced expansion of two major aluminum reduction plants in the Pacific Northwest.

The expansions, involving the plants at Troutdale, Ore., and Longview, Wash., will make up part of a four-year, $325 million nationwide growth program announced by Reynolds Feb. 24.

A company spokesman here declined to estimate the specific coasts of the new Troutdale and Longview operations, but said one reduction potline would be added to the Troutdale plant and three to the Longview plant.

Each potline will increase the plant's capacity by 40,000 tons a year.

GROUND-BREAKING THAT DIFFERS

Instead of using the customary shovels to break ground for start of construction, participants launching the new $250,000 American Savings & Loan Association building in Lakewood Center pulled huge tumbleweeds. Sure enough, the roots turned the turf. From left are Vice Mayor George Nye of Lakewood; S. Mark Taper, American Savings president, and Bob McInnis, Lakewood branch manager. The building will be near Clark Avenue and Del Amo Boulevard. Bullocks' store is in the background.

DRY CEREAL BOOM

Egg Industry Scrambling to Stay No. 1 at Breakfast

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Eggs are losing their traditional place on the breakfast table because of improvements made recently in the taste and convenience of dry cereals.

The California State Department of Agriculture warned in a report issued during the week that egg producers will have to do something to improve on the egg package they get from the chicken.

"Research into the alternate uses of eggs and egg products should be supported by all industry members," the report said. "The industry is just beginning to scratch the surface in its discovery of new uses for eggs."

But, the report added, "research is not enough. Egg producers must complement their interest in production efficiency with a more active interest in marketing."

THE REPORT, prepared by Kenneth R. Jones, said total sales of eggs have increased steadily because of population growth, but per capita consumption has declined 22% since 1951.

In addition to breakfast foods, the egg business is threatened by increasing use of convenience foods, like prepackaged mixes, which use fewer eggs than the same type of food prepared from scratch at home.

"The trend toward the substitution of convenience foods for eggs is not expected to level off," the report said. "Without sufficient promotional and educational activities, the egg industry can expect further and continuing inroads by the convenience food industry."

Last year, the gross return to egg producers was $201 million, making eggs the fourth most important cash crop in the state. But 24% of the eggs produced were classed as surplus and the glut forced prices to fall to levels at which only the most efficient units can make a profit, the report stated.

Loading of the second largest shipment of iron ore ever shipped from the United States continued, while on the deck Long Beach city and harbor officials presented plaque to captain of the massive ore carrier Australia Maru commemorating the vessel's maiden voyage which brought her into the local port. Vessel has single hold for carrying iron ore and pellets.

The massive sea-going ore Carrier MV Australia Maru the past week loaded 75,732 tons of iron ore, second largest shipment of ore to leave the United States, during the vessel's maiden voyage to the Port of Long Beach.

The super ore carrier was built from keel to launching in five months in the Tokyo Shipyard of Ishikawajima-Harima Heavy Industries Co. She was turned over to her owners, the First Central Shipping Co., on July 25.

The 777-foot vessel is under charter to Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha. She has a beam of 115 feet and draws 40 feet of water.

* * * *

SHE HAS A service speed of 15 knots and features one single center hold with six hatches.

Local agent for the vessel is General Steamship Corporation.

The load taken on by the Australia Maru helped push the volume of iron ore moving through the Port of Long Beach bound for Japan toward a record of more than two million tons this year.

PORTS O' PROGRESS

New Type Report Won't Prove Dull

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

It is next to impossible to find anything that makes for duller reading than an annual report.

Realizing this, H. E. (Bud) Ridings, Jr., president of the Long Beach Board of Harbor Commissioners plans to liven up this year's report to the City Council and public.

On Wednesday Aug. 17th the public is invited to join with the Council in "witnessing" the presentation of the Harbor Department's annual report at 4 p.m. in the board meeting room in the Harbor Department Building.

Ridings will have various department heads use visual aids, charts, maps, photographs and graphs to report on the past 12 months activities of the port's busy year.

"We think this method will take the dullness out of the annual report and should prove interesting to the general public as well as city officials," claims Ridings.

FIFTY FOREIGN COUNTRIES using the facilities of the Port of Los Angeles will be represented during the Foreign Consular Annual Dinner to be staged by the city and port on August 26th.

More than 66 consul generals, consuls, or traded representatives will attend the black-tie affair.

The affair is staged annually as part of the port's trade promotion program to bring the foreign trade officials up to date on harbor developments.

Following a reception the guests will be taken on two half-hour tours of the harbor then back to the Ports O' Call restaurant for dinner.

A STRANGE NEW SITE on the waters of Long Beach Harbor is the 100-foot, stern-wheel, river boat—The Mansion Belle.

The sight-seeking and party-catering boat was put into regular service Wednesday by Capt. J. E. (Mac) McClintock of Pierpoint Landing.

The boat is designed after river boats of the 1890 era but was actually built in 1942 for use on the Sacramento river.

She will follow an hourly afternoon schedule for harbor sightseeing trips. The unusual craft will be available for charter for private parties in the evenings.

AUSTRALIAN VISITOR

Newly-appointed Australian Trade Commissioner Michael J. Long (center) paid first official visit to Los Angeles Harbor to view facilities and confer with port officials on trade between U. S. and Australia. Harbor Board vice president, Karl L. Rundberg (left), and Commissioner Lynn G. Peterson (right) hosted harbor tour.

Fashion Homes Offers Vet Loan Information

ATTRACTIVE MERVIN JOHNSON HOME . . . Among Fashion Models

"Veterans Loan Eligibility Information," an up-to-date booklet on VA and Cal Vet loans, has been prepared by the developers of Fashion Homes and is now available without charge at all Orange County locations of the Mervin Johnson homes.

Details include: Who is entitled to VA (GI) loans, varying expiration dates of the loans, reinstating of eligibility, down payments and income requirements under the VA program. "To my knowledge," the developer said, "this is the first time information of this type has been published and offered in this manner through a new home sales office."

"We began to realize the confusion over different veterans requirements after helping a number of veterans with loans on new homes when they thought they were no longer eligible," Johnson stated. "There are undobutedly many veterans and their families putting up with homes they have outgrown when they could qualify for a VA or Cal Vet loan on a new home. In this booklet we have attempted to explain the different requirements in simple terms and feel that it will benefit a great many people and broaden the market in new home sales."

THE DEVELOPER pointed out that as an example, the veterans can qualify for 5¾% VA loans up to $37,500 with no down payment on a new Fashion Hills home in Anaheim. FHA 5¾% and conventional financing are also available. Other Fashion Homes locations where the VA booklet may be obtained are: Fashion Shores in Huntington Beach, Fashion Valley in Fountain Valley and Mediterrania in Palos Verdes.

Another important facet of the service to veterans is the "trade program." Information on this is available through Ellis Schrader, exclusive Fashion Homes sales agent in Orange County.

Spectacular Use of Tile Brings Award to Builder

Abundant use of ceramic tile adds to the luxury and charm of one of the Southern California area's most spectacular home developments, the new Mediterrania community of Mervin B. Johnson on Palos Verdes Peninsula.

Outstanding uses of ceramic tile in kitchens, bathrooms, entry walls and fireplaces earned quality craftsmanship awards recently for the building team from the Ceramic Tile Institute.

Receiving awards for best use of ceramic tile on multiple dwellings in Southern California for their work on the Mediterrania homes were building design firm Frank Gonzales and Associates; decorator Virginia Baker; builder Southwest Contractors; and tile contractor Master Tilers. Master Tilers' setter and helper crews also received coveted gold plaques.

* * * *

THIS IS an impressive and dramatic showcase for ceramic tile because here it is used in fresh new ways and with superb taste and skill typical of the excellence of homes built by Johnson's Southwest Contractors, Inc., of Fullerton, said a spokesman for the institute.

Mediterrania homes are lavishly beautiful with magnificent views of the Pacific Ocean looking toward Catalina Island.

The Mosaic Tile Co. supplied most of the ceramic tile products used in the Mediterrania homes.

In the kitchens, tilers installed a 6" x 6" glazed wall tile. Each kitchen features a unique blend of decorative and matching color tiles.

* * * *

MASTER BATHROOMS are highlighted with the Roman tub and showers in unglazed ceramic mosaics. Different random color patterns were used to blend with the decor of the home.

In the other bathrooms, tub splashes and showers are faced with glazed wall tile.

Entry ways shine with the freshness of tile. Some are surfaced with a textured surface idea for many uses; many feature 6" x 6" quarry tile.

Complementing the tile entries is either the ceramic tile fireplace - hearth combination or hearth alone, finished in quarry tile or Travertine marble.

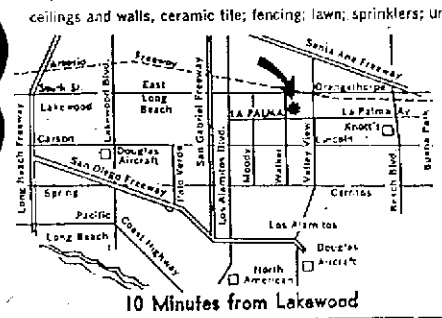

TILED ROMAN BATH

Sunken Roman tubs and showers, looking out onto gardens, add a luxury element to Mediterranean homes, winner of the outstanding multiple dwelling project featuring ceramic tile in Southern California.

Suit to Resist Toxic Chemicals Perfected in Los Alamitos Plant

A new, fully enclosed suit to protect men against hazardous environments containing toxic chemicals or microbiological agents, has been developed by Arrowhead Products Division of Federal-Mogul Corporation, in the plant at 4411 Katella Ave., Los Alamitos.

Engineering testing has been completed and Arrowhead has received a contract to produce 16 of the suits for the Naval Explosive Ordnance Disposal Facility at Indian Head, Md. Applications for the ensembles include EOD, decontamination and technical escort work, chemical munitions handling, rocket fueling, chemical and biological agent handling.

* * * *

THE SYSTEM comprises a basic "man package" that can be connected to a broad range of environmental control equipment, electronic detection and communication equipment to protect personnel operating in toxic and hazardous environments.

Impermeable and chemically resistant materials are formed into a coverall with boots, gloves and helmet. The components may be detachable or bonded to the coverall. All joints, closures and connections to the suit have been carefully designed and tested to prevent leakage.

Extensive permeability testing procedures have been developed for detecting contaminants inside the suit in concentrations of 1 part per billion parts air.

* * * *

THE MODULAR concept of the ensemble allows breathing air and ventilation to be supplied by alternate systems. These include a cryogenic back pack, hand or vehicle carried cryogenic units; compressed air, compressed air with a vortex tube, ambient air through a fan and filter system, and a two gas system for breathing and cooling on a closed loop or demand basis.

The externally mounted pack shown in accompanying photo uses liquid air and provides a completely self-contained atmosphere. It is light in weight and allows the wearer to move through an opening as small as 26 inches in diameter. The pack is designed to be changed in a hazardous environment without contaminating the suit interior or the pack. Inside the suit is an arterial system for distributing air throughout the suit. Valves, regulators and absorbers control pressure, flow and CO_2 content. Humidity and temperatures are also regulated.

The program represents an important step in the development of ventilated mobile protective systems for extremely hazardous environments.

Water-Soluble Plastic Packets Now Available

NEW YORK (UPI) — New plastic packaging techniques, using materials that dissolve in water, automatically releasing the contents, are coming in for a wide variety of uses, trade sources report.

One of the most extensive is by hospitals, which use the material in the form of plastic laundry bags that can be sealed after filling and placed into the washing units, according to Baldwin-Montrose Chemical Co., a leading manufacturer of plastic. Immediate sealing of these bags prevents spread of germs from the soiled linen.

Among other products being packaged with the new plastics are liquid bleaches and dyes.

Good Investment

The cost of insulating a home can be returned within three to five years because of the saving in fuel bills, say insulating experts at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division.

Launch 'Moneywise' Program for Area

A special program designed to help families in low-income areas to become "wise consumers" and to train leaders to advise residents on money matters, will be launched starting Monday in the greater Los Angeles area. The four-week program was developed and conducted by the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions under a grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Classes will be held eight hours, five days a week in the new Federal Building, 300 N. Los Angeles St., Los Angeles.

Those selected for the training were chosen after many interviews were conducted in Los Angeles, Long Beach, Santa Ana, Pacoima and other areas.

* * * *

SIMILAR PROGRAMS have been carried out in the East with great success, a spokesman for the Federal Credit Unions declared.

Four broad areas are to be covered. First will be consumer action with emphasis on community programs, problems of consumers, marketing and shopping weaknesses.

Family financial counseling will be stressed with emphasis on defining what it is and how to do it.

The third phase will be on federal credit union operations and management.

Development of leadership including the significance of indigenous leadership and the recognition of good leadership traits is another part of the program.

* * * *

THROUGH THIS training the credit union officials will be better equipped to help their low-income members make the best use of the limited funds available to them, the spokesman said.

The credit unions not only provide members with finances but instill a spirit of thrift.

The first two sessions of the four-week schooling will be called Project Moneywise to teach participants to break the chains binding the consumer to the unethical marketplace, the credit union leaders said.

Stardust Park Holding Summer Trade-In Fair

An old-fashioned summer fair with new home ownership ideas brought over 300 visitors to Stardust Park in La Palma, reports W. Dean Hanson, vice-president of marketing for the Robert H. Grant Co.

To assist new buyers, a booth with trade-in fair material was staffed by Grant resale advisor, Alan Tyree Alford. He explained the firm's new program which guarantees the sale of the buyer's former residence in as little time as 72 hours.

The Fair continues today with balloons, refreshments and clowns to entertain families visiting the development.

* * * *

STARDUST PARK is located at Orangethorpe and Carmenita on the boundary between Los Angeles and Orange counties — one quarter mile south of the Santa Ana Freeway and within three miles of the new San Gabriel River freeway which links the community to the San Diego Freeway.

The walled community features one and two-story models with a dramatic quad-level design. The homes are priced from $24,950 to $34,950 with 5¾% interest loans for as long as 30 years.

Three to five-bedroom models feature hardwood floors, concrete driveways, terrazzo tile entries, walled front and rear patios, sun-lite kitchens and include three-car garages.

Stardust Park is reached by driving south on the Santa Ana freeway to the Carmenita Road offramp and following Carmenita to the model site.

Griffith Is New Prexy

John E. Griffith, manager, Long Beach Agency of Prudential Insurance Co., was elected president of the Long Beach General Agents and Managers Association.

Orville A. Rundle (New York Life) was elected vice-president and Ronald A. Smith (Equitable Life Assurance Society) was elected secretary-treasurer.

Serving on the board are George McKeehan (Aetna Life) immediate past president; Donald M. Tippett, CLU, (Massachusetts Mutual); and Joseph W. Dougherty (National Life & Accident).

In his acceptance Griffith stated "the importance of serious consideration of the changes in the life insurance industry, makes the purpose of our association more significant."

Won't Hike Interest Rate

Executives of the Jaymarc Co., developers of Rossmoor Townhouses, adjacent to the Rossmoor Shopping and Business Center, said that purchasers of these homes would definitely not be subject to "excalator clauses" on their mortgages.

Due to the extremely tight money market of recent months, a number of savings and loan associations have included such clauses in their loan agreements which gives them the right to increase the rate of interest even after a loan has been made. "Nothing of this kind can happen on any of our loans," said William Ballon of Jaymarc Co. "Our current low 6% mortgage rate to buyers cannot be changed at any time. Furthermore," he said, "the 6% rate would remain in effect despite the prevailing 7% rate in the housing industry."

Business directories prepared by the Lomita Chamber of Commerce have been mailed to 8,000 residents of the city.

Information on the 350 Lomita businesses was obtained from actual canvass by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

In addition to business listings, the directory notes important telephone numbers to be remembered, local churches, service clubs and organizations and schools, information on city government in Lomita, and an updated street map of the community.

Nortronics Receives $10 Million Contract

Award was made by Lockheed Missiles and Space Co. of Sunnyvale, Poseidon project prime contractor.

Sales and Information Center Helps Westhaven Home Buyers

TILE SNACK COUNTER . . . Sets Off Convenient Kitchen

Westhaven, Shields Development Co.'s new community of homes in Westminster-Fountain Valley area, is selling new homes from an interesting sales-information center housed in a Mediterranean-style building on Brookhurst Street between McFadden and Edinger Avenues. The striking building will become part of a professional center to be built later in the same style of architecture, according to developer Larry Shields.

Westhaven's 1450 to 2650 square foot homes sell for $26,950 to $34,500 through exclusive sales agent Frank McFarland. Four furnished and decorated model homes are on display in the model complex. One and two story plans are available with sunken living rooms, three car garages, family rooms and new patio kitchens with serve-through bars to outdoor patios.

* * * *

EXTERIOR STYLINGS range from Ranch to Spanish to contemporary and Mediterranean. All utilities have been placed underground.

The new community will occupy 200 acres when fully developed and will have a park, several schools, shopping and business center.

Westhaven reflects experience gained by Larry Shields building thousands of homes in Southern California as one of the pioneer developers in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Westhaven's proximity to the Garden Grove-San Diego Freeway and Hwy. 39 (Beach Boulevard) makes it an easy commute to Long Beach, Los Angeles and all of the major population centers and trading areas of Los Angeles and Orange Counties, McFarland points out.

Achievement Book Entry Is Prepared

Bob Prigmore, president of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors, announced that the board will again enter an achievement book in the annual competition of the California Real Estate Association.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, chairman of the achievement book committee, assisted by Rosemary Cleek, Claire Dingman, Juanita Klemp, Marion Jones, Pat Scott and Ellen Trombley are busy assembling the 57-page book covering activities of the Board from Sept. 1st, 1965 to Aug. 30th.

Achievement books entered by the Bellflower District board have been consistent winners in the past years. In 1955 it was awarded the "Queen of Victory" award for the best book from boards with 100 or less Realtor members and again garnered this trophy in 1956, 1960, 1962, 1963 and 1964.

The coveted "Winged Victory" trophy for the best book in the state, regardless of size of the board, was won by the local board in 1957 and 1958. In 1965 the book received the award for the best entry is the category of "State and National Participation." Books must be delivered to the San Francisco Realty Board office by the end of August and awards will be made at the annual Convention of the California Real Estate Association at San Francisco, Oct. 26.

'LADIES' GET ONE-WAY RIDE

No Return Trip for These Air Patrons

Some western Air Lines passenger flown to points all around the nation and even to Mexico recently are going to be on their own in trying to get back home to Sacramento. And, the air line strike has nothing to do with it.

These patrons, 720,000,000, smartly dressed in orange jackets with black polka dots, were lady bugs!

They were sent to eat up harmful bugs that are destroying crops. In some areas it is a feast for the little insects. When they are finished eating, they'll return home by themselves—flying all the way back to the Sierra Nevadas in Northern California. That's where they are from. That's where the California Bug Co., of Marysville, collect them each year.

* * * *

LITTLE "LADIES" are packed in gallon containers (some 80,000 per gallon) and shipped air cargo to cotton, alfalfa, corn, wheat and flower growers who release them in the fields. When they are all through eating up "bad" bugs, the "good" lady bugs will head for home, sometime in the Fall.

Once back home, they hibernate for the Winter, then raise youngsters in the Spring, which, if they're lucky, will also get to ride on one of Western's Fanjet planes.

The homes offer square footages ranging up to 2,320. Plans include three to five bedrooms with up to three baths.

Hartford Square also includes the unique Hartford Room which is a large unfinished bonus room. It ranges up to 496 square feet.

Furnished models are on Walker Street just south of Orangethorpe and west of Valley View in the city of La Palma.

THERE WILL NEVER BE A BETTER TIME

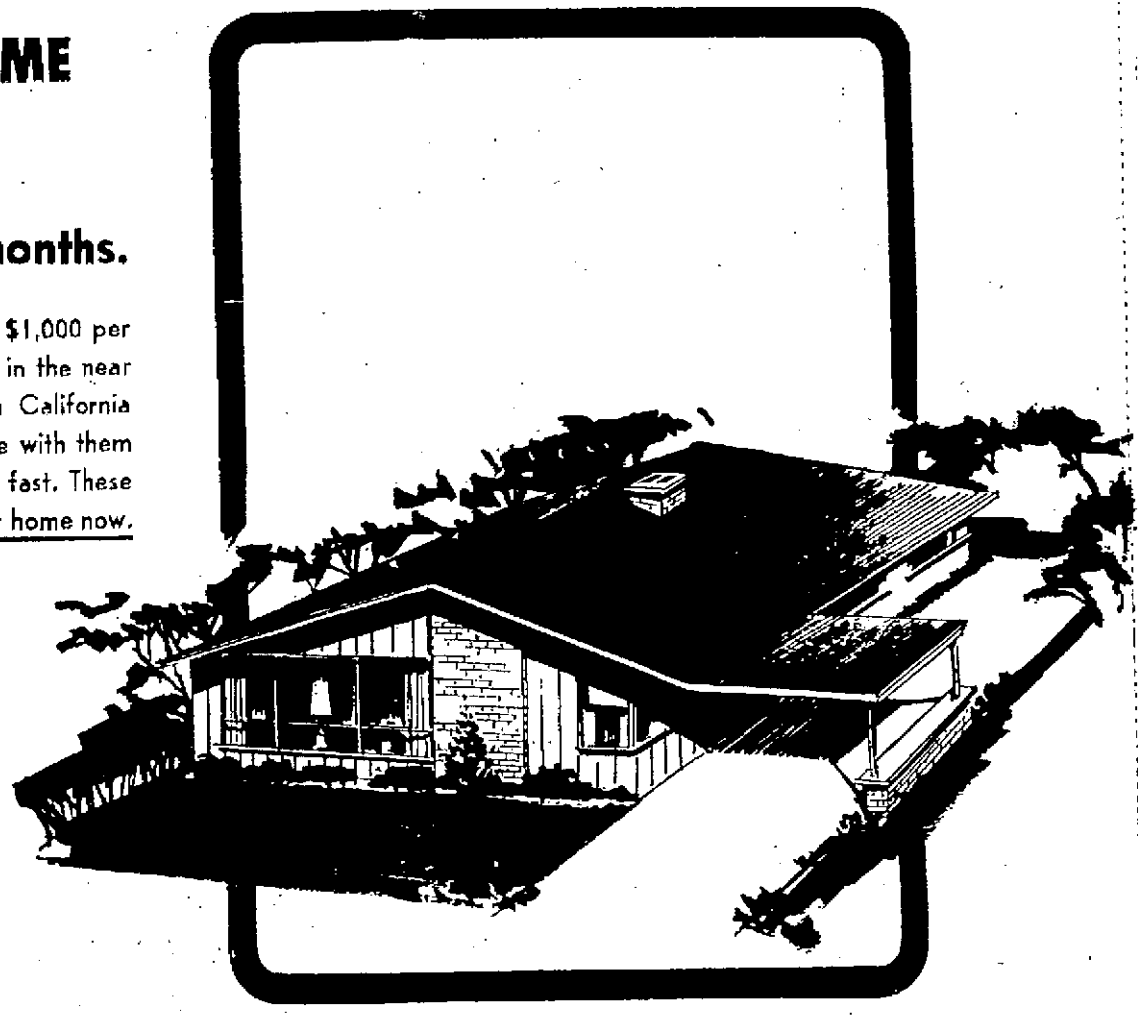

TO BUY A HOME

You will pay a lot more in just a few months.

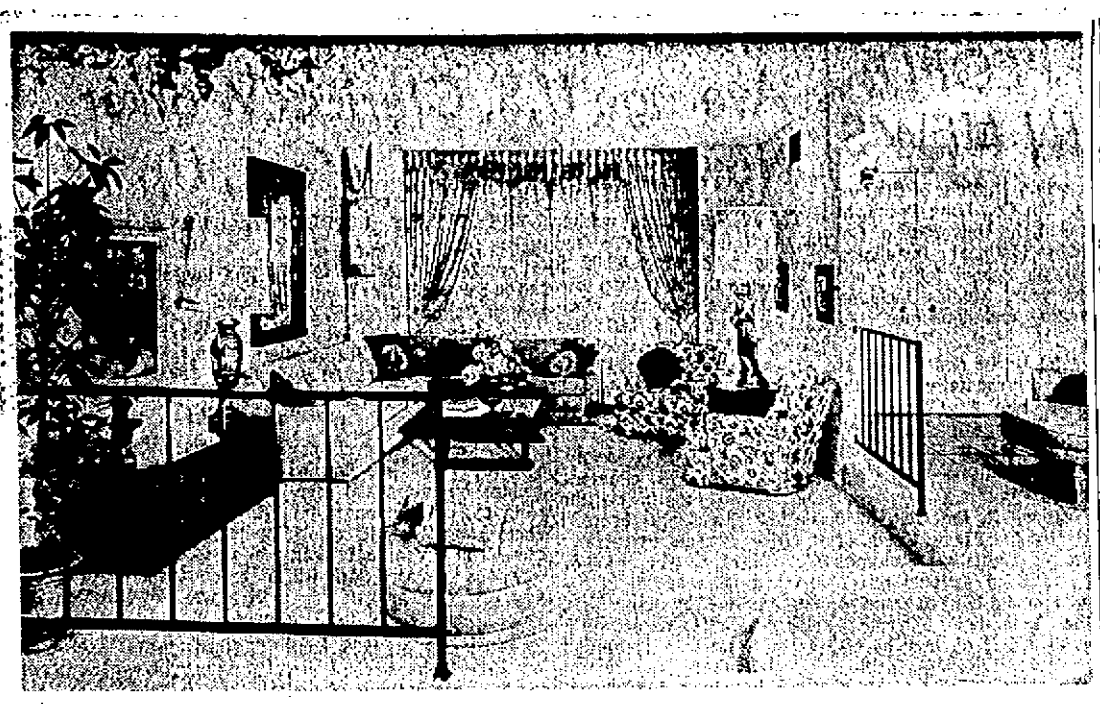

It is estimated that increasing labor and materials costs are adding about $1,000 per year to the price of a $20,000 house. And costs are sure to increase faster in the near future. Thousands of families from other areas are coming to Southern California every month. They are looking for places to live and you have to compete with them in increasing numbers. And available land for building homes is shrinking fast. These things plus increasing interest rates points to one conclusion . . . buy that home now. The longer you wait, the more you will pay.

And remember. A house is a good hedge against inflation. The house you own can only increase in value as other prices go up. You're protected.

In the pages of this newspaper you will find the best in home values . . . the size, the floor plan, the location you want. Consult them now. And do something about it. Buy that home now and save money.

FOR SPEEDY SERVICE

2-Way FM Radio System Links Terminal Island Transit Buses

By ELLIOTT ZWIEBACH

A powerful new two-way FM radio system, linking all buses of the Terminal Island Transit Co. on the Long Beach-San Pedro line, is now in operation.

Peter G. Drake, company president and general manager, said switchover of previously installed receivers and transmitters from a citizen's AM band to a longer-range FM band will provide faster, more efficient passenger service.

"Each bus driver will now be able to contact any other bus on our system and know at a moment's notice where to pick up or discharge passengers," Drake said.

Although the Terminal Island Transit Co. is a commercial line, much of its business comes from the Long Beach Naval Base. Drake feels the radio system will enable buses to get to any location where needed on the base, easily and quickly.

* * * *

IN CASE OF a bus breakdown or accident, the two-way radio system allows the driver to notify the company immediately. Similar procedure will be followed at peak hours; when harried drivers will be able to "order" more buses along the route.

Drake said he believes there are only a half-dozen such transit bus radio setups in California. Similar systems exist lines serving the Alameda-Contra Costa district near San Francisco, the Oceanside area around Camp Pendleton, and in the Montebello area.

The Terminal Island Transit Co.'s system was installed by Motorola Communications and Electronics Inc., which also will maintain the equipment. The equipment is being leased from Motor Transportation Services.

* * * *

THE NEW SYSTEM was installed Aug. 1. The buses have had radio setups for the past two years, but operated on a citizen's band which was of limited range and "too busy" for business use.

Now the system operates on a selective, powerful FM band, which provides the buses with transmission and reception range of 15 to 20 miles from unit to unit. From the power base, in a 60-foot tower at Pier E, where company headquarters are located, the range is almost 40 miles.

Most Moonlighters Toil During Daylight

NEW YORK (UPI)—When historians write the saga of the contemporary American breadwinner, they are going to have to reserve a place for hardy humans who hold down more than one job, says the Institute of Life Insurance.

They are the moonlighters, but the Institute said that's the wrong term since most multiple job holders work their second jobs during daylight hours.

Average U.S. Clerical Worker Now Earning $86 Week, Up $2

The average clerical worker in the United States and Canada is earning $2.00 a week more this year than last. Since 1956, the average clerical salary in the U.S. has grown by $23.00 per week.

These facts are drawn from the 1966 Clerical Salary Survey of the Administrative Management Society.

Each year the society, through its 178 chapters, studies and reports on the salaries and fringe benefits of office workers throughout the continent. The 1966-67 survey data is based on figures reported by more than 8,000 companies employing a total of more than ½ million clerical workers. The survey covers 138 cities and 21 different types of businesses. Included are the 20 most common categories of office jobs.

THE SURVEY REPORTS that in 1966 the average clerical worker in the U.S. earns $86.00 per week. Her counterpart in Canada earns $69.00.

Ten years ago, the average office worker in the United States earned only $63.00 per week. Her salary today is 39% higher.

This year's greatest pay increase is for bookkeeping machine operators and tabulating machine operators. Whereas most individual jobs rose $2.00 over last year, these jobs increased $4.00 per week.

Survey figures show that office salaries in 1966 continue to be higher in the West than in any other part of the country. The average western salary today is $96.00 per week, surpassing the 1965 record rate of $95.00.

* * * *

The lowest pay rates discovered by the study are in the West Central and Southern regions. Weekly pay rates average $82.00 in the West Central region and $81.00 in the South.

According to the figures, the work week continues to show a downward trend. While most companies still report a 40-hour week, this year's survey finds that 29.3% of the companies covered report a week of less than 40 hours.

"Fifteen years ago only 21% reported a work week of less than 40 hours," says Robert Walter, executive director of the Administrative Management Society.

New Freight Depot for American Air

Freight, long the stepchild of the airline industry, takes another giant step toward being the head of the family in mid-September as American Airline's freight system moves into a new "home" in Los Angeles.

And it is quite a home, worth approximately $1.5 million on some of the most high priced real estate in Southern California.

A new freight facility, which will eventually house the latest equipment in the industry, has a capacity to handle more than a million and a half pounds of shipments per day.

* * * *

CONSTRUCTION of the new terminal started nearly a year ago at the east end of Los Angeles International Airport. The area, on the site of American's former passenger concourse, is near the new air mail depot and in the center of what the Department of Airports has titled "Air Cargo City."

The warehouse area of the new freight terminal is 37,500 square feet with another 3,800 square feet devoted to offices which occupy three levels.

The terminal, at the outset, will be capable of handling two jet freighters imultaneously, with space provided for a third. It more than doubles the former terminal and will be expanded to approximately 70,000 square feet, supporting five aircraft positions.

Beach City Chevrolet Plans Service Center

Beach City Chevrolet is readying a new 118-stall, 35,000-square-foot service center at Orizaba Avenue and 19th Street for a public grand opening in the near future.

The new facility, described as among the largest auto service centers in the West, is located around the corner from Beach City's headquarters at 3001 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

In addition to complete parts and service operations, the new service center will provide a sound-proofed, air-conditioned customer "living room" equipped with color television and tasteful furnishings.

Nuclear Pills for Energy

MILLIONS OF "MICROSPHERES"—encapsulated radioactive isotopes—are poured (above) into a teaspoon by Dr. John P. Ryan, manager of the 3M Company's Nuclear Products Project. Photomicrograph below shows tiny size of the ceramic beads in comparison with strand of human hair. They represent new approach to peaceful uses of atomic energy.

ON EARTH, IN SPACE

Radioactive 'Beads' Power Atomic Age

Peaceful uses of the atom have mushroomed over the last few years, designed to do everything from detecting oil underground and eliminating static charge to helping car drivers find keyholes and astronauts land spacecraft.

Today, there's an increasing number of atomic devices coming off the drawing boards, from tiny radiation needles to large and intricate radiation research equipment, with built-in safety features.

Some nuclear items are being used to determine varying thicknesses of products rolling off assembly lines. Others are designed to provide long-lasting, reliable brightness on exit signs and safety markers.

In the medical field nuclear devices are being used to provide safer and more effective treatment of cancer. Others may help eliminate smog and purify the air.

* * * *

NUCLEAR self-luminous devices are expected to be used on spacecraft for safe, accurate docking on the dark side of the moon and for other far-out jobs.

In the Apollo program, nuclear self-luminous materials are being designed not only to help man on his journey to the moon but also to help him explore its "dark side"—and eventually help him rendezvous with other astronauts in outer space, according to Dr. John P. Ryan, manager of the Nuclear Products Project of 3M Company.

Ryan said nuclear radiation sources also are being used in fuel-tank gauges of space vehicles, to help determine exact amounts of fuel sloshed about in the non-gravity atmosphere of space.

* * * *

"USES OF nuclear energy for peace are just off to a flying start," Ryan said, citing the growth of 3M Company's nuclear operations in just 10 years from "broom closet" to a diversified nuclear business operation.

Some of the progress resulted from the company's development of a way to cage radioactive isotopes in inert ceramic beads to make many nuclear devices extra-safe to handle. "The isotope has been encapsulated so it can be used in products without fear of escaping, and yet be capable of emitting helpful and even healing radiation when desired," Ryan said.

* * * *

THE CERAMIC beads called Microspheres, are found in a wide range of nuclear products, and are so insoluble they can be swallowed without fear of being taken up in the body metabolism. Doctors use this type of encapsulated isotope in experimental programs aimed at developing new methods of cancer therapy. Microspheres also serve as "tracers" and help detect obstructions in body organs.

Also in the field of medicine, needles and capsules have been developed containing a radioactive material, Cesium-137, for radiation healing.

The encapsulated isotope is being experimented with by car manufacturers to assist drivers in finding keyholes around ignition switches and outside door locks, so the driver doesn't have to fumble around with his keys at night.

Nuclear self-luminous signs, with Microspheres, are being evaluated for use in airliners. Because they need no reflective lighting or electricity, nuclear signs are considered more reliable in times of emergencies.

* * * *

MICROSPHERES are so tiny they resemble grains of salt, and millions of beads can be picked up by a teaspon. They are particularly suited for watches and other precision instruments.

"With regular radium, watches sometimes do not illuminate as desired. What's more, radium is known to be dangerous if assimilated into the body," Ryan said. "Promethium self-luminous material stays bright for longer periods and won't harm the wearer."

Most nuclear products are still under control of the Atomic Energy Commission, but some are proving so safe that part of this control is being lessened. For instance, a nuclear static eliminator developed by 3M doesn't require a special AEC license application and industry can now buy it "over the counter."

The static eliminator is being used today in an increasing number of plants to eliminate static charge from paper and plastics. Since it needs no cords or wires and is equipped with encapsulated isotopes, it is safe even in highly explosive plant areas.

Net Income Up for Tidewater

Tidewater Oil Co. indicated consolidated net income for the first half of 1966 was $37,424,000, equal to $2.69 per common share after preferred dividends, president George F. Getty II announced. Net income for the second quarter of 1966 was $17,493,000, or $1.25 per share.

In 1965, Tidewater's net income was $27,143,000, or $1.89 a share for the first half and $14,644,000, or $1.03 per share for the second quarter.

Future Prices of Homes Certain to Be Increased

The Home Builders Association of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura Counties will embark immediately on a $250,000 public information program to promote its story on the homebuilding situation in the tri-county area.

With the projection that within six to eight months the larger percentage of home inventory in Southern California will be sold, the HBA, representing millions of dollars in home construction, will convey to the public that the most valid investment in today's inflation-oriented environment is the purchase of a home.

"THE PROSPECTIVE homebuyer who is waiting until prices drop is the one who will still be waiting after the prices go up," said Hubert A. Temple, treasurer of the HBA. "It is inevitable that the cost of construction, with the scarcity of materials and the high price of labor, will rise.

"The war in Viet Nam has caused some materials to become scarce and reach astronomical prices, and we see no letup. It means that unless these materials are made available in the future for homebuilding at reduced costs that the homebuyer will be affected."

Temple said that few homebuyers really understand the existing situation. He indicated that because of restrictions on the availability of loans for future home construction, the inventory, as it stands today, will be wiped out.

"THE TRUTH IS," said Temple, "that we will be without new construction six to eight months from now. There won't be any homes, and people who are interested in acquiring new homes will be faced with the same problem that occurred during World War II and the Korean War when there was a priority on building materials."

Temple said that after Jan. 1, 1967, the cost of financing a home through the FHA and/or VA will be increased to the homebuyer.

"There will be no more 5¾% or 6% interest rates," said Temple. "Homebuyers will be subjected to higher interest rates. FHA and/or VA rates may rise as much as 1% over the old rates.

"This means," he said, "that if a homebuyer wishes to purchase a $30,000 home, he may pay as much as 30% down with an interest rate of 7% or more."

TEMPLE SAID this is one of the reasons why the HBA has launched its program, entitled "A New Home—Your Best Buy Today."

"We have a normal inventory of homes in Southern California," he said, "but it is rapidly diminishing. These homes are built of the finest materials, and they can be financed at the old interest rates. When this inventory is depleted, there won't be any more new homes due to the lack of new construction loans."

"Some homebuyers are investing their savings in this form of real estate," said Temple. "In some instances, a homebuyer will purchase more than one home just as an investment. He knows that it is just a matter of months before he will realize a significant profit.

PARTY FUNDS RAISED

Make Your Choice and Then Kick In

A two-week campaign to raise money for the political party or candidates of each person's choice is under way at the Torrance factory of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

Factory manager, F. J. Hoffmann, said that the increased cost of conducting a political campaign makes it very important for individuals to help share the expense of electing the candidates who most nearly reflect their views.

"One of the ways in which any party can get the best qualified candidates to run is to guarantee financial support. Money alone does not win elections, but it finances and helps build the organizations that do," Hoffmann said.

The factory manager said that a confidential two-envelope system used at the PPG plant would insure that no one at the plant knew which party or candidate an employe supported or how much he gave.

The outer envelope will be opened by leaders of the two principle parties and the inner envelopes turned over to the party or candidate indicated. Only the party or candidate would see the identification and contents of the second envelope.

Episcopal Church for Laguna Hills

Plans for a new St. George's Episcopal Church to be built at Laguna Hills got underway when a two-and-one-half acre parcel of land was donated by Ross W. Cortese, founder of Rossmoor Leisure World communities.

To be constructed on El Toro Road, just west of Moulton Parkway, the new facility will mark the eighth major denomination to accept land donations on which to build churches that will serve the residents of the all-adult community as well as the surrounding areas of Laguna Hills, El Toro and San Juan Capistrano.

* * * *

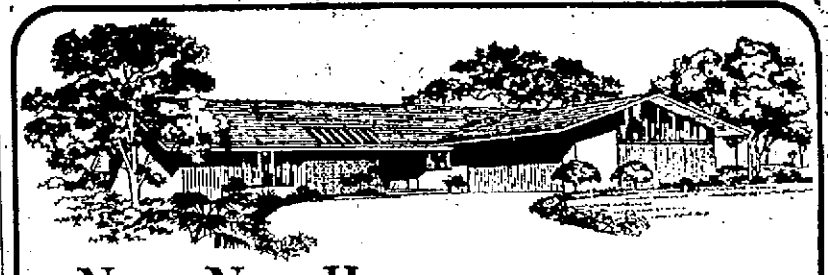

THE NEW FACILITY will house the expanding 150 member congregation of St. George's Episcopal Mission now located on Whisler Dr., El Toro. The Mission, now in its 75th year, will be preserved as a historical monument, according to Vicar Frederick C. Hammond.

Consecrated by Bishop William Ford Nichols on Dec. 3, 1891, St. George's Mission still uses the original kerosene lamps suspended from the ceiling as its main source of lighting. The organ and altar, originally brought from Europe in an ancient sailing ship around the Cape of Good Hope, are also still in use today.

"The addition of this new church will certainly bring a portion of religious history that is rich in tradition to Laguna Hills," Rev. H. Carl Roessler, director of religious activities said.

Laguna Hills Leisure World Opens 16th Unit

With all the room at the "top of the world" sold in record time, Leisure World, Laguna Hills has opened sales in a new unit, No. H, in the fast growing all-adult community.

General Sales Manager Andrew Noonan said the 356 manors in the "top of the world" unit 15 were sold in only 33 days, a record for the Leisure World sales staff.

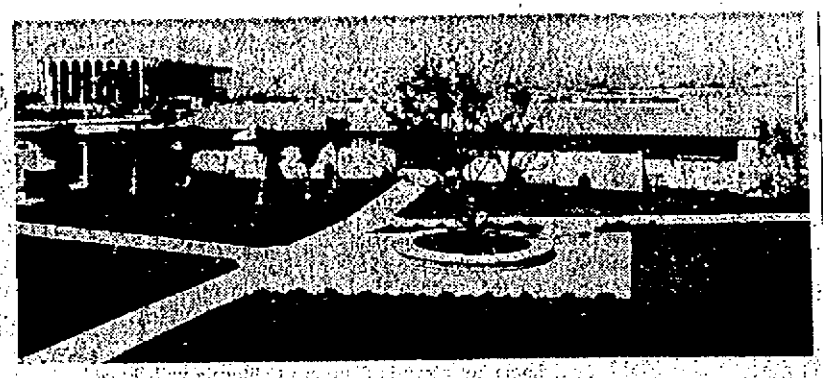

The new unit, dubbed "Sweet Sixteen" by Noonan, will have 358 manors located on both sides of historic Aliso Creek which winds through the picturesque old Moulton Ranch, the 2,450-acre Leisure World site, about 10 miles southeast of Santa Ana off the Santa Ana Freeway.

THE NEW UNIT will offer one and two-bedroom manors with the widest selection of floor plans yet offered at Leisure World. There will be 10 models to choose from with single and two-story plans available.

Monthly payments will range from $132.50 to $277, and the single payment includes principal, interest, taxes and insurance. It also pays for service on the intra-community transportation system, 24-hour security attendants and a comprehensive medical program providing 80% of out-patient costs.

Purchase of Leisure World manor also permits residents to share in cost-free recreational activities afforded by an 18-hole golf course, riding stables and club houses with swimming pools, tennis courts and numerous other fun and cultural activities.

In three years since its opening, Leisure World population has reached the 7,000 mark, Noonan said. With sales complete in unit 16, the community will have sold 5,300 manors, nearly one-third of the projected 18,000 for a community of 30,000 persons, 52-years of age or over.

Lloyd S. Whaley (left), owner-builder of the Galaxy, the 20-story luxury home development at Orizaba Avenue and Ocean Boulevard, Long Beach, received a Telephone Planned Home Award from Bob Wellman, East Long Beach Division Manager for General Telephone Co.

One of the many outstanding features of this 80-home development is the latest type of security door-opening intercommunication system which is combined with the home owner's telephone service. An attractive panel telephone, "built in" the wall of each kitchen-dinette area, provides the master control for this modern communication system.

Offering spectacular views of the ocean and of the city, The Galaxy soon will have furnished models available for inspection. Barbara Moss has been appointed by the Los Altos Realty Co. as sales director.

CVO SETS WHEELS IN MOTION

Destination: the road to service

Grade school students, housewives, senior citizens, teen-agers, newcomers to Long Beach—all serve as cogs which keep wheels of Community Volunteer Office rolling.

Volunteers from age 6 to 90 may come from different walks of life, but all share a common interest at CVO—service to the community.

Founded in 1948 under auspices of Junior League of Long Beach, CVO serves more than 94 agencies of the United Way.

Wheels of service spin along avenues of child care, legal aid, hospital work, the arts, office duties.

An infinite variety of jobs is available with approved agencies requiring volunteer services which range from dressing hair of convalescent patients to serving as receptionists or teaching arts and crafts.

Volunteers are interviewed individually by Mrs. Clara Andrews, executive secretary of CVO, who helps applicants choose the field of service to which they're best suited.

Many volunteers are people such as Anton Strandberg who found retirement wasn't for him.

"Puttering around in the garden was fun for awhile, but after a few months I was bored and felt pretty useless," he says.

"Then I went to work for CVO and there's not been a dull moment since."

Strandberg contributes his time to driving crippled children to school and on field trips. He also serves as an auditor during the United Way campaign.

Housewives have found stimulating breaks from homemaking routines and newcomers have gained friends while donating time and talents to CVO. Youngsters, too, have learned that helping others by stuffing envelopes, sorting brochures or even visiting patients in convalescent homes can be as much fun as riding a skateboard.

Information on serving as a volunteer may be obtained at CVO, 3515 Linden Ave., from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

SHOWCASE FOR TEEN-AGERS

They're only superlative!

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

"They're fabulous!"

"Unbelievable ability!"

"Every one is outstanding!"

When members of the Dramatic Allied Arts Guild speak of "their" young people, they talk only in superlatives, with exclamation points punctuating their voices. Their eyes sparkle and the words tumble out.

Saturday and next Sunday, 45 of Long Beach's most talented teen-agers will show what this kind of confidence and enthusiasm for their ability has done. After participating through the summer in a cultural symposium, they will be spotlighted in the guild's First Annual Youth Arts Showcase.

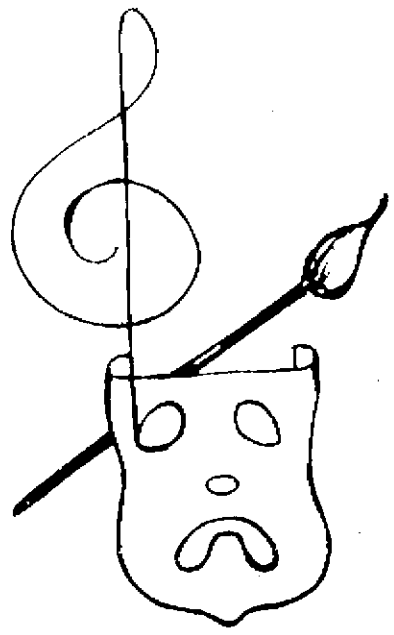

Because DAAG is particularly interested in the cultural education of Long Beach young people, it set up this symposium with cooperation of Long Beach Unified School District.

In each of the five high schools, the principal and heads of the art, music and drama departments selected three top students in each field for the summer workshop program. Every DAAG member donated two mornings to serve as assistants—helping special teachers, arranging

"OVERWHELMING success, with exclamation points!" That's the way the moonlight and music party hosted by the Women's Guild of Civic Light Opera was described by most reliable sources—the guests.

Ed and Laura Killingsworth, 4606 Virginia Road, opened their lovely home, with its great stage facilities in the garden. Invitations said, "We guarantee the music and promise you the moon." Sure enough, on stage was a big, marvelously funny moon (just in case the weather had been overcast) as well as the real one in the sky.

Starting the night off right for 250 people was serving of a champagne punch, special recipe of Dennis Coder, manager of Pacific Coast Club, who personally supervised its "construction." Because everyone raved about it, I wheedled the recipe from Dennis.

For every punchbowl use 1 bottle of chablis, ½ of brandy, 2 of champagne, 1 of ginger ale, 1 of soda plus the secret ingredient which makes it so good. He also adds a ½ bottle of a special French sauterne wine. In addition, party goers were treated to lavish hors d'hoeuvres.

Betty Kimber was in charge of the sparkling entertainment of music and terpsichore while Barbara Cohee, guild president, handled the socializing arrangements. Mary Anne Haley and Dennis collaborated on punch and food arrangements.

A few in the party crowd were the John Clocks, the John Mansells, Bill and Lois Smith, Stan and Geneva Weiss and the Fonda McCooks.

Also Dr. Lloyd and Dorothie Mallin, Mayor Ed and Mary Wade, Jim and Eleanor Foasberg, Clyde and Betty Paisley, Wilma Hastings, Dr. Frank George, Gene and Rose Bishop, Mac and Jane Epley.

NEW SWIMMING pool at John and Molly Turley's home, 1881 Snowden Ave., may never be same again but it can't, in its old age, look back and say it wasn't royally christened.

To open pool officially, Young Californians had a whingding of a swim party and luau for 50. Kimus, muu muus, leis and aloha shirts were the mode o'night for such as Van and Dolores Hickman, Dan and Jan Krehbiel, Jim and Jackie Miller, Darrell and Rayme Goldsmith and LeMoyne Heinz, club president, and husband, Bob.

Sumptuous Cantonese food and grog were served, with guests dining at low tables on the basketball court which had all been carpeted with grass matting.

Heads that bobbed amidst a floating garden of fresh gardenias and orchids in the pool belonged to such swimmers as Bill and Kathy Edwards, Bob and Mary Nell Soloman, Bill and Alice Greer.

THE BELLS—telephone and door—are getting a hefty workout at Joe and Avalon Warren's home, 806 Lees Ave., since arrival from Mechanicsburg, Pa., of their daughter, Jane Stone, and her two young ones, Jennifer, 7, and Monica, 3.

Jane, whose husband, Lt. Cmdr. Donald Stone is stationed at the big Navy supply center in Mechanicsburg, will be here through August.

THE KIND of quiet heroism which so often goes unhailed was recognized most nobly by the Tuna Club at Avalon, Catalina, last weekend. Exuberant Virginia Tuffil caught a marlin off the east end. Not only was husband Tell skippering, but he brought the creature to gaff.

Considering that he was the only man aboard with fish-catcher Virginia and guest, Rubye Kean, the club presented him with a silver loving cup.

It was given for his supreme presence of mind in being able to handle boat, gaff, two excited women with aplomb.

UNIQUE dinner party was given by Dr. Earl and Hilda Donaldson for members of their dine-out group. Usually the couple in charge selects a gourmet restaurant but doesn't announce which one until all are assembled. The Donaldsons' "restaurant" proved the biggest surprise ever pulled on this gang.

They had chartered a regulation-size bus and everyone ate in grand style as they toured to Laguna Beach.

The menu? Tossed salad, fried chicken, sliced hot steak, baked potatoes and, for dessert, they brought two freezers of peach ice cream served with delectable peach sauce.

Earl made special wooden trays for each guest. Each had a hole bored in it to hold bud vase with fresh rosebud. Trays were graced with gold mats and so constructed they held dishes and silverware in place despite the sway of the bus.

The rear of the bus was transformed into a service area where hot food was kept hot and the cold stuff in icy perfection.

In on the fun were hosts' son, Dean, who assisted in serving; Dr. Ed and Gale Potts, Dr. John and Virginia Faris, Jack and Norma Taylor, Jack and Carol Frank and Wayne and Arlene Eyer.

Various snacks were served enroute home, too!

SOMETIMES news gets to me in a rush not unlike the speed of cold molasses. Just heard, for instance, that Ellie and Frank Person are back from Europe—but the catch is they've been home for two weeks!

Frank was a crew member aboard the 72-foot, Audacious, in the Bermuda race, which took off from Newport, R.I., and then on the arduous Trans-Atlantic race after a layover in Bermuda just five days.

Just to give you an idea how rugged life at sea can be in these big races, Frank lost 17 pounds. The Trans-Atlantic ended at Copenhagen, Denmark, this year as a salute to the 100th anniversary of the Royal Copenhagen Yacht Club. While Frank was sailing the bounding main, Ellie and their youngest daughter, Brooke, flew around Europe, touring in Italy, France and England.

Ellie and Brooke were in Copenhagen (naturally!) for the exciting conclusion of the race, then all three took the Gota Canal trip in Sweden, which she said was marvelous, after which they flew home.

Four hundred guests attended the mid-afternoon ceremony Saturday in Lakewood Presbyterian Church which united Nadine Clara Bowers and Darrell Mylo Mettler.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Bowers, formerly of Long Beach, now of Cypress; Mrs. E. B. Gladwell of Bakersfield and the late Mylo Mettler.

The bride was third in her family to wear the formal gown which was handmade by her aunt, Mrs. W. F. Hecht. Of slipper satin and lace adorned with seed pearls, it was designed with a chapel train. Her veil, appliqued with lace, was held by a heart-shaped tiara of lace medallions.

MUSIC — both for the wedding service and the reception, which followed at Lakewood County Club — was played by the couple's friends from USC, the Los Angeles Philharmonic and Long Beach Symphony Orchestra.

Marguerite Matlock was maid of honor; Donald Mettler was his brother's best man.

Completing the wedding party were Nancy Coleman, Janice Hecht, Mrs. Lyman Clower and Mrs. Mustapha Akkad, bridesmaids; Kellie Ann Gladwell and Dianne McArthur, flower girls; David Mettler, Frederick Mettler, Allan Jones and Robert De Simone, ushers.

MRS. DARRELL MYLO METTLER

The bride, the former Dorothea Yvette Wyatt, is the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Luther, 1821 E. 5th St. The bridegroom is son of Michael Morrione, Downey, and Freda Morrione, 2403 Allred, Lakewood.

The bride wore a nylon organdy, floor-length gown with a tiered skirt trimmed in chantilly lace. Her waist length veil was crowned with pearls and rhinestones.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Ernest Oventile, and her mother, Mrs. Carl A. Spong, 3732 Marber, she became the bride of Dennis LeRoy Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald L. Cox, 3708 Centralia, Lakewood.

The floor-length, peau de soie gown with hand-beaded front panel had an imported French lace chapel-length train. The fingertip length veil was of silk illusion.

The Wardlow Clubhouse was setting for the reception. The couple will be at home in North Long Beach following a honeymoon trip to Lake Tahoe.

Gary R. Cox, brother of the bridegroom, was best man; Barbara Elliff was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Sandra Bohen, Pamela Cawrey, Kathy Hundley and Karen Oventile. Guests were seated by Gary Bacher, William Gavan, James Loomis and Billie Lee McFarland.

and conducting tours to art galleries, concerts, recording studios and cultural events.

The program took form under guidance of DAAG's president, Mrs. Orville Cole, and the symposium co-chairmen, Mrs. Harry James Lees and Mrs. John Messerschmitt.

When the council of St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, 1629 Pine Ave., heard of the symposium, it offered use of its recreation building, without charge, for the art, music and drama classes.

Ken Devanney, general manager of KHJ, conducted a tour of the station and spoke at length to the students on the trend of music today. Jay Maichles of NBC arranged a tour of that facility and a talk by the head of its copyright department. Other speakers and offers were volunteered — and numerous enriching experiences were scheduled.

BETWEEN SERIOUS SESSIONS, TIME TO IMPROVISE
... Lexie Hutton, Dan Jacobs, Phil Kohn, Mandi Strelow strum and hum

Now, the final week is here and these gifted teenagers, drawn from a cross section of the city as represented by its high schools, will display their talents and compete for three scholarships in each division—$100, $50 and $25 plus trophies. Each young person will receive a memento of the symposium.

THE MAYOR, city council, persons in the arts, parents, members of the board of education and others interested have been invited to see the drama students' production Saturday at 8 p.m. in Washington Junior High School Auditorium and to the Showcase program next Sunday at 2 p.m. in Petroleum Club. The club volunteered its premises and will supply refreshments.

The Saturday night play will be a comedy, "It Happens Every Summer," by David Rogers. Lonna Holmes Smith directs. Dr. John H. Green, chairman of California State College at Long Beach; Dr. David E. MacArthur, associate professor of drama at CSLB; and Keith Houdyshell, actor and public relations director, will serve as judges.

NEXT SUNDAY, art entries will be judged by Ray Kerciu, artist and member of the art faculty at California State College at Fullerton; Sylvia Petrasek, artist and commercial display director; and Mozelle Townsend, artist and teacher.

The musical program, ranging from folk to classical numbers, will be evaluated by Mrs. John O. McDonald, special consultant for the California Arts Commission; Jack Kroesen, musical director for Long Beach Civic Light Opera; and Marvellee Carlaga, concert singer, former soloist with the Norman Luboff Choir and member of Los Angeles Opera Guild.

So that Sunday guests may see examples of all three categories, drama students will enact excerpts from their play.

THOUGH the 45 students are as effervescent as typical teen-agers, they have an air of purposefulness that makes them a bit different. Many are involved in more than one symposium area, some in all three.

Said Mrs. Cole, "We applaud efforts to help culturally deprive children, but we believe that it is important, too, to encourage and reward the talented, gifted ones. We hope that each will widen his perspective and understanding of the other two arts in addition to developing his own special interest.

"By exposure to the professional field, these young people may find new scope for their talents.

"We hope to make the community more aware of the achievements and leadership potential in our most valuable natural resource—our talented youth."

DEAR ABBY

Parent's job to discipline son

Abby

DEAR ABBY: Our 17-year-old son is going steady with a girl who has just turned 14, and he practically LIVES at her house. What do you think of parents who will allow a boy to hang around their house all day and half the night seeing their 14-year-old daughter? He says they never tell him to go home so he just stays.

I say they should kick him out at midnight. With summer here it can be a real problem. Eighteen months ago we got a 15-year-old daughter-in-law, and six monthes later we had a grandchild. We certainly don't want any more of that. Please help us.

CONCERNED PARENTS

DEAR CONCERNED: Don't depend on the girl's parents to discipline your son. That's YOUR job. Since the girl obviously has no rules, you should make some for your son. His father should have a serious man-to-man talk with him. (Maybe his brother can give him the benefit of his experience.) Your son needs desperately to be guided and disciplined.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was recently married and some relatives (on the groom's side) sent her a beautiful sterling silver tray with the following card:

"If your marriage lasts a year, please return this tray and we'll have it monogrammed. Love, Aunt Helen and Uncle Dave."

Would you say these people had nerve??

BRIDE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. And also experience.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been glassy-eyed ever since a certain creature half his age moved in next door. She sun bathes in a bikini in her backyard, and my middle-aged Romeo has been trimming our hedges until there is nothing left to trim. This poor soul is so top heavy it is a wonder she can stand up.

At a recent party she staged an impromptu go-go routine and it was a case of stand back or be knocked thru the wall. How can I get my husband to act his age and quit drooling over this freak? That unfortunate girl has my prayers.

ELLA ON SOUTH OLIVE ST.

DEAR ELLA: Don't waste your prayers on the "freak." Pray for a short summer with lots of rain.

Years of effort by government officials, museum curators, and scholars in Turkey and the United States have culminated in an exhibit of the most priceless art ever found in Asia Minor, "Art Treasures of Turkey."

The spectacular collection will have its West Coast premiere in the Lytton Gallery of Los Angeles County Museum of Art, 5905 Wilshire Blvd., Friday and will continue through Sept. 25. The 280 objects represent many civilizations which flourished in this ancient part of the world.

There are examples of monumental stone sculpture, finely wrought gold vessels, handsome ceramics from the Hittite, Classical, Byzantine and Islamic periods. Masterpieces from Troy, precious objects from the kingdoms of Midas and Croesus and a survey of styles and eras of art produced in ancient Anatolia — now Turkey — for more than 8,000 years dazzle the viewer.

Among the elegant objects are gold jewelry from Troy; a Koran cover of gold set with diamonds, emeralds and rubies; embroidered textiles, illuminated manuscripts, Roman marble statuary and portraits of Emperor Trajan, Sultan Suleyman the Magnificent and Alexander the Great.

An illustrated catalog will be for sale. Admission is 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for students. The museum is open Tuesdays through Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. During this exhibit, the Lytton Gallery also will be open Fridays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

After the Los Angeles showing, the exhibit will go to Philadelphia, Houston, Kansas City, Mo., Seattle, San Francisco, Milwaukee, Boston and New York City.

THE "ARTS of Southern California XIX: Drawing" show, which was originated by Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., opened last Sunday and will continue until Aug. 28. It will begin a two year nationwide tour Sept. 1.

Emphasizing the creativity of Southland artists, it includes work by 25 men and women working in many media. Among them are Joseph Mugnaini, Douglass Parshall, Tenold Peterson, Jan Stussy, Herb Griswold, Betye Saar and Robert W. Brown.

The museum is open Tuesdays through Fridays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. and is closed Mondays.

WILLIS J. PIPER, president of Spectrum Club, has arranged with the mayor of Yokkaichi, Long Beach's sister city, for an exchange art exhibit.

Twenty oil and water color paintings have been shipped by Spectrum Club members for a showing in Yokkaichi in September, and Japanese paintings are en route for exhibit here.

THE NEWLY-FORMED Westminster Art Association is looking for members. Meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. on the second Thursday of the month; workshops begin at 9 a.m. on first Saturdays at the Bolsa Chica Park, 13660 University St.

LOYCE CARHART is artist of the month at the Unitarian Church, 5450 Atherton St., showing oils, water colors and collages. Recipient of many awards, she has exhibited at Long Beach Museum of Art, California State College at Long Beach and Long Beach Art Association.

NINETEEN woodcuts and engravings by Albrecht Durer are featured at Sears-Vincent Price Collection, 8478 Melrose Place, Los Angeles. They may be seen Monday through Saturday.

OPEN HOUSE today at Yelland Gallery, 1216 N. Tustin Ave., Orange, will introduce a one-woman show by Phyllis Hollands-Robinson, Midwest impressionist painter.

Her 23 canvases will hang through Sept. 17. The gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week.

Pam Lewis signed at Anaheim

Theater doors are ajar for pretty Pamela Lewis, 17, student at St. Anthony's High School. Producers Sammy Lewis and Danny Dare of Melodyland Theater, Anaheim, have signed her for roles in "Call Me Madam," opening Tuesday, and "Kiss Me Kate,' which opens Sept. 6.

Pamela, 111 lbs., 5 feet 4, is a dark blonde with huge hazel eyes. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Leech, she is a resident of Artesia. Here father is a Los Angeles drama critic.

In March, during her junior year, Pamela won Best Supporting Actress Award at St. Anthony's for "her hilarious portrayal of Mme. Duval" in the school play, "Madame D'Arblay."

Jane Marsh, grand prize winner in the recent Tchaikovsky International Competition in Moscow, conductor Andre Previn, and the Viennese tenor Waldemar Kmenet are among stars that will shine in Hollywood Bowl this week.

Previn will conduct Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra on Tuesday evening. Pianist Peter Serkin will be soloist.

Thursday evening Kmenet will make his North American debut with co-soloist Hilde Gueden, soprano. Returning to the Bowl podium as guest will be the conductor of the Wiener Volksoper, Anton Paulik, in his only American appearance this year. Paulik was a Bowl sensation two seasons ago.

THE MUSIC, a feast of Viennese operetta and waltzes, will include works by Johann, Oscar and Joseph Strauss, Carl Millocker, Kreisler-Paulik, Franz Lehar, Emmerich Kalman and Franz von Suppe.

Saturday evening the Hollywood Bowl pops Orchestra will be conducted by Skitch Henderson. The concert of opera and light musical theater will have as soloists the American winners of the recent Tchaikovsky International Competition in Moscow: San Francisco soprano Miss Marsh, 24, grand prize winner; Baltimore soprano Veronica Tyler, 28, second prize winner; and New York baritone Simon Estes, 28, third prize winner.

Musicians to jazz up Concerts in Grove

Jazz—booming and bold by a big brass band—sung by groups and individuals—styled by combos—will fill the air Wednesday evening for Concerts in the Grove's first "Jazz Night."

This Associated Students special events committee program is being given in conjunction with the National Stage Band Camp which will be at California State College, Long Beach, today through Saturday.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the patio of Soroptimist House on campus.

Program headliner will be the 562nd U.S. Air Force Reserve Band from Van Nuys, conducted by Capt. Robert Brunner from Walt Disney Studios. The 15-piece band is made up of outstanding Southland recording and studio musicians.

THE GARY David Group, featuring vocalists Alice and Rhae Bieldfeldt, will present jazz numbers and "notions," a humorous montage of sounds and words spliced together on tape.

The National Stage Band Camp is directed by Leon Breedon of North Texas State University in Denton. Students from all over the Southwest will attend the week-long workshop, studying with outstanding Hollywood jazz musicians. Both students and faculty will play sets Wednesday evening.

ONE OF THE college combos, the Richard Carpenter Trio, recently won the sweepstakes award as the best group at the Battle of the Bands in Hollywood Bowl. Others to be heard are The Chosen Few and the Continental Jazz Sextet.

Concerts in the Grove will continue each Wednesday through Aug. 31. A free picnic area opens at 5:30 p.m. Tickets at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students and children, will be on sale at the box office.

Borge and ballet stars at Greek

Victor Borge, the Danish pianist-humorist, opens his "Comedy in Music" Monday at the Greek Theater, Los Angeles, with duo-pianist Leonid Hambro. On the same bill will be French ballet stars Claire Sombert and Michel Bruel who are making their American debut.

The un-melancholy Dane will continue his antics at the outdoor theater through Saturday.

Borge plays an earnest man who earnestly believes that the world has gone mad. Half of his act is a wry put-down of the audience, the management, the stagehands — and most of all, music. Behind each jest is a thread of simple sanity.

Hambro, a skilled musician, plays straight man to Borge's comedy. The Parisienne dancers become involved with both of them in their zany routines.

Iranian art reflects Persia and Picasso

By VIRGINA LADDEY

"Iranian Contemporary Painting" at Cerritos College Art Gallery, 11110 Alondra Blvd., Norwalk, will continue through Friday. Viewing hours are 2 to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Iranian contemporary art, as reflected by this collection sponsored by the Iranian-American Society and the American Friends of the Middle East, is charming and fresh. Aside from traditional motifs in the Persian tradition, the influences are from the School of Paris. One sees Picasso sparkling forth again and again, especially in the bouncy drawings by Mansoor Chandriz of "Mother and Child" and "Swimmers."

GENERALLY, the works are quite small. One Iranian artist, Behdjat Sadr, is represented by five paintings. Each is entitled "Abstract" and is treated in an original way. Some of these are only 4 by 8 inches. Apparently, Sadr pours thick black paint on, wipes some off, revealing the fine grain of the canvas, and then adds dripped color sparingly.

Hosein Zenderondi uses the motifs of ancient Persia —Kufic script, allover intricate patterning with magical and metaphysical allusions—in "Lock" and "The Hand" to very good highly decorative effect.

THERE ARE, as well, watercolor landscapes, ink drawings of hillowy lady musicians, handsome bright blue and white abstractions of details of Persepolis, and a captivating group of small ink drawings by Mortez Momayez of "Mythological Antics." In many instances, the ground for painting or block printing is gold foil.

Generally, the work is careful, intricate, and highly sophisticated reflecting an area whose culture was established thousands of years ago.

RICHARD V. JOHNSON 'PAINTS' MOSAIC
. . . Huge work takes form in sections in the garage of his home, 440 W. San Antonio Drive

NO SMALL UNDERTAKING

Artist's first venture: magnificent mosaic

By ELISE EMERY

On Saturday, May 23, 1964, at 2:31 a.m., fire roared through the sanctuary of Grace Methodist Church, Third Street and Junipero Avenue. When it was controlled at 3:30 a.m., only blackened rubble was left.

The stunned congregation quickly rallied and church services were held on schedule the following day in the church social hall. The mystery of the fire never has been solved.

By July, 1965, architects Palmer W. Power and Delma J. Daniel Jr. called for bids for a new sanctuary, and building began in September, 1965.

The architects planned a floor to ceiling mosaic just behind the altar. Several designs were considered, but none was quite right.

The minister, Rev. Stanley C. Brown, asked Richard V. Johnson, member of the congregation and husband of the church secretary, for suggestions.

Johnson, a commercial artist who designs custom billboards, that morning, Nov. 7, 1965, had seen a story and pictures in the Independent, Press-Telegram of the Sculpture Symposium at California State College, Long Beach.

As he thought about the mosaic, it occurred to him that, as was done for the symposium, modern materials could be used with impact for the church mosaic.

WITHIN a couple of hours he had finished a small water color sketch which he felt could best be executed in tile. The church's official board approved, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Gieck commissioned the work as a memorial to their late parents. Then began a search for a mosaicist to translate the sketch into a finished work 19½ feet wide and 25 feet high.

They couldn't find the right person.

Johnson's friends who knew his background, asked, "Why don't you do it?"

A lithe man, with brown hair, eyes bright blue behind gold-rimmed glasses, and a quick grin, Johnson was a free lance artist in New York and Los Angeles, exhibited with the American Water Color Society in New York, has taught at Seal Beach Artists League, and is a member of Long Beach Spectrum Club and Laguna Beach Art Association.

But he had never done a mosaic—not even the do-it-yourself-kit kind. So he refused.

He did, however, agree to ask his friends, Joe and Esther Dendel who have the Denwar Studio in Costa Mesa, to suggest a mosaicist.

"Do it yourself!" they insisted. "We'll advise you."

JOHNSON first worked out the technical details—13 sections ranging from 4 by 7½ feet to 4 by 10 feet, each on a base of compressed sheets of cement and asbestos fastened to a frame of 1 by 4 inch wood. These will be bolted flush through the wall to the studding.

Johnson chose to work with ceramic tile because of its great, subtle range of color. He has cut each 5½ by 8 inch tile into small pieces with nippers, buttered them with adhesive and placed them on the backing. When the mosaic is completed, it will contain some 200,000 pieces of tile and will weigh about 2,100 pounds.

Central in the design is the figure of Christ. A cross behind him is broken to show Christ's triumph and the cross has small pieces of the burned sanctuary worked into it. The head of Mary represents women in Christianity, heads of the apostles represent the dissemination of Christian teaching, and small calligraphic figures circle a pedistal signifying the firmament.

On Sept. 11, when Bishop Gerald Kennedy conducts the first service and consecration of the new sanctuary, the congregation will see the top half of the great mosaic in place. The compelling eyes of Christ dominate the work.

"I did the face first," Johnson said. "I knew if it wasn't right, I couldn't do the work at all."

When Phil Hood, Sunday School superintendent, saw the sketch for the mosaic he exclaimed, "It's John 12:32!"

The verse reads: "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me."

SADDLERS AND FLAG-HORSES FORM PRETTY PICTURE IN PARADE

They pace, instead of race, to win

HORSES ARE A SADDLERS' BEST FRIEND
... Joyce Mallet of Long Beach visits Julie, the horse at lunch time.

By MARGARET McKEAN
Staff Writer

Riding is a serious avocation when 23 other women on 23 horses are depending on you, your horse, your timing and your spacing.

So it is with the Saddlers. They pace instead of race their horses. Their high-stepping is gaited, their spirits are disciplined.

Riding in close formation ("your neighbor's spurs are only two inches from yours"), the Saddlers command half a ton of horse power with imperceptible rein work.

The women met through their love for horses . . . and they practice hard to present the beautiful picture they do in parades and drills.

The ring at Rolling Hills Municipal Stables reverberates Thursday nights with the sound of horses in canter and whistles in command.

ACKNOWLEDGED as best in performance and leadership is Heather Malcolm—an egghead intellectual who, by profession, is a mathematician for an airspace firm in Torrance.

In the saddle, she puts horses and riders through paces designed to present a beautiful picture.

"In parades, the picture's the thing," said Long Beach Saddler Joyce Mallett. "In competition, when we're being judged, we not only have to look good, we have to BE GOOD."

Adding atmosphere are their sharp Kentucky-styled jodphurs, white pleated and gaited shirts, black boots, saddle derbies, white gloves and scarlet ties.

The horses are slicked up and smart . . . and they're 'on' to a military beat. "We enter the ring two abreast and work in circles," said Mrs. Mallett. "Horses just aren't constructed to go in squares."

Horse masters though they are, there ARE times when crowds, music and flags (especially flags) can throw a gal. Like the time in Dominguez when a flagstaff broke, a horse broke formation and the rider landed smack on her dignity.

It's times like these when it helps to recount trophies the group has won since its formation in 1940. As numerous as the years they attest to the Saddlers' appearances the length and breadth of the state.

PROFESSIONAL as they are, they welcome novices to the RH stables.

"We take them REALLY green and teach 'em," explained Mrs. Mallett. "Sometimes it's easier to teach a novice than a woman who has done Western riding.

"A Western rider sets to the jog; an English rider comes up with the trot. Once they learn to "post," we can drill a gal to ride in formation —the most unsettling kind of riding sometimes."

Besides being horse troopers, the Saddlers are homemakers, mothers, career girls.

. . . Mrs. Oric Rutledge is an employment counselor in Los Angeles . . . Mrs. James Freese, a homemaker in Orange County . . . Mrs. Morris Reden, a bookkeeper in Venice . . . Mrs. Mallet, a court steno in Long Beach.

Though tops in their professional fields, all concur that nothing's more exciting than "a horse beneath you doing in precision what you command."

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Shower for a three-time bride?

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a friend who was recently married for the third time. Now I have received an invitation to a wedding shower for her that is marked "miscellaneous gifts."

Is this considered proper and in good taste?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS:

Let me quote from two sources: Carol Morgan: "There is no obligation to present a gift to a previously married bride, but friends and relatives may wish to do so." Emily Post: "Few people send presents for a second marriage, but there is no objection to anyone's doing so if they wish."

I find no mention of a third marriage but, as you can see, it is not improper nor in bad taste to give presents to any bride. M.M.

P.S. It is, however, bad taste to send announcements or invitations of the remarriage of a divorcee.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Can you tell me why, when a group of people are pledging allegiance to our Flag, some of them just stand there with their mouths shut, not saying a word? Even during our national anthem they don't sing.

Are these people ashamed of our country? Are they unpatriotic? Surely, they know the words!

I think it's terrible. I'm not very old yet but this is our country and we should show some respect for it. I think it's a wonderful place and, to me, it's an insult not to participate in expressions of loyalty.

ALMOST FOURTEEN

DEAR ALMOST 14:

Some people don't sing because they can't carry a tune in a bushel basket. They know it and they are shy. They don't realize that they probably wouldn't be heard anyway and, besides, there are a heck of a lot of us who can't sing worth a darn.

As for saying allegiance, there is no excuse for not taking part. There may be a few who don't know the words; most people know most of them anyway.

I really can't explain some people, but let me say 'three cheers for kids like you!" M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My 16-year-old daughter will be going to a dance in a few weeks and we're having a little hassle over the time she should be home. Her escort is 17.

The dance will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. and when she told me she wouldn't be home until 3 or 3:30 I was a little put out, to say the least. I told her 2 or 2:30 was plenty late enough for her.

Since our little discussion she's mad at everyone. What time do you think these kids should be home, Molly? MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

Your "2 or 2:30" is plenty late enough (if not too late!) for your daughter to get in, whether she likes it or not.

So she's "mad"! Just stick to your guns and ignore her tantrum. You're still the boss—I hope. M.M.

JACOBY

Club play caused comment

Here is a hand which caused quite a stir some 30 years ago. The excitement had nothing to do with the actual result. South went up with dummy's queen of hearts at the start. Then he thought a long while before he led a club, finessed his queen, laid down his ace of clubs and continued with his last club to knock out East's king.

East returned a heart. South won and thought some more. Finally he led the jack of spades, overtook with dummy's queen after West played low and ran off the nine tricks for his contract.

The first discussion concerned South's club play. If he had held the first club trick in dummy he would have been able to make game without risking the spade finesse but he would have gone down a lot if West had held the king of clubs and returned a spade after taking it.

THE REAL excitement started when East suggested that his partner could have opened a spade and set the hand. South replied that no lead would have beaten him. East was skeptical and offered to bet. South took the bet and won.

Take a few moments now and see if you can figure out how South would make three no-trump against that spade lead.

Here is the play. He wins the first spade with dummy's queen and promptly cashes his ace. Silly? Not exactly! He discards his ace of hearts on the ace of spades. Then he leads the jack of clubs and lets it ride.

Two more club leads take care of East's king. Finally South leads his eight of hearts. The queen of hearts will now be a sure entry to dummy and South winds up with two spades, one heart and six clubs.

DR. LAWRENCE L. KAVANAU

CHEF OF WEEK

His eggs launch an 'A-ok' flavor

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Food Editor

Long Beach can claim a very personal part in Gemini launchings—all because of today's Chef of the Week, Dr. Lawrence L. Kavanau, assistant to the president, North American Aviation, Inc.

Here's what he did—"... developed the preliminary aerothermodynamic design of early fleet ballistic missiles and nose cones, and worked on design and instrumentation requirements for ICBM reentry vehicles."

Prior to his present position, Dr. Kavanau spent three years at North American's Space & Information Systems Division as executive vice president-technical.

He received his BS degree in engineering and his MS degree in aeronautical engineering from the University of Michigan in 1949. Initial pursuit of his engineering education was interrupted by service in the U.S. Army Air Force.

Kavanau has since spent two years with the California Institute of Technology as project engineer for the Cooperative Wind Tunnel and later as head of the Wind Tunnel Operations at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory. In 1951, he joined UC at Berkeley as a Research Associate, and in 1954 received his PhD in mechanical engineering.

From 1961-63, Dr. Kavanau was special assistant for space to the Director, Defense Research and Engineering. During this period, he was a member of the Gemini Planning Board, served as deputy chairman of the Large Vehicle Planning Group.

In 1962, he was selected by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of the 10 outstanding young men in Federal Service and received the Arthur Fleming Award.

He and his wife, Shirley, son, Jerry, 15, and daughters, Laura and Sandy, 12 and 10, respectively, indulge in tennis, golf and bridge.

He DOES like to cook, and when in France last year bought Shirley an Encyclopedia of Cooking which he looks into for new recipes. Today, he's chosen La Sauce Mornay over Eggs Florentine.

EGGS FLORENTINE

Place chopped spinach, simmered in butter, as a base in a fireproof dish.

Arrange soft boiled or poached eggs in spinach. Cover with Mornay sauce (recipe below). Sprinkle with grated cheese and melted butter. Brown the top in a very hot oven and serve.

La Sauce Mornay

5 tblsp. butter
5 tblsp. flour
2 cups milk
½ cup sour cream
2 egg yolks
½ cup freshly grated Gruyere cheese
⅓ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
4 tblsp. butter
salt, pepper, nutmeg to taste

Combine butter and flour together to make a roux and cook slowly for 8 minutes. Add the milk and stir to blend. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Lower the heat and simmer the sauce gently, uncovered, for at least 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Do not allow more than a gentle bubble and it should NOT boil. When the sauce is creamy and somewhat thickened, add ¾ cup or so of the hot sauce to the egg yolks, cream and butter (beaten together in small bowl), stirring vigorously.

Add this to sauce remaining in bowl and blend well. Return to low fire and heat gently, stirring continuously, until thickened, but do not allow boil. Correct the seasoning and sprinkle a scant half of each kind of cheese over the surface of the sauce. Allow to stand until melted. Carefully blend into sauce. (The remaining cheese is used to sprinkle over the top of the completed dish before glazing in the oven.

Couple to celebrate golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey W. Matthews, 921 South St., will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary today at a reception and dinner in their honor at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Dan E. Baurac, in Los Angeles.

Guests will include some 30 relatives and close friends.

Residents of Long Beach since 1941, the couple met during their high school days at Water Valley, Tex., and were married there Aug. 14, 1916, at the home of the bride's parents. Her sister and brother, Mrs. W. M. Hall Sr. and L. N. Ritter, attended the wedding and will be present again today—50 years later — to celebrate their anniversary.

THE GOLDENWEDS have two children, Dr. H. Ray Matthews of Alhambra and Mrs. Dan E. Baurac of Los Angeles; three granddaughters, Linda Ann Matthews, Josephine Neal Baurac and Seaman Toni Michele Baurac of the U.S. Navy Waves; and one grandson, David M. Baurac.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthews spent the early years of their marriage farming in central Texas. In 1940 they moved to California. Since 1945 Matthews has operated a barber shop in North Long Beach.

WEEKEND WEDDINGS

Couples repeat marriage vows

Vander Dussen-Balzer

George Vander Dussen and Mary Jane Balzer were united in marriage Friday in Artesia Reformed Church.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Stephen Humphrey Balzer, Artesia, and the late Mr. Balzer, was given in marriage by her brother, Capt. Stephen H. Balzer Jr., (USAF).

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown of imported silk organza over silk taffeta trimmed in Alenson lace. Her floor-length veil of silk illusion was bordered with Brussels lace and worn mantilla style.

HER ATTENDANTS were Mrs. Robert Nuckells, matron of honor; Marianne Vander Dussen, Judy Robinson, Edna De Jager, bridesmaids; and Barbara Boonstra, flower girl.

Edward Vander Dussen stood as best man for his brother. Ushering the 200 guests to their places were Sybrand, James and John Vander Dussen, Robert Nuckolls and Richard Cnossen. Benjamin Boonstra was ring bearer.

A BUFFET RECEPTION followed at Cerritos College Student Center.

The bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Sybrand Vander Dussen Sr., Artesia. Both were graduated from Artesia High School.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Northern California, the newlyweds will live at 18017 S. Jersey Ave., Artesia.

Taylor-Vaughn

Long Beach Third Ward Chapel, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, was setting for a Saturday exchange of vows by Judi Kay Vaughn and Gary Bruce Taylor.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Leslie D. Vaughn, 5210 E. Cedral St., and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin R. Taylor, 1903 Junipero Ave., Signal Hill.

An empire gown of silk organza and Alencon lace was worn by the bride. Her attendants were Ann Handy, maid of honor; Bonni Vaughn, Pam Conatser, Genae Gossling, bridesmaids; and Jill Vaughn, junior bridesmaid.

Ronald Vaughn stood as best man. Ushers were Larry Stucker, Les Beebe, Ron Gossling and Gary Vaughn.

More than 350 guests honored the pair at a reception in the church cultural hall.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Grand Canyon and San Francisco, the couple will live in Long Beach.

Mrs. Taylor is an alumna of Wilson High School. Her husband was graduated from Polytechnic High School.

BEAUTY EVERYWHERE

Visit to Hawaii calls for encore

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

Most of my friends and acquaintances have visited Hawaii and, having luxuriated in ample serendipity as well as all the pleasures they hoped for, either have returned or are gorging their piggy banks with that objective in mind.

Wanting to return to Hawaii can be a disease that sometimes proves near fatal. Take my own case: I have been there numerous times and it had become such a growing attachment that the last time I set foot there I caught myself inquiring about rentals on a permanent basis.

LOOKING BACK, I am aware that the disease hit me hardest on Kauai which I think is my favorite spot on earth; an island over which I invariably travel at a slow pace when possible in order that I may dream in its romantic past while hopelessly under the influence of its ethereal beauty.

Kauai, a mere dot in the world's biggest ocean with deep canyons and singing rivers, is not called the Garden Island for nothing. Nowhere on six continents have I encountered a more spectacular massed display of flowering plants, trees and vines in a setting unbelievably green. The rainbow must have been invented here. Certainly it is no wonder that Kauai was the favorite island of the early Polynesians.

Today's Kauai, like the other tempting Neighbor Islands, comes through with always-hoped-for but seldom-found dividends for the visitor: it has splendid highways over which carefully planned tours assure that little of the natural beauty will be missed; and some hotels like the Coco Palms which while blending so artfully with the landscape you would hardly know they exist, offer typical Hawaiian hospitality and luxurious comfort along with such amenities as the islands' traditional evening conch shell ceremony and dark-skinned native girls dancing to the lullaby of the hula.

WHAT SADDENS ME is that I have a few friends and neighbors—not many but a few—who have never been in Hawaii to drink in these sights and sounds and to grace their memories with them. This should not be, for it is easier to take off for Honolulu from Southern California than from anywhere else and to get there more economically and quickly—a little more than four hours by plane, or five never-to-be-forgotten days and nights on a luxury liner.

Understandably, Hawaii anticipates a million visitors a year by 1970. Maybe these underprivileged friends of mine will make it yet.

SS Canberra here Aug. 21

Vacationers whose travel plans have been frustrated by the U.S. airline strike can still make last minute arrangements for an ocean voyage to Mexico, the Carribbean or Europe on the superliner Canberra, leaving within two weeks.

Trips as short as three days to Acapulco or as long as 47 days to Europe and back are offered in a number of travel opportunities offered by the British steamship line.

Canberra will arrive at the Port of Los Angeles Aug. 21 with nearly half of its 2,000 accommodations available for last minute bookings, due to its delay in sailing caused by the British shipping strike.

Fares on the 16-day voyage to England start at $525 first class and $388 tourist. Shorter voyages to Nassau, Balboa and even Acapulco, with return by air, are available, the company reported. The fare to Acapulco on the Canberra starts at $144 first class and $115 tourist.

Ambassador Tours has a 47-day package that features round trip passage on the Canberra and an 11-day holiday in Europe for $998.

Brochures and information on the Canberra sailing are available at the Los Angeles office of the steamship line, 611 W. 7th St.

TRAVEL and RESORTS

HAWAII VISITORS will see—or may go—on a shoe-shedding picnic in almost any of Oahu's 32 beach parks, or on hundreds of spots on the Neighbor Islands.

JETTING THROUGH PARADISE

5 Hawaiian islands add up to adventure

By Dorothy Gale Vigil

It's good sense to explore five scenically different resort islands in Hawaii.

True, most holidayers still make Waikiki their headquarters, since Honolulu International Airport is only a half hour's drive away and passenger liners berth in downtown Honolulu, 20 minutes by taxi from Waikiki. But from Oahu they schedule all-exppense package or independent tours to Maui, Kauai, Hawaii Island and Molokai.

While Waikiki specializes in urbane beach life, international shopping, dining and entertainment, the Neighbor Islands are noted for the pace and atmosphere of "old Hawaii." They are the country cousins of sophisticated Oahu, site of the capitol at Iolani palace.

With the newly arrived inter-island jets, no resort island is more than a 40-minute flight from Oahu. Thus the expense of doing the grand all-island circuit is far from prohibitive.

* * * *

IN LESS TIME than it takes to glance over the Honolulu paper, you can jet to Kauai or Maui, with seaside resorts or mountain lodges available at either. Your plane shoots above coral reefs, occasional cavorting porpoises or whales, fishing sampans and often yachts under full canvas. Later you may see some of these sights aboard a deep sea fishing boat or excursion launch based on one of the Neighbor Islands.

You zoom above silvery pineapple and cane fields before landing. At Kauai you put down in the center of a sugar plantation and, stepping out of the airport, look up to Mt. Waialeale that dominates the entire landscape of the verdant Garden Isle.

In between swimming at pandanus-edged Kauai beaches, you'll drive to Waimea, a miniature Grand Canyon, cruise up the river to a fern-curtained cave or explore sea caves and fishponds built by the legendary menehues, Hawaiian elves. You can also visit a cactus and plumeria garden, a sea geyser and a hotel where Hawaiian lads light half a hundred torches among thousands of palms at cocktail time.

* * * *

ON THE ORCHID Island of Hawaii, site of part of Hawaii Volcanoes National Park, you'll motor through giant fern forests to reach recently active volcanoes. You'll tramp through lava tubes, fields of orchids and the one-time summer palace of Hawaiian kings.

At Kailua-Kona you'll try to boat a marlin or inspect a coffee plantation. In Hilo you may picnic in a Japanese-landscaped park or tour an orchid nursery. At Honokaa you might hire horses and ride into Waipio, the valley of the lost tribe.

Maui island likewise has volcanoes, tall ferns and wild orchids, waterfalls and good swimming beaches. In Iao valley stands a needle-like pinnacle that once inspired Mark Twain. Not far away, surfcasting from black lava rocks is a favorite sport and good horses are for hire in Kula uplands, where you ride by fields of carnations and akulikuli being grown for leis.

* * * *

MOLOKAI island is for you if you like off-trail sightseeing. There is a no-frills seaside inn, often headquarters for hunters of wild deer, goats and boar in the upper forests near 13,381 Mt. Nana. The fishing waters of Penguin bank, a submerged "finger" of the "Friendly Island," are among the richest and most untapped in Hawaii.

Getting back to Oahu, a circle trip is a must. You drive past the burying grounds of Hawaiian kings, then over a 1,000-foot gap in the Koolau Mountains. After this you might stop for a dip at any of the dozens of public beach parks. Most have water and cooking or camping facilities.

If it's Saturday, you may be taking in the hukilau, a fishing festival and feast put on by Windward Samoans to raise funds for their church. Farther on from Laie, the good paved road slides through cane and pineapple fields, plantation towns and Pearl Harbor before leading back to Honolulu and Waikiki.

All in all, five Hawaiian islands add up to more variety and adventure than just one. It's a fortunate visitor who sees them all!

NEARLY 200 VARIETIES of flowering orchid plants are on view daily at Foster Park Botanical Garden on the island of Hawaii.

Traveling with Stan Delaplane

PARIS — European room waiters carry a passkey. When they bring breakfast, they knock once and leap right into your room.

Americans, accustomed to waiters who wait for "Come in," are often surprised. When you order breakfast, keep your shirt on. And if you can't find the light switch in a French bathroom, look under the wash bowl—about knee level. Not always, but often it's there.

* * * *

"I understand you can buy an electric plug that will adapt our American plugs to European outlets."

TRUE. The European plug is two round prongs, wider apart than ours. Our flat-prong plug will fit into the adapter plug. You can buy them in some of our hardware stores or overseas. Look for electrical stores near big tourist hotels.

An adapter plug is NOT a transformer. It's just a way of getting your American plug hooked up to the electricity. No good at all for Britain or Portugal where they use 220 volts. (Our equipment is made for 110 volts.)

* * * *

"When we leave London for Paris can we change our English money back into dollars?"

YOU CAN. But don't do it. Buy French francs with it—either at London or Paris airport banks. Each time you change money, you pay a banker's fee. Pounds to dollars to francs simply adds one unnecessary transaction.

* * * *

"Where do you change money in Mexico please?"

AT THE BANKS. The rate is pesos 12.50 to the U.S. $1. Banks give you 12.49. Hotels go 12.45 or less—irritating since you know they get the full rate each day when they go to the bank. Pay your hotel bills in pesos, too. If you use U.S. cash or travelers' checks, they take the usual bite off the top. (An exception is the popular and inexpensive Hotel Geneve where you always get bank rate exchange.)

* * * *

"We have heard that you must have a license for a cigarette lighter when you go through Portugal. . . ."

NOT TOURISTS. If you live in Portugal, you must buy an annual license for your lighter. And when you get into Spain, be SURE to buy foreign lighter fluid. The local stuff can't be lit with a blowtorch. It gums your lighter forever. One of the mysteries is how they sell it. And who buys it.

* * * *

"Can you advise us on tipping in Japan?"

LOCAL PEOPLE — Japanese or foreigners — don't seem to tip anybody. If they do, it is really for extraordinary service of some kind. A true gift. I've had tips accepted in big tourist hotels. And I've had them refused.

A service percentage goes on hotel and restaurant bills. So you needn't tip hotel employes or waitresses. No tips for taxi drivers. Exceptions: the baggage porters at railways and airports live on their tips. Japanese out on the town usually tip the hat-check girls at nightclubs. Also the hostesses who sit with customers. (The hostess who baby-sits you has a fixed hourly charge. But she gets tipped too. Night-club spending gives you plenty face.)

At Japanese inns—ryokans—it's customary to leave a little extra with your maid. "Cha-dai" or "tea money." Envelope it. It's not nice to hand raw money around. She splits it around the rest of the staff.

Four-island cruises set for Lurline

Matson's luxury liner, the Lurline, will make three four-island cruises to Hawaii during the fall and winter months, it is announced by D. R. McCurdy, district sales manager, Los Angeles.

On each cruise, the big ship will visit the islands of Oahu, Kauai, Maui and Hawass. Each cruise is for 15 days, during which time the ship is the hotel for all passengers.

The first cruise, timed for the Makahiki, ancient Hawaiian Thanksgiving celebration, departs Los Angeles Harbor Oct. 29. A visit to each port will be marked by traditional games, lavish dances and ceremonies. A highlight of the trip will be the visit to Lahaina, on Maui, where the annual whaling spree will be under way.

On the second cruise, departing Los Angeles Dec. 21, shipboard companions will celebrate Christmas and New Year's at sea in addition to participating in happy holiday festivities in the islands.

The Lurline's Winter Paradise cruise will put out of Los Angeles on Jan. 28 on warming seas, and find Hawaii at a balmy 70 degrees under tropic skies.

Berlin popular

West Berlin continues to increase in popularity with travelers from abroad. Incomplete figures for 1965 indicate an increase of at least 11% over such tourism in 1964.

Vegas hotel will tower 36 stories

The tallest and most significant skyscraper in Nevada will tower over the 35-acre Aladdin Hotel, according to Milton Prell, president of the Prell Hotel Corp.

The Aladdin's new wafer-shaped addition—stretching 36 stories above the Strip—will encompass more than 700 new rooms and suites to mark the Prell resort as the second largest in Nevada.

A contract from the hotel corporation has been awarded to architect Martin Stern, Jr., Beverly Hills, for drawings of the new addition.

* * * *

THE TOP five floors will incorporate 50 of the most lavish guest suites in the resort industry, a 750-seat convention hall, elaborate men's and women's health clubs and two gourmet restaurants.

At the base of the new complex will be the main convention hall, seating 1,000 persons; a spacious subterranean exhibit area; a 1,500-seat showroom and 500-seat lounge; a motion picture and recording theater, and an indoor swimming pool.

The 1,000-seat convention area, coupled with the 750-seat convention section at the top of the skyscraper and the current 500-seat meeting area will place the Aladdin in the top of the convention market on the Strip.

Tax-free gems

Passengers in the Sky Shop at Brussels National Airport may now purchase cut diamonds on a tax-free basis. A guarantee, issued under the control of the Antwerp Diamond Board, certifies the stones for purity and weight in carats. No passengers, however, may enter the Sky Shop except those leaving Brussels by air for destinations outside the Benelux countries, reports Pan Am which serves Brussels by Jet Clipper.

HONOR SERVICEMEN ABROAD

Blue Star Moms begin project

Blue Star Mothers of America are returning service flags—a white banner with a blue star — to windows in honor of men and women serving military tours of duty in Viet Nam.

Founded in 1942 as a patriotic service organization, the national group is non-profit, non-political, non-racial and non-sectarian.

Membership is open to mothers, adopted and step mothers of sons or daughters who served in the armed services during World War II, the Korean conflict or are serving at the present.

Its goals:

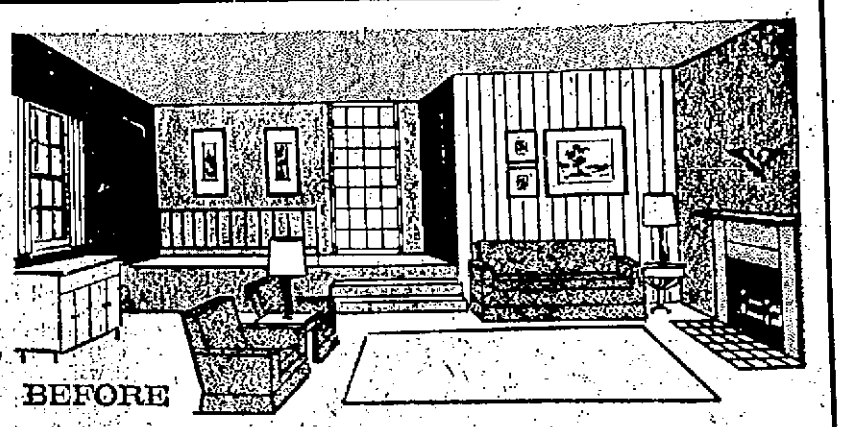

Support and study of legislation before Congress concerning welfare of veterans and the national security.

Providing services to Veteran's Administration Hospitals.

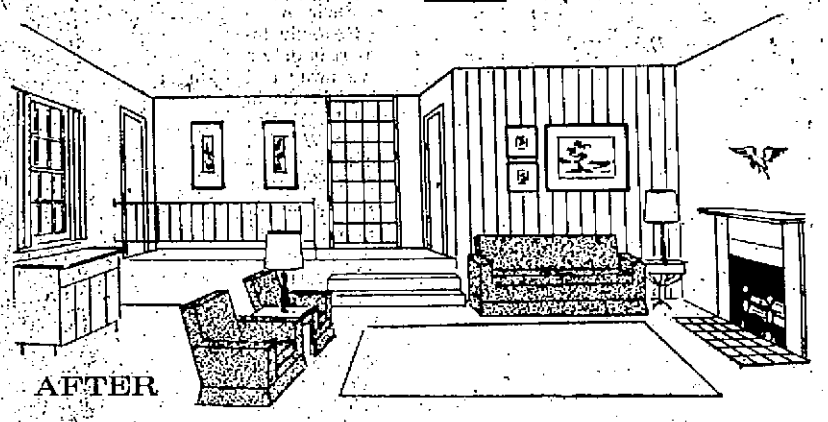

Participating in community projects and fund drives.

Regular business sessions of Long Beach Chapter 1 have been changed from morning to evening. Next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Thursday in room 209 of the YWCA Building, Sixth Street and Pacific Avenue.

If your rooms look too small---

BEFORE

AFTER

---try some color magic!

By JUDY HAZLETT
Home Furnishings Editor

Do you ever have the feeling the walls of the rooms in your house are actually closing in on you? Do you feel cramped, unable to be comfortable?

If you're planning to knock out a wall to give a "roomie" look . . . DON'T. It may not be necessary.

There's a trick you can play on yourself that is less expensive and can usually be as satisfying.

The secret: COLOR.

Sound silly? Well, before you jump to conclusions, sit down right now in the room under consideration and take this simple test:

1. What color are the doors? (Odds they're a natural wood tone).

2. What color is the woodwork? (More likely than not, it's a different shade than the doors—probably a light tint or white.)

3. Now, what about the walls—what color are they? (Doubtless a third color.)

4. And, finally, what color is the ceiling? (In most cases, a different shade than the walls—usually white.)

IF YOUR answers are, by some chance, the same then you're already a member of the "all one color" school of interior decorating. In this case, your room is just too small in area and you'd better drag out the sledge hammer and prepare for a "knock-out job." Removing a wall is probably the answer.

BUT, if you have answered with as many as four different colors or wood tones, or three or two, then read on.

According to Dick Johnson, AID, interior decorator at Buffums', a room will always look larger if walls, woodwork, and even doors are painted the same color.

The home decorating era when neutral beige was the Number One choice is dead, Johnson explained . . . now, patterns and bright colors are in the forefront.

But what about your room, you might ask? Should you use a light or dark color . . . small patterns . . . extremely bright carpeting?

The answers, of course, depend on the room.

But, generally speaking, according to Mr. Johnson, dark colors tend to give a feeling of infinity, pushing walls out—pushing ceilings up.

In the case of a white (or off-white) room, be careful of too many bright pieces of furniture. This choice is inclined to give that overwhelming look. White can, if used properly, act as a fence and pull walls downward.

Patterns should always be used discreetly, Mr. Johnson explained.

So, take a look around . . . which room of your home is getting smaller all the time? Bet there's at least one that needs a little enlarging.

Off hours pay off in $$s

By IOLA MASTERSON

When the breadwinner finds his (or her) income too low to provide the finer things of life for his family, he frequently becomes a multiple job holder.

In everyday parlance he is called a moonlighter. In addition to his regular job he works whatever additional hours he can, at whatever work he can find, to increase take-home pay.

As of 1965, when the last U.S. Department of Labor survey was taken, there were close to four million moonlighters in this country. The expression of moonlighter, as late as the 1950s, was a disparaging one.

The reason? Many assumed that the extra job holder was taking up work better given to the unemployed. But studies have found that's just not so. The moonlighter generally has a job an unemployed person wouldn't want or could not succeed at. The hours are too short and, frequently, the required skills too high.

Over the past decade, with the growth of service and sales industries and their appetite for part-time workers, finding extra jobs is easier.

But how do communities feel about civil and city employees working at other jobs?

Because their salaries are fixed, a U.S. Labor Department study showed, teachers, postal workers, police officers and firemen are the ones most likely to seek extra employment.

In Long Beach city employees may work up to 20 hours beyond their regular employment—but with certain definite rules. According to John Burkhardt of the city's personnel department, the department head must approve the job to be moonlighted by one of his employees. No work that interferes with his regular job or is incompatible with his duties for the city or his responsibility to the city would be approved.

For instance, a policeman definitely would not get an OK from his boss to serve as a part-time bartender. It would be incompatible with his position as a lawman. If he wanted to be a parttime gardener, door-to-door salesman (of an accredited product) or, let's say, store clerk, there would be no objection.

If the physical demands of the extra job are such that it impairs an employee's effectiveness on his regular job, no matter how proper, this would be disapproved. Also, the moonlighting could affect the worker's health, this is given careful scrutiny.

Neighboring cities all have similar rules with minor variations.

Lakewood, for instance, allows city employees to work 25 hours a week beyond regular job hours. All employees with extra jobs must file where they work and what they do and give exact hours spent.

If outside work results in a less efficient city employee, he could be subject to termination.

Seal Beach has no restrictions on hours spent moonlighting. But generally all other rules which pertain in Long Beach and Lakewood apply there.

Many newspaper reporters turn to free-lance writing as a means of padding their incomes, which is perfectly proper.

However, Buck Lanier, I,P-T naval affairs reporter, augments his weekly paycheck through a job offering him more pleasure than anything.

An accredited umpire with the Amateur Softball Association (also basketball and football official), Buck is always in demand.

With his energy he can keep up with all the ships at sea and every player on the field.

TELEVISION LOG OF THE EVENING NEWS AND THE INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM

BERT'S EYE VIEW

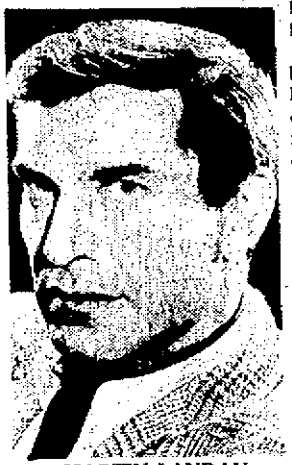

Sideline Spouse No Squelch for TV Smooch

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

MAKING TV LOVE to another man while your husband is on the sidelines watching is no more difficult than frying an egg sunnyside up.

Barbara Bain feels she can handle both —separately, of course—with poise.

The former high-fashion model stars in CBS-TV's fall "Mission: Impossible" Saturday espionage drama series. She plays a sort of American combination of Mati Hari and Marlene Dietrich.

MARTIN LANDAU

Her husband, actor Martin Landau, has the recurring role of Rollin Hand in the series and, in that capacity, is usually on hand when Barbara's scenes are being shot.

The pair, who have two daughters, Susan, 5½ years old, and Juliet, 15 months old, have been wed nine years.

"We met kissing other people in New York in an acting class," said Barbara. "He was the teacher and I was the greenest student."

She knows that her love scenes with other men doesn't bother her husband because both make differentiations between what is work reality and what is real life.

"If I see him kill somebody on the stage," she said, "I don't go home with him that night thinking I'm married to a killer."

There is more than just verbal differentiation definitions that distinguish the real from the reel.

"We know who we are," said Barbara. "We are keyed to each other."

THERE'S NO DENYING that each, as an individual actor, has a strong ego. It's part of the stock-in-hand of the acting game.

"But stronger than that," said Barbara, "is a deep respect for each other."

Her eyes twinkled.

"We're an unusual group," she added.

Producers of the series thought they had put in a call for an unusual characterization when they emphasized they wanted a girl who was very sexy, yet very elegant.

Barbara had no difficulty filling the role because, like other women, she knew something of which most men apparently are not aware.

"A woman can be sexy, elegant and the girl next door at the same time," said Barbara. "Woman is all these things, simply, not conflictually.

"Sex is not a separate thing. It is an intrinsic part of a woman, nothing to be self-conscious or frightened about."

Did Emily McLaughlin of "General Hospital" really just have a baby or was that just in the character of Jessie Brewer?

Mrs. J. A. Fullbright, Lakewood

Emily really had a baby nine years ago. His name is Robert Lansing Jr. Emily's husband, Bob Sr., formerly starred in "12 O'Clock High" and will be featured in a fall series, "The Man Who Never Was."

In TV why when you put on a picture do you have to play music? The way it is, it could break your ear drum.

Please tell them to cut the music on the picture when it's showing.

E. R. Stamm, Long Beach

If they do, E. R., our taxes will go up to support the influx of musicians that will need welfare aid.

* * *

Could you please tell me if Mary Ann Mobley is the sister of Mary Tyler Moore? Also, is it true that the music played on the TV show "Green Acres" is the same as that played on "The Double Life of Henry Phyfe?"

Bill Starr, Lakewood

Mary Ann Mobley, a former Miss America, is not related to Mary Tyler Moore who is almost everybody's Mrs. America.

The music on "Green Acres" and "Double Life" is not the same. Each are original themes. However, the music for both shows was penned by the same man, Vic Mizzi, who also is responsible for "The Addams Family" theme.

* * *

I recently learned that Patricia Morrow of "Peyton Place" will do a show for Walt Disney this fall.

Could you please supply more information?

Chrys Stone, Long Beach

Patricia will not appear in any Disney production. About 1½ years ago, she was approached to do a four-parter on "Disney's Wonderful World of Color." Shortly afterwards, she was considered for a role in a Disney film, "Happiest Millionaire." In both instances, her commitments to "Peyton Place" necessitated her turning down the Disney roles.

Could you tell me if the current "Smothers Brothers Show" is going to be purchased by any other channel so that my friends and I can enjoy the reruns?

Also, what color is the Mustang used on that show?

Anne McCready, Anaheim

Taking the last question first, the car is red.

No other station has yet purchased Smothers' repeats. There is a chance the boys may be back in 1967 or 1968 with an original, weekly variety show.

SPECIAL

AFTERNOON AT TANGLEWOOD—Erich Leinsdorf conducts a concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra featuring music of Wagner, Brahms, Prokofiev, Schuller and Tchaikovsky. The 2½-hour colorcast of the Berkshire Festival concert, from the orchestra's permanent summer home at Lenox, Mass., features two second-place winners of the 3rd International Tchaikovsky competition in Moscow, 20-year-old Beverly Hills pianist Misha Dichter and 19-year-old violinist Masuko Ushioda from Japan. Edwin Newman is commentator at 2:30 p.m., ch. 4, in color.

THE RIVER NILE—James Mason describes civilizations and present shore inhabitants along Egypt's famed river during a color hour at 6:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Ninth of ten repeats on an "Encore" series, award-winning Lou Hazam-produced hour includes the Sphinx, the Pyramids and the Temples of Abu Simbel, and records evidence of the Nile's impact on Egyptian economy and culture.

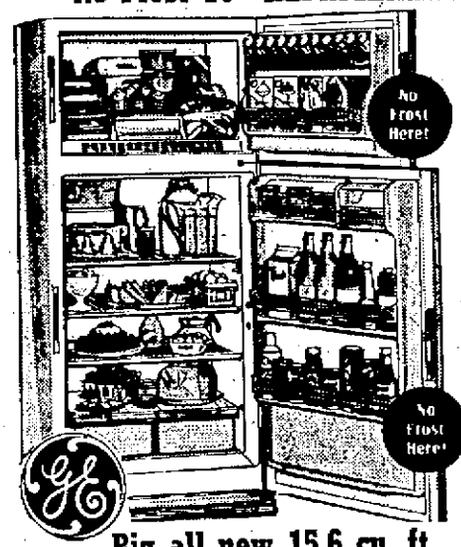

PREVIEW TONIGHT—Five hour-long pilot films, with a reported investment of $500,000 but no sponsor interest, take over the 8 p.m. hour on ch. 7 for the balance of the summer. Van Williams, who later made it with "The Green Hornet," stars in the opener with Paul Comi, David Thorpe, Dame Edith Evans and Jessica Walter. Dealing with the men of a lone-wolf submarine in the early days of World War II, "Pursue and Destroy" once had a berth on the fall ABC schedule, but later lost out to "Shane."

VIET NAM: The Village War—Jerry Dunphy and a KNXT camera crew spent five weeks with GIs in South Viet Nam last May recording the war against hunger, fear, disease and ignorance waged by dedicated Americans who, on their own time, help educate and heal the frightened South Vietnamesse people who still don't understand the shooting war. Result is an hour-long report, in color, to screen at 9 p.m., ch. 2, as told through the eyes of U.S. servicemen, including Lt. Col. Kenneth B. Facey of L.B.

SPECIAL

THE HOOFER—Another Desilu pilot film that wasn't sold comes briefly off the shelf for a screening at 8:30 p.m., ch. 2. This one stars Donald O'Connor and Soupy Sales as a pair of turn-of-the-century vaudeville dancers, unsuccessful in getting a decent booking. The buck-and-wingers finally corner a top agent in a gymnasium and sell him a bill of goods in a climactic acrobatic dance production number. Jerome Cowan, Jackie Coogan, Cliff Norton and Jolene Brand are featured. (Norton, incidentally, did make it to the fall schedule with CBS' "It's About Time.")

'Midnight Oil'

Luciana Paluzzi, Steve Allen and Jayne Meadows have been signed to star with Jonathan Winters in Universal's "Midnight Oil," a two-hour World Premiere feature for the NBC Television Network.

EXCITING SALES OPPORTUNITY

Lakewood's Chrysler-Plymouth dlr. desperately needs your immediate help. Hundreds of new 1966 Chryslers, Plymouths and Valiants must be sold. The "hot car line" in 1966 plus best resale and 5-yr. 50,000-mile factory warranty.

No gimmicks. No high pressure selling. Low profit O.K. Highest trade-in allowance. Better than best service located in the Lakewood shopping center. Must be 100% honest and ready to deal the old fashioned way. Contact sales dept.:

CRITICS' CORNER

Program: "A White House Wedding, aired by all networks.

Many of the tv newsmen spiced their narration with appropriate humor.

At one point when Nugent kissed his bride for the photogs, one of them shouted, "One more for the West Coast."

He complied and then thanked them.

A gag that has been making the rounds was picked by one of the reporters, that President Johnson lost a daughter but gained a vote, and a Republican at that.

Critic Helm of "Variety"

Program: "Heavyweight Championship Fight," aired by channel 7.

While the fight followed a predictable pattern, one could only be gratified anew at the technical knowledge that made possible its transmission live from London.

Except for a few moments—after the knockout, fortunately—the Early Bird satellite performed admirably.

So did the ABC-TV crew covering the fight. It's pre-fight training films and interviews were excellent as were the post-fight stop-action repeat shots of the knockout.

The whole performance was marred only by the lack of a contender of championship caliber, and you can't blame the Early Bird for that.

Critic Bert Resnik of "TeleVues"

* * * *

Program: "Mickie Finn's," airing Thursdays on channel 4.

An oasis amid the desert of reruns, "Mickie Finn's" has improved considerably since it preemed last April, filling the vacancy left by "Mona McCluskey." They have now flavored it with a slight variation in format, giving the guestar more to do than just come on, sing that song or two, and depart.

Most Valuable Advice

By RON HARPER

Co-Star of "The Jean Arthur Show" in Fall on Channel 2

I don't think it's possible for anyone else to have received the best advice given to me when you consider that the man who gave it to me was a white-haired, always smiling, lovely man named Albert Einstein.

RON HARPER

I was a student of politics at Princeton when Einstein taught there and I was also active in the University Theatre. Dr. Einstein loved Shakespeare and came to see our performances regularly. He used to come back stage and chat with us.

The first time I met him the first thing that struck me about him was that none of his clothing matched. He wore a maroon jacket and pinstriped trousers and a shirt with no tie. He wore sandals without socks. It was quite apparent that clothing—or any other material things—meant nothing to him.

During a chat one day I laughingly asked him if he thought I could earn my living as an actor and if my performance that day was good. He was very easy to talk to and enjoyed the company of young people.

A smile crossed his face and his eyes twinkled. He then asked me if I had felt good while doing it.

"Then that's what counts," the professor said. "Never worry if you were good or bad—just if what you were doing seemed the right thing for you to do. If you're satisfied and happy you will soon find out that the good will more than outweigh the bad."

Einstein, of course, has given more profound advice in his time, but to a young student with acting ambitions, every word of his advice was golden and I've never forgotten.

SECOND VIET 'WAR'

Food, Clothing, Medicine Principal Ammunition

By JERRY DUNPHY
Newscaster for Channel 2

All of us know that we are fighting an unrelenting war in Viet Nam against a ruthless enemy, but not too many Americans are aware of yet another war being waged there, the ceaseless struggle by our servicemen to befriend the South Vietnamese people.

This "second war" is the subject of an hour-long documentary entitled "Viet Nam: The Village War," which will be broadcast in color today (Sunday, 9 p.m., channel 2).

LT. COL. Kenneth B. Facey of Long Beach appears in Viet Nam special at 9 p. m. today (Sunday), channel 2, in COLOR.

I had the privilege of spending five weeks with a KNXT News unit in that war-ravaged country getting this story on film for our Southern California viewers.

* * * *

FOR THE documentary, we moved to forward areas and into small villages and hamlets where no American civilians had ever been. It is in these areas where this second war is being waged.

Our troops are fighting this war with the help of USAID, CARE and religious relief societies. Their ammunition is food, clothing, medicine and the remarkable compassion of our servicemen and their fondness for children.

This second war is considered to be as important as the shooting war. As Lt. Col. Kenneth B. Facey of Long Beach put it: "He who gets close to the people and wins their support and loyalty wins the war."

We hope you will have an opportunity to see how our fellow Americans are achieving this end.

* * * *

THIS SECOND war is a military operation and its objective is to strengthen the Vietnamese by helping them help themselves. For example, a vicious maneuver of the Viet Cong is to move into a village and kill its chief. This leaves the villagers without leadership and they then become easy prey to the VC.

The military objective is to counter this by strengthening village governments. In the case where a chief has been slain, our servicemen help the Vietnamese choose a new leader then work with him to solidify the village and train villagers to fight the VC.

Our troops move into an area and build hospitals and schools to treat the ill and injured and educate the young. The basic idea behind this is to win the hearts and minds of the people.

* * * *

OUR documentary is told by these front-line troops. To get as much as possible in the hour, we tried to avoid as much as possible having questions asked while the cameras were running.

We would pose a question to one of our troops and then film him and his answer. In many cases, the voice of a serviceman reports what is happening in a village while the camera records it. We found that we could get much more of the story in the space of an hour in this manner.

Soap Opera 'Frantic' for Movie Actress

By ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI)—JOAN BENNETT was a star in the great days of Hollywood when the journey to the studio was a leisurely limousine ride from a mansion to a dressing room the size of a luxury hotel suite.

There were flowers from the producer, the support of a small army of aides from secretaries to dialogue coaches and, if one cared for that sort of thing, a caviar and champagne lunch with such co-stars as John Barrymore, Spencer Tracy, Ronald Colman or Gregory Peck.

That was the Hollywood one would not blame Miss Bennett for recalling wistfully as she toils away the long hours in a studio on a dingy street in Manhattan in ABC-TV's daytime serial, "Dark Shadows." She is one of its most important featured players.

THE ECONOMICS of the world of the daytime serial permit no pampering. It is hard work. And Miss Bennett, still slim and elegant, was discovered in a tiny dressing room just off the ingenious set of what ABC calls "the first television program styled in the tradition of the Gothic novel."

"Let's find some place that's air-conditioned," she said.

Later, in one of the booth's in which sponsor's watch the programs, she talked with considerable good humor about her involvement in "Dark Shadows" and the tough schedule which, being a good trouper, she is learning to live with.

"It was frantic at first," she said, with a smile that smoothed the years. "I was really desperate the first few weeks. I thought I'd die. I was fighting with my agent for getting me into all this. But now its simmered down."

"In "Dark Shadows" Miss Bennett (the eighth generation of one of our most famous acting families) plays Elizabeth Stoddard Collins, mistress of the great stone mansion at the center of much of the mystery and menace of the program.

"ONE DAY'S WORK in this role is about the equal of three days work in Hollywood," she said. "Listen to this schedule: We arrive at 8:30 a.m. and we go to lunch —lunch, mind you—at 10:30 a.m.! Mine is usually a container of soup from a vending machine. We report back at the set at 11:30 a.m.

"Then we start taping the show. And as soon as we finish the taping we start rehearsing for the next day's episode! In order to keep the whole week from being frantic I have to study the script three hours on Saturday and three hours on Sunday. That leaves no time for a social life and I'm lucky if I can squeeze in a play or a movie or a dinner date."

Miss Bennett said she had seen herself only twice in the show and thought she looked "ghastly" because the overhead TV lighting made her appear as though she had no mouth. The lighting has since been adjusted. She finds it hard to accustom herself to the constant repetition of daytime scripts.

"But you have to say the same thing over and over again," she explained, "because you have to take into consideration new viewers trying to catch up with the story."

JOAN BENNETT . . . Called to Action

Miss Bennett spent a silent moment looking back over her long and distinguished career to see if there was anything she wanted mentioned.

"I could kick myself," she said, with feeling, "for not buying real estate in Hollywood all those years ago."

Colorful Change

Barton MacLane, who plays the regular role of General Peterson on NBC-TV's "I Dream of Jeannie," has beautiful white hair which photographs badly in color. MacLane's wife came up with the perfect solution, a special blue-platinum rinse which makes his hair a thing of beauty.

Long Beach Soldier TV Subject

A 22-year-old Long Beach native, Michael Frame, is the subject Monday of a half-hour television documentary on the transition of a civilian to a soldier.

The program will be aired at 9:30 p.m. on channel 28.

Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Frame. The father is with the Long Beach Fire Dept., and the mother, Vivian, is a realtor.

The program, including many scenes made in Long Beach, is entitled "GI Joe—1966." It follows Michael through his basic Army training.

Michael, before entering the service, attended Long Beach City and State Colleges. A graduate of Millikan High School, he attended Lowell elementary and De-Mille junior high schools.

Sports Today

BASEBALL, 1 p.m., ch. 4, has Jim Simpson and Tony Kubek at Candlestick Park for a secondary game between the San Francisco Giants and Atlanta Braves. (Primary colorcast, with the St. Louis Cardinals at Dodger Stadium, is blacked out locally but aired on San Diego's ch. 10.)

ABC's WIDE WORLD of Sports, 5 p.m., ch. 7, has Bill Flemming and Murray Rose at Lincoln, Neb., for the national AAU men's outdoor swimming and diving championships, and Jim McKay at Tyndall AFB, Panama City, Fla., with a color report of the USAF fighter interceptor rocketry meet.

DEL MAR Feature Race, 5 p.m., ch. 2, is the $15,000-added Bing Crosby Handicap for 3-year-olds at 6 furlongs.

NFL FOOTBALL, 6 p.m., ch. 2, gives viewers their first chance this season to see live Ram action as Gil Stratton and Don Paul, in Minneapolis, describe a pre-season tilt between the Rams and the Minnesota Vikings.

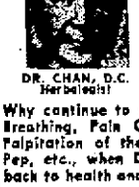

SPECIAL

LAWRENCE WELK — With "Continental Showcase" locally preempted by the Rams, Welk has the only first-run hour on the air tonight. "County Fair" is the musical theme for the 8:30 p.m. colorcast, ch. 7, with Barbara Boylan and Bobby Burgess dancing to that tune. The band and singers are featured in "Come to the Fair," "Baby Elephant Walk" and a medley from "The Music Man," while "The Merry-Go-Round Broke Down" features Larry Hooper with the Lennon Sisters, Barbara Boylan and Natalie Nevins.

Jewel in Rough

Nudie Johnson, the cowboy tailor who outfitted Chill Wills and Andy Devine for ABC-TV's "The Rounders," became so interested in the modern cowboy comedy series that he wangled a bit part in the show.

The day of his big walk-through scene, Nudie dressed up for the occasion by wearing some $10,000 worth of jewelry: three diamond rings, a diamond horseshoe stickpin, a watch decorated with $5, and $20 gold pieces and a belt of silver dollars.

Huntley Leaves for Viet Nam

New York Times Service

Chet Huntley, who with David Brinkley makes up TV's most celebrated reportorial team, announced recently that he was going to Viet Nam in mid-August to cover the preparations for the Sept. 11 elections there.

Huntley, a long-time critic of stay-at-home reporters who read the scripts of other men, had some harsh words for the widespread practice. "We've had a horrible thing going in television journalism," Huntley declared. "The producers of TV documentaries have been virtually unrestrained in their efforts to bring in the 'show.'

"We journalists frankly seem left out of it. It's about time we got the journalists out there in the field."

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

MISS RULE: Several months ago I requested genealogy on THOMAS. Are you picking only the ones you favor?—K.B., Long Beach.

LETTERS are answered in the consecutive order in which they are received. My request mail is heavy and I try to "favor" everyone. THOMAS was an English given-name honoring the Apostle St. Thomas whose name signified "a twin." Thomas became a family surname by 1200 A.D., recorded in many parts of Britain. Welsh Thomases from west England descended from Thomas Ap (son of) Llewellyn, last king of South Wales. This family used the Welsh royal shield, a rampant gold lion on a red, gold-bordered background. Capt. Nathaniel Thomas, morn in Wales in 1606, migrated to Massachusetts, where he married Jennie Briggs. Her father arrived on the Mayflower in 1620.

MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on RAINES, RAINS — C. R., Garden Grove, L.D., D.H., Long Beach.

RAINES and RAINS are from "Regin," a warrior name meaning "son of the mighty one." The Pipe Rolls parchments of England's King Henry II list Richard de Raines in 1165. The Raines motto, "Judicum parium aut leges terrae," translates from Latin as "We abide by the judgment of our peers or the laws of the land." The Yorkshire Raines shield is black, emblazoned with a silver chevron between three rampant silver lions.

MISS RULE: Please inform us on BREITHAUPT—A.B., Long Beach.

BREITHAUPT of Germany is a physical description of the progenitor and means "man with a broad head." The Breithaupt armorial shield from the German duchy of Saxe-Coburg is divided crosswise. The upper half is silver, decorated with a gold lion holding a gold numeral "4" in its paws; the lower half has three vertical red stripes on a silver background.

MISS RULE: Would like the origin of COLLEY—C.A., Garden Grove, F.C., Long Beach.

COLLEY of Ireland began as the clan name MacColla. In ancient Gaelic MacColla designated "Sons of the dark one." The Colley Irish shield is gold, decorated with a red rampant lion.

LUTZ began as a German nickname taken from "Luot-Wig" (Louis in English) meaning "Famous warrior." Luot-Wig was shortened to Luot, then expended to Lutz meaning "young Louis." The

Q. Aside from people, what does city air pollution damage? I see stories about its costing many millions of dollars a year.—I.D.

A. Some months ago the New York Times said: "Among the identified elements of damage from polluted air have been deterioration of stone building fronts, rusting of metal, increased consumer costs for cleaning of clothing, disintegration of nylon stockings, crop losses, shortened life of coatings of paint, increased taxes for repairs to public buildings, and a variety of other costs for householders and business men." The national economic loss caused by dirty air is estimated at $11 billion or more each year. This is in addition to the costs of sickness and death attributed to poisons and irritants in the air.

Q. By whom was the underworld of San Francisco first called "the Barbary Coast?" P. R.

A. In his book "The Barbary Coast," Herbert Asbury says: "The identity of the nomenclatorial genius who first bestowed this savage but glamorous designation upon San Francisco's underworld has not been preserved for posterity, but in all likelihood he was a sailor who had been impressed by the similarity of the quarter, in men if not precisely in methods of murder and robbery, to the Barbary Coast of Africa. In any event, the phrase was

It was on Aug. 14, 1945, with a huge invasion force massing for an expected bloody battle through Japan, that the Land of the Rising Sun laid down its arms, ending four weary years of war for the United States.—The Editor.

Countless U.S. servicemen were headed toward bloody invasion of Japan 21 years ago today when Nippon surrendered, ending World War II.

Aug. 14 Was the Day the Firing Stopped

No Man Ever Forgets How His War Ended

By Mark Clutter

EVERY MAN'S WAR ends in a different way—and no man ever forgets how his war ended.

I was the yeoman of LST 1090 but had transfer orders to Pearl Harbor and headed, I guessed, toward an invasion of Japan when we came to Tinian and Saipan in July of 1945. The sea was filled with shipping, and the B-29s, looking like great silver geese, took off every morning in flocks for the "milk run" to Japan.

We knew then that America would win the war—but we believed we would do it the hard way, fighting on the blood-drenched beaches, fighting from village to village, fighting in the alleys of great cities, fighting with tooth and knife. We had reason to know the courage of the Japanese.

At Saipan I was transferred as a passenger to an LST going to Pearl Harbor. I had no illusions that I was going away from a war. Rather, in my new assignment as a Navy journalist, I felt sure that I would hit the beach in Kyushu.

LONG WAR duty, bad seamanship and bomb hits had turned the LST into a tub of rust, a derelict. We sailed with a group of other ships for a few days. One morning we awoke in fright. There was no noise. Navy ships normally clank, shriek, moan or hum. This one was dead in the sea. And we were in the doldrums. The Pacific was flat as a pond.

There were six passengers, all college men. The boatswain's mate organized us into a work party and taught us to chip rust and paint. We did a seamanlike job and talked, talked, talked during the three-week voyage to Pearl. One motor was fixed and our speed was five knots.

We talked of literature and politics and art and science and our ambitions and sex and war and sex and war and sex and war. Being young, we were experts on such subjects. We wore shorts and were brown as Polynesians.

ONE AFTERNOON a radioman came on deck and said, "I don't know whether to believe this or not. I just heard that we dropped an atom bomb on a Japanese town. I didn't get its name but I have never heard of it."

"Lord have mercy on us," said one of the passengers, a physics major. "I knew it could happen but I didn't think it would be in this war."

Men throughout the ship seemed to sense immediately the immensity of the deed. History, they knew, had entered a new era. Nothing would ever be the same again. The day was Aug. 6, 1945.

That evening Air Force Gen. "Hap" Arnold delivered a radio address to the fleet in which he told of the destruction and predicted an early end of the war. "The age of Buck Rogers has arrived," he said.

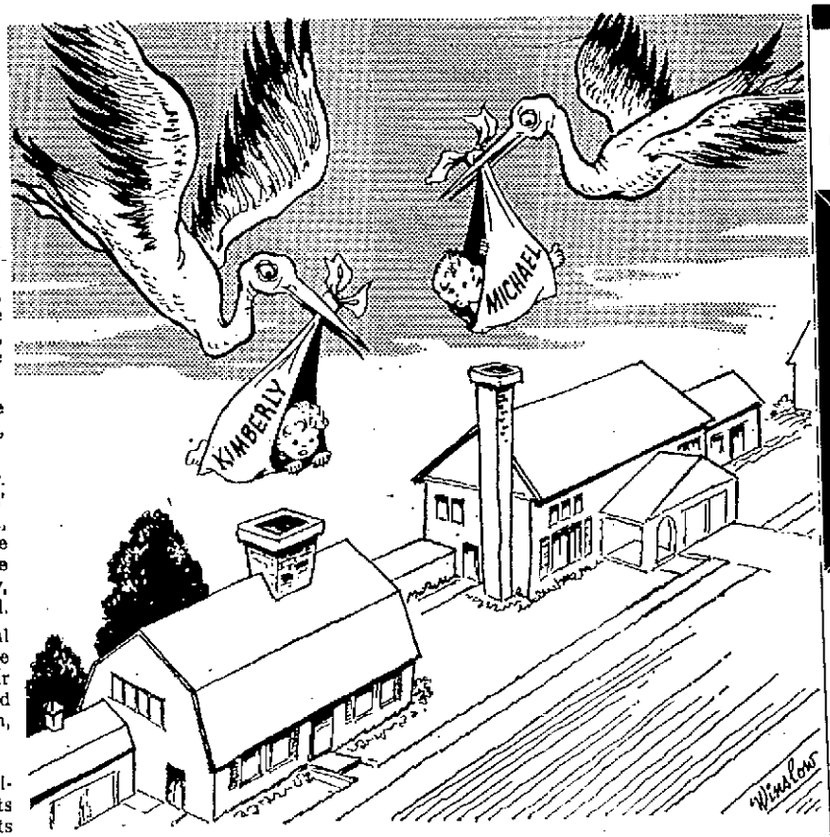

It is hard to describe our mood. We knew that we would see our beautiful America again. But there was also a feeling of awe and dread. Victory was not a heady drink. It was brackish and flat.

I PERSONALLY felt frustrated. I am no hero and I had been building my courage for the day of battle. But I never heard a gun fired in anger. I knew that I would never know whether I was a brave man.

And I thought of my friends who had died and how their valor was superseded by the gadget.

Wars do not end easily. I spent months in Pearl and in Japan before I was to see the giant message, "WELL DONE," on a hill above San Diego Harbor.

Every man's war ends differently, but surely all veterans remember a stunned reaction to that day at Hiroshima.

The Bard Asked What's in a Name . . . The Answer Is: Plenty!

By Any Other Name

By Frank L. Remington

TWENTY YEARS or so from now, a lot of Michaels may be marrying Kimberlys.

Kimberly is the No. 1 name among baby girls born in Long Beach this year, says City Health Officer Dr. I. D. Litwack—and Michael is first choice for boys,

Ranking after Kimberly, the favorite' girls names are Michele, Jennifer, Victoria, Renee and Julie, says the health officer.

And after Michael come David (a close runner-up), Todd, Steven and Joseph.

Ten years ago, says Dr. Litwack, the favorite girls' names were Mary, Patricia, Linda and Barbara and the favorite boys' names were William, Kevin, Gregory, James, Charles and Richard.

A spokesman for Memorial Hospital says the favorite girls' names there this year are Kimberly, Rhonda and Shirley. With boys it's John, James and Michael.

THERE ARE few Percivals, Aloysiuses or Egberts anymore, for most parents have learned a lesson taught painfully through the years:

A name is more than a means of identification, much more.

Unfortunately some of us old timers are stuck with horrendous handles—names that make each rollcall or introduction a dread ordeal. Recently over 3,000 interviewed by Harvard University investigators revealed that persons saddled with peculiar, unpopular or mirth-provoking names experience difficulty in adapting themselves to life.

Modern psychologists agree that a name can be a powerful asset or liability and that a disliked name can lead to a neurosis.

Workers, movie stars and businessmen know a name can spell success or failure. A man may be as handsome as a matinee idol and very likeable, but if his name is Benedict Arnold, Zelig Badfibber, George Bass Fish, or Ladislaw Wrebinski, he may encounter detours on the road to success.

Ladislaw Wrebinski, a factory worker in Rochester, compiled a spotty and erratic production record. He gave his foreman evasive answers and excuses for poor work and frequent absences. His wise foreman sent him to the company psychologist, where the embarrassed Wrebinski admitted: "I hate my name and shrink every time it's called out in the shop or at union meeetings!"

"How about calling yourself Larry Williams?" the psychologist suggested. "You can keep your old initials and have a new, Americanized name to boot." So Wrebinski became Williams and shortly his production record soared and his absences dwindled to zero.

IN SPITE of the difficulties they might be causing their offspring, each year thousands of moms and pops dip into the bizarre basket for names.

Not long ago a man was pulled to the side of a Southern California road for a traffic violation and when he handed his driver's license to the officer, the officer blinked twice. The errant driver's name was Safety First.

When W. 5/8ths Smith of Homerville, Ga., tells his name people must consider him slightly looney. Though uncertain, it's believed W. 5/8ths boasts the only fractional name in the country.

The courts recognize that humorous and unusual names, as well as those with upleasant connotations, can sound awkward, open their owners to ridicule and can be a distinct liability. It is estimated about 1 in 3 of us wish we could be called something else and each year about 60,000 people do legally change their names.

Theophilous Paschniewski found life simpler as Phillip Pack When Hitler came to power, there were two Hitlers and eleven Hittlers in the New York telephone directory; before World War II ended there were none.

Hundreds of cinema celebrities choose new names. Alexander Archibald Leach became Cary Grant and Frances Gumm, Judy Garland. Film fans cotton much better to Doris Day than Doris Kappelhoff and Roy Rogers instead of Leonard Slye.

THE NAMES we give our children may well hinder their chances for success and happiness. A child's name can affect his whole outlook on life, perhaps give him an inferiority complex. Two Harvard professors discovered that students with bizarre first names have more than their share of flunk-outs and social maladjustment in college.

Both boys and girls are most likely to be touchy about the humor their names may inspire. Simons don't like to be asked if they're simple; Gertrudes hate to be Gertie if they're not from Bizerte; Priscillas aren't really waiting for John Alden.

Parents of questionable humor stick their ofspring with rhyming or alliterative names such as Jerry Derryberry, Abner E. Abernathy, Richard Richards and even Brown Brown.

Some parents concoct odd sounding names in an attempt to be different. There is Homa, for example. He was the second-born of twins. Since the double event occurred in Oklahoma, the parents named the first Okla and the second Homa. Mr. and Mrs. Sunset christened their daughter Pink.

Boys' object to uncommon or "sissy" names that open them to ribbing. Any parents who tab their boy Cuthbert, Egbert, Percival, Cavendish

MANY YEARS IN THE LONG BEACH,

Just a Little Gift for You, My Dear

By Art Vinsel

IT MAY BE more blessed to give than to receive, but sometimes just giving in itself can be a blessed bother. Especially when the intended recipient is 19, cute—and suspicious of any man's motives.

My motives are just like Ivory Soap, 99 and 44/100% pure most of the time, but that other 56/100% is what you have to watch out for.

You can't really call it payola, but one in awhile a newspaperman who may be writing a feature story is offered a sample of what he's writing about, to help in producing the finished item. Call it complimentary research assistance, why don't we?

Anyway, it was my pleasure recently to visit a marketplace, which ultimately led to the acquisition of a quite marvellous Cattalya orchid. Delicately fluted at the edges and swelling from a fragile pink to an opulent violet in the whorls of the inner blossom, it was a beautiful flower. But then it clashed with my Paisley tie and besides, if I wore it some people would be scandalized.

SO IT WAS only natural that I present it to some young lovely, because beauty should be shared — with equal beauty whenever possible—and I began thinking of candidates.

My saintly, swingin' mother was on vacation in Kansas, making hay with my gasoline credit card, so she wouldn't do. Besides, I was barely making enough hay on my own to meet the challenge of that rapidly burgeoning bill for gasoline, oil, tires and a starter, which was why I was out at 3 a. m., working on a feature story after a regular eight-hour shift as police reporter ended.

Suddenly, I knew who should have the orchid.

I drove to her office—a rather relaxed place even when it should be hectic — with visions of her appreciative delight dancing in my fatigue-fogged head. By that time, I had been up for 26 hours.

"Whatcha got in the box?" she cooed seductively.

(She's one of the few girls around who can be surly and charming at the same time.)

"A present for you," said I.

SHE TOOK a slight backward step, clasping a suntanned hand to her bosom.

"All right," she demanded, "what is it?"

Her eyes might have been those of the Welcome Wagon staff from whom Manhattan Island was bought with beads. After, however, they became a little more savvy about property values.

She lifted the box from the counter gingerly, gave it a tentataive shake, then dropped it and declared it was empty.

"I bet it is not," I replied, "go ahead and open it."

She warily circled the silent, unmoving carton, like a bluetick hound with a cornered skunk, obviously piqued by the idea of me giving her an honest-to-goodness, well-meant present.

"It" she declared unequivocally, "is going to either bite me or embarrass me."

"Take your chances then," I declared hurling a bitter but rather fey laugh across the counter.

SHE EYED the box with renewed interest and a concentration bordering on X-ray vision and solemnly pronounced: "It's a caterpillar."

"Decide for yourself," I parried.

Carefully lifting it, she rattled the box decisively. The shredded waxed paper bed within rustled audibly.

"There's sand in it," she cried triumphantly and with malice "it's probably a great, big sand flea!"

Noting that it was now 27 hours since my tension-knotted self had known the comforts of sleep, I was almost ready to give up.

"Jan" I muttered dizzily, "will you open it?"

She crept into the back room so no one could see, just in case I had fooled her with some creepy-crawling thing of the type that "goes bump in the night" as the poet said.

Lifting off the lid, she found only a mass of crinkly waxed packing paper.

A Pert Young Lass Sets Her Sights on

The Long Road to the Olympics

By Ev Hosking

AS FAR AS PERT, young Kathy Wenberg is concerned, the Wright brothers did a lot more than get an airplane off the ground for the first time.

What the Wright brothers did, besides make an aeronautical breakthrough, was provide the lift that carried this 16-year-old lass to the Junior National three-meter diving championship.

But the Wright brothers were not alone in providing a springboard for her championship rise. Mixed into the story are the Fourth of July, a leading Olympic diving coach and Miss Wenberg's entire family, plus a well-traveled desk and an unending drive for perfection.

The interesting bit of confusion all began when the Wright brothers were the excuse for a memorial picnic which happened to be on the Fourth of July five years ago at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

A local coach saw the then 11-year-old youngster frolicking in the swimming pool and told her father, Maj. Walter A. Wenberg, now with the Air Force Space Systems Division at El Segundo, that she was a natural diver and should start training for the Olympics at once.

"Daddy was pretty skeptical," the attractive teenager said last week. "But he didn't object when I wanted to enter an invitational diving meet the next week."

She came in fourth in the 11-12 age group, and climbed out of the pool to tell her father that she had decided to become an Olympic champion.

IN THE FIVE YEARS since that time, her faith in her ambition has not wavered. She has gone on to place second in the 1966 Senior Women's AAU Indoor National Diving Championships (one meter); eighth in the three-meter diving in the same event; and then top spot in the 1966 Junior Nationals. Her goal now is the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City.

The climb from a tumble in a Fourth of July pool to national champion hasn't been easy.

Sacrifices had to be made by the entire family. For Kathy herself, this has meant practicing three to five hours each night for three nights a week during the school season and as much as eight hours a day during vacations.

Between excursions to the pool, she still practices—even in the living room. While reading or looking at TV she works at leg and toe stretch exercises.

One of the problems the family has had has been to find top coaching for the Olympic hopeful.

They found such a coach in Jack Roth, internationally-known diving authority, in Palos Verdes. Roth is still her teacher since the family moved to San Pedro when Maj. Wenberg was transferred to the Space Systems Division.

While Maj. Wenberg was assigned with the Air Force missile programs at Norton Air Force Base at San Bernardino, he would rush home from work to drive her to Palos Verdes for her lessons.

In order that Kathy could continue her diving and still not hamper her school program, Maj. Wenberg rigged up a "study" in the rear seat of his car. The so-called study consisted of a light and a desk where Kathy studied on the way to and from her diving lessons.

In driving Kathy to lessons and taking her to diving meets all over the country, the family has driven more than 200,000 miles. There is no subsidy, all expenses come from the family's limited budget.

BUT NO ONE MINDS the sacrifices. Kathy's diving has become a family affair, and they regulate their lives on a schedule to assist her training and attendance at meets.

"If we are sacrificing anything, we are gaining more," Maj. Wenberg says.

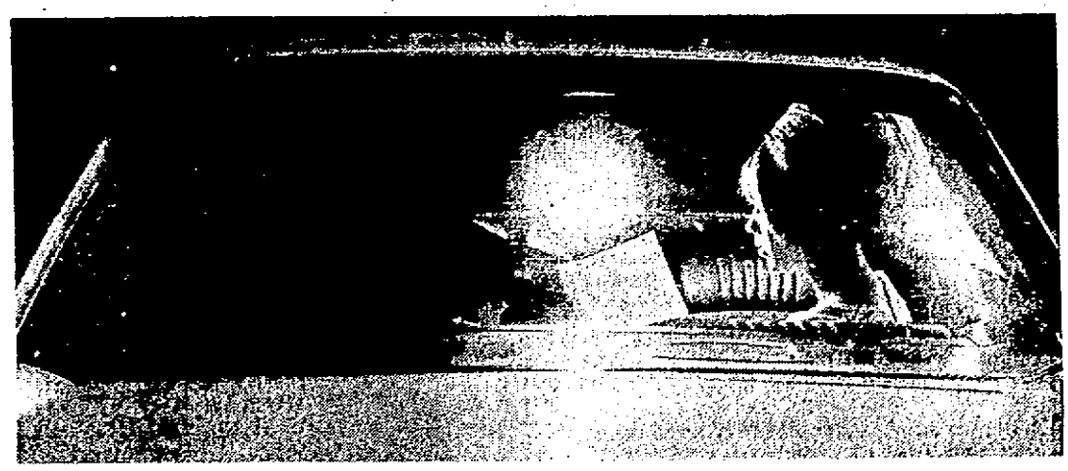

Since that Fourth of July picnic in 1961 she has entered more than 30 meets and has won at least a trophy medal or ribbon in every one.

It hasn't been easy, and there have been moments of heartbreak. In the last Los Angeles Invitational Meet she was leading on points in the one and three-meter events when she injured her hand. She couldn't hold with the hand and had to put it under her knee instead of grasping the knee as form demanded.

Even so, she managed to take fifth place against national competition.

ALTHOUGH HER Olympic dreams started on the Fourth of July, 1961, Kathy has been in the water for 15 of her 16 years. By the time she was 5½ her father—a water enthusiast since his own youth—put her in a life jacket and taught her to water ski.

And right now it looks like the pretty 16-year-old San Pedro water baby who does her studying in the back seat of the family car has a chance to achieve her ambition and become the women's Olympic diving champion.

Practice (top photo) is what makes perfect, but it cuts into school study time, so Kathy Wenberg wastes no time, uses back-seat desk to do homework on way home from workouts.

The Peaches-and-Cream Mule Skinners

By A. C. McLeod

Modern-day femme trailblazer is Carol Spaeth, who was pioneer muleskinner at Disneyland five years ago and now is driving team of horses at the park.

WHO ever heard of a mule skinner with blonde hair, blue eyes, pretty smile and peaches-and-cream complexion?

Well, that's the way they grow them in Disneyland.

And this year, Carol Spaeth, who broke the all-male mule skinner tradition at the "Magic Kingdom" five years ago, has opened up still another man-sized job for the girls by becoming the Park's first female surrey driver.

Disneyland has eight other equestriennes leading mule trains through Nature's Wonderland.

According to Disneyland's Pony Farm director, Owen Pope, the young women add a fresh, feminine touch to the Mule Train adventure that has made it especially popular with park visitors.

The job is not one for "dudes" or "drugstore cowgirls." Disneyland's horsewomen are working hands who must care for their animals when they are not guiding them down the Frontier trail.

Carol is one of four young women on a year-around basis. The other girls work during the summer season. Some of them are housewives and mothers, others college students.

EACH OF the lady wranglers has experience riding and working with animals. Carol, who grew up on a California ranch, has won many horse show and rodeo events, including a 100-mile endurance ride.

When she isn't working at Disneyland, Carol has another rather unusual job. She is a horse trader, buying steeds at auction and reselling them.

The addition of women mule skinners has made the Frontierland pack train more popular, according to Pope, because it has eliminated some superstitions about the cordiality of mules. When female guests see the girls handling the eight-mule trains with ease, they know that the mule's renowned balkiness is just an old husband's tale.

The saddle trip attracts guests of all ages. Grandparents seem to get as big a thrill as little tots, according to Carol. Winding along the trails of Nature's Wonderland is a delight for expert horsemen and novices alike.

THE TRAIL passes through back woods of Beaver Valley, Bear Country and the Living Desert.

Some guests with riding experience object to being strapped aboard their mule, a necessary safety precaution. Most, however, including experts like Harley May, a world bronc riding champion, are understanding about the procedure, Carol said.

In an era when the horse is fading from usage, working stock remains an important part of the Disneyland show. The Park has 15 draft horses, 16 ponies, 98 mules and 60 burros, all stabled at the Pony Farm.

Though they must work

One of Disneyland's nine women wranglers leads a group of guests through Frontierland town at end of a scenic trip. Lady wranglers are not "drugstore cowgirls," they are thoroughly experienced in the handling of horses, mules and burros.

The Dusty Trail

Off on another adventure, El Zopilote heads across cracked desert in Mexico, taking Long Beach expeditioners on perilous (but not dangerous) journey of uncertainty.

and the Lusty Tale of El Zopilote and Friends

By PAT McDONNELL

SOMEWHERE in the city of Long Beach, a 1951 panel truck named El Zopilote is barreling through the streets, leaving bits of rust and burning oil behind.

Now, El Zopilote is no ordinary truck, as you've probably already guessed. He's a battle-scarred veteran of more than two dozen skirmishes south of the border, where he has borne his owner and friends in quest of adventure.

His tattered and battered chassis has excelled the feats of many a conquistador's steed as he's pushed forward more than 207,000 miles—approximately 10,000 more than when his master nearly deserted him a year ago in the Baja wastelands.

Trusty iron steed of Long Beach adventurers drew scoffing stares of Mexican natives in horse-drawn cart during time of El Zopilote's temporary illness. Iron horse recovered.

His union with Charles R. Smith of Long Beach began in 1963 when Smith, then an undergraduate student majoring in zoology at California State College, Long Beach, purchased him for $300.

An aficionado of the ways of Mexico, Smith's sole intent in buying El Zopilote was to facilitate a few quick trips south of San Diego, for it was obvious to all that the little truck's days were numbered.

But Smith's mechanized friend has been so faithful and trusty that he now serves as his master's conveyance to and from work each day at the Long Beach Naval Station as well as serving as a chariot on dates (girls, it's a charming way to travel —at first).

Soon after Smith and El Zopilote (which means "the buzzard") came together, a change came over the trusty iron steed. It sprouted, at its stern, a roof-like appendage of canvas that was calculated to shade his long-tour companions when dining alongside a Mexican roadside.

NATIVES BECAME accustomed to The Buzzard's unique roof and hand-painted signs reading "Se Venden Huevos y Pescados." (Fish and Eggs for Sale.)

At times El Zopilote's pride has been hurt. He still smarts over the memory of natives, sitting in the back section of a horse-drawn car, who laughed at his appearance as they and their nag passed him on a dirt road.

But there are other times when The Buzzard feels he's doing his part as a good-will ambassador.

Take, for instance, the incident in the Indian village of San Isidro.

HE WAS RESTING outside a tiny cantina, where his passengers were refreshing themselves, when along came a tired Mexican laborer.

A native, under no circumstances, disturbs the vehicle of a turista from north of the border, but El Zopilote looked no different than the trucks owned by many Mexicans, so the man decided to have his lunch while sitting on Zopi's rear bumper.

Granted, the poor fellow did drop a couple of tortillas when Smith and his friends approached. In fact, the startled fellow shook his head in wonder as he watched the truck and companions start down the road.

But the Indian really looked bewildered when the bailing wire holding El Zopilote's springs together broke at the city's only intersection. Three leaves of the right rear spring clattered to the street, but The Buzzard's friends weren't inclined to stop.

THE INDIAN STILL was scratching his head as he watched the truck keeling at a dangerous angle to the right and disappearing into the horizon.

El Zopilote's closest brush with extinction was the time the fellows (Smith, Lloyd Findley, a UCLA graduate student, and Tom Richards, a University of Maine post graduate) were searching for rattlesnakes in Baja California.

The iron steed lost his patience somewhat when the boys came across an odoriferous pile of discarded tomatoes and started to pelt one another. But imagine the humiliation when after a few of the tomatoes splattered across the truck's backside, the chaps thought it would be amusing to paint him red.

Zopi reached the proverbial boiling point when the citizenry of San Vicente started laughing at the sight of a victim of a rotten tomato fight.

When the fellows rinsed him off with tepid water from a long unused well, his fuel line gave a ping and was no more.

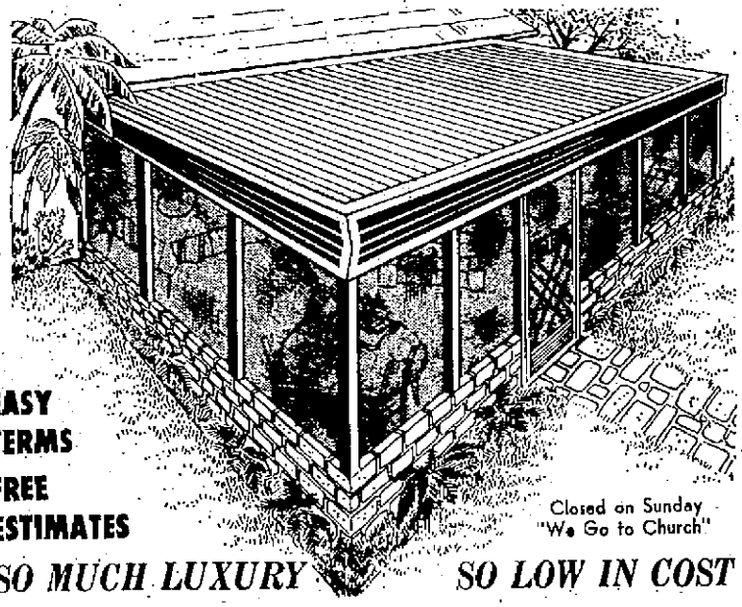

NOW, THE OTHERS were for leaving him there, but The Buzzard's loyal owner would have none of it.

A serious zoology student never goes

Passengers group under Lufthansa jetliner, ready to embark on one of first trans-globe commercial flights from Long Beach's now-international airport.

A 'Local' Airport Goes International

By M. E. Everett

LONG BEACH is the International City —a well advertised fact.

But the fact that Long Beach Airport is becoming an international crossroads of the air isn't nearly so well known.

It isn't a new role for the city's airport, for during World War II as headquarters for the Western Division of the Air Transport Command it demonstrated its traffic-handling capability when a plane was taking off or landing every minute of the day or night to or from some far-flung spot on the globe.

But it is a completely new operation in the modern jet age of air transportation.

One of the largest of the international air carriers has already moved its operation to Long Beach Airport, and more such moves are in prospect, according to Nicholas Dallas, the city's director of aeronautics.

Lufthansa, the German national airline, is currently operating from Long Beach Airport.

THE SUCCESSFUL and efficient manner in which Lufthansa has handled its traffic through here has caused other international carriers to seek facilities here, Dallas said.

During the current month, Lufthansa has 11 scheduled inbound flights from Europe and 11 outbound flights are slated to head for European capitals via the North Pole.

The international traffic has made it necessary for Dallas to arrange a number of innovations for the airport — including facilities for the Department of Immigration, U. S. Public Health Service, Department of Agriculture and the U. S. Customs Service, which the airport never had before.

Despite the complexity of embarking on international travel, it has been possible to process an entire planeload of passengers for a Boeing 707 through the local facilities in less than an hour.

"Our best time is 52 minutes," Dallas said, "but we plan on beating that."

A PECULIAR combination of circumstances—including the most modern of airports with the latest navigational facilities, easy access to any Southern California community, and freedom from the high-density traffic that plagues Los Angeles International Airport—has caused the larger international air carriers to seek Long Beach for their type of operation.

Physical facilities plus the ease of access are probably the most attractive features of Long Beach Airport to the foreign carriers, in the opinion of Dallas.

Captain (right) and crew of German jetliner pass through customs inspection station, a new facility at Long Beach Airport. Inspector is Duane Wordon.

Passengers wait for baggage at outdoor racks added to facilities at Long Beach Airport to handle greatly increased load since Europe-direct flights began recently.

Ease of access, he says, is particularly important. Long Beach Airport, only a stone's throw from the San Diego, Garden Grove, San Gabriel and Long Beach Freeways, is within easy reach of residents of almost any Southern California community.

Physical facilities provide a traffic handling capability that has already been demonstrated by the fact that for the past several years the airport has always been listed as one of the top five busiest in the United States without taxing its accommodations.

Long-range planning, states City Manager John R. Mansell, is vital to our airport's future in both domestic and international air traffic. Latest development scheduled to be placed in operation soon will be a new million dollar control tower placed advantageously to handle the ever-increasing amount of air traffic.

Ultimately, Mansell hopes, a new administration complex may be built on the south side of Long Beach Airport.

The new complex would not only house normal airport administration, airline ticket and operations service and other facilities but would provide facilities for immigration, health, agriculture and customs services in order to speed the jet age international traveler on his way

IN ADDITION, the complex would include space for lounges and restaurants and hotel accommodations for the many travelers who are expected to remain in this area because of its accessibility to Southern California tourist attractions.

The most heartening thing to Dallas during the initial step of the airport into international traffic with Lufthansa is the reaction of the passengers.

"They're really enthusiastic," he says, "about the speed and ease with which we can disembark them or load them aboard for their long trip over the Pole.

"They particularly like the fact that we load and unload from the same side of the building without the necessity of walking from one side of a huge building to the other as is the case in so many airports.

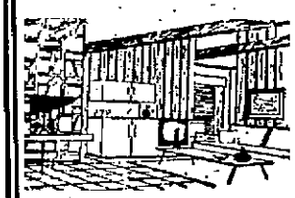

"They like the type of personalized service we try to give them . . .

"And, of course, they like Long Beach. That is what we want."

He's the King of 'Do-It-Yourselfdom'

By Ellen Krec

GLENN B. SCOTT could be called the king of "do-it-yourself." He not only constructed his linear home in Bixby Knolls, but he also has built seven fine homes in the Long Beach area since 1947.

In the Bixby Knolls project, he not only designed it, but also handled all of the contracting and even did much of the building. This was one of the easier projects since the Scotts were living directly across the street while the house was being built. The move was a short and happy one.

The long, low, contemporary home makes a U-turn to create a private patio and living room at each end of the swimming pool.

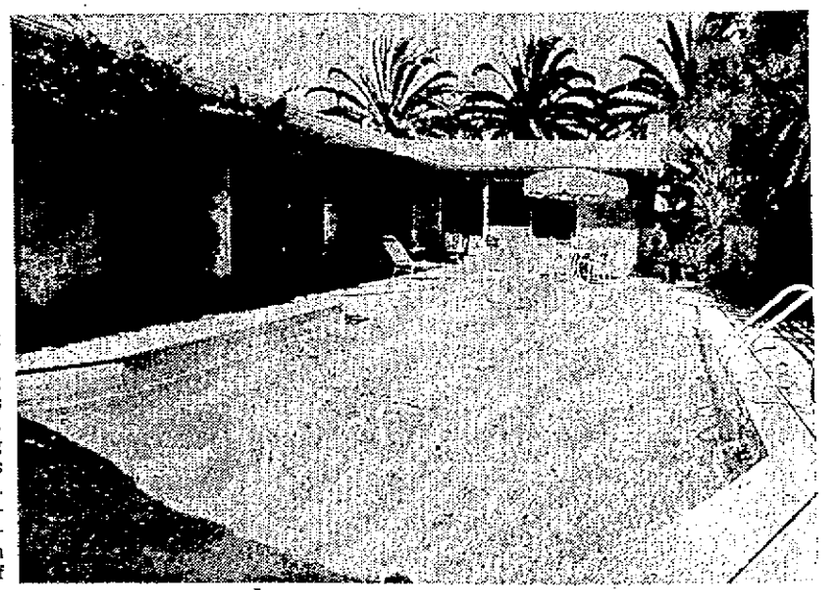

This home turns its back on the street to insure privacy. Each room has sliding doors and a wall of glass overlooking the pool-patio. A 6-foot overhang covering the complete home affords shelter from sun and rain. The facade is tongue-and-groove combined with stucco in shades of mushroom and banana. The rock roof is the same shade of mushroom, giving the home a quiet, natural look.

A slightly curved drive, lined with a Natal plum hedge and a lush Easter lily vine covering a sculptured concrete fence, passes through an exposed-beam carport. This is handsome as well as useful since it serves to break the long driveway. The area adjoining the drive is being used as a narrow garden for seasonal flowers. The home has a well-balanced landscape plan that includes tropicals and shrubs for texture and color.

One particularly unusual plant has tri-color flowers all in bloom at the same time. It is called "Today, Tomorrow and the Day After."

While Scott laid out the design, Mrs. Scott is responsible for the interior decorating.

A SPHERICAL wrought-iron light illuminates the entrance to the home. The front door is recessed and framed at the top of two steps..

The entrance hall becomes a part of all the rooms by the attractive use of wallpaper and mirror-lined walls. The wallpaper is a three-dimensional, gold-and-white hand print and is used on one wall of the foyer, the length of the hall and on into the living room.

The foyer has black slate flooring with a fringed area rug made from the same beige carpeting used throughout. A black-lacquered octagonal shelf projects from the wall and is balanced by a rectangular, gold leaf mirror.

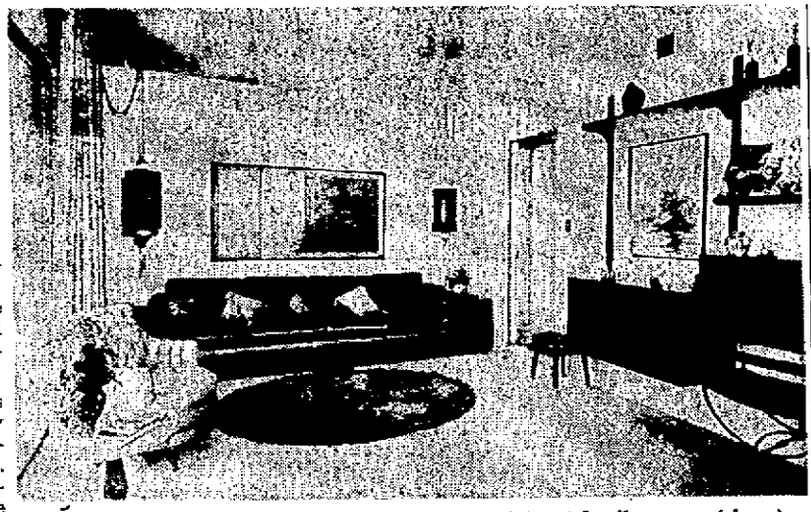

To the left of the entrance is a compact kitchen with birch cabinets and panels and a wallpaper-bordered soffit screening the range. The basis for the color scheme comes from the pink kitchen equipment and the pink and oatmeal vinyl flooring. The snack bar is divided by shutters and becomes a serve-through into the living-dining area.

A silver-beige guest bath with touches of pink is placed conveniently off the long hall. At the end of the hall is a Hawaiian innovation—a dressing nook with a large mesh-doored closet.

The master bedroom and bath are at the half-way point in the home. Rooms are coordinated in soft pink, off-white and gold, and furniture is all gold-and-white French provincial. The room includes a most useful door for the toy dachshund, Tina. When the home was finished, Mrs. Scott wondered if perhaps an unwanted visitor might decide to use this swinging door opening, so she decided to try putting her five-foot-four self through the door, only to be caught in the middle. It took almost 30 panic-stricken minutes to free her!

The bedroom is a comfortable room with nooks for sewing and watching television. It doesn't matter what the weather, the Scotts always like to awaken to the sight of the pool and the lavender starflower which creates a cool, colorful frame for the big window.

Draperies are an unusual combination of woven wool, yarn and gold strips. These are effective in that they allow light to pass while affording complete privacy. A perfect "touch" of elegance was added with custom-made, Autrian pouffe hanging lamps over the commodes on either side of the bed.

Oriental influence shows plainly in den-entertainment-family room (above).

THE DEN really is a sitting room with a built-in entertainment center. Scott built a monaural system because of the organ in the living room. The arrangement of the speakers gives a special depth to the music as it passes through the electric organ amplifying system. A color television, phonograph and tape recorder have been installed by Scott behind ash paneling with Oriental cut-out facing.

The black-lacquered, wall-hung shelves and cabinets hold groupings of Oriental art along with the many trophies Scott has received for his golfing ability (which he describes as "in and out"). The eight-foot bronze silk sofa is balanced by two black endtables and is the same shade as the antique Japanese screen above it. Woven draperies are the same sage green as the ceiling. This room is particularly useful for entertaining and can be changed readily into a dining or serving area.

The living room also opens onto the pool but has ribbon windows on the opposite wall for additional light. The windows are louvered for air, but shuttered for privacy.

The exposed-beam ceiling has a gable that caused a near-disaster while redecorating. Scott was painting a beam when his scaffolding collapsed, allowing a bucket of paint to cover the carpeting and furniture! When the Scotts are able to discuss it, they will tell you it took eight hours to clean it up!

The far end of the living room has an oversized fireplace of Texas fieldstone. The hearth is the width of the room and has a cantilevered, travertine marble top, 18 inches from the floor. Ash-paneled book cases are on either side of the fireplace and above Scott installed a back-lighted, silk-lined grille of pre-cut ash panels to hide one of the speakers.

A pair of Sheraton chairs with harlequin design are on either side of the pale green-beige quilted sofa. Two four-foot, gold leaf, urn-shaped lamps stand on substantial hexagonal tables of cherry wood. Companion gold and beige wing chairs and the black-lacquered electric organ form a music and conversation space. The Oriental influence continues with the use of cherry stools with upholstered pads in geometric design.

A cherrywood game table with matching cane-backed chairs opens to serve eight for dining. A note of elegance also brought a bit of discord in the Scott family. While Scott was installing the exquisite chandelier, a link of chain broke and all 50 pounds of crystal and bronze dropped to the floor! Other than resounding crash the only disaster was the loss of a few small prisms.

The pool area requires little care since it is surrounded by a pink concrete patio with small exposed areas for tropical plants. A grapestake fence gives background for potted plants and a long pergola creates shadows and a place for hanging ferns. A neighbor's tree weeps effectively over the flats.

A small but compact guest house has been built adjacent to the four-car garage.

It's time to go informal! When days are warm, meals should be light, colorful and tempting. And nothing is more tempting on a warm day than cool foods. Imagination turns such foods into party fare as you can see by this pleasing menu. Lean, sliced cold meat twisted into perky cornucopias and spicy liver sausage-filled roll slices make up the do-ahead appetizer tray; they're a colorful array of meaty tidbits made from two sausage favorites that are flavorful and easy to store.

Hot and crispy French fried potatoes (both the frozen crinkle-cuts and potato rounds) go from freezer to serving basket to dipping sauces in a matter of minutes. While the potatoes heat, fill bowls with the new hickory flavored catsup and a sour cream dip made with the addition of a pizza flavored catsup and green onions. They're dipping good.

DIPPING GOOD FRENCH FRIES

Frozen potatoes are available in many forms but none are so popular as French fried crinkle-cuts and French fried potato rounds. They make tasty, nutritious nibbling food, as good before a meal as a part of it.

Prepare frozen French fried potatoes by either the oven or cold-start method. Sprinkle with salt and serve immediately with dips.

Oven-Method—Arrange frozen potatoes in a single layer in a shallow pan. Place in a very hot oven (450° F.) for 20 minutes, until golden brown.

Cold-Start Method—Arrange frozen potatoes in a single layer in a large skillet. Pour enough vegetable oil over to almost cover potatoes and stir gently. Turn the heat to medium high or if using an electric skillet, to 350 degrees. Stir occasionally as potatoes cook. Cook for 15 to 20 minutes, until golden brown. Turn heat off; remove and drain fries.

ZIPPY DIP

1 pint sour cream
½ cup pizza flavor catsup
½ cup finely chopped green onions and tops
1 teaspoon horseradish
2 cups Tabasco sauce

Combine all ingredients. Chill and serve as dip for French fried crinkle-cuts and potato rounds.

Note: Serve potatoes with hickory flavor catsup; it's a dip to use right from the bottle.

NEW ENGLAND CORNUCOPIAS

1 (17-oz.) package New England brand sausage
1½ cups finely chopped or shredded cabbage
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon salt

Cut slices of sausage meat in half. Combine remaining ingredients. Roll slices of meat into bells or cornucopias; secure with picks. Fill with coleslaw mixture (about 1½ teaspoons for each bell) and chill. Makes 20 to 24 appetizers.

BRAUNSCHWEIGER CIRCLES

1 (8-oz.) package Braunschweiger liver sausage
2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
1 tablespoon hickory flavor catsup
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
6 individual French rolls, 2 to 3 inches long

Combine all ingredients except rolls; blend well. Cut ends from rolls. With a fork hollow out centers of rolls to within ¼ inch from crusts. Fill with sausage mixture, being careful not to leave any air spaces. Wrap each roll securely and chill well, at least 2 hours.

To serve, cut rolls into slices, ¼ inch thick. Makes about 45 appetizers.

Girl Mule Skinners

for a living, Disneyland's horses have an enviable schedule. They work four hours per day with two days off each week. And they are outfitted with special rubber shoes to ease hoof problems caused by working on pavement.

Transition from mule train to Main Street surrey presents no particular problems for women, Carol said. Drivers, however, must keep a constant lookout for guests along Main Street who are often so absorbed with their surroundings they ignore the clatter of hoof beats.

Disneyland's equestriennes may branch out to other horsedrawn adventures in the Park, Pope has indicated.

ONLY THE streetcars pulled by giant draft horses down Main Street are guaranteed to remain an exclusive domain for male drivers. According to Pope, those big fellows are just too strong for a girl.

After all, the men have to retain some claim to their muscular reputation.

Carol Spaeth and the other young Disneyland horsewomen just smile at such male "foolishness." They've run into that kind of stubborness before and the mules are already behaving like lambs.

not generally used in San Francisco until the middle eighteen-sixties."

Q. Is it true that movie actor Tom Mix was once a real cowboy?—O.E.

A. Yes. Tom Mix (1880-1940) was a real cowboy long before he became one in the movies. During the Spanish-American War he served as a Rough Rider and afterwards fought in the Philippines and in China. Following his army service, he was in turn a bronco buster, sheriff in Kansas and Oklahoma, U.S. Marshal and livestock foreman. In 1909, he won the national champion cowboy title and in 1910 began his movie work.

Q. Which American newspaper was first to print a news picture? M.E.

A. The Boston News-Letter, established in 1704 by John Campbell, bookseller and postmaster. Edith M. Bartow, in her "News and These United States" says that Campbell complained in his columns of lack of income and need of money but "had enterprise as well as stamina. In 1707 he published America's first news picture, a woodcut, not very large, of the new flag of the newly united Kingdom of England, Scotland, and Wales."

Q. Please give the French term that means seeming to remember something one knows he never actually saw before.—C.V.

A. The French term is "deja vu"—literally, "already seen." This may be defined as the illusion of remembering scenes or events or persons as known at some past time, even though they are really being seen or experienced for the first time. This is also one of the meanings of the medical term paramnesia.

From Pyramids to Gide

A BOOK ON THE bow and arrow? On the Polynesian canoe? However offbeat the subject, the chances are that a university press has published it. Only the other day the University of California Press at Berkeley produced a work on the construction of the Egyptian pyramids, Ancient Architectural Design, by Alexander Badawy.

Such books share the university press catalogues with equally fine, scholarly works on Blake or Milton, Sam Johnson or Ben Jonson.

Syracuse University Press at Syracuse, N. Y., comes along with an anthology of The New Writing From the Phillippines, a critique and a collection put together by Leonard Casper ($7.95). Eight short stories, a play, poems, an essay, a history of the Philippines, a survey of its literature, make up this book. The works are by Filipino authors who write in English; let's hope for a followup of writers in Tagalog and the other native languages there.

The University of Chicago Press at Chicago has long been a glory of American publishing. To pay proper tribute to its product would require a book in itself. Here are a few recent examples of its high quality:

Self-Portraits: The Gide-Valery Letters, 1890-1942, edited by Robert Mallet, $10. Andre Gide and Paul Valery are titans of modern French letters. Theirs was a warm friendship of 30 years—and a conflict compounded by greatly differing temperaments and disagreement on religion. Gide was a sensualist and a moralist, too; Valery an ascetic and a skeptic as well. Their differences make their correspondence the more piquant.

From the same press has come Ruth M. Underhill's Red Man's Religion, $7.95, the first comprehensive account of the religions of the Indians north of the Rio Grande. This work is the fruit of many and long visits with Indian tribes; it is a fitting crown for Dr. Underihll's 40 years' preoccupation, as anthropologist and Indian Bureau official, with every aspect of the American Indian. The University of Chicago Press is no green hand at fascinating works of this sort; this columnist recalls the reissue of James Mooney's classic study of the ghost-dance religion and recent sociological insights into modern Maya villages.

Sisters Recall Colonial India

By Morry Rabin

TWO UNDER THE INDIAN SUN, by Jon and Rumer Godden. Knopf and Viking, $5.50.

JON AND RUMER GODDEN, distinguished British novelists, have collaborated in a charming recollection—they call it an evocation—of five years as little girls in India, where their father was a steamer agent.

For their large and devoted followings, this memoir is especially delectable, not only for its blending of two considerable but individual talents, but because it calls forth events, impressions and background which have had a profound influence on their writings.

In 1913, when Jon was 6 and Rumer 5, they were taken to London, where, supposedly, all good English girls should be schooled. There they spent a dreadful year in the austere home of their grandmother and two unmarried aunts. The threat of zeppelins liberated them to their beloved India.

There, in the village of Narayanguni in the river country of East Bengal, the spirited sisters rejoined "Fa" and "Mam" and younger girls Nancy and Rose and a houseful of servants headed by the inscrutible Azad Ali, butler. Lacking companionship of other children—impossible in caste-conscious India—they got to know the staff as their parents never did.

There were Hannah, native, Catholic governess who ran a tranquil nursery, and Guru, the gatekeeper, who shared in their games, impoverished himself to buy the girls a doll for Christmas and brought tragedy to the home when a beautiful girl of lower caste who came to live with him was murdered by her father.

And there were Hannah's predecessor, a Eurasian nana; Fa's personal bearer, the white-clad Jetta, from Sikkim; the nursery bearer, Abdul, a liar, thief and cheat; the head gardener, Govind, and waiter, Mustapha, both competent and devout Mohammedans.

And so, in the colonial India of 50 years ago, the girls rode ponies and elephants, traveled steamers on crocodile-filled rivers through jungles of ferocious tigers, chattering birds and wild monkeys, shopped in the teeming bazaars and saw and smelled death, commonplace in the disease-ridden land.

THEIR RELATIONSHIP was far from serene and their fused pen admits an intense rivalry which led to jealousy, rage and, on one occasion, physical violence. Even then they aspired to be writers.

In their preface they note that many books give the impression India is a drab country; to the Godden sisters it was a wonderful land of every climate, every geographical marvel, every animal, every plant, every kind of people.

Alfred A. Knopf, publisher for Jon, and the Viking Press, publisher of Rumer's works, have jointly brought out "Two Under the Indian Sun," which is a Book-of-the-Month Club selection.

For the Younger Set

FOR YOUNG READERS, here are five new ones:

CANAL BOAT TO FREEDOM, by Thomas Fall. Illustrated. Dial Press, $3.50.

The story of a lad, who as a canal boat worker, becomes involved in helping smuggle slaves to freedom through the underground railway. Benja Lown worked as a hoggee for a hard-bitten captain, and it was his lonely job to walk miles along the towpaths each day, leading the horses that pulled the boat. He is befriended by a Negro deckhand who leads him into excitement and danger helping fugitive slaves. A good story well written. Up to 12.

BUFFALO GRASS by C. L. Murphy, Dial Press, $3.25.

Freddy Crowell was saved from an Indian raid by a buffalo hunter and taken to the camp of a rough crew who slaughtered buffalo for a living. Freddy hated the stench and waste of hunt and life was not made easier for him by the lead hunter, a man who bore the lad special malice. The story moves toward a climax as the hunters move farther after the herds and closer to the waiting, vengeful Comanches. Up to 14.

KUBLAI KHAN: LORD OF XANADU by Walker Chapman. Bobbs Merrill, $3.95.

Early in the 13th Century Genghis Khan united the nomadic Mongolian tribes into a mighty war machine and swept across Asia, conquering and plundering. Upon his death, the vast empire was divided among members of his family who fell to warring with one another. It remained for Genghis' grandson, Kublai Khan, to once again unify the empire.

Kublai Khan expanded the empire, adding most of the great territory of China. A wise, scholarly and sometimes ruthless man, he lived in great splendor. One of his greatest admirers was the young Venetian traveler Marco Polo, who lived at Kublai Khan's court and recorded the splendors and adventures for the Western world. For ages 12 to 14.

THE SECRET OF THE PHARAOHS by Barbara Schultz. Bobbs-Merrell, $3.95.

The story of an American boy who goes to Egypt in the 1880s and while visiting some archaeological ruins becomes involved in a dangerous adventure with the natives—including a village of thieves and a ring of tomb robbers. The book is based on actual events that in 1881 led to one of Egypt's most exciting archaeological discoveries. Ages 12 to 13.

CAPTAINS OF INDUSTRY by the editors of American Heritage. This richly illustrated book, with narrative by Bernard Weisberger, is 33rd in the American Heritage Junior Library series. It tells of 10 men who took advantage of the undeveloped resources of the North American continent during the 19th and early 20th Centuries to acquire tremendous fortunes and influence.

In doing so, they transformed the United States from an agricultural nation, clinging to the Eastern Seaboard, into a gigantic industrial power stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific.—Forest Jordan.

Beaux Art's Latest

THE WORLD OF MICHELANGELO. By Robert Coughlan. Time-Life Library of Art, $5.95.

The most recent scholarship on Michelangelo was taken into account by Coughlan, who attempts to separate man from myth (no artist's life is so befogged by mystery as Michelangelo's). Original source material, as well as the great artist's own letters and poetry, are drawn upon. It is a beautifully illustrated volume.

MONET AND HIS WORLD. By Raymond Cogniat. Viking, $6.95.

From a talented young caricaturist Monet became the unchallenged leader of Impressionism because of his natural brilliance and because he saw things in a new way. Raymond Cogniat traces his rise and the influences on Monet: new scientific discoveries, photography, other artists. Some 138 pictures illustrate the biography.

And Try Not to Miss . . .

REBECCA'S DAUGHTERS. By Dylan Thomas. Little, Brown, $4.50.

Although it's not Dylan Thomas at top form, "Rebecca's Daughters" is a delightful bit of English history in the form of a novel. A young Welsh squire, home from service in India, organizes the peasants against the landed gentry who oppress them sorely. They disguise themselves as women and in bonnet and blouse (and beards as well) give the gentry their comeuppance.

DEBATERS AND DYNAMITERS: The Story of the Haywood Trial. Oregon State University Press, $6.

Clarence Darrow, a young Chicago attorney, won his spurs in the 1907 trial of "Big Bill" Haywood and other leaders of the Western Federation of Miners, in the dynamite bomb death of Idaho's ex-governor Steunenberg. Senator Borah was one of those on the prosecution side seeking Haywood's life. One of America's most dramatic trials is presented grippingly against a background of ferocious management-labor war.

THE FAULKNER-COWLEY FILE: Letters and Memories, 1944-1962. Viking, $5.

In 1944, one literary editor exclaimed "Faulkner is finished" but critic Malcolm Cowley thought that was hogwash and took up the cudgels for the Mississippian. A friendship sprang up between the two, and the 26 hitherto unpublished letters in this book from Faulkner, with Cowley's story of their friendship, celebrates their closeness. There also is a first draft of a Faulkner essay, "On Privacy—the American Dream; What Happened to It."

New Carpeting Wears Well

By Georgia Coleman

POLYETHYLENE grass carpeting, called everGrass, is available in 6x6-foot pieces that are assembled easily and adapted to cover any indoor or outdoor subsurface with a carpet that looks and feels like living grass. The surface is composed entirely of extremely resilient 1-inch high "blades" that will spring back to an upright position even after prolonged compression by heavy objects and human traffic. The base of each everGrass square is perforated to allow natural drainage and drying of subsurfaces and permit thorough cleaning with a vacuum or hose. These perforations are also used to join the squares with small plastic inserts which resemble blades of grass.

The grass has been fully tested under artificial and natural light, in extreme heat and cold, and has proven to be weather and wear resistant and color fast. Made of 100% polyethylene, everGrass resists staining and soiling.

Because of its unique construction, it is very lightweight and unusually flexible and can be cut to shape with ordinary scissors. An assembled grass carpet can be rolled up easily for relocation or storage, or the individual squares can be disassembled and relaid to fit other areas.

COMMENTING on the recent trends toward indoor-outdoor carpeting, Andrew H. Wolff, vice president of Pegasus International Corporation, national distributors of everGrass, said, "Efforts to date to produce a satisfactory substitute for real grass have been made almost entirely by the carpeting industry, and while these efforts have resulted in some very excellent products, the essential ingredient is still missing —they still look very much like carpets and not like "grass." He added, "Since everGrass is not made the same way as conventional carpeting, its design is not restricted by the inherent limitations of carpet manufacturing equipment. Instead, using a patented molding technique and one of the most durable plastics known, each square duplicates exactly 968 individual blades of grass, resulting in a product reasonable in price and yet very much true-to-life."

The product is imported from France and is being marketed in this country by Pegasus International Corporation.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Safety for Specs

By Ben Zinser

Swithland Magazine Medical Science Editor

SAFETY GLASS for eyeglasses is recommended by an editorial in a New York medical journal.

Both prescription lenses and sunglasses can now be made of safety material, and the additional cost is slight: $2 for optical - grade plastic and $5 for case - hardened glass.

Those who especially need this protection are:

Persons with sight in only one eye.

Persons who work in laboratories with corrosive and explosive materials.

Persons who operate power tools at home or in industry.

Home gardeners who use insecticide sprays or who operate power lawn mowers.

And children.

ELIMINATION OF physical deformities in prisoners can often bring about a marked change in individual attitude and may prevent a return to crime.

A doctor tells of reconstructive surgery performed on 450 prisoners during the past 10 years in Oakalla Provincial Prison in British Columbia. Most of the surgery was to repair deformed noses but there also were operations to correct ears and chins and to remove disfiguring scars.

Only 42% of those operated on have relapsed into crime in the past 10 years, reports Dr. E. Lewinson. Yet the recidivism rate for the general prison population is 75%.

Thanks to reconstructive surgery, there has been a marked change in previously hostile and incorrigible prisoners, Dr. Lewinson says in Canadian Medical Association Journal. Morale has improved. Many have sought training for a trade.

THE CHIEF PSYCHIATRIST of the Suicide Prevention Center in Los Angeles says that suicides are not sudden, impulsive, unpredictable and inevitable acts.

"Most suicides occur at the end of prolonged emotional crises in exhausted patients who are temporarily unable to adjust to life's problems," says Dr. Robert E. Litman.

ABOUT 1% of the world's population is completely immune to tooth decay, reports Dr. Gordon E. Green, Detroit bacteriologist. He says tests show the saliva of these persons contains an antibacterial protein which appears to resemble an antibody. This protein, he says, may inhibit bacteria which cause tooth decay.

TEXAS RESEARCHERS have found virus-like particles in both leukemic children and their family dogs.

The particles resemble viruses known to cause leukemia in mice.

But as yet, medical investigators are unable to prove or disprove any link between malignancy in man and animals via viruses.

A SUBSTANCE extracted from a little-known Chinese tree shows promise of benefiting leukemia victims.

Although the substance, called camptothecin, has not yet been tried on human patients, it has displayed high anti-tumor activity in tests on laboratory animals.

Camptothecin has been extracted from the fruit, bark and wood of the tree Camptotheca acuminata, imported to the U. S. in 1933 by the Agricultural Research Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The trees are being grown at Chico, Calif.

What's in a Name? Plenty!

or Grosvenor, can be sure of one thing, he'll learn self-defense early.

In New York a tough kid smoked, swore, drank and gambled at the age of ten. He remained unmoved and unrepentant after several brushes with the law. His given name was Shirley, which is rarely given to boys. To prove he was no sissy, Shirley felt compelled to out-fight and out-steal the other fellows.

A NEW NAME was found for him—Robert, shortened to Bob. He moved with his family to a new neighborhood where the kids didn't know his original name. One year later, he had developed into an excellent student and attended church every Sunday where he became a popular class leader. Considerate parents should be sure the name they hang on their baby clearly denotes the sex for which it it intended.

Parents shouldn't dub their offspring with a set of initials which later may prove embarrassing. The Porters, for example, shouldn't name their son Samuel Albert. The initials S.A.P. don't look good on luggage or anywhere else.

The Garys should think twice before naming their boy Henry Oliver because that comes out H.O.G. In an era of FDR and HST, the late Sen. Robert A. Taft found his initials to be a political disadvantage.

It is quite possible to name children with meaningful and distinctive names without humorous or bizarre overtones. The Chester Johnsons of St. Louis selected names with a Christmas connotation for their triplets: Noel, Carol and Merry.

Stanford Bardwell of Baton Rouge La., named his seven children for universities: Stanford Jr., Duke, T'Lane, Harvard, Princeton, Auburn and Cornell. His wife's name is Loyola.

Some people adopt startling middle names for identification purposes. Because there was another William Harris in the same neighborhood William Harris adopted the middle name of No. 1 and is listed as William No. 1 Harris on all his vital papers.

Probably, George Washington, who at one time worked at the White House Cafe in McAlester, Okla., has one of the most illustrious names of all.

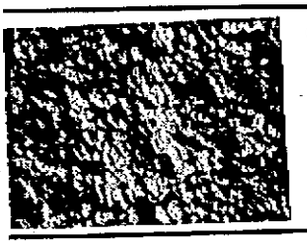

When he reported to his draft board, the Selective Service officials asked, "How do you get your mail?" "Just send it in care of the White House," George Washington replied.

COIN ROUNDUP

Hawaiian Money

By Maurice M. Gould

HAWAII, LIKE our other 49 states, has regular U. S. coinage in circulation, but the time was when the Hawaiian monarchy issued its own money.

There were only a half-dozen or so varieties of regular coinage struck, the first in 1847 in a 1-cent denomination. This coin bore the portrait of King Kamehameha III and was approximately the size of the old U. S. large cent. Some 100,000 of these pieces were minted, but the issue was never really accepted by the natives and many pieces were thrown into the sea or otherwise destroyed.

It is not known where these coins were struck and it has been suggested that they may have been manufactured in the Boston, Mass., area since many of the first missionaries sailed from there and the various societies had their headquarters in this port.

These were the smallest issue of any Hawaiian coins. Because many were used for ornaments and destroyed, they are considered quite scarce today.

The only other issue of Hawaiian coins was minted in San Francisco. The denominations were the $1, half and quarter-dollars, and dimes. The coins were excellently made by Charles Barber, the famous engraver of the Philadelphia Mint.

Between a quarter of a million and 700,000 pieces were struck but a large number eventually were melted down, so that the scarcity is not reflected by the number minted.

The coins show a bust of the king, with the Hawaiian coat of arms on the reverse, along with the denomination.

All the coins, medals and tokens of Hawaii have become extremely popular with collectors since Hawaii became a new member of the Union.

A special U. S. commemorative coin was struck in 1928, the Hawaiian Sesquicentennial half-dollar. This popular coin, of which 10,008 were issued, is very scarce and has a catalog value of approximately $600.

The obverse shows Capt. James Cook, who in 1778 was the first white man to visit the islands, and the reverse shows a native chief. When first issued, these pieces sold at $2 each, so one can see the tremendous demand which has taken hold for this coin during the past years.

These half-dollars were a drug on the market for many years and I remember owning a few of them myself. After holding them for some time, I disposed of them at a dollar loss per coin. The lucky collectors and Hawaiians who kept these "sleepers" found they had an astute investment, as well as a beautiful coin for their collection.

AGAIN THE CONTROVERSY continues on the 1964 Lincoln cent with the multiple impressions!

Now a coin expert claims that although these coins could have been made at the Mint and probably are genuine, there was collusion at the Mint, resulting in the release of these unusual pieces.

Reliable sources report that the Secret Service is investigating the circumstances surrounding these 1964 freak coins.

anywhere unprepared. For the next 400 miles, the line was replaced by aquarium tubing.

The Buzzard also has undergone some body work in Mexico.

Near Puertecitos, his owner somehow hitched the right front fender onto a boulder. The piece of granite wouldn't move. The Buzzard couldn't.

But his ingenious owner pulled forth a sledge hammer and chisel and soon he was cruising down the road —minus half a fender.

Smith's friends have employed this form of body work when his undersides became coated with rust.

El Zopilote's clever owner also has devised devious methods to keep the doors intact. On the passenger's side, he's held together with barbed wire. Who knows, perhaps on his next quest to Mexico, he may assume the guise of a rail job from the Drag Races and boast nothing but chassis and seats?

THERE'S ONLY one thing which rankles The Buzzard and that's the young women who hold only derision for his appearance.

He's figured a way to dispense with that problem, though.

Just let Smith come near him, closely shaven and wearing suit and tie, and he has a relapse.

He wheezes, coughs, lets the old battery sniffle over a couple of times and forces his owner to squire the Young Lady about in his roommate's borrowed car.

He'll get even, even though Smith may do another body job on his left fender.

There's no doubt about it, like old soldiers who never die, El Zopilote is apt to fade away some day along a dusty road in Baja California.

As soon as I find out where I can buy a nice, big sand flea. Or compact little king snake.

PET PARADE

Pets Wait in Comfort

By Eleanor Avery Price

BOTH ENGLAND and Hawaii have a quarantine period for animals arriving there from the U.S. mainland. Since the adoption of the restriction, there have been no record of rabies in those places.

Six months is a long wait for dogs and cats. But methods have been devised to make the wait as pleasant as possible. The British Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals entertains borders with radios. One branch even has a tape recorder of the sounds of home.

THE FOLLOWING information on Hawaii's quarantine comes from Burleigh Bauer of Hawaii. The quarantine station is located between downtown Honolulu and Waikiki Beach. You reach it either by bus or automobile. Large trees shade the grounds and all housing for pets is adequately ventilated. It is an interesting place because of the variety of sizes and shapes of the temporary homes. Each animal is separate from the others; cats have their own section apart from dogs. Fresh water is available at all times and chow time is at 5 p.m. If a veterinarian or owner orders a special diet for a pet, this is provided.

Before animals are assigned to their respective places, each is photographed and given a complete physical examination. Parasites quickly are eliminated.

Breeding of animals is taboo in the station, but if a pet is already pregnant, she may have her babies there or in an animal hospital. Baby animals must stay with their mothers until the mothers are released. There is no charge until the babies are six weeks old. An adult dog costs 75 cents a day, which comes to $90 for the 120 days. Puppies cost 40 cents. Cats cost 50 cents per day, kittens 25 cents.

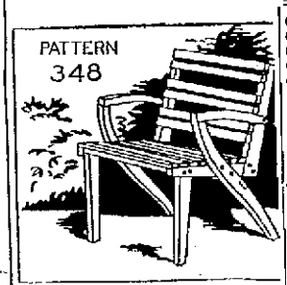

IF AN ANIMAL becomes ill, it can be released to a veterinarian upon certification of the station manager. If a pet needs grooming, the owner can hire professionals or station employes. There is a special grooming room with water and power.

Visiting hours for owners are from 3 to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays, and from 1 to 3 p.m. Sundays and holidays. These hours are noisy but happy ones.

Fictured today is Paddytoo of Toireh, beautiful black Persian cat owned by Celia Heriot and Geraldine Schwaderer, the latter, president of Pet Pride, a cat organization devoted to loving care of felines.

Santa Monica Cat Club now is taking entries to its big show Sept. 17-18 at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium. Telephone GLadstone 4-5976, or write the club at 1025 Chautauqua, Pacific Palisades.

A Back Yard 'Camelot'

By Steve Ellingson

KING ARTHUR started it all with his knights. He used a round table to prevent jealously over seating precedence at Camelot, we are told, but I suspect old King Arthur had a more practical reason. More people can be seated about a round table than a square one of like size. And what is more, each person seated at a round table faces the middle, which makes for easier and more pleasant conversation.

The table shown here with NCB's actress Diana Darrin was designed for families who take a vacation every day all summer long in their own back yards. After all, dining is more than a mere physical refueling. To be worthy of the label "dining," a meal must be eaten in an atmosphere of relaxation, pervaded by feelings of fellowship and hospitality and attended by friendly conversation. Nothing brings out these characterisitcs more than an outdoor meal.

Pouring at easily-constructed patio table is actress Diana Darrin. Table is 4 feet around.

The top of the table shown is over 4 feet in diameter (you may make it larger if you wish) and easily seats eight persons; two to each bench. It supports an umbrella which gives the set a gay appearance as well as shade for the diners. Wheels make it easy to move. It's put together with screws and bolts and will last a lifetime.

We also have added a pattern for the lazy susan shown on the table. It, like the table and benches, is very easy to build when one uses the full size pattern. You need only trace each part on wood, then saw them out and put the parts together.

To obtain the full size barbecue table and benches pattern No. 239 for $1, or the lazy susan pattern No. 343 for 50 cents, send coin, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys 91409.

Tips on Gardening

PLANT ZINNIAS for quick growth and lots of colorful flowers. The hot weather teases them to grow their fastest.

SMALL YOUNG aster plants set out now are less likely to become affected by aster wilt.

THERE'S A NEW concept in granular form fertilizer. Instead of being dusty, each capsule is a complete unit of fertilizer, containing the important fertilizer elements, necessary trace minerals and insecticide. No dust, no muss, no fuss, lighter in weight, easier to apply.

FEED those helleborus "lenten roses" for those lovely, long-lasting winter blooming flowers.

FEED ROYAL bird of paradise plants, and be sure to deep water them.

CRAPE MYRTLE, parkinsonia, locust and Texas umbrella trees all stand drier sectors of Southern California. Parkinsonia, the Jerusalem thorn tree, is equally as happy along the coast.

QUARTER-TURN container plants on porch or patio every couple of weeks. This aids the plants to grow full and shapely all around.

MULCH—top dress flower beds and shrubs with a fine organic mulch material. The mulch retains moisture in the soil, slowly works through the soil surface area, leavens the soil and helps it absorb moisture more easily thereafter.

EASIEST way to keep devil grass (bermuda) lawn from creeping into flower beds is to put in a metal lawn guard between lawn and lawn edge. It lasts for around five years.

SHAMEL ASH tree should be trimmed back at least twice a year for the first 2 or 3 years, to force more branching. If this is not done, the tree grows too tall, and provides shade for the neighbor rather than for you.

EVERGREEN ELM trees may become infested by scale. Check with your local nurseryman for kind of spray to control those pests.

EVERGREEN DAY lilies provide interesting Easter lily-like flowers that range in color from pale yellow shades, orange colors to deepest reds. One flower spike may have around 15 buds. All of them may not develop.

Soon as one blossom fades another opens up. This fading and new flowers blooming may continue for a week or more.

SAND VERBENA, a long-blooming seasonal ground cover that stands desert conditions and coastal areas, doesn't require the same frequency of watering as the large showy flowered varieties.

CYMBIDIUMS should be fed a fertilizer that has much less nitrogen content but much more phosphoric acid and potash.

News of the Garden Clubs

VIOLET "Culture with Constant Watering" will be explained by a San Fernando Valley expert at an 11 a.m. meeting Thursday of the Long Beach African Violet Society at the Woman's City Club, 1309 E. 3rd St.

Speaking then will be Cecil Hammer, a commercial grower and past president of the SFV Violet Society.

A cultural hint on rerooting "neckie" plants will be given by Mrs. Viola Wilson.

Local president is Miss Cecille Block.

THE REGULAR meeting of the Orange County Orchid Society will be Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Orange County Farm Bureau Building, 1916 W. Chapman Ave., Orange.

The public is invited to participate in the evening's program and to view the many blooming orchids displayed on the forum table. There is no charge and refreshments will be served.

At the present time Society members are actively planning the 5th annual show coming Oct. 1-2 at the Orange County Fairgrounds. Theme for this event will be "Orchid Wonderland."

THE 13TH annual Begonia and Shade Plant show sponsored by the Orange County Branch of the American Begonia Society closes today in the Floriculture Building at the Orange County Fairgrounds, Costa Mesa. This event will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

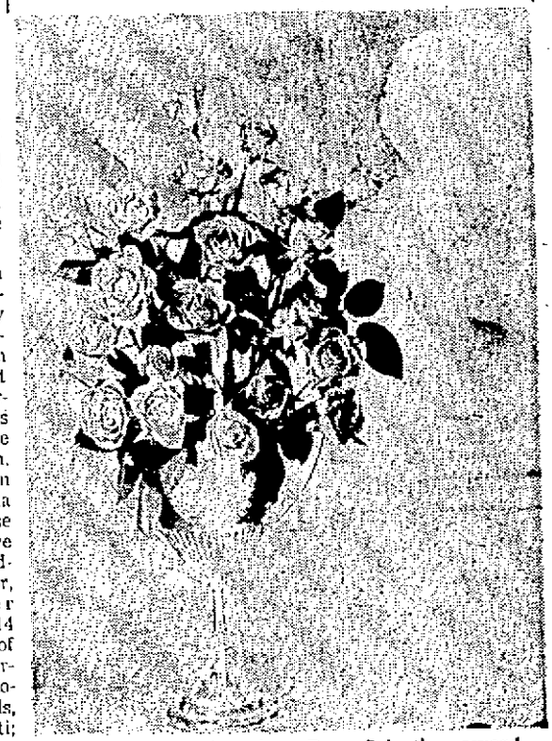

There are 101 classes in 12 divisions in the begonia and shade plant show. These include the four competitive classes for begonias — advanced amateur, amateur, novice and junior. Other competitions include 14 classes of fuchsias; 15 of ferns, several classes of orchids, tropicals, African violets, gloxinias, bromeliads, coleus, succulents and cacti; 12 classes of flower arrangements; 3 classes for planters and dish gardens, and 13 classes for organized groups.

PLANS for next month's annual flower show will be discussed Saturday in the Southern California Dahlia Society meeting, to be held at 7:30 p.m. at Glendale Federal Savings & Loan, 5535 Stearns Ave.

An educational program also is scheduled for the Long Beach and Lakewood group's session.

The show is set for Sept. 10 and 11 at Simm's Park Auditorium, Bellflower.

Rose That Remains

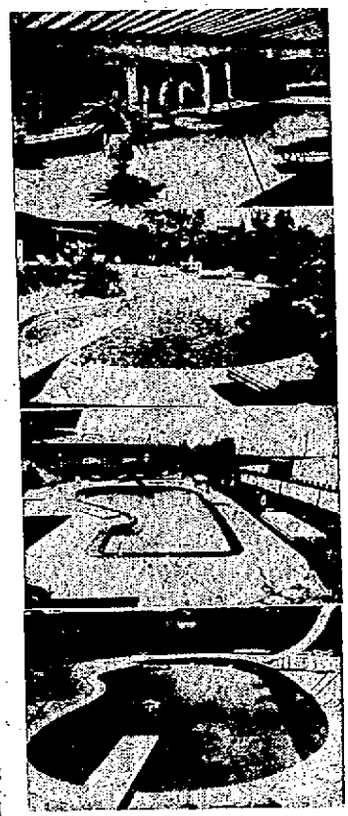

This is the All-American Rose Selection award winner for 1967, "Roman Holiday," a floribunda with colors of flaming orange-red and golden yellow. Hybridized by Robert Howard, it is a cross between the pure scarlet "Independence" and the yellow-marked, pink-and-salmon "Circus."

Covering a Lot of Ground

MOST people want a big garden, but only a lucky few really know what to do with one. The average week end gardner never seems to have enough time or energy to keep the weeds down and out on those wide-open garden spaces.

Since most of us are week end gardeners with other things to distract us, a word about good ground covers seems timely. The California Association of Nurserymen suggests them for any and all who have a lot of ground to cover.

The beauty of most ground covers lies in their easy care. Except on rare occasions — every year or two — when they need some clipping or pruning, ground covers look neat and trim whether you care for them or not. Water them from time to time and they'll be perfectly happy.

AMONG THE ground covers on the recommended list is the Creeping Rosemary. There are various named forms of this evergreen sprawler and your local nurseryman will have one or another. In looks and habit they are very much alike, all thriving in neglected areas where water is appreciated but not often needed.

Creeping Rosemary, like its upright cousin of traditional gardens, is a grayish colored shrub with slender needle-like leaves and small blue flowers in later winter and spring. The flowers are almost a year round phenomenon in some California gardens where seasonal climate changes are small. The foliage is aromatic and a pleasure to pinch and inhale.

Creeping Thyme is another herb for general use as a garden cover. Intensely fragrant when crushed underfoot, it can also be used as a culinary aid in the kitchen. The foliage is dense and dark green. The flowers can be blue or white and are profuse in their own small way from May through summer. Creeping Thyme is like something from out of the past which has adopted to modern use.

AMONG GROUND covers which are not well enough known, is St. John's Wort. Technically it's Hypericum and that's how you'll probably find it listed in nurseries.

Southland Magazine offers a fresh new Crossword Puzzle each Sunday, a brain-teaser for those who enjoy this pastime. It's "automatic," too, because you can check your answers on another page . . . but no fair peeking.

Vines Work for You

By Joe Littlefield

VINES SERVE several helpful landscaping purposes. They may be used to eliminate reflected sunlight from a wall; to cover a bare wall or a fence where growing space is limited and shrubs simply cannot be used; for privacy to screen out neighbor's windows; to screen in a porch, or possibly the vine is grown for its attractive blossoms and graceful lacy effect.

Bignonia violacea, "violet trumpet vine," has lightly smother the shiny dark green attractive foliage.

The gardener who plants this vine should cut back long branches two-thirds of their length before setting it out. Cutting back thusly forces remaining branches to sprout more branches, for covering the bare areas. They do not cling to a rough surface.

Bignonia Violacea vines grow in narrow soil spaces, screen out light and create privacy.

About the only evergreen vine we know of that clings to rough stucco or brick is Ficus pumila ("creeping fig"), a graceful small leafed vine. The tenacious rootlets along the stems cling tightly to a wall surface.

Some gardeners have discovered it to be a heartbreaking experience trying to make the vine cling to the wall. They waited from some months to a year or more before there would be a stray branch or two that eventually grew on the wall.

THE ONLY positive way to force this vine to start to cling quickly is to cut all the branches back to within 4 to 6 inches of the ground. Flatten the plant root ball to an oval shape in order to plant it close to the wall. After planting, a board should be placed against the branch stubs, so the branch ends constantly are touching the wall. When new tip growths develop, immediately as the rootlets start to cling, presto—the vine grows quickly and clings to the wall! We have seen some start to cling where chicken wire was pressed close to the vines, but the branches started to cling perhaps a foot or so above the ground. The branches between the ground and where they started to cling were loose, hence a possibility of tearing off part of the vine from the wall.

Some gardeners like to use foliage of the flowers they cut for indoor bouquet. Despite the fact that tulbaghia violaceas's common name is "society garlic," the foliage is not welcome in a flower bouquet indoors because you may wonder who has been eating onion-garlic. The small bell-shaped lavender color flowers are gracefully attractive and provide the needed blue tone color in a particular spot of your sunny flower bed or flower bouquet.

Should you happen to be out of chives and you wish to add a bit of that onion-like flavor to your salad, simply chop up some of the tender foliage and you'll have it spicy.

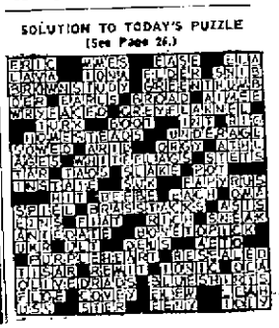

Allow a 2 foot diameter spread for one plant in the garden. It starts blooming in late May and continues to flower all summer on into October. The gray green foliage is attractive during the winter.

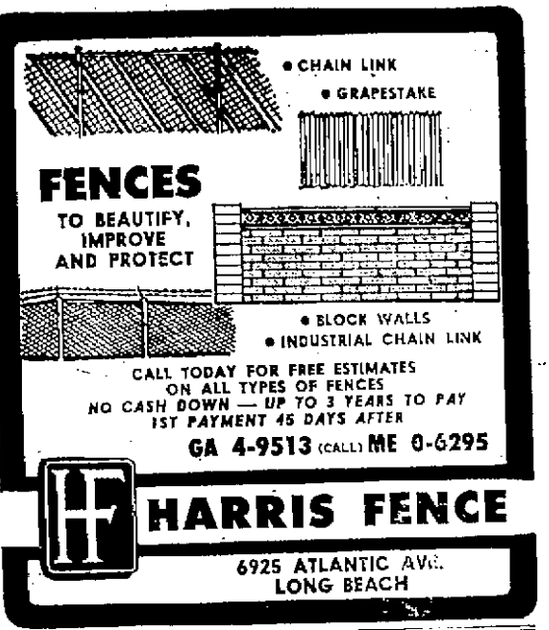

Some bulb plants foliage like the amarcrinum, "evergreen amaryllis" stay green the year round. The gladiolus leafage starts to die back. We must not dig up those bulbs to store them for next season planting until the foliage has died down.

A gardener does not have to dig up the gladioli and store them if he prefers to leave them in the ground. several years develop a colony of bulbs, which means they do not grow as tall and the flowers' spikes are shorter in proportion to the size of the bulbs.

Gladioli bulbs that are dug up, stored, then replanted provide the tallest flower spikes and the largest blossoms.

(See Page 26.)

Wooing Shoers

Those Scarce Smiths

By Isabel Dunwoody

THE vanishing art of horseshoing that was once a vital segment of this nation's past has been brought back to life.

To meet a growing demand, the craft is now offered at the Norwalk-La Mirada Adult School in Norwalk. But not until the school had overcome a problem in trying to scare up an honest-to-goodness blacksmith of the old variety for their instructor.

While the clang of the automobile horn silenced the ring of the anvil, there are today more than 60,000 horses in Los Angeles County alone, proving that the auto may have made over our lives, but it couldn't replace the warmth of the living animal. Since these horses must be well shod, it's learn to shoe your own horse or put back in business the village blacksmith.

A century ago, the blacksmith shop was a focal point of every village, the place where farmers, townsmen or race track owners brought their horses for new shoes, a place to exchange cracker-barrel philosophy, argue politics and purchase or have mended metal housewares. No used car dealer will ever command such homage as the blacksmith in his shop.

TODAY'S blacksmith works in a department organization of some big engineering firm. With fellow workers he might forge a single piece weighing more than 100 tons. His forging hammer may be as tall as a four-story building, but he probably doesn't know the first thing about shoeing Dobbin.

Almost a vanished craft, horseshoeing gains new attention in Excelsior adult curriculum.

Excelsior High School's search for a blacksmith who would know all about Dobbin's needs, from a corrective half shoe and hoof trimming to the actual forging of the horseshoe itself, turned up only two.

The first declared, "I haven't seen a horse in 25 years."

The second, Eugene Harris, 31, who apprenticed his trade when 14 years old, now teaches at Norwalk two full evening classes a week, with a waiting list of 80. "There are only 10 such licensed classes in the United States," Harris says, "two in California."

According to Thomas Merritt, associate professor of Animal Industry at Penn State University, whose school offered two short courses in horseshoeing this summer to meet the demand for skilled blacksmiths, "Those who complete the 10-day course (which incidentally costs $300 back in Pennsylvania; N-LM's costs are $10 including care and feeding of horses) can recover their investment in another 10 days."

EUGENE HARRIS' classroom, located appropriately enough on Shoemaker Rd., resembles neither the little red schoolhouse nor its modern-day contemporary. Its walls and roof are made of galvanized iron-sheeting, supported by used telephone poles, the floor, good old-fashioned dirt.

Male and female students (yes it is co-ed) arrive in blue jeans, Levi jackets, boots and western hats, and come from as far away as Hemet and El Monte. They perch on grandstand-type seats.

Instructor Harris totes his tools of the trade with him, in the back of his truck, including a portable forge, and class begins when a skeptical horse is led in and faced away from the class.

Later these enthusiastic horse-owners will learn true blacksmithing, how to pinch off the correct bar of iron, to heat it in the fire pit until it glows in the jaws of the pincers, and the rhythm of hammer on anvil.

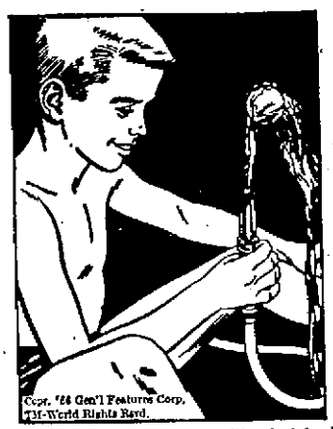

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: A Water Puzzle.

NEEDED: A water hose with adjustable nozzle, a table tennis ball.

DO THIS: Adjust the water so that it comes out of the nozzle in a gentle solid stream. Place the ball on the stream of water and it tends to remain there seemingly in defiance of gravity.

Copr. '56 Gen'l Features Corp. Int'l World Rights Reserved.

HERE'S WHY: This is a variation of the Bernoulli principle, in which the lateral pressure of a moving fluid — such as air or water — is less than that of the still or more slowly moving fluid around it. Here the pressure of the faster moving water is less, and as the ball tends to move to the right (in the drawing) the faster moving water on the left exerts less pressure than the slower water on the right. The greater pressure of the slowly moving water tends to push the ball back into the stream.

The stream coming from the nozzle upward pushes against the lower side of the ball to keep it from falling straight down.

Shutters for Accent

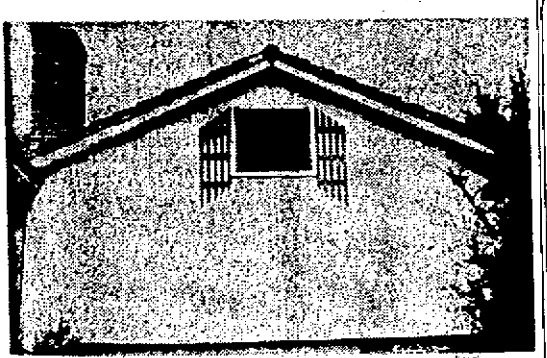

ATTRACTIVE shutters greatly enhance the appearance of houses, especially older structures where windows are far apart. On this page are seveal designs, most of them easily constructed by the home craftsman. Some are mounted on panels of exterior plywood, others of pine or redwood with scroll saw cutouts. They may be stained to match or contrast with house siding.—HI SIBLEY.

"Anchors aweigh" could be the design title.

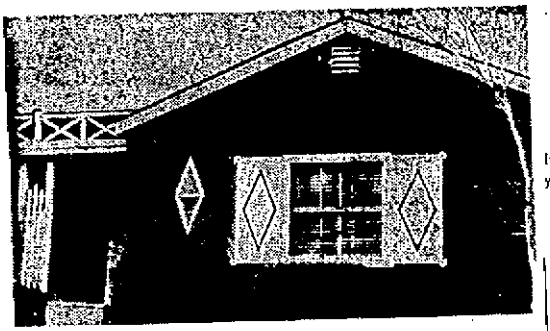

"Picket" shutters carry flower pot overlay.

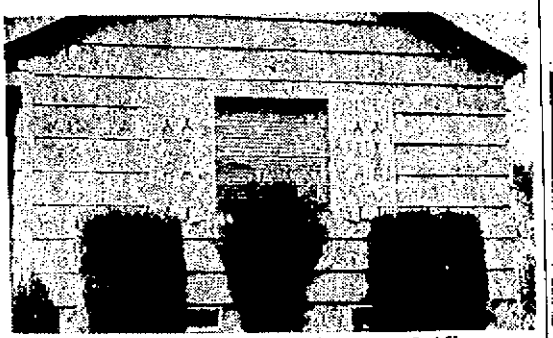

Simply made shutters adorn high-up window.

Bare wall and small windows get relief here.

Grooved design enlivens these shutters.

Novelty shutters break monotony of siding.

QUITE OFTEN readers ask this question: "Where can we dine on something really different?"

I could suggest fried octopus or squid, because I know restaurants which serve those delicacies. But I don't, because most people seeking new tastes aren't that daring. When they say "really different," they actually mean "a little different."

So I answer their question by suggesting the Wayfarer Restaurant, 2230 Pacific Coast Hwy., Lomita, a distinguished dining establishment which has several extraordinary entrees on its menu. One of these — not found in most restaurants — is stuffed mushrooms. It consists of large, tender mushroom caps stuffed with minced chicken and topped with two delectable sauces — one made with white wine, the other a rich Hollandaise. It's $3.25 on the Wayfarer's table d'hote dinner of relish tray, soup du jour, mixed green salad, ice cream or sherbet and coffee.

Host and owner Jimmy Richmond, an amiable epicure, also emphasizes such unusual treats as flaming duckling carved at your table ($12.50 for two persons) and Francois Gourmet Entree ($4.75), a tempting combination of veal picatta and grenadine of beef, served with green noodles. The restaurant, which has seating for 225 in its elegant dining rooms, also prepares more standard entrees, such as prime rib, steaks, superb beef Stroganoff, fried scallops and broiled swordfish, priced from $3.

Assisting Jimmy in operating the restaurant are his wife Frances, cashier; their son Frank, manager; daughter, Joan, hostess, and Frank's wife Lois, luncheon hostess-cashier. Closed Tuesdays, the Wayfarer serves its Sunday dinners from 4 to 11 p.m.

Personality Parade

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, Parade, 733 3rd Ave., New York, N.Y.,10017. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. Please tell me how many times Henry Fonda has been married and to whom. Who is the mother of his children, Jane and Peter, and what happened to her? Is Peter a narcotics addict?—R.S., Baltimore, Md.

A. Fonda has been married five times: to Margaret Sullavan, Frances Brokaw, Susan Blanchard, Afdera Franchetti and Shirley Adams. Frances Brokaw, mother of Jane and Peter Fonda, committed suicide. Peter Fonda was recently charged with possessing marijuana, after narcotics officers said they had found marijuana plants under cultivation at his home in Tarzana, Calif.

Q. Does the government of South Vietnam employ a public relations outfit in this country to influence public opinion on its behalf? Has the government of South Vietnam ever employed such a service?—Fred Lopez, San Bernardino, Calif.

A. From 1955 to 1961, the South Vietnamese employed Harold Oram of New York City at $3000 a month for that purpose.

Q. Identify if you can the author of the following quotation: "Women are wiser than men because they know less and understand more."—Diane Reeves, N. Adams, Mass.

A. Writer James Stephens.

Q. Is it true that someone is making a movie about the misadventure in Spain when we lost an atom bomb? Is it true that Walter Pidgeon will play Defense Secretary Robert McNamara in the movie?—D. L. Lewis, Denver, Colo.

A. A musical comedy, called Finders Keepers, is being filmed in England starring Cliff Richards. No one plays McNamara.

Q. I would like to know if model Patti Boyd Harrison, wife of Beatle George Harrison, is going to continue her modeling career.—Lynne Ferrara, Edison, N.J.

A. Yes, she plans to work until pregnant.

Q. Who was the first European to visit Timbuktu?—William Reich, Jacksonville, Fla.

A. René Caillié, a French explorer.

Q. Is it true that Warren Beatty has now done to Leslie Caron what he did to Natalie Wood—given her the air?—R.T., Richmond, Va.

A. Miss Caron, who divorced her husband hoping to marry Beatty—Beatty was named by her husband—is no longer in Mr. Beatty's steady company.

Q. What is the origin of the feud between Sen. Tom Dodd and Sen. William Fulbright?—Harold Isaacs, New Haven, Conn.

A. No feud. Senator Dodd has a habit of attacking his colleagues from time to time, once accused Fulbright of being more anxious to give foreign aid to Communist Yugoslavia than to Franco Spain. Whereupon Fulbright revealed that when Dodd was a House member, he was most anxious to get increased foreign aid for Guatemala, and later, after losing out in a try for the Senate, Dodd went on the Guatemala payroll at $66,666 per year.

Q. How much older is Sybil Burton than her husband Jordan Christopher? Since Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton have married, have they lost their box office pull?—Dana Lee Eaton, La Jolla, Calif.

A. Sybil Burton is 37, her husband 25. Taylor and Burton in marriage have achieved bourgeois respectability. Burton had no film box office appeal until his scandalous liaison with Miss Taylor.

Q. Was Marilyn Monroe ever in love with Bobby Kennedy?—B.S.S., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

A. They were friends at the time of Marilyn's death.

Q. Has Columbia Pictures really put Nat King Cole's daughter under contract? Has she been in any films? Her salary, please.—Verna Mason, Orlando, Fla.

A. Carol Cole was signed by Columbia, starting salary $150 per week; first film, The Silencers.

Q. Has Petula Clark really turned down a starring role opposite Elvis Presley in his next picture?—Georgianna Hatfield, Shreveport, La.

A. Yes. "I'm 33 years old," she confesses, "a little too old to play one of Elvis's girls."

Q. Two books on the late President Kennedy—one by Pierre Salinger and the other financed by Joseph P. Kennedy—when will they be published?—Samuel Rubin, Boston, Mass.

A. The book by Salinger is definitely scheduled for this fall, the book by William Manchester a little later.

Q. Where, when and for what did Fidel Castro receive his doctor's degree? It is difficult to think of this bearded clown as a doctor. Was it in education, public relations or some such pseudoacademic field?—B.S.L., Montville, N.J.

A. Castro received a doctorate from the University of Havana in 1950, where he studied law, diplomacy and public administration.

Q. I would appreciate knowing if Debbie Reynolds and Bing Crosby ever starred in a picture together.—Ivy Clark, Provo, Utah.

A. Yes, in Say One For Me, released in 1959.

Q. How old is Mickey Rooney? How many wives has he had? Who were they?—Mrs. Helen Coleman, Omaha, Neb.

A. Rooney is 45. His ex-wives: Ava Gardner, Betty Jane Rase, Martha Vickers, Elaine Mahnken, the late Barbara Thomason.

Q. There's a funny story making the rounds about Henry Ford II and his wife at Le Mans. Can you tell me what it is?—T.Y. Hawes, Flint, Mich.

A. One story: Ford was so anxious to get to the Le Mans race, in which his fastest cars had been entered, that he raced out of his residence, the Château d'Artigny near Tours, jumped into his helicopter and took off. When he arrived at the race, he noticed for the first time that he had forgotten his wife, Christina. He sent the helicopter back to the château to fetch her.

Q. How many Puerto Ricans in Chicago? How many in New York?—Joseph Di Stefanni, Newark, N.J.

A. Approximately 65,000 in Chicago, 750,000 Puerto Ricans in New York.

the numbers game

Family Plans, Youth Fares, Excursion Fares, etc. 25% off! Save 1/3rd! Save 2/3rds! Pay only 2/3rds! Pay only 1/3rd! 1/2 fare! Big confusion! Which airline has the lowest fares anyway? No airline! The Civil Aeronautics Board establishes fares for all regularly scheduled airlines... and we think that's the way it should be. These are called "tariffs" and they determine the price of a ticket over a given route for a certain type of airplane and service.* Cost, therefore, is not a factor in choosing an airline! Well—what is the difference between airlines? They use similar types of planes. They use the same skies. They even have the same fares. Yet—on Continental Airlines—there is a difference. You can't see it... you feel it! It's pride—the pride of Continental's people... in their jobs, in themselves, in their airline. That's understandable because, as major airlines go, Continental is not a great big, impersonal one. So Continental's people maintain their interest and involvement in how their airline is run. That's what you feel... and you feel good! Come travel with us and feel the difference pride makes. Your travel agent or Continental will arrange for the fare that suits you best.

*Sometimes you can save. For instance, on the Houston/Los Angeles route it is less expensive to take Continental's economy class Golden Jet service. No other airline offers this class of service on that route.

An increasing accident rate, reflected in crashes like this one, has produced the high-risk insurance problem.

AUTO INSURANCE PIRATES: how they menace the public—and reputable companies

by Charles W. Stickle

In Indiana, where high school basketball is "big league," 16-year-old Ronald Barricklow, leading rebounder on the Holton High School team, enjoyed near-celebrity status.

On the cold wet morning of Jan. 13, 1959, after boarding the schoolbus near his home, Ronald found himself the center of a lively discussion of his team's chances for victory in a forthcoming game.

Ronald Barricklow would not play in that game or any other basketball game from that morning on. Nor would he ever walk normally again. When the bus carrying Ronald and 30 other students stopped to pick up more passengers, it was rammed from the rear by a trailer truck.

Young Barricklow awoke the next day in a hospital, his right leg broken in three places, his left thigh fractured, his left hip dislocated. Eight operations and nine months later, Ronald was discharged from the hospital, his left leg three inches shorter than his right.

Medical and surgical expenses totaled $19,340.53. Ronald's father, a construction worker, paid the bills by mortgaging the Barricklows' small farm.

The truck that crashed into the schoolbus was insured by an out-of-state firm, which did a multimillion dollar business in 43 states. It was found completely insolvent in 1962 and left the Barricklows and 8500 other claimants without payment.

The story of the Barricklows and their insolvent insurance firm is but a single episode in a sordid casebook of mismanagement, fraud, embezzlement and financial machinations by carpetbaggers and incompetents who have invaded the American auto insurance market.

The soaring highway accident rate and the resulting heavy insurance losses have caused established companies to exercise painstaking care in choosing whom to insure. The carpetbaggers, taking advantage of this climate, have moved into the so-called "high-risk" market that services motorists who have difficulty obtaining insurance coverage because of poor accident records, age, poor health or physical disability.

The result has been catastrophic.

States Dean E. Sharp, assistant counsel to the Senate Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monopoly: "Passing virtually unnoticed has been the insolvency of 62 insurance firms in 21 states since 1960, including 33 in the last two years alone. These companies have left more than $275 million in unpaid claims, filed by more than 175,000 persons, many of them badly injured, and more than one million individuals with worthless automobile insurance."

Subcommittee counsel Sharp describes the situation as "one of the greatest scandals ever to affect the insurance industry."

The scandals, of course, have been limited to a relatively small percentage of companies, while many of the nation's most reputable insurance firms also write high-risk automobile insurance and reliably meet their claims. (Of 900 firms in the auto casualty insurance field, 350 perform the essential function of underwriting insurance for risky motorists.) But the scandals threaten to give an economic black eye to all.

A "FESTERING SPLINTER"

Illinois State Insurance Department Director John F. Bolton Jr., who was appointed last year when the state literally was being blitzed by hit-and-run insurers, says: "We are dealing with a splinter—a painful, festering splinter, but still a splinter."

The "splinter" Director Bolton refers to has two jagged edges. One of them jeopardizes the financial security of the motorist insured by the shaky high-risk company every time he gets in his car.

According to Vincent A. Carroll, judge of the Court of Common Pleas in Philadelphia, "There are thousands of motorists who believe they have fulfilled their social duty by purchasing insurance when, in fact, for all practical purposes they are not really insured."

His assertion proved bitterly accurate for a young Maryland couple who lost their home when an accident victim obtained a $12,000 judgment against them. They felt they were covered, but when the claim was filed, the insurance company was insolvent.

The other side of the "splinter" endangers the innocent motorist, when he is injured or his car is damaged by a high-risk driver who carries a worthless auto liability policy.

How many Americans are affected by these failures is reflected by the following statistics.

In Illinois, 19 companies have failed in the last three years. Cosmopolitan Insurance Co. of Chicago left 22,000 persons holding claims totaling $68 million. When examiners looked into the insolvency, they found assets of only $2.5 million. The collapse left 130,000 individuals without insurance.

In Missouri, Guaranty Insurance Exchange, one of six high-risk companies that failed in that state, was found able to pay only four cents on every dollar of the total of $2 million in claims against it.

WHY THE SCANDALS?

What are the reasons for the recurring failures and the resulting losses to motorists?

The basic one is that most reputable insurance companies have sustained mounting losses in recent years because of soaring claims and high jury awards. Rates, usually regulated by state law, have not been allowed to keep pace.

Caught in this squeeze, the companies have been forced to pick and choose whom they insure, placing more and more motorists in the "high-risk" market. Such drivers then face the alternative either of obtaining insurance through "assigned-risk" pools (by which established companies agree to carry a percentage of less desirable risks) or of going to a company that offers its own plan.

For many drivers, the latter choice has been more inviting, because many assigned risk plans offer only minimum coverage and because few motorists wish to be labeled an "assigned risk."

Elderly motorists, even with good driving records, can find themselves thrown into the high risk market if they have an accident. If a driver has epilepsy, he probably will find himself a high risk. Companies very carefully underwrite prospective policyholders with diabetes, heart disease, arthritis, total deafness or loss of sight in one eye.

Social factors also may count against a driver. The individual who cannot read or speak English can be marked "high risk." Ex-convicts or those on probation or parole are often in the same category.

But the high-risk market is by no means limited to the unhealthy or disadvantaged. Single men, 16 to 25, who own and drive their own cars probably comprise the largest single group of high risks. Of the nation's 2.5 million youthful drivers, nearly one-third buy insurance through assigned-risk pools. The remainder carry no insurance at all or are carried by high-risk companies or standard companies trying to accommodate parents already carrying insurance with their firm.

All these motorists have provided a happy hunting ground for hit-and-run insurance operators.

As Charles W. Gambrell, chief insurance commissioner of South Carolina, explained to this reporter: "When a large number of people find themselves unable to buy automobile liability insurance, and when they are under some form of real or quasi-compulsion by the state to buy insurance, the stage is set for the high-risk insurance pirate."

In many cases it is surprisingly simple for high-risk racketeers to get into the business. Thomas Finley, executive vice president to the Pennsylvania Federation of Mutual Insurance Companies, says that "charters of some small mutual companies are bought and sold like liquor club licenses. The going price may be from $5000 to $25,000."

After acquiring a company, unscrupulous promoters may wheel and deal to build an apparently legitimate corporate structure. But every move is calculated to enrich them. Such companies, Commissioner

Gambrell asserts, are organized to "go broke."

A common practice of the insurance pirates is to resurrect a company and run its affairs through "management contracts," which permit them to exert unlimited control and milk the companies of assets.

The case of one Minnesota high-risk insurance company is classic. Minnesota Attorney General Robert Mattson, whose investigation led to indictments in the case, explains it:

In 1963, after acquiring the management contract to operate an insurance company, a group headed by an ex-bail bondsman formed a new company and immediately transferred $100,000 in cash and government bonds to the new enterprise. Their next step was to arrange another management contract giving them power to run the second firm, charge it management fees and operate it with no questions asked.

The promoters then began to raid the new company of every asset they could get their hands on.

They set up a so-called "investment" plan that permitted them to sell to their insurance company real estate of highly inflated value and dubious title. They received in return nearly half a million dollars. Within six months, they had obtained title to the company's "home office" building and had mortgaged it for $250,000. This money later was deposited to the account of an insurance agency they owned.

The report by the Minnesota attorney general states that 25¢ of every dollar paid in premiums went to the promoters either through the investment plan or the management contract. As long as the premiums rolled in, the promoters lived off them. Out of policyholders' funds, they purchased three houses for themselves, a $6000 motorboat, furnishings and clothing.

In about two years, according to Attorney General Mattson, more than $3.5 million had been drained from the company, leaving it broke. The promoters now face federal charges.

Another device is to incorporate a high-risk company in the Bahamas, where there is little regulation and where a company can be chartered for $14. British International Insurance Co. of Nassau, Bahamas, is an illustration.

Already under indictment in Illinois on charges of embezzling $180,000, Charles Bray incorporated British International to sell more high-risk insurance to the U.S. But first he had to prove that his company was financially sound. Most states require that foreign insurance companies establish substantial trust funds to assure payment of claims should the company fail.

HOW TO START A BUSINESS

This proved no obstacle. Bray simply incorporated his own bank, the Market Insurance Bank and Trust Co., in Nassau. His next step was to present to a Kenosha, Wis., bank certificates of deposit, indicating that the funds in the name of British International were on deposit in the Nassau bank. A trust fund based on the worthless certificates was established and Bray was back in the insurance business.

Operating out of Kenosha, Bray's company took in more than a million dollars from policyholders throughout the U.S. But before too long post office inspectors, tipped off by Illinois insurance authorities, identified Bray with the earlier indictment. He was convicted of mail fraud and has received five years.

Even before high-risk companies fail, motorists are frustrated in attempts to recover losses. Some never receive acknowledgement of their claims until they hire an attorney. Others are bluffed and eventually shortchanged on claim settlements or "stalled" in efforts to obtain payments.

Still another trick is to twist policy provisions. A woman whose collision policy provided for $100 deductible skidded, struck one car and then another and wound up against a fence. Instead of deducting $100 from her claim, the company applied the deductible to each collision, two cars and the fence and would settle only if $300 was deducted!

Reputable insurance companies set aside a cash reserve for unsettled claims, but many high-risk companies make a mockery of this practice. For example, when a claim for $1000 was presented to a Maryland insurer, its adjuster determined that it might be settled for $600. The company reserved $60.

Companies also capitalize on the heavy backlog in court calendars. In Philadelphia, where the delay in trial of auto negligence cases is nearly four years, Common Pleas Court Administrator Edward Blake states that four mutual casualty companies that failed had an accumulation of more than 1000 cases. He describes this backlog as grossly excessive and indicative of a reluctance to settle claims.

How do the reputable companies view the problem of insurance pirates? Many of them are concerned.

"Certainly there is a place in our mobile society for the specialized companies that insure high-risk motorists who have difficulty obtaining automobile coverage in the open market and prefer not to go in to the assigned-risk plans . . ." says Bowman Boss, president of the Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. "But there is no place for any insurance company—of any kind—that does not meet its obligations to the people whose premium payments it has accepted."

Adds Thomas C. Morrill, vice president, State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Companies: "Only the very worst drivers—'repeater drunks' for example—need to buy high-risk insurance. Everybody else who can't get coverage from a regular company can always get liability insurance through the assigned-risk plans maintained by insurance companies in every state."

What the Insurance Information Institute says:

"The volume of auto insurance business, written by the poorly managed companies which invaded the high-risk auto insurance market and failed, is relatively small when compared with the $8.54 billion of auto insurance premiums of the more than 900 established companies, insuring most of the 90 million cars registered in the U.S. Nevertheless, the failures of these companies threaten to give an economic black eye to the insurance business at large. Responsible insurers and public will benefit from their exposure."

Clay Johnson, president of Royal Globe Insurance, declares: "The fact is that the price of insurance is not right. Failure to approve needed rate adjustments in full and long delays before any adjustments are made have resulted in serious rate inadequacies and consistent underwriting losses. As a result, responsible insurance companies have been forced to restrict their underwriting, making it more difficult for many persons to buy insurance. [And] when insurance is not available through established channels an economic vacuum develops that sucks in a black market, which does not serve the public interest."

Traditionally, insurance regulation has been left to the states. Some have faced up to their responsibility. At the same time, the high-risk scandals provide stark evidence that state regulation has been a sham in many places.

New York Superintendent of Insurance Henry Root Stern is on record as saying that "The adequacy of state regulation is not judged by the performance of states where it is strongest . . . . Regardless of the merits of state supervision, the least diligent states are used as the gauge of its effectiveness."

State insurance commissioners themselves admit that a lack of coordination and liaison has enabled high-risk predators forced out of one state to proceed to another and start all over again.

The Senate subcommittee is considering legislation to establish a regulatory agency similar to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. In this way at least some of the funds lost by claimants would be paid when an insurance company fails in the future.

The same legislation also would provide for federal insurance examiners.

Dean Sharp considers the failure to employ enough competent examiners as the "underlying weakness of state regulation." In at least six states, the job of standing watchdog over the industry has been left to fewer than four examiners. Nine states have no examiners.

The subcommittee's study also disclosed all too many instances of nonfeasance by state insurance departments. These included failure to:

Make annual audits to determine if companies are financially sound.

Examine the structure of newly formed companies.

Investigate out-of-state or foreign insurance companies.

Several states, rocked by insurance company collapses, are overhauling archaic insurance regulations.

A notable example is Maryland, where Insurance Commissioner Francis B. (Bill) Burch, who came to office only last July, has taken the lead. Prior to his taking office, Maryland had been shaken by the failures of three high-risk companies which had left 35,000 policyholders without coverage.

Burch has begun cleaning house through administrative and legislative programs. His legislative program has two objectives: (1) to extend additional protection to both policyholders and claimants and (2) to give his office additional weapons to drive undesirable and financially unsound companies from the state.

Major legislation enacted this year included laws to:

Increase the minimum capital surplus requirements of companies seeking to do business in the state by 50 percent.

Impose fines up to $25,000 on companies that violate the state insurance code.

Require companies whose licenses are subject to revocation proceedings to prove in court that they were entitled to continue business pending final determination of the case.

Require companies to give at least 30 days notice to a policyholder in the event of a cancellation or refusal to renew his policy.

Burch also has begun surprise examinations of high-risk auto insurers and is making in-depth examinations of financial and operating practices. He has instituted a training program to develop a competent staff of examiners, analysts and actuaries. Most significant is that at his insistence Maryland has set up an insolvency fund to take care of accident victims left unprotected by insolvent companies.

WHAT IS NEEDED

Maryland may well serve as a model for other states to follow. But at the same time, some observers feel the days of state regulation are numbered and that federal legislation will be enacted in the future.

"Eventual federal regulation of the insurance business may be inescapable," according to Royal Globe's Johnson, who served as president of the Insurance Information Institute in 1965.

"For more than 20 years our business has harbored the notion that state regulation was preferable to federal regulation," Mr. Johnson says. "Lately, however, we have come to realize that the 'status quo' isn't what it used to be, and that there surely can be devised a better mode of existence than that which we currently have under state regulation."

A more conservative viewpoint is, however, that the states should continue to regulate the industry, and that any federal legislation should only supplement and dovetail in with state laws.

One thing is certain. The inability in the past of some states to cope with the interstate aspect of this multibillion dollar industry has raised an issue of national concern. Once aroused, America's motorists will demand no small measure of reform.

JIM MAY IN VIETNAM

AN AMERICAN WITH A MISSION

by JAMES H. PICKERELL

COVER AND PHOTOS BY THE AUTHOR

Happy American and his flock: Children come running when AID man Jim May visits the villages of Quang Ngai province. A year ago he would have been greeted with suspicion.

QUANG NGAI CITY, SOUTH VIETNAM.

The streets of Tu Luong village are crowded these days. Open markets flourish. Children play.

When Jim May walks through the marketplace, the children come running. They greet him with "hay-low" and "o-kay" and smiles so warm they could melt an iceberg.

Jim May, 44, Californian, career specialist in the Foreign Service, our man in Quang Ngai province, is the antithesis of the "ugly American." As the U. S. Agency for International Development (AID) province representative, he runs our foreign aid program in Quang Ngai. More important, he has captured the respect and the affection of the South Vietnamese.

It was not an easy job.

May is a married man with a daughter, 18, and a son, 16, living back in the States. He calls Santa Maria, Calif., home, but he has been away almost 20 years, doing a dedicated, professional and unsung job for his country, mostly in the Middle East and North Africa. He came to Quang Ngai over a year ago, a volunteer on loan from the State Department. What he found might have made a less dedicated man wonder why he'd ever left the embassy in Tripoli, Libya.

Viet Cong were overrunning the province and seemed on the verge of taking the capital city, Quang Ngai, where thousands of refugees had fled. Dr. Bui Hoanh, the able province chief, May and the Vietnamese and U. S. military launched a return-to-the-villages campaign. The military cleared out areas held by the Viet Cong. AID provided clothing, building materials and food to those villagers willing to work to restore their homes.

In Tu Luong village, for example, May had found only desolation when he arrived. "There wasn't a soul in sight," he said.

May's job basically is problem solving and liaison with the Vietnamese. Sometimes he looks for the problems, sometimes the problems look for him. He works closely with the province chief. He advises, the province chief administers. But there is more to it than that. May teaches, directs, supports, persuades, consults, confers, coaxes and oversees projects involving civilian aid.

Much of what has happened in Tu Luong is a product of May's ability to achieve rapport with the province chief and local officials. The villagers now have electricity, which many had never seen before. "It has a tremendous psychological impact on the people," May says. He came up with a five-kilowatt generator from AID and found some copper wire in a warehouse. The province government did the rest. May delivered another generator to nearby Tu Thanh. "It was just across a river within eyeball distance of the Viet Cong," he says. "We figured we'd let the people over there see the lights, too, then decide where they'd rather be."

May also got an AID victory-garden program going, providing seeds and fertilizer for the villagers.

But the civilian aid cannot be divorced from the military aid. Not until the battle of Chu Lai, 15 miles north of here, where the U. S. Marines knocked out hard-core Viet Cong battalions that were threatening the entire province, did the people begin coming back to their villages. By fall, 20,000 had returned.

"There has been steady progress," says May, ". . . and every indication is that it will continue. If this sort of thing goes on all over Vietnam, we're going to win."

May is a realist, though. He knows there are doubters in South Vietnam. Only a visitor who practices self-delusion can deny it.

It is six months since President Johnson's Honolulu declaration, in which he held out for the people of South Vietnam "the dream of a better life" and offered them a pledge "to stabilize the economy, to increase the production of food, to spread the light of education, to stamp out disease." To a people weary of war, hungry for food, anxious for security, fearful of the predatory Viet Cong, the President of the U. S. spoke beautiful words. Now, in Quang Ngai province, the people wait to see if the U. S. has the desire, the intention, the capability to translate the beautiful words into something they can see and feel.

"(Some of them) have never seen electricity. . . ."

Jim May checks an AID-supplied generator and helps with maintenance problems.

May does not doubt that the U. S. can win both wars—military and social—if it will pay the price. As he sees it, the price is the nasty word more — more money, more military personnel, more civilian personnel. It's not the kind of sugar-coated news Americans like to hear, but Jim May is no sugar-coater.

"I did not come here to lose," he says. "I think I know what it takes."

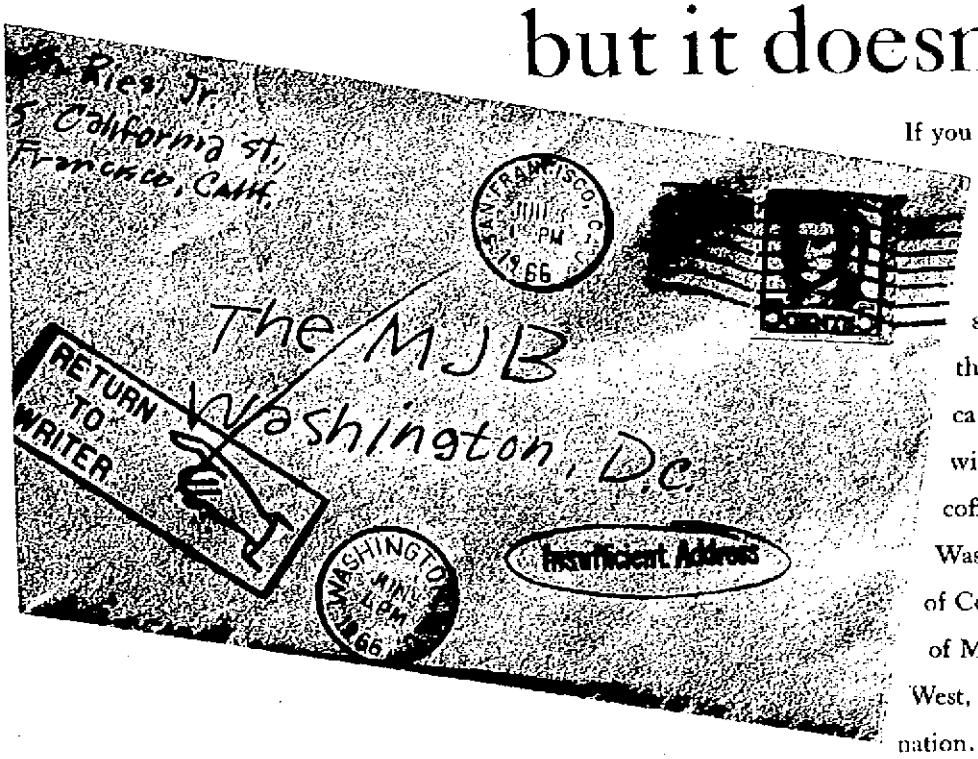

The U. S. is spending $10 billion a year on the military, and AID has imported hundreds of millions of dollars worth of fertilizer, pharmaceuticals, machinery and other essentials and has helped to create 90,000 new jobs. Jim May says it's only a beginning.

"It is necessary," May says, "for the

but it doesn't have MJB.

If you sent a letter addressed like this, the Post Office would return it PDQ. In spite of the fact that Washington has more initials than a quart of alphabet soup, it doesn't have the magic three—MJB. So the country's capital has to struggle along without the country's best coffee. That's because Washington is in the District of Columbia, not in the Territory of MJB. This Territory is in The West, for the MJB people simply cannot supply the whole nation. Back in 1881, when MJB first started making the finest coffee, they decided quality had to come before quantity.

And it still does. MJB still makes coffee the special MJB way, which is downright persnickity. For extra freshness, for instance, every single can of MJB Coffee is packed fresh the very same day it's roasted. Every single can! That's why MJB gives you first-cup-in-the-morning flavor all day long. So, Coffee Lover, be glad you're in The West. And if you're running for Congress, campaign until your constituents agree to keep you supplied with MJB.

Do you have a favorite city that's deprived of fine MJB Coffee? Write the MJB people, 665 Third St., San Francisco, and tell them about it.

'THE V.C. ARE NO LONGER WINNING'

peasant to have no doubt as to who will win. He has plenty of doubt at present and with good reason. This is traditionally a Viet Cong stronghold. The Communists have been dug in here for over 20 years. They are numerous and long-entrenched in a number of locales. Many young people in Viet Cong areas have never lived under any other kind of government.

"Nevertheless, it is clear that the people respond to the benefits that their government officials bring—with our assistance."

In Quang Ngai, with a population of 700,000 (about 250,000 under Viet Cong control), May is supposed to carry out President Johnson's dream with a staff of two Americans and 65 Vietnamese. There are all sorts of logistical and manpower obstacles that May refuses to allow to defeat him. Sometimes he has to bend the rules. "That's great," an official in Saigon told him about one project, "but I don't want to know how you did it." One standard rule-bender is to sell AID commodities (technically illegal) to get money to buy materials needed for other projects. Recently, May needed a warehouse but lacked the money to build it. He sold some extra cement and made a trade, and the people got their warehouse.

One of the pleasures of his job, May says, is the people. Sometimes pictured as lazy and apathetic, the Vietnamese are cooperative, friendly and enthusiastic when somebody points them in the right direction. Some of them, May says, are real "tigers"—like Dr. Hoanh.

"In this province," he says, "we are doing a great job in providing medical care [23 American and Cuban medical personnel work under AID direction], but we have not yet begun to fight seriously in the fields of agriculture and education."

May has asked for at least 60 additional Americans to implement programs that are dragging. AID recently trained and graduated its first class in a cadre of 2600 Vietnamese farmers, health workers, teachers, medical workers and others who will go into the provinces to work on socio-economic programs. The goal is self-help, but until enough leaders can be trained the cadres have to be backstopped by American civilians.

There is a great potential for improvement in agriculture and education, but May has almost none of the personnel he needs to supervise the local workers. AID helped the Vietnamese build a rural trade school in February, 1966. It has been empty since then, unstaffed, unequipped. One American mechanic with a toolkit would be a start in a backward, isolated area, where there are few secondary schools and no colleges, and where it is unusual to find anyone with more than three years of schooling. "Any teacher," says May, "is better than no teacher."

There are now only 484 schoolrooms in the province—enough for half the school-age population. May wants 750 more, but the current construction rate is 35 to 40 rooms a year. There seems to be a notion, origin unknown, that every new school should be a Frank Lloyd Wright production. May prefers to settle for something more practical in a country where only 40 percent of the people are literate. When a scarcity of wood prevented the pattern-oriented Vietnamese from building desks for a school, May suggested bamboo. Local carpenters were horrified. It had never been done. May was unable to convince them it could be done, until he got an outsider to build a desk out of bamboo.

Hardly a monumental problem, but it's the kind May encounters regularly. He finds the Vietnamese intelligent and hard working but lacking in our problem solving techniques.

Most of the problems could be solved by someone with "a Boy Scout merit-badge knowledge of a subject." It is May's belief that the U. S. has set civilian recruiting standards too high. He'd like to have, say, the Foreign Service applicants who fall just short of those chosen by the Foreign Service each year or some farm boys with good 4-H backgrounds or some mechanics. For lack of personnel, expensive equipment goes to waste. Trucks sit idle in an area where transportation of supplies is a major problem. One automotive mechanic could do the repair job. Only two out of four generators are operating, because there is no one to repair them.

Militarily, in Quang Ngai, the U. S. has stopped the Viet Cong. "They are no longer winning," says May. But he adds:

"We must win on the civil front as well. If the Viet Cong beat us here, we're not going to have another chance."

WHAT WE SPEND IN VIETNAM

Here is a breakdown on how the U. S. spent upwards of $640 million to subsidize the socio-economic revolution in South Vietnam during the year ending June 30, 1966:

Commercial imports (Medicine, pharmaceuticals, fertilizer, fuel, cement, machinery, etc.)	$370 million
Food for Peace (Milk, flour, rice, corn, wheat, beans, etc.)	$99.7 million
Projects and activities (Refugee relief, schools, health, water, agricultural improvement, transportation, rural electrification, industrial development, etc.)	$171.1 million

"They are intelligent, hard working and sincere."

May meets with province officials regularly to discuss their problems and plans.

"I did not come here to lose . . . . I know what it takes."

May inspects some of the millions of dollars in commodities that are being shipped to South Vietnam annually under AID program. Machinery, fertilizer and food are imported.

Salmon Salad with Melon

by Beth Merriman

PARADE FOOD EDITOR

If anyone in your family asks, "Why don't we have something different for a change?"—take up the challenge with Seattle Salad, a new and different main course. Named after the West Coast city, because beautiful big salmon are caught in Pacific waters off Seattle, the salad features an improbable but delicious combination—canned salmon, honeydew melon, diced pepper and celery slices. It's not unusual to serve fruit with fish—apples are often combined with tuna and grapes make a lovely garnish for sole—but it just doesn't occur to people to mix melon with salmon. Try it, you'll serve it again and again.

FROM PARADE'S TEST KITCHEN

Seattle Salad

½ large honeydew melon
1 can (8 oz.) red salmon
½ green pepper, minced
½ cup sliced celery
½ cup vegetable oil
2½ tablespoons lime juice
¼ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
½ teaspoon sugar
Few grains paprika
1 tablespoon snipped parsley

Remove seeds and stringy center from melon half. Scoop out pulp with melon ball cutter, making scalloped edge. Drain salmon, remove skin and bones, separate into chunks, add to melon balls with green pepper and celery. Combine oil, lime juice, salt, pepper, sugar and paprika. Beat with rotary beater until well blended. Add parsley and toss with melon ball mixture. Fill melon shell with mixture. Serve salad greens separately. If additional dressing is desired, serve half mayonnaise and half sour cream, blended. Makes 3 servings. (This recipe is easily doubled to use both halves of melon and serve 6.)

BRINGING UP BABY®, Hints Collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber, Mother of Five

How your baby blossoms out

Worth remembering when you're tempted to compare your angel's achievements with a same-age baby of your acquaintance. If your baby seems to be temporarily outdistanced, he (or she) will catch up in mental and physical skills when mind, spirit and body are ready.

If your baby's in the lead, chances are he'll level off while the other little tyke catches up to him. Remember, each baby is an individual. Thing to do is to delight in your child as he flowers and progresses naturally.

Another progress report

Your baby's physical progress depends, in part, on well-rounded nourishment. And that means serving a variety of foods for the different food values they provide.

Look at this for mealtime bliss: Gerber offers luscious fruits and lively vegetables. Savory meats and succulent high meat dinners. Delicate cereal-fruit combinations and tasty dinners. Pleasant-as-you-please desserts and flavor-fresh egg yolks. Even subtle, scrumptious creamed cottage cheese with pineapple. All are "custom-cooked" according to their individual requirements to preserve natural nourishment to a high degree.

Advanced ideas

When your baby reaches the six-months' mark, he'll try all manner of exciting things. Encourage? Yes! But a few words to the wise:

Gerber® Baby Products

• Remember, he can absorb just so much at one time. If you teach one thing at a time, and make a game of each lesson, your cherub will respond with relish, learn faster, fare better. And, you'll be pleased as punch at his daily progress.

VIRTUE TAX. How would you like to pay an abstinence tax? Thousands of Australians who don't smoke, drink or gamble may soon find themselves in the awkward position of having to pay taxes on their virtues.

According to Australia's Deputy Premier Arthur Rylah: "The abstainers pay far less than other members of the community who pay taxes on alcohol, tobacco and gambling. Abstainers content themselves with TV and football, make practically no contribution apart from income tax to government revenues. This should be put right."

Australia's taxmen are looking into the situation, about which the various churches, no doubt, will voice strong opinions.

FROM HOPALONG TO U.N.C.L.E.

TV & TOTS. Have American children's tastes in television matured in the past 15 years? Yes, says Dr. Paul Witty of Northwestern University, after polling pupils, teachers and parents in the Chicago area.

In 1950 the kids' favorite TV programs were (1) Hopalong Cassidy, (2) Howdy Doody, (3) The Lone Ranger, (4) Milton Berle, (5) Arthur Godfrey.

In 1965 the children's favorites were: (1) The Man from U.N.C.L.E., (2) Bewitched, (3) Shindig, (4) The Addams Family, (5) My Favorite Martian.

DIAL THE WORLD. By the early 1970's each of the 200 million telephones in the world with long distance service will be able to dial each other without the help of an operator. Direct dialing will become commonplace.

Until recently every overseas phone call has required the help of at least two operators. Many international connections are transmitted via shortwave radio beams which are vulnerable to disruptive external influences. Once the undersea cable and communication satellite systems are extended, these disruptions will be a thing of the past. Connections will then be made by the subscriber dialing 12 digits at the most. With the first number the caller will engage the automatic foreign service, then with a 1- to 3-digit group he will reach the foreign country he wants.

For example, a "7" will ring Russia, a "49" will contact Germany, a "251" will get Ethiopia. Technical correlations between countries will be necessary before the system can operate. In other words, when an American dials "0," he triggers 10 electrical impulses, while in Sweden the "0" is at the beginning of the dial and releases only one electrical impulse. In New Zealand the dial begins with "9" and goes backwards to "0." Automatic equipment will correct such discrepancies. A computer will see that a Swedish "0" in contact with the U. S. will transmit 10 impulses. The biggest problem to date lies with the many countries that have combinations of letters on their dials.

The Danes who have no "W" on their dial would not know how to dial an American party with that letter in his prefix. Americans with no "Q" cannot dial ROQuette in Paris. Moreover, some countries -- Japan, Russia, Iran -- use letters from Cyrillic and Asiatic alphabets. The only solution to this problem is to replace all letters with numbers.

By 1968 many Americans will be able to dial Europe directly, may even be able to dial the Kremlin on the hot line, the number of which is 7-240555.

SEASONALITY OF BIRTHS. In the U.S. more babies are born in August and September, fewer in April and May. The lowest period of conception (resulting in births nine months later) occurs during the summer months of June, July and August. The high period of conception centers around Christmas time. Patterns of legitimate and illegitimate births are virtually identical although there is a definite regional variation, seasonality being twice as great in the South as in the Northeast.

It is interesting to note that in England, Sweden and West Germany, seasonality of births contrasts strikingly with the U.S. pattern. There, the figures are nearly reversed. Peaks in conception occur during the summer months.

Observers have proposed various explanations for seasonal variation in births. One is that in industrial countries there is a strong correlation between conception and major holidays. In many Catholic and Orthodox countries, for example, the peak period of conception occurs during the Lenten and Easter seasons. This is especially true in Italy, Yugoslavia and Greece. Another explanation suggests that climate plays the determining factor with high temperatures reducing sexual activity or impairing the strength of sperm cells and thus reducing the risk of conception.

ANOTHER "FIRST" FROM UNION OIL

THE NEW MINUTE MAN IV TIRE ...with the red carpet ride

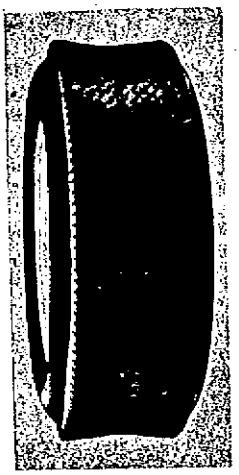

Concave design... tomorrow's tire today

You'll be hearing a lot about "concave" tire design in the months and years ahead. It's the latest principle in the construction of racing tires.

Here's the engineering breakthrough that enabled the big machines at Indianapolis to complete a grueling 500 miles on a single set of tires! (And still have plenty of wear left at the end of the race!)

Someday, all tires will probably be built with "concave" design.

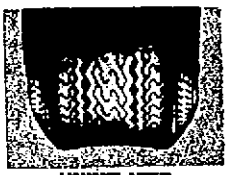

Today, the only passenger car tire in America offering this advanced construction is the new Minute Man IV from Union Oil.

RACING TIRE

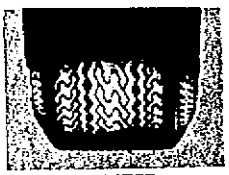

40% better mileage

Simply speaking, "concave" design means that the tire has a slight, saucer-like depression when it is not inflated. As a result, it puts 100% of its tread squarely on the road when inflated to proper pressure.

UNINFLATED

This unique design lets the tire run 20% cooler, provide 15% greater traction and give 40% better mileage. (Based on actual tests comparing the new Minute Man IV with "concave" design and the famous Minute Man IV of conventional design.)

INFLATED

OTHER ADVANTAGES OF THE NEW MINUTE MAN IV

3-rib construction offers better stability, puts more rubber on the road for improved traction. Wall-to-wall tread provides greater safety and ease of turning and cornering. Contoured cord body construction gives a soft, Red Carpet Ride.

Puncture-protected — probably America's Safest Tire. If a nail enters the tire a special sealant prevents air from escaping. You can continue driving in complete safety. Stop in at the Sign of the 76 and ask about the new Minute Man IV.

INSURED TIRE WARRANTY America's Only Insured Tire Warranty. If the tire fails for any reason during the first year or 10,000 miles, whichever occurs first, you get a new one free (excepting, of course, malicious damage or repairable puncture.)

After this first year, the Road Hazard and Workmanship and Materials Warranties continue to protect you for two more years.

Up to 15 months to pay — no money down on approved credit. The new Minute Man IV costs surprisingly little more than ordinary tires. And it offers so much more.

My Favorite Jokes

by Kurt Kasznar

EDITOR'S NOTE: Kurt Kasznar, born in Vienna, Austria, 50 odd years ago, got his first taste of American show business and also his U. S. citizenship by joining the U. S. Army at Ft. Bragg, N.C., in World War II. As a member of Special Services, Pvt. Kasznar took part in Army shows, learned something about the American idiom. Following his military discharge, he became a Broadway producer, then a character actor specializing in comedy. He appeared in such Broadway hits as The Happy Time, Waiting for Godot, Seventh Heaven and The Sound of Music. Kasznar has also starred in a long list of films, in addition to many TV shows. He makes his home in New York. Herewith are some of his favorite jokes:

When the widow appeared at the attorney's office and learned that her recently departed spouse had left most of his fortune to a Broadway chorus girl, she grew livid with rage.

Off she raced to the cemetery where she demanded that the inscription on her husband's tombstone be changed immediately. The manager explained that such a change was impossible, that the inscription "Rest in Peace" would have to remain.

"O.K.," said the wife indignantly. "But underneath that line, add the words, 'Until we meet again.' "

In a London train compartment a gentleman removes a cigar from his pocket. "Excuse me, madame," he says, addressing himself to a little old lady. "May I smoke a cigar?"

"Do exactly," says the lady, "as if you were at home."

"All right," sighs the gentleman, and sadly puts the cigar back into his breast pocket.

"What do you want for your 'Sweet Sixteen' birthday party?" a father asked his daughter. "Flowers? Candy? A rock 'n' roll band? Ice cream? Cake?"

"They're all right," the daughter conceded. "But what I really want is two boys for every girl."

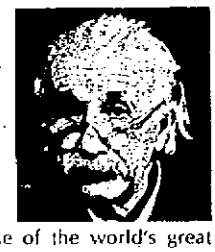

Two Europeans were discussing Americans. "Do you know," asked one, "the difference between a rich American and a poor American?"

"Of course," answered the Italian. "In the United States the poor American washes his Cadillac himself."

anecdote of the week

Albert Einstein, one of the world's great scientists, was well-recognized at Princeton University as the original absentminded professor. One day on board a train, he was unable to find his ticket. Said the conductor: "Take it easy. You'll find it. I'll be back in 10 minutes."

When the conductor returned, Einstein still couldn't find the ticket. Said the conductor, recognizing the famous scientist: "No matter, Dr. Einstein. I'm sure you bought a ticket. Forget about it."

"You're very kind," Einstein said. "But I must find it . . . otherwise I won't know where to get off."

Eisenhowers celebrate Golden Anniversary

On July 1, for the first time in 119 years, a U.S. president and his lady had a fiftieth wedding anniversary. (Last were the John Quincy Adams in 1847.) Because so many Americans are so fond of "Ike and Mamie," a group of friends have designed a Golden Wedding celebration in which everyone can join.

Led by Bob Hope and former Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, the Eisenhower admirers have organized a special drive in support of a new college named for the General. Located in Seneca Falls, N.Y., Eisenhower College, a co-educational liberal arts institution is to open in 1967. Ground was broken last year but additional funds are needed to assure opening on schedule. No anniversary present would please the Eisenhowers more than a donation to the college that bears their name. All contributions are tax-deductible and will be permanently recorded at the college. Gifts should be sent to: Eisenhower College, c/o Postmaster. No further address is required.

For such a set of books can be a priceless help to the man at business, the woman at home, the youngster at school or at college.

We give you this one volume really as a sample. We think the book is so terrific that once you see it, and read it, and examine it, you will want all the other volumes. The free book is our only salesman, and we know that it can PROVE TO YOU and CONVINCE YOU that our encyclopedia is the biggest bargain in the world of books—and that you and your family CANNOT DO WITHOUT IT!

WORTH $10.00—YOURS ABSOLUTELY FREE

The free book you will receive is worth every bit of TEN DOLLARS, made specifically for use in school, college, and public libraries — of the most expensive materials and to the most exacting standards — made for a lifetime of ordinary wear! But it is yours FREE. All you need do is send for it.

... Only one small favor we ask of you in return.

With your gift volume we will send you complete details on how you can get the rest of the set at the miraculously low price of only $2.79 per volume plus 21¢ mailing cost — delivered at the rate of two volumes a month, as they come off press.

We ask you to read these details, and examine the free volume very carefully — and if then you decide you do NOT want any more volumes, merely drop us a line saying so, and that will end the matter absolutely and finally.

Otherwise — if you decide you want to own the entire set, you need not write us at all — and two weeks later we will mail you Volumes Nos. 2 and 3, enclosing bill for only those two volumes. And each month thereafter we will similarly send you two more volumes until the entire 25-volume set is yours, complete.

NO STRINGS OR CATCHES TO THIS OFFER

There are no strings or catches to this amazing offer. You GAMBLE NOTHING because you are under no obligation whatsoever to pay anything or buy anything.

Please keep in mind, however, that the number of free volumes is limited. If you are not really seriously interested in owning an encyclopedia, please do not deprive someone else of this great opportunity.

But if you are truly interested, send off the postcard TODAY!

Must You Pay $200 to $300 For a Top-Notch Encyclopedia? Now — The Answer Is NO!

Why should a set of books, however important or wonderful, cost so much that the average family must go into debt, or mortgage itself to pay for it? . . .

Now, at last, you can own this big, complete, authoritative encyclopedia, with a consulting and contributing board second to none — at a SMALL FRACTION of such a price, and on easy terms as well!

FAT HOP AND THE PIRATES

GEORGE WUNDER

SNAPPER REVEALS THAT AN R.O.K. PATROL PLANE HAS REPORTED A RED CHINESE TRANSPORT SHOT DOWN BY RED CHINESE MIG FIGHTERS!

TOO BAD, FAT HOP! I'D HAVE DEARLY LIKED TO HAVE SET EYES ON YOUR BROTHER, THE DEFECTOR, MYSELF—BUT YOU CAN'T WIN 'EM ALL!

H'IT H'AINT POSSIBLE!

FACE IT, DEWEY, YOUR E.S.P. WAS JUST A STUNT BY FAT HOP'S SMART-ALEC BROTHER TO ADVANCE HIS CAREER

FAT HOP'S ADMITTED SHE FED YOU POST-HYPNOTIC SUGGESTIONS TO PASS ALONG AS "PREDICTIONS"—ALL DESIGNED TO GAIN GENERAL BRASSARD'S CONFIDENCE!

BUT, TERRY, LUV...

IF IT HAD WORKED, HE'D HAVE PICKED A MOMENT OF CRISIS TO MISLEAD US—AND A LOT OF PEOPLE MIGHT HAVE BEEN HURT!

BUT H'I H'ALWAYS KNEW WOT 'E WAS THINKIN'...

YOU THOUGHT YOU DID, DEWEY, BUT YOUR LAST "PREDICTION" WAS FALSE, RIGHT? INSTEAD OF LANDING HERE IN SEOUL, HE'S BEEN SHOT DOWN OVER THE YELLOW SEA...

...AND A MAN IN AN UNARMED TRANSPORT UNDER FIRE BY A PAIR OF FIGHTERS OUGHT TO BE AGITATED ENOUGH TO PUT OUT SOME PRETTY STRONG SIGNALS—WHICH YOUR E.S.P. DID NOT PICK UP!

H'I SUPPOSE SO, TERRY, BUT LOOK, SINCE YOU CAUGHT 'ER RED-'ANDED, FAT 'OP H'AINT BEEN H'AT 'ER RADIO...

H'AN SHE H'AINT 'YPNOTIZED ME H'ETHER!

WHAT ARE YOU GETTING AT, WOMAN?

THAT H'I KNOW THAT BLOKE'S STILL ALIVE, THAT'S WOT!

"FOR DANGER LEVELS MAN AND BRUTE, AND ALL ARE FELLOWS IN THEIR NEED."-BYRON.

"A DANGER IS NEVER OVERCOME WITHOUT DANGER." -PUBLILIUS SYRUS.

WHAT A WEEK! SO SURE WE'D FIND ANNIE IN THAT QUIET LITTLE TOWN, STATIC! GAD! ONLY A YEAR AGO, BUT WHAT A YEAR FOR HER! EH, ASP?

AND THE TRAIL SHE LEFT IS STILL FAR FROM CLEAR, AND THE END? WHO CAN SAY?

MURDER! ARSON! VIOLENCE! THEN SECURE HAPPINESS WITH THE APTS, 'TIL CAUGHT IN AN ANCIENT FEUD! NEXT MAD DOG KILLERS, EVEN ON A QUIET FARM. AND NOW? HER TRAIL VANISHES HERE!

NOT ENTIRELY!

WHAT DO YOU MEAN, ASP "NOT ENTIRELY"? NO ONE LEAVES TRACKS ON WATER!

BUT WATER HAS CURRENTS FOLLOWED BY ALL WHO PASS THIS WAY!

WHILE FAR, FAR AWAY, FOR ANNIE THE ODDS ON SURVIVAL ARE GETTING FAR TOO SHORT TO WASTE EVEN SECONDS ON SECOND GUESSES!

WATER'S UP T'WHERE NEXT TIME HE TRIES, THAT 'GATOR'LL MAKE IT!

THIS WAY, QUICK!

THAT OLD TREE? SOFT GROUND LET 'ER FALL AGIN TH' FORT! LIKELY FULL O' SNAKES AND NO TELLIN' WHAT ELSE!

ANYTHING WILL BE BETTER'N 'GATORS!

Y'SHORE GOT A PINT THERE! LOOK AT 'EM COME!

UP Y'GO, SANDY, AND HANG ON!

HM-M! WAL, AT LEAST THEY WON'T EAT US JUST YET! BUT GITTIN' BIT BY A RATTLER AIN'T MUCH BETTER!

I DON'T SEE ANY SNAKES SO FAR!

WA-HOO! AN' GOOD REASON! LOOK WHO'S SETTIN' THAR!

PANTHER!

SHORE IS! HM-M. HIM MY CROSSBOW MIGHT TAKE, BUT SO FAR HE AIN'T MADE NO PASS AT US!

GEE! HE'S IN AS BIG TROUBLE AS WE ARE!

THEY SAY THAT, IN TIME OF DISASTER, ALL WILD THINGS FERGIT KILLIN' AN' GIT ALONG PEACEFUL T'GETHER!

YEAH?

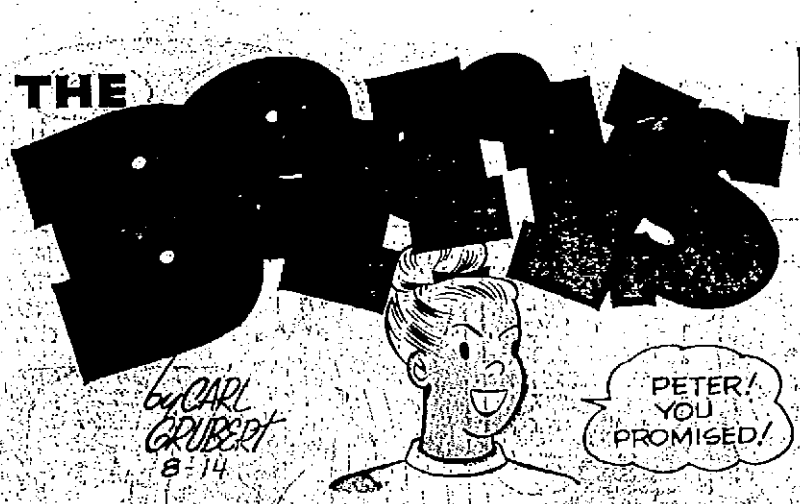

WELL, KITTY, Y'LL NEVER MEET ANY WILDER, PEACE-LOVING CLUB MEMBERS THAN WE ARE RIGHT NOW, BROTHER CAT!
